Preface

Greetings,

While responding to an online friend's questions about my thoughts on eternity, it occurred to me to take a look at all that had been written about it since I began scribing in 1989. Another friend had suggested this a few years back, and I had set it on the back-burner of possible projects. As might be expected, the creative juices took hold, and this is the PDF result, with thoughts from all the major titles: The Stillness Before Time, The Ponderings of Yaj Ekim, Breadcrumbs, and The Return to Wonder.

It is also blogged for online viewing:

The Call of the Eternal

A Conversation With My Self

<https://thecalloftheeternal.blogspot.com/>

Writing has been an enjoyable process ever since I first began toying with prose; scribbling poetry, keeping journals, corresponding with friends and acquaintances during the college daze. The philosophical/mystical/whatever-you-want-to-call-them thoughts, that have been popping into mind since 1989, have always been very out-of-the-blue spontaneous. Nothing planned or forced about them. They are being shared on the off chance that others may find them of interest, though, quite frankly, it really does not matter if no one else ever even reads them, for I am, first and foremost, my own audience. I got mine, so to speak. I played my little part. I had my share of fun. And it is, as it has ever been, up to each to discern their own, on their own. There are really no followers in this Don Quixote quest; only earnest seekers, who waylay their desires and fears and dreads, enough to discern that which is the end to doubt, the end to dueling with windmills. "Yay" if it is your fate to figure it out. "Oh well" if it is not. And "so it goes" either way, really. Ecclesiastes 1:2 is always a good reminder: "Vanity of vanities," saith the Preacher, "Vanity of vanities. All is vanity." Awareness can only, with great effort, regain control, regain sovereignty, from the usurper, imagination, creator of all that is time, creator of all that is space. Creator of all that is illusion, has never has been anything more than illusion, will never be anything more than illusion. Only as real as the given moment.

"The Stillness Before Time" is the original work that came together in 1992, including mostly aphorisms, an essay, a newspaper question-and-answer, ten reflections, and lists of both movies and books. Though an early self-published version, long since edited and expanded, can be purchased at major booksellers, a downloadable copy is available, no charge, at the link below. There are also links to a variety of blogs of other creations by me, along with links to many writings of a similar nature, by thinkers and seers from across all times, across all geographies.

"The Ponderings of Yaj Ekim" is the second published book, and is both blogged and available as a PDF download.

The "Breadcrumbs" titles, published annually since 2015, all include the core chapters: Leftovers, Soundbites, Breadcrumbs. In the Breadcrumbs chapters, I unleash thoughts of a more personal nature than in the other two. All just to show I was ensconced in a living, breathing, relativity mundane, oftentimes foolish, mortal mind-body. An actor playing the hand that was dealt; same as everyone else, vain as everyone else. No need to sculpt me into more than I was. No need for myths, nor legends, nor fables, nor miracles, nor cult followings, nor any other fictions, any other absurdities, over to which the human mind, and all its imaginary history, has so often given itself. The Breadcrumbs chapters prove me again and again to be yet another Shakespearian player, as full of the limited and arbitrary as anyone else born into this dream of space and time. So please be sure not to shape me, or these many random thoughts, into some dogmatic absurdity. Use them as a launchpad, not an orbit.

“The Return to Wonder” blog is a compendium of aphorisms not included in the three other works: The Stillness Before Time, The Ponderings of Yaj Ekim, and Breadcrumbs. It originally totaled 3,000 pages formatted in 300 ten-page chapters written since 1990-ish. A gradual editing that will likely never be completed, is changing that dynamic into something of a mishmash.

Please note that this sort of wordplay is very haphazard, way too much work to put into any order. Probably best read it in bits and pieces in the here and there. One of those open-to-any-page works. Especially well-suited for coffee shops, coffee tables, and porcelain thrones.

Also note that all writings are always subject to updates and editing, so if you are interested in the most current version – before this house of cards comes tumbling down, and the world grows large again – downloading PDF copies every once and a while might be a reasonable discipline. This applies especially to the current year of Breadcrumbs, which could well be an annual project until the last wheezing breath, though frankly, the temptation to stop writing entirely is not off the table. It is a pleasant way to pass some of the countdown remaining, but it is unlikely there is much ground that has not been wandered by this frame of reference far more than enough already. No matter how many times Sisyphus rolls the boulder up the mountain, it is more than a little doubtful that the blind men and their true-believer followers, will ever discern, ever realize, ever embrace, the elephant in the middle of the room, without fabricating some new form of absurdity. It is the way we roll, it is the way we have always rolled, it is the way we will, far more than probably, always roll. Every species has its limitations, and we have in this mind’s eye, far-exceeded ours.

That said, if you do find these many thoughts at all worth preserving, for whatever times are ahead for this world and all its life forms, please feel free to share them with others who might also appreciate them. Else they may well swiftly slip back into the timeless oblivion from whence they came.

So it goes, either way. I played my part, I said my piece, I had my fun.

All the best,

M

P.S. For best viewing online, using the largest screen you have available to explore my little theme park, is suggested. Scrolling down and down on a phone screen is just not going to give you the same entrée.

P.P.S. The keywords used to select the following content include: Eternity/Eternal. For Breadcrumbs 2023 & Beyond, the following were used: Eternity/Eternal, Awareness, Timeless, Stillness, Moment, Right Here, Right Now, Right-Now, Right Here, Right-Here, Here Now, Here-Now, Ever-Present, Mystery, God, Absolute/Absoluteness, Supreme, Creation, Genesis, Big Bang, Infinity/Infinite, Oblivion, Void, Abyss, Nothingness, Sentience, Consciousness, Awake, Ephemeral.

P.P.P.S. Regarding the name Yaj Ekim ... It is just a reverse spelling of the first and middle names ... Michael Jay Holshouser ... Mike Jay ... Yaj Ekim.

P.P.P.P.S. Coincidentally, make of it whatever you will, or will not, Yaj is an Indian boy's name meaning worshipper, sacrifice, another name for Shiva, a sage. And Ekim is a Turkish name for October meaning "sowing" (of seeds). All kinds of absurdity can be read into that by the many, so-inclined – none of which was in mind when the idea came to reverse the letters to my name. See P.P.S. for details.

P.P.P.P.P.S. Yes, I am Shiva. And so are You. No, I am not Shiva. And neither are you. Irony and paradox rule.

The Stillness Before Time

I

You are the source,
The quantum ocean,
The absolute supreme,
The eternal unicity of isness.

III

Manifestation is simply mask after mask,
Disguising an artful, mischievous trickster,
Playing an eternal game of hide-and-seek.

IV

This fleeting mystery is a whimsical kaleidoscope.
An eternal, immortal weaving; without beginning, without end.
A boundless, indivisible ocean of light and shadow, in which all forms dance.
All one can observe of the mystery, are the countless manifestations;
Never the dispassionate, unwavering witness beneath.

V

Put aside all hope, all gain and loss, all dreams of glory;
All yearning, hate, anger, fear, envy, and jealousy;
All dread of sickness, injury, aging, and dying.
Your mind-body is but a temporal dream.
You are eternal, sovereign, absolute.

* * * *

You are a window to the eternal,
But must part the tattered curtains,
And wipe away the smudge, to see it.

* * * *

Whether you were born by chance,
Or chose your parents through karmic design;
Whether you exist just once, or well past a gazillion times,
With a succession of identities playing out through the abyss of eternity;
From the indivisible perspective, it is all very much the same.

VI

Nothing wrought of this quantum genesis is ultimately real.
Everything is imagined, everything is dreamily timeless.
All indivisibly appearing, all indivisibly disappearing,
Within and without the eternal matrix of awareness.

IX

What is enlightenment but simply awakening,
To the innate awareness, to the timeless birthright.
Liberation is abiding freely in that eternal state of mind.

X

Since the dawn of consciousness, mind has grappled,
With the mystery of birth and death, creation and destruction.
It has used every device to explain that which is beyond all description.
Only in complete surrender to the awareness prior to thought's linear conceptions,
Can there be any insight into the choicelessness of the eternal indivisibility.

* * * *

Unconditioned, immutable, changeless, untamed, amoral, lawless,
Unburdened, nameless, imperishable, timeless, formless,
Eternal, sovereign, total, absolute, supreme.
Apt descriptions of those rare few,
Who discern and reside in the immortal origin.

* * * *

The eternal quest for understanding,
For emancipation from that which is known,
Is a convoluted, subtle, puzzling, chess-like maze,
A timeless game of strategic and tactical finesse,
Which only the most earnest discern and mate.

XII

Thought is a reflection of an illusory past,
And the projector of imagined futures.
Awareness is the tentative, ungraspable now.
It is boundless, eternal, neither identity nor persona.
It is the mysterious presence, the ether of insight and intuition.
From its unknowable nature, thought springs into being,
But without it, none of this would ever have been.
It is the parent of manifest consciousness,
The source prior to all perception.

XIII

When one surrenders to insight, eternity emerges:
Infinite, timeless, pathless, unencumbered, serene.

XIV

To own your birthright, you become less and less entwined,
In the distracting narrowness, the limitations of self-absorption.
You intuitively fathom expansiveness, in every moment possible.
It is the end of paradigms emerging from any mythology.
It is the ever-timeless realization of the eternal.

XVI

The tombs in which you cloak your vanity cannot lock out the dust of eternity.

XVII

There is really only one Way.
It is without division or boundary.
It is without name or theology.
Awareness is its scripture.
Here now, its venue.
You, its witness.
Your life, the journey.

XIX

The countless sanctuaries and monuments humanity has built,
Pointlessly clutch at that which can never be possessed.
All temples, all forms, are as dust to the eternal.
Mankind's organizing the spiritual quest,
Arises from the mind's ceaselessly futile attempts,
To fabricate an order upon that which can never be tamed.

* * * *

Just as you have looked down at an arm and hand, or a leg and foot,
So has every other human who has ever been, or will ever be.
Your uniqueness is pervaded by an eternal commonality.

XXIV

To discern serenity, you may well know the calamity and horror of battle.
To discern integrity, you may, indeed, be a great liar, cheat, or thief.
To discern compassion, you may have caused much suffering.
To discern discipline, you may have partaken thoroughly every excess.
To discern the unicity of all creation, you may have withstood great divisiveness.
Sometimes those most fragmented without, are nearest to realizing the eternal nature within.

XXVI

From genesis to now,
Life's origin to now,
Human evolution to now,
Geographical separation to now,
Technological advancement to now,
Your own mortal birth to now;
Timelines within timelines,
Linear, dualistic, divisive.
Unify them effortlessly within.
Eternity is ever the timeless nowness.

XXVIII

Who sees the wind tipping the trees in spring?
Hears the busy chatter of squirrels chasing?
Smells the mid-afternoon coffee brewing?
Feels the piercing of the kitten's playful claws?
Tastes the chilled chocolate melting?
Who has all those memories?
All that knowledge and capability?
All those assorted opinions and values?
Who desires, dreads, angers, laughs, suffers?
You do.
You are the power, the light, a drop of all that is, and is not.
You are creator, quantum dancer, eternally, immortally absolute.

* * * *

You have always been an eternal being.
There has never been one moment when you were not.
All you need do is discern it, and allow the witness to take wing within.

* * * *

A drug may help you find it, but cannot keep you there for long.
The challenge is to perceive eternity in the everyday mundane.

XXIX

The mind-body is a temporal vessel of finite patterning,
In which the eternal has potential to consciously manifest.

* * * *

Free your Self of the notion of original sin, that you were born evil incarnate.
It is nothing more than a concept inspired by ignorance, by greed, by the need to control,
That the pure awareness you most eternally are, did not choose at birth.
There is no sin, no iniquity, only dualistic absurdity.

XXX

Look back closely at your life.
See how every moment was necessary,
For you to arrive at this apparent point in time.
That it has all been completely, perfectly, effortlessly,
Choreographed, costumed, un-rehearsed, for the original run.
An epic, time-bound play, produced and directed by You, starring You.
Be on good terms with your spontaneous, manifesting reverie.
Enjoy the myriad players appearing in your production.
All are teachers and students in your eternal journey.

Of the Human Journey

Mortal existence is not easy. It never has been, and never will be, for any creature sown of this garden orb, this smidgeon of quantum dust, floating in the vast, immeasurable unknown. What follows are thoughts about the human journey; its theatrical paradigm and the fare existence offers, and the choices all must resolve, very much alone, in the sojourn through the veiled maze of space and time, of consciousness, with all its dualistic notions. It is a journey of ecstasy and agony, courage and fear, love and hate, absurdity and insanity, irony and paradox, life and death. It is the ineffable, insoluble mystery, born of the passionate mind, and the ever-flowing array of perceptions, of patterns, every human being faces, in the movement through birth, sickness, injury, aging, dying, and death.

These reflections are written to help promote a larger vision of where we as a species are heading. One that attempts to look beyond humankind's many seemingly irreconcilable divisions. One that values insight and wisdom. One that elevates rather than detracts. One that seeks to foster a sense of guardianship, rather than destruction and manipulation, of our little dust ball garden, and the many life forms it has spawned.

We live in a time period similar, yet increasingly unique, among the many eras come and gone before. Excessive population, coupled with unprecedented, unrestrained industries and technologies, and the consumption frenzy they feed, are driving our petri dish experiment of so-called free will, toward a rather bleak outcome. All the absurdities, all the insanities, we have so carelessly, foolishly, needlessly wreaked upon the earth's magnificent diversity, are huge rebounding tsunamis, awaiting our arrival in time. The rules of the manifest game are simple and uncompromising, and those who bend and break them, must eventually pay the price that Mother Nature, chief arbiter of all things dreamtime, is more than capable of exacting.

As long as we human beings battle over pride-filled, tribal differences, we inevitably embrace a fate of our own synergistic, instinctual, self-absorbed design. The monopolistic win-lose divisiveness wrought since long before history's invention, since our egocentric, competitive, voluntary secession from the garden, spirals us down a path of annihilation. What we have done in all our arrogance, has created a time already nightmarish for many, and will only exponentially accelerate, for those to whom we are now ancestors. And we are nowhere close to discerning a common vision, a truly cooperative paradigm that might sidestep it.

We leave it to future generations, to create solutions to problems, all have aided in forging. We vainly hope that political, economic, and religious leaders will shepherd us to salvation, but they cannot, because the collective vision is too full of limitation and polarity. Despite all our canny attributes, we as a species have not yet fully fathomed our interconnectedness, our inherent kinship, to the indivisible totality. We have not grasped, that time and space, do not exist as any more than a play of consciousness, a collusion of imagination. Nowness is the only ephemeral, eternal reality, and the decisions, the choices, each of us make in this moment-to-moment flowing, of this ever-changing theater, create the dreamtime future.

So many of the leaders we have chosen to follow, with all their insecure, parasitic ambitions for power, glory, and wealth, only wax the slide with empty promises, and compromising, shortsighted decisions. Though many are highly intelligent in many clever ways, too few have the wisdom and integrity, to truly serve those they pretend to lead. The result is, that along with there being no political or economic solution to the dilemma now unfolding, our dysfunctional paradigm has created a spiritual crisis, well beyond all the vain pretensions so many call religion.

No one has ever, will ever, can ever, see the world exactly the same as anyone else. We are like snowflakes and fingerprints, patterns woven of a mystery, to which all creation is witness in one form or another. Time and space are magical illusions, and each and every one of us is an equal participant, in a vast theater of consciousness, spontaneously playing itself out, in seemingly every possible way. All our knowledge, all our histories, all our schools of thought, the countless frames of reference we imagine individually and collectively, dreamily overlap and merge like ripples, crisscrossing to and fro upon the same sea of relativity.

Words, whatever the language, are conceptual icebergs, each and every one of us envision and translate differently. Thoughts of culture, tradition, ethnicity, gender, morality, currency, politics, religion, ad infinitum, inspire an array of responses, often conflicting because of rigid, dogmatic attachments to time. Yet, at the origin of all consciousness, that quantum field from which this grand three-dimensional mirage has come to pass, is very much the same indivisible oneness, the same universal, eternal truth, despite all our sophomoric, meaningless arguments, over the endless permutations of knowledge, we ourselves have contrived.

All differences are fabrication, make-believe, fantasy, whimsey, delusion, born of imagination. All polarizations, whether cultural, racial, sexual, geographic, economic, political, religious, mythological, and on and on, are illusive deceptions, born of the play of matter, of light and sound, and the theater they together weave. Each of us imagines a personal universe, in which all travel very much alone, despite all the sensory evidence to the contrary. Until one can see past the attachments to an individual life, the many differences seem real, but ultimately, they are not, never have been, and never will be. It is a dance too vast, for any mind to more than intuitively discern, and perchance fathom, that it is lead dancer in its spirit-mind-body chronicle.

We are passing through a holographic epoch of time, in which the seemingly countless dramas of human existence, are available for all who have capacity and means to explore. What evolved of geographical isolation, can now be witnessed in whatever fashion predisposition allows. There is a tendency, due to the aberration of pride and the quest for false glory, to argue one mythology's supremacy over another, yet is any collusion, more than a conceptual adaptation to time and circumstance? Is any one version, any one dream of consciousness, any one play of imagination, from the ultimate-reality perspective, really, truly, in any way, superior, to any other? Might may make right, but it does not make truth.

No one gets out of this manifest existence alive, and every human being ever born comes to grips with that truth, in whatever way capacity and limitation allow. Some create hells for themselves, while others discern within, a quality, a virtue, a harmony, that has been given countless names across the world. Most of us, of course, wander the purgatory between. In the journey of life, each of us swims an ebb and flow, in which the individual spirit-mind-body plays out incalculable variations of the passions born of desire and fear.

The life any of us creates, with all its perceptions and interpretations, is a blend of voluntary and involuntary choosing. Traditions are creations every cultural grouping, every societal mindset, fabricates, in order to maintain continuity in those the genetic lottery casts into its geographic realm. No one is bound to continue believing anything, but through the conditioned choices of imagination, that some call free will. Those who discern their own law, see this manifest play far differently than those, who, for whatever reason, cannot see past their attachments to the narrow propagandas of history, whatever the scale.

The gist of these reflections, is to encourage those who see their immeasurable nature, to become that to which they aspire. Intuitively, spontaneously free, to meet the moment as it unfolds, whether or not it fits the vision of any other individual or group. In the statistical bell curve of any rise and fall, of any creation and destruction, there are always the initiators, and those who tag along well after. Those who entertain the greatest vision, are already among the many who do not. Whether the reader sees it as a fact or not, we are all that which is the same indivisible upwelling, the same inexplicable mystery. Eternity is very much present within every part and particle, every quantum of the dreamtime to which all are witness. It is a vision so spaceless, so timeless, so infinite, so infinitesimal, as to be intrinsic to all creation, from You, to the farthest reaches and beyond.

Is the human species, with all its competitive predispositions, capable of comprehending and responding to a larger vision of itself? With all that is facing us, do we have the luxury of time? Probably not. More than very unlikely, in fact. Though the transformation of consciousness is an instantaneous matter, we as a species are caught in the juggernauting wave of collective ignorance, avarice, hedonism, narcissism, and countless attachments to choices made in times long before our brief little window, our tiny little scratch of the timeline. We may agree the problems ahead are nearly insurmountable, but a paradigm shift into a cooperative, balanced, intuitive, holistic, realistic mindset, is too much of a change for most to even begin to fathom, much less enact, at this point in time.

Despite the countless lessons offered by history, we are too attached to building mountains of false gold, practicing divisive religion, maintaining rigid traditions, following disingenuous leaders, promoting the idolatry of personality, supporting destructive institutions, fabricating egocentric class structures, producing adverse technologies, consuming insatiably in every conceivable way, destroying irreplaceable diversity, and killing one another because our ancestors could not get along any better than we, for all the same myopic, space-bound, time-bound, evolutionary, imaginary reasons.

Recognize it or not, the human species is fast-approaching a tailspin of its own design. It is inevitable that this garden planet, and all life that dwells on it, will someday return to its origin. That is the nature of the vast changing, the creation-destruction of each passing moment, in which we all choicelessly, spontaneously participate. The indivisible, impersonal totality; that which relatively few fully discern, much less quest total surrender.

The question is, will we go out with nobility, humility, integrity, and discipline; as fully-evolved human beings, harmoniously realigned with the source of our origin, guardians of what is left of the garden that birthed us all? Or will we exit like fruit flies, churning feverishly for the last dollop of honey in the bell jar; like rats, vying savagely for the last crumbs at the bottom of the cage?

Each of us makes that decision in every step, in every breath, in every deed, every word, every thought. We individually create our own unique, imaginary versions of the universe, and how we work it out together in the impromptu theater of consciousness, only time will tell. The essential quantum reality is not about contrived differences. It is not about futile, conceited pursuits, meaningless paths to glory. Life is an opportunity to perceive, within and without, a vision of an integrated relationship with that which is infinitely, infinitesimally greater than its many parts.

It is the true discernment that each and every one of us, including every angel and every demon, including all creatures small to great, including every infinitesimal, absolute speck of quantum dust swirling within, to the furthest indivisible reaches of the unknown, is equally That I Am, to which mystics across the world, throughout time, point. There is no other.

Each and every one of us is the same indivisible eternal oneness, the same absolute, immeasurable, timeless genesis, playing out the relativity of dreamtime. We are all connected, inseparable, no matter the exterior, no matter the capacity, no matter the frame of reference. No religious middlemen, no stairways to heaven, are necessary. This indelible insight is absolutely free to all discerning enough, to see clearly, that the ethereal thing called truth, is the momentary, intangible, undeniable birthright of the timeless awareness, imbued equally within all quantum creations. This intuitive vision of the clarity beyond form, and the exploration of right living it brings about, is the only true revolution.

This inexplicable mystery we call life, this beyond-boggling organization of matter, is an opportunity to witness the vast unfathomable diversity of this manifest theater, this grand play of creation and destruction, of known and unknown, in whatever way each individually imagines. It is the potential within all, to see that every form born of space-time, is merely one of a ceaseless kaleidoscoping of shapes, of facades, of masks, of patterns, all veiling the same source, the same awareness, the same witness; nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

The singularity of totality is beyond the scope of the mind, beyond the irrational concoctions of superstition, beyond the rational explorations of science. It is beyond the wordplay of any belief system, beyond the egocentric weavings of individual persona, and the countless delusions spawned of ignorance. We are all alone, together, and how we as a species finally choose to dance the dance, sing the song, walk the walk, and talk the talk, is ultimately, in this mind's eye, the true legacy of the human journey.

Best wishes,

M

Got God?

Do you believe in God? If so, describe what you mean by that?

Godness is the “I am That I Am” within each of us. It is the everything and the nothing. It is the smallest particle to the greatest whole. It is the isness, the nowness, the awareness, the timeless indivisible, unborn, undying source of this infinite, unknowable mystery. It is the creation, preservation, and destruction of every part and particle playing out the grand theater, the eternal kaleidoscoping holograph of space-time. That spark of divinity, of the Self within all selves, is the witness acting out every dreamtime imaginable.

Each and every life form is the immortal totality splintered into mortal fare. The source of life, of creation, is more than any measurement can ever explain or define. All attempts to grasp it, all the traditions, symbols, rituals and concepts, all the speculations ever devised in this garden world, or any other, are equally limited as anything but intuitive reflections. They are all merely a means to an end, not an end in themselves.

Time is a fabrication of consciousness. It is the virtual reality of the mind; the cotton candy of imagination. The ephemeral, momentary nowness is the only reality. Every life form, no matter who, what, where, when, why, or how, is very much of the same evolving creation, the same source, the same light, the same dreamer, the same witness, the same amness, the same uniqueness, the same absolute oneness. No matter how you slice and label it, we are all holographs of the same essence.

If you were raised in a religious environment, has that had a positive or negative impact on your life?

Organized religions across the world clutch vainly to beliefs founded upon geographic assumptions whose foundations have all become brittle and stale in this shrinking world. Groups throughout time have again and again claimed to be the standard-bearers of truth, but have all too often created far more conflict than community in their ethnocentricity. The net result is that the many propagandas of history are weighing us down with clashing notions. Notions that no longer hold water when examined closely.

The fact is that we are all the Way, the Truth, and the Life, and those blind to this most simple, obvious understanding, those attached to literal translations and dogmatic collusions, cannot help but perpetuate unnecessary confusion and disintegration.

Religious traditions, with all their customs, folklore, symbols, rituals, and concepts are products of time and its inevitable limitations. Their value is that they remind us of our relationship with the mystery of our existence. But to vainly cling to any as more than temporal tools, to battle over them in any way, to use them as anything but maps home, presents a narrow vision of the eternal quest. The word is only sound, and no sound can more than echo through the expanses of eternity.

Organizing the spiritual quest tends to box godness into a concept. And in the journey beyond concepts, into that which is immeasurable, there are no boundaries, no assumptions, that withstand that which creates, preserves, and destroys all illusions. The source of time is bound to no form, and inevitably harvests all.

Do you believe in heaven, hell, and judgment day?

Heaven and hell are states of mind, plays of consciousness, that only seem real where the now of time meets the road. Heaven is a sense of intuitive unity, an understanding, a clear harmony, a serene contentment. Hell is its divisive counterpart filled with unending prejudice, complexity, and contention. It is the passionate mind playing out the dualistic weavings of desire and fear, and the suffering they endlessly bring to fruition. Every day is judgment day for those confined by the illusory, dualistic play of the senses. In separation we are demons, in unity we are angels. Who has not tasted every potential to some degree?

Can prayer heal the sick?

If you really have faith, do you need to pray? Sickness, injury, aging, and dying are inevitable in this mortal theater. Oblivion of personal identity is the undeniable fate of all forms. Yet that quantum essence each of us truly is, is immortal, and this very simple realization creates a far different view of life, than most seem destined to entertain at any given time. What each of us really is, is far greater than birth and death, and the limitations of any manifest theater. And praying to imagination for mortal immortality, is rooted deeply in the quicksand of ignorance.

Are your religious/spiritual beliefs separate from your political ones?

Every action ripples. Every cause creates effect, and every effect becomes cause to the next effect. Those aware of this tend to walk more attentively in their day-to-day actions. Separative choices lead to disintegration; holistic ones to integration. Through interactions with others we show what we value. Are religion and politics separate? All division is the play of the time-bound mind. As long as we as a species value power, fame, and fortune more than we value right relationship, as long as we are in the grips of worldly attachment, as long as we worship mammon and idolize form, we journey toward an inevitable, synergistic fate of our own creation. The paradigm from which we spawned is no longer functional, and the bell is daily tolling louder.

Describe a spiritual experience you have had recently.

Is there any moment that is not spiritual, magical, mysterious? Whether sitting on the porcelain throne, or caught up in an inexplicable vision, every moment's unfolding is ultimately very much the same. We may or may not be tuned in, we may prefer some moments to others, but in reality, the ungraspable is sky to all the cloudy creations of consciousness, wherever or however they unfold. Pay attention to the vastness within, or meander through every sensory, dualistic diversion the world offers, it is all the same ephemeral virtual reality. Life is an opportunity to reflect upon the indivisible oneness within and without, and to take it as any more than a three-dimensional, quickly passing mirage, misses its greatest potential.

What is the soul?

What is not the That I Am? What is not the ground of all creation, preservation, and destruction? What is not the indivisible, immortal, absolute reality, that permeates all seen and unseen? What is not the same quantum mystery residing in everything, from the smallest particle of an atom, to the farthest galaxies of all creation? Godness, as discerned through consciousness, is as expansive or limited as any given personal vision, yet cannot be confined by any. Ultimately, there is no other. The ocean of godness, of isness, of hereness, of nowness, is all, including the drop of awareness reading this. The proof of it is that no one, no creature ever birthed upon this spinning garden has ever, will ever, or can ever discern more than a reflection of its own face. All forms are splinters of the same witness, the same oneness, the same faceless unknown. All attributes, all measurements, are born of the illusion of the quantum matrix of space-time, and to be bound by any reverie is the delusion of ignorance.

"Got God?" was a response to a seven-question survey of Chico News & Review readers published in April 1996.

Ten Reflections

I

Become a conscious, sovereign human being, awakened to the intuitive wisdom of Self, witness to the reality and unreality of this timeless-spaceless mystery of time and space.

II

Respect this diverse garden world, and the inherent rights of all creatures great to small. They are all masks of the same creation. There is no other.

III

Treat others at least as well as you would prefer they treat you. Do not expect them to return the favor, or to learn from your example. No one will ever be you.

IV

Live and let live; live and let die; grasp and release; give and take; win and lose; forgive and forget; inhale and exhale; fly and land; swim and drift; rise and fall; open and close; lock and unlock; come and go; start and stop; begin and end; flow and resist; tense and relax; be and allow; create, preserve, destroy.

V

Moderation in all things. Gluttony, greed, sloth, envy, wrath, lust, and pride are the roots of limitation, the source of suffering. The axis of evil is nepotism and cronyism and favoritism. Take delight virtue, in integrity and simplicity.

VI

Share what you have to share. But not in such a manner that it is degrading or disempowering to those you serve. Giving to get is not sharing.

VII

Play win-win whenever practical. Unmitigated competition is ultimately a dysfunctional paradigm. Avoid unnecessary conflict. No one really wins a fight. There are plenty of cooperative, egalitarian opportunities for those seeking the inherent ground.

VIII

Bring children into this world only if you intend to truly care for them. There are far too many human beings already. Life is arduous enough without a harsh, imbalanced beginning.

IX

Do not put false wealth above real relationship. Learn to listen to the many voices of nature. Learn to see with its many eyes. Mountains of gold do not compare with a child's joy in a mound of sand, a bird's, in the morning sun, or a dolphin's, in the passing wave.

X

Creation and preservation and destruction are equal partners in this kaleidoscoping light and sound show, playing out in the infinitesimally infinite aloneness of this dreamtime quantum theater. Deeply understanding this, may lessen the suffering of your relatively brief, more than a little absurd existence. Try not to take it all so seriously that you cannot laugh, at least occasionally, at this temporary mind-body, at this transient identity, this ephemeral, ever-changing, three-dimensional illusion, to which you are so attached.

The Ponderings of Yaj Ekim

The First Page

We are all created of the same source,
By whatever name you might wish to call it.
Our sense of individuality is merely a fleeting illusion,
Born of the attachment of consciousness to mind-body-spirit.
In reality, we are all equally the same awareness permeating all things.
All dualistic notions are vain delusion fabricated by imagination.
Yes, it all seems real and true enough at any given moment,
But if you fully contemplate the ever-present now,
You will discern that this state we call life,
Is really nothing more than a very temporary,
Touchy-feely, three-dimensional, sensory reverie.
The indivisible, absolute mystery, pretending existence.

* * * *

Everything comes and goes, appears and disappears,
Changes in each and every inexplicable moment.
A magical mystery tour of bewildering origin.
And to those many so full of themselves,
Unable to perceive the unfathomable,
That every moment beckons their attention,
How did the mindboggling become so mundane?

* * * *

Discern the indivisible awareness prior to all attributes,
All genders, all languages, all ideologies, all creeds, all geographies,
All families, all friends, all acquaintances, all antagonists,
All anything, all everything, under any given sun.
Discern that which is solely awareness,
Unblemished by any perception,
Born of conscious design,
Mortal or otherwise.

* * * *

Every existence is entirely unique,
In this grand, magical theater of time and space.
The unfolding of the song of mystery is a creation extraordinaire,
In every way, shape and form into which the mystery,
Has spontaneously, choicelessly unfolded.
You are one of countless dreams,
All witness to the totality,
That which is prior to all perception,
That which is absolute, both within and without,

That which is real, that which is true, that which is ever You.

2

No religion, no creed, no dogma in this world, or any other, speaks for that which is god.
They are all like blind men arguing over their limited perceptions of the elephant.
The dream is ever a mystery; none have ever owned it, and none ever will.

* * * *

You are neither the world nor the universe.
You are the indivisible that is witness prior to all creation.
You are the infinite awareness, the singularity,
Of all that is, and all that is not.

* * * *

Immortality is not found in the body,
Nor in the time-bound legacies of history books.
It is ever in the seamless awareness of the indivisible moment.
It is the eternal You, that peers out through the senses,
Into the dreamtime they and mind create.

* * * *

Every instant is an orchestrated streaming,
Of creation, preservation, destruction,
The trilogy of dreamtime's ever-present dynamic.
Name it whatever you will, the source of this boundless mystery,
Is equally the same for the smallest as it is the greatest.

3

This ephemeral awareness belongs to no one.
It is the ether that permeates all things, transcends all things.
There are no individuals but in the imaginary reveries,
Of the ever-changing theater of consciousness.
Prior to consciousness, there is only You,
In the greatest, most profound sense.

* * * *

Those who can still their minds in detachment,
Are far more powerful than those who so many consider great.
For they do not fear death, they do not fear oblivion.
They are one with the source of all things.

4

Our kind seems headed,
Toward an unprecedented cataclysm,
And in the grand schema of things, does it really matter?
Each of us answers that eternal question in the way we carry out our daily lives,
But it is synergistically, that the dice are cast and futures told.
So down the fated river we bob and weave,
All alone, all together,
Players in the history of mind.

* * * *

Humanity is a species fixated on the past,
On history, tradition, ritual, formula, this concept or that.
How challenging it is to view the streaming moment with fresh, clear eyes.
Our narcissistic vision is veiled by all we think we know.
We are blind to the mystery of Eden.

* * * *

Discerning the nature of truth,
Is not about comfort.
It not about pleasure diluting pain.
It is merely the essential point of eternal singularity,
From which all creation springs, and to which all creation succumbs.
Far too simple for all the thoughts, spinning ever again,
To decisively grasp the inexplicable.

* * * *

All purpose, all meaning,
Is the fabrication of consciousness.
The nothingness from which all things spring,
Is indivisibly absolute, with neither cause nor direction.
How can there be any permanence in manifest time and space,
In that which is no more than a sensory figment of temporal imagination?

* * * *

To declare yourself either believer or atheist,
Implies that you somehow know something to be true,
In the ultimate who, what, where, when, why, how conundrum.
Something that in reality cannot be known by anyone, anywhere, anytime.
Belief, faith, and hope are useless, delusional security blankets;
Vain pacifiers of the mind's fear of the unknown.
An agnostic vision is the only truthful, accurate stance.
Even Self does not know how this amazing mystery came to be.
The nowness that is, has ever been, will ever be, is all any can truly know.

History is about individuals and all their groupings,
The synergies of every blend of cooperation and competition,
All played out on an eternal stage, indifferent to existence or extinction.

* * * *

It is really all about patterns within patterns within patterns.
Infinitesimal, miniscule, tiny, small, medium, large,
Huge, immense, practically infinite patterns.
Patterns of all the swirling elements,
Of earth, air, water, and fire,
All grandly, indivisibly woven together,
Within the infinite quantum-ether-hologram-matrix-mystery.
Everything dancing its interpretation of Self away,
From every little way, unto the greatest.

* * * *

The quantum is the building block of the mind.
It is the nuclear cornerstone, the infinite creator,
Of the timeless, sovereign, immortal indivisibility.

* * * *

We each play out our little role,
In the unfolding dreamtime of future-past.
After the ending, it will be as it was before the beginning,
But for the unfolding now, it seems real enough to do whatever calls us,
In that which is, in the largest sense, the song of god.

6

It is from the grass roots,
From those who recognize the only truth,
From those who see the oneness of all things small to great,
From those who distinguish the harmonic singularity stretching across all eternity,
The grand source that is prior to all dogmas, all creeds, all religions,
The many beliefs that are idolatrous and self-serving,
It is from that utterly effortless ground,
That true religion flowers.

* * * *

There is no deeper, there is no greater,
There is nothing but the ever-streaming awareness,
That has played out every fleeting moment that has ever passed,
Within and without the only observer, the only witness there has ever been.
You.

* * * *

Abandon ye all futures, all pasts, all wants, all dreams, all hopes.
Right here, right now, in the awareness of the ever-flowing present moment,
Is the eternal life you pursue, the only existence you will ever have.
But you must die, in the most figurative sense, to discern it.

7

It may not be politically correct to say it,
But the squarely-faced reality is that every human being,
Is a biological organism, as is every other living thing on this spinning orb.
We may function at a more complicated degree of consciousness,
But the fundamental rules of the game are ever the same,
And are applied equally for each and every one,
In every way, every singular moment,
Of every singular existence.

* * * *

The mystery creates all of us equally buck-naked,
Same as every other life form across the entire garden.
It is only our kind who get all vain and embarrassed about it.

* * * *

The senses are the windows to any given universe,
But it is the mind that unlocks the door to eternity.

* * * *

Strolling the infinity within,
Does not require anything special.
Wear anything, or nothing, if you prefer.
Sit, lay, stand, walk, or sprint anywhere you please.
Name it whatever comes to mind, if you must.
It is always the same, ever unchanging,
Ever here now, to delve or dive into,
The source prior to all dreams.

* * * *

The challenge is to grasp and release,
Any given moment, at the same moment.
To flow with the ever-streaming, eternal reality,
Rather than the erratic stop-and-go,
Of the mind chained in time.
Discern the no-mind,
The awareness prior to consciousness,
To clearly perceive the evolving creation with a divine eye.

* * * *

Tag the immeasurable, the indivisible, the unknown, however you will,
It remains forever untouched, untainted, immaculately eternal.
The dream of consciousness is but quantum vibration in the ever-present now,
An imaginary configuration of the human mind, snared in the web of its own sensory creation.

8

What would it be like to never see anybody, anything, ever again?
To retire forever into the abyss, and never re-emerge into consciousness.
No more desire, no more fear, no more dread, no more worry, no more sickness,
No more injury, no more caring, no more bother, no more death or taxes.
And, of course, no more beer, wine, drugs, sex, or rock and roll.
To die for all eternity, or come back for another round,
Will that yay or nay decision be the last box,
On some Pearly Gate questionnaire?
Or do you just sign in or out as you please?

* * * *

Though we are all of the same formless origin,
Each of us is snared in an individual narcissistic reflection.
No one will ever interpret the mystery through the same looking glass,
So even the choir quibbles over this and that, that and this.
Less painful just to remain alone, inwardly still,
But it would seem few of us are willing,
To be quite that anonymous.

9

Your proud, relatively brief mortal existence, is naught but an infinitesimal scratch on a linear timeline,
Born of an immeasurable mystery, by whatever metaphor you might choose to describe it:
Creation, genesis, big bang, or turtles all the way down, turtles all the way up.
Stardust playing out a paradigm, invoked by the happenstance of human consciousness.

* * * *

What a challenge for the mind evolved of time,
To be completely attentive, totally engaged, to the given moment.
The moment that has always been, and will ever be,
Exactly as it is, right here, right now.

* * * *

Is a wave a wave, or is it water?
Is a beach a beach, or sand?
Is a bracelet a bracelet, or gold?
Is anything its ephemeral appearance,

Or the quantum matrix in which all forms dance?

* * * *

Forget everything, and the awareness is all that remains.

* * * *

Why pretend to know what can never be known?
What point is there to faith in some imaginary deity, some heaven,
If you cannot even manage to perceive the eternity playing out before your very eyes?

Karmas and heavens and hells, are imaginary notions,
For those who believe they should feel dread or guilt or shame,
For being born into an existence in which they had absolutely no choice.

* * * *

Learn from your everyday world; learn from your everyday universe.
Learn from fear to be fearless; learn from desire to be desireless,
From destruction and death, grasp your timeless immortality.

* * * *

So, you believe You are this body,
This mortal vat of bones and flesh and goo.
To be clear on this notion, are You the infant body,
The child body, the adolescent body, the young adult body,
The middle-age body, the senior body, or the one,
From which You peer, this very moment?
And how sure are You, really,
Of that fleeting, transitory novelty?

* * * *

You are this passing moment,
And it is here and gone, before You even know it.
It is that simple; all this is but a quantum dream, a quantum illusion.
There is nothing more.

* * * *

Everything before now, everything after now,
Is the ever-transitory movement of imagination.
The ground of awareness is still, ever watchful.
The eternal witness, watching its Self dream.

* * * *

It is the divide within, that You must make whole.
It is the war within, with which You must make peace.

Awareness is seamless; without rends, without adversaries.
It weathers the assaults of the mind-body in time, without effort.
Bound by no dream, it is indifferent to life, it is indifferent to its end.
It is You in the truest sense, permeating all that is, all that is not.

11

You can only know, You can only witness, the dreaming the mind-body perceives.
But realize, your version is but one reflection, one resonance, one facet,
Of this infinite, mysterious, ever-kaleidoscoping crest-jewel.
And of its unknown origin, You can only experience,
The infinite nothingness, at the core within,
And awaken to the clear certainty,
That it is really all You.

* * * *

Challenging to stay with the momentary awareness, the momentary nowness,
Without the movement of thought kicking back into overdrive.
The inner and outer chatter is ever an enticement.
Sages talk a great deal of detachment,
Of dying to the world,
But even they can be entranced,
By the sensory spin of the given day-to-day.

* * * *

There is absolutely no evidence of a distinct deity.
Hope, faith, conjecture, speculation,
Are born of fear and dread,
Of divisive, dualistic perceptions,
And only encumber the inquiry into the truth within.

* * * *

Who cares who wrote whatever?
What is most important is what was meant,
And what it unravels in the exploration of consciousness,
And the timeless inscrutability of awareness, from which it ever emanates.
Besides which, they were, after all, in the greatest sense, all You,
Belied by countless other disguises, as is yours to them.

12

To be solely the awareness, completely alone, effortless,
Is a suspension of thought, a disinterest in the ever-churning world.
A state of quietude, stillness, serenity, grace; interesting only if you are truly content,
To be done with all the many things your version of the universe offers.

No, it is not easy to let go, to be in the world, but not of it,
Even for the briefest of these mortal times.

* * * *

Ultimately, all sense of identity is absolutely meaningless.
Endure in the world of mind for as long as you will,
And then cast your Self free of all constraints.

* * * *

As fresh as the eternal moment forever is,
The memories which filter through it, are ever old.
The more we know, the less we see.

14

Truth is truth is truth is truth,
Unbound by any fabrication of consciousness.
Awareness is, indeed, witness to the mysterious majesty of all creation,
But nothing that is conceived can ever be proclaimed,
As the truth only truth can be.

* * * *

Forget your body, forget your life,
Your geography, your culture, your religion,
Your politics, your education, your friends, your family.
Forget absolutely everything, everyone.
Breathe in, breathe out,
The awareness before time.

* * * *

I am the Truth, the Life, and the Way,
And so are You,
And so is everyone and everything else,
And so is each and every part and particle of dust to the farthest shore,
And the infinity beyond all pales.

This is what it is really all about.
It is all You.
There is nothing more, nothing less.
There is no greater state than the timeless simplicity of awareness,
The reality through which all dreams play out,
In any given dimension.

* * * *

This brief little dream is just a speck,
Of the totality which reigns all dreams, all forms.
It is merely a rippling of a distraction from your eternal nature,
The truth of which You are always, whatever the form.

* * * *

You are older than the stars, younger than the moment.

* * * *

No one really knows anything about who,
What, where, when, why or how they are here.
Why pretend to? Why manufacture any belief system,
When vulnerable, agnostic wonder, is the most honest stance.

* * * *

The manifest theater is based on constant change,
Constant movement, constant consumption, constant evolution.
Only the ever-present indivisibility of the quantum essence, remains the same.

17

At what point, did You begin losing your innocence?
At what point, were You drawn out into the manifest world,
Into believing it real, into believing You are this cloak of identity,
You have so diligently, and with such utter conviction, worn ever since?
The other has shaped You into believing You are an identity,
But it is only Your collusion which makes it so.
The key to real freedom,
Is discern the indivisible source,
And then surrender to that awareness,
The timeless witness prior to consciousness.

* * * *

Dreamtime ... dreammind ... dreamjourney ... dreampath ...
Dreampast ... dreamfuture ... dreamnow ... dreamfate ...

* * * *

You are not what you know.
You are not what you do.
You never have been.
You are only what You are,
Have ever been, and will ever be.

18

The drop is within the ocean, and the ocean within the drop.
The writing is within the writer, and the writer within the writing.
The painting is within the painter, and the painter within the painting.
The sculpture is within the sculptor, and the sculptor within the sculpture.
The garden is within the gardener, and the gardener within the garden.
All creation is within its creator, and the creator within all creation.

* * * *

You can only perceive the source You ever are,
By being the very motionless awareness.
Eternal life is right here, right now,
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

Trying to meld a nondualistic view of this immeasurable mystery,
With the egocentric-ethnocentric-geocentric collusions born of time,
Requires way too many rationalizations, compromises, and contortions.
Just because some falsehood bears the authority of tradition means nothing.
Give no weight to what is unnecessary; travel the journey that calls You.

19

All organized religions, cults, sects, creeds,
Are really about dogma, limitation,
One groupthink or another.
Even in a large gathering,
Real religion is a solitary act,
Unfolding each and every moment,
Unattached, without any care, any concern.

* * * *

Your body is not really yours at all.
It is merely a temporary biological casing,
From which You witness the mystery of creation.
Consciousness is in charge; You are just along for the ride.

20

This insight into the singularity cannot be forced; You either discern it, or you do not.
So, there is absolutely no point in creating any dogmatic belief system,
Except to continue playing out the meaningless theater,
To which all middlemen and followers defer.

* * * *

Dogmas are generally more about,
What you are not supposed say, think, or do,
Truth includes absolutely everything,
Ever said or thought or done.

* * * *

Why venerate anything imagined?
Why not just be in the here and now,
Free of all imaginary constraints?

* * * *

Every moment is in itself absolutely effortless.
It is consciousness that manufactures all struggle.

Every life is a one-time affair,
A kaleidoscoping outcome of the given seed.
And each and every seed is a blueprint, a pattern, a potential,
Which is ever filled with the same quantum source, the same dynamic essence,
From which the unfolding creation has ever been fashioned,
But none ever formed the same way again.

* * * *

This eternal moment, this stillness of awareness, is all there is,
No matter the form, no matter the time, no matter the context.

* * * *

What You really are, has absolutely nothing to do,
With any memory, any thought, any idea, any concept,
Any movement of imaginary notion, whatsoever.

* * * *

The grand theater, and everything in it,
Is the dream of the mind-body.
You are the awareness,
The witness,
Which discerns all,
But is none of it, all the while.

* * * *

You are not the body; the body is not You.
You are the eye, out through which eternity peers.

* * * *

Atoms, molecules, particles, quanta,

All just names for that which can never be seen,
But are nonetheless the building blocks, the underpinnings,
The bedrock upon which all creation is founded,
The infinite nothingness,
Upon which the manifest is spun,
The stage upon which You witness your Self,
Playing every form across the dream of time and space.

* * * *

We are all that which is of the elysian divine;
Merely moving about in different guises;
Identified by different names, speaking different tongues;
Playing out different realities, on different stages, of the same mystery.

The mortal body is the sanctuary, the temple, the portal, in which awareness immortally resides.
It is ever-changing, replete with every sort of irregularity, and fated to one day dissolve.
But for a relatively brief perception of time, always within the unending moment,
There is the opportunity for the temporal consciousness, the dream weaver,
To play out whatever capacity and limitation and inclination allow.

* * * *

The mind-body is but a transitory dwelling; chaff,
From which the kernel drops into the ground,
From which the drop returns to the ocean,
From which the self merges into Self,
From which the persona dissolves,
Into that which is timelessly absolute.

* * * *

Awareness is prior to all things,
Born of thought, born of passion, born of time.
All naming is ultimately meaningless.
Even the greatest song of god,
Is fated to be forgotten.

* * * *

Still searching here, there, everywhere,
For something that really, really, really matters,
When over and over, it is again and again, more than evident,
That nothing really does, nothing really ever has, nothing really ever will.

Picture this immense cosmos an immeasurable matrix,
And all we organisms, from small to great, wandering about,
Breathing in and breathing out, consuming and being consumed.
Earth, air, water, fire – indivisibly intertwined throughout the heavens,
Creating-preserving-destroying, through all beginnings, through all endings.
A god-eat-god creation, which all are equally witnessing, in every way imaginable.

* * * *

All that striving, all those memories, all those thoughts,
All those relationships, all born of the mystery's quantum mirage;
You are not any of them, and You never have been, really.
You are the clear space, the heart of awareness,
Absolute, sovereign, beyond compare.

* * * *

Some want to spend their lives,
Preoccupied with loving or hating others.
What difference, really, in the ultimate dream of it all?
Perhaps that which is the quantum source, both angel and demon,
Merely seeks to play out every possible experience,
The menu of consciousness offers.
Who knows, really?
Any of us can only extrapolate,
The given dream, to one speculation or another.

* * * *

You are solitary witness,
To the boundless source and all its play.
What else can there be, but this fundamental You, really?
Everything is nothing more than a kaleidoscoping dream of quantum design,
Inexplicably created by the grand mystery, to experience,
A manifest fling of the galactic dice.

Humankind has expended a great portion of its recent so-called civilized history
Battling over the electromagnetic spectrum: wavelengths, frequencies, vibrations, light, sound.
Continuously struggling, arguing, destroying – over what is but a mere sliver of the indivisible mystery,
That our sensory dwellings are capable of perceiving, in the patterning of all things manifest.
How baffling, that we have not fathomed a greater vision of our place in it all.

* * * *

Nature is what works,
And what does not, evaporates into oblivion.
Good and evil are nothing more than constructs of human consciousness.
There was never any such thing in this whirling garden orb,

Prior to the emergence of dualistic notion.

* * * *

There is no such thing as time; birth, life, death, are but a dream.
There is only awareness; the You, that has ever, yet never been.

* * * *

Here now is the only religion.
We are all transience, all immortality,
Intertwined, in consciousness, in imagination.

* * * *

No need to make pompous tripe about the mystery.
The challenge is merely to see, to comprehend,
That it, is everyone and everything, including you
And then decide how to play out the pretense of free will,
For whatever dreamtime remains, in this inexplicable mortal sojourn.
Death is merely evaporating, back into the nothingness, that nothingness ever is.

25

The passionate mind must be at rest,
To discern the vastness within and without.
There are many techniques, many means, many ways,
To approach realizing this attentive, vulnerable, state of awareness,
But the upshot, the bottom line, the bare essential, the brass tack, the nut and bolt,
The down-and-dirty-nitty-gritty-crux-of-the-matter, the sine qua non,
Is that the mind stills, until only the witness remains.

* * * *

It is only through the unremitting movement of consciousness,
That you separate yourself from the infinite upwelling.
A mystery brand-named by so many sounds.
Awareness is the same essence,
For all creation, from small to great.

* * * *

Abiding in thought, in the metaphors of persona,
In the imaginary pretense of little self, is a form of death.
To die to all the fabricated concepts, all the notions of this or that,
To live attentive to the very present, timeless awareness,
Is to immerse in the eternal life you truly are.

26

Looking back to the first rays of conscious memory,
Is it not apparent you were absoluteness from the very beginning?
But because you were immersed in a morass of delusion,
You fell into the snare, as the young ever do.
Illusion sweeps all into its net,
And only the rare few,
Free themselves,
And return to the open sea.

* * * *

This moment will have to be enough,
Because it is all you have got,
And there is no way,
It is ever going to be any more,
No matter how thick the layer of delusion.

* * * *

Existence is a countdown until your inexorable return to oblivion,
Until the complete and utter annihilation of your universe.
Death is just tapping the Ruby slippers, and going back to Kansas.
Charon transporting you across the River Styx, to the nothingness of Hades.
However storied, the void is from whence you came, that to which you inevitably return.

27

Realize it or not, you are a particle of the grand mystery,
Of that indivisible essence, which many call god.
Perhaps acting out some demonic role,
But a shard, nonetheless.
You have only to look within,
To discern the infinite awareness,
Prior to the dreaming of time and space,
From which all have, only in imagination, splintered.

* * * *

And now, you are here ...
And now, you are here ...
And now, you are here ...
And now ...

28

Everything is a story.
There are no greater or lesser stories.
All are imagined in the movement of consciousness in time.

None abide in the eternal now.

* * * *

The real mystery,
Is how so many tolerate,
What took place tens, hundreds,
And so often even thousands of years ago,
To regulate their existence today.
What would you be doing,
If it was just you,
All alone?

29

We may all be one at the indivisible quantum level,
But we are all still bound by the limitations of the mortal dream.
Confined in a container whose primary directive is to play the monkey-mind.
Some may completely give themselves over to perpetual agape,
But for most, it is ever a moment-to-moment challenge,
To resist all the passions mortal cuisine offers.

* * * *

We are certainly intoxicated by all our noise and busy-busy,
But zip up a few hundred meters, and stillness reigns.
The unknown is not bound by blah-blah or bling.
The mystery will spin on, with or without us.

* * * *

The universe is a touchy-feely mirage,
Inspired by the senses, wielded by imagination.
A momentary three-dimensional play.
Nothing more, nothing less.

* * * *

Eternity is awareness now.
Time is the wake of memory.
The future is all possible paths.
Free will looking forward,
Fate looking back.

* * * *

Only you know your own narrative,
And even that is but a vague perception,
Of what may have really happened.

* * * *

An impromptu theater ... nothing more ... nothing less ... nothing but.
The unknown playing its mystery out, in any and every way,
The dreamtime of imagination sets into motion.

30

And stardust somehow came into existence.
It could never more than speculate, how it all came to be,
But rather than be happy and content, not knowing,
It managed to argue, to struggle, to battle,
Over everything imaginable,
Forever more.

* * * *

Awareness, the underlying formless.

* * * *

The quantum mystery is you, and you are it.
You witness it, and it witnesses you.
You meditate upon its infinity,
And it, upon your temporal limitation.
How could the indelible indivisibility be else?

31

The daily challenge is just being in the ever-kaleidoscoping moment,
Experiencing, observing, processing the timeless immediacy,
Of whatever is streaming by, both within and without,
As clearly, as exactly, as acutely, as possible.
Eternal life is not for the inattentive.

* * * *

How bound humankind is,
By the deep dread of death and oblivion.
The movement of consciousness whirls every direction,
To avoid discerning the primal essence,
That is the source of all.

* * * *

All you think has happened, never really happened.
Dreams are only dreams, no matter how real they seem.
What you truly are, is nothing mind can ever begin to know.

Inhale ... exhale ... inhale ... exhale ...
Each breath streaming without break into the next.
Eternal, absolute, indivisible, complete, essential, every moment,
From the launching of temporal impermanence,
To its most certain conclusion.

* * * *

Neither forward nor backward, toward nor away,
Space-time is but a flickering of imagination,
Born of the eternal now, forever unknown.

* * * *

So many experiences, so much history, so much knowledge, so much blather.
Nothing more than the filter of imagination given daily reality,
Cloaking the ever-present now from its Self.

33

Human beings quarrel over this and that, and that and this,
As if anything anyone declares or does really matters,
Any more than whether a river trickles or roars.
The ineffable mystery is what it is, has ever been, will ever be,
And nothing can ever add or detract from its unfathomable, indivisible nature.
The only thing that is perhaps even the least bit relevant,
Is our relationship with the countless things,
Its indelibility has made manifest,
Including ourselves.

* * * *

What are the imaginary dualities to You,
Who is the fundamental awareness in all things.
You, who is serene witness to all creation.
Known or unknown, done or undone,
Oblivion is your singular nature.

34

What is not to appreciate about the reality, that That from which you are created,
Is absolutely indifferent to your vain pretense of an existence.
Oblivion is the destiny of all creations.
So it goes, deal with it, get over it, move on.

* * * *

Settle for creed, and you will live out existence,

According to the will of some other or another,
None of whom really know any more than you.

* * * *

This moment would know no other moment,
If not for the play of memory,
Founded upon a neurological mutation,
That began evolving when Eden was but a garden.
There is only past and future in the movement of consciousness.

35

The senses pull you out into the world,
Into an inexplicable, seemingly inexhaustible universe.
You journey this way and that, entranced with all there is to know and do,
But the ultimate journey is into the source of all journeys,
Into the totality of the indivisibility within.

* * * *

In the ether of the quantum matrix, the four elements,
Stream all about the awareness you truly are.
They cannot bind nor compel but through attachment,
To the ephemeral, vaporous, mesmerizing reverie they inspire.

* * * *

Your universe is you.
What point judging,
What you have created,
And every moment sustain?

* * * *

All differences are imagined.
Prior to consciousness,
It is all you,
One,
Eternally alone,
Free of all mortal constraints.

* * * *

Deeper and deeper, ever deeper,
Into the indivisible abyss of the primal source.
There can be no end, to that to which, there was never a beginning.

* * * *

If it is peace, tranquility, serenity, harmony, equanimity, stillness that you pursue,
It is not in these words, nor any others, in which it will be discerned.

Only in the sanctity of the awareness of your true Self,
Will you find that for which you long.

36

The reward for services rendered,
No matter for good or ill, is certain death.
Our fear-ridden, superstitious species manufactured,
Deities, heavens, hells, reincarnation, every conceivable notion,
Just to cope, to endure the unavoidable, intrinsic oblivion.
Too excruciatingly real to face it being all for naught.

* * * *

Most yearn for simple, clear, engraved-in-stone messages.
Canons, laws, rules, codes, policies, procedures that they can live by.
Not easy existing in a universe interwoven by relativity.
There are no absolutes but the absolute.

* * * *

What is emancipation but a quality of mind,
Free of any and all encumbrances, any and all notions.
Unfurl your essential, unconditional sovereignty,
Into the stillness of untainted awareness.

* * * *

The tree of knowledge,
Is a cacophony of imagination,
Allowed every direction and meaning.
The indivisible totality, that which is, and is not,
Is indifferent to all that is, and is not.

* * * *

What can a passing wave,
Know of its Self?
A swell, a whorl, a crash,
And foamy dissolution into the next.
Any given container is but a temporal instrument,
Out from which the solitary witness peers.

* * * *

Happiness, sorrow, anger, hate, joy, love,
Emotions of any rhyme or reason, thoughts of any caliber,
Passions of any variety, what are they to the awareness you truly are, really?

37

Put behind you all the teachers and teachings in which time has played,
And discern the fundamental reality they reveal within you.
They are but ambiguous, imaginary ghosts;
You are the oneness abiding dreamtime's here now.

* * * *

Truth is a state, a quality of beingness,
The momentary, timeless, ephemeral awareness,
Not a vain assertion of consciousness.

* * * *

It is ever and always the same awareness within.
Only the play of imagination cloaks it otherwise.

* * * *

For those earnestly subscribing to the scientific model,
Everything, every moment, is an on-going experiment.

38

We must all play out the consequences of the given dreamtime.
Heaven or hell, same moment, just different qualities of mind.

* * * *

You are the sky, not the weather;
The awareness, not the elements.
All is just distraction from what is.

* * * *

Sooner or later, our little creation will crash and burn.
So it goes, deal with it, get over it, move on.
Just be ready to roll with the punches,
When Mother Gaia lays down her one and only law,
And proves beyond any doubt, what has always really been in charge.

39

Neither male nor female,
Good nor bad, right nor wrong,
Light nor dark, high nor low, near nor far.
Awareness is without principle.

* * * *

Same old, same old,

Or same new, same new?
Just a quality of mind, an attitude,
Played out each and every fluid moment.

* * * *

All the pleasures of mind and senses,
Do they really even hold a flickering candle,
To the equanimity of pure, unadulterated awareness?

* * * *

Why would not the source permeate every part and particle?
How small-minded to even for a moment imagine,
Anything could be anything but indivisible.

40

How long are we going to quarrel,
Over which dogma is true,
Which version of the mystery is real,
When the only thing that has ever really been argued,
Are the imaginary notions born of one geographical assumption or another.

* * * *

The awareness at the source of all manifestation will ever wander along,
With whatever dream consciousness wishes to play out.
Creation, preservation, destruction,
You choose.

* * * *

The ultimate reality is, that each and every one of us,
Has the opportunity to discern the mystery we all equally are.
But the conditioning, the mindsets, the traditions, the dogmas, the memes,
The identification of consciousness with the mind, the heart, the body, the world, the universe,
Have humankind locked in a stranglehold, entirely of its own imaginary creation.
We are on a sure and unwavering course toward self-destruction,
An unfolding well beyond the point of no return.
What will come of it, is the pulp of dystopian fiction.

41

What will it be like to never have to bother,
About this human or any other mortal condition ever again?
No meaning, no purpose, no desire, no fear, no pain, no suffering, no ego, no vanity.
No physical, no mental, no emotional concerns, one way or another.
Nirvana, serenity, bliss, call it what you will,

Just die to it all now.

* * * *

Long before it was ever said and done, you were on your own.
After it is said and done, you will be on your own.
And while it is being said and done,
You are on your own.

* * * *

Everything manifest,
And the time through which it wafts,
Is the complete and utter construction of imagination.
For in the nowness, there is only eternity,
And the witness abiding all.

42

Both believer and atheist,
Pretend to know there is or is not a god.
But that you are is really the only fact worth considering,
And of the source of this infinite mystery, no one can really know anything.
Of the ultimate truth, the most earnest remain agnostic.

* * * *

Ignorance has always worshipped one rock or another.
Intelligent design is a far more infinite source,
Than any dogma will ever ascertain.

* * * *

Surely, that which is mystery, that which is truth,
Is far, far greater, than any vanity would ever allow.

* * * *

My story, your story, his story, her story, our story, the story.
All simultaneous; all absolutely, indivisibly, eternally imagined.

43

The journey of awakening to the indivisible seems an individual struggle,
An awareness of the vast totality to which the human species,
May or may not be capable of collectively partaking,
Before the temporal dream of consciousness,
Reaches its inevitable conclusion.
Oh well and so it goes.
Never really mattered anyway.

* * * *

What is human history but ceaseless struggle,
Over whose imagination should reign the moment.
Who was the very first to come up with the fanciful notion,
That we two-leggeds might someday, somehow, all come together,
Into one big happily-dancing-Age-of-Aquarius family?
Out-and-out balderdash, to be sure.

44

How much attention can be focused on any given dream?
The senses furnish an all-but-infinite, ever-streaming, lightshow of a universe,
And from that, even the sharpest of minds, can only briefly harbor,
The vaguest perception, of a very finite existence.

* * * *

The perceptions of any given moment,
Are quickly recorded into subjective memories,
Wherein time is contrived and projected,
Into what dreams may come.
This we call living.

* * * *

What moment is not creation?
What moment, not preservation?
What moment, not destruction?

* * * *

It takes a great deal of mettle,
To doubt to the essential core of awareness.
Immortal fare is not for the meek who will inherit the earth,
And the dreaming it every moment inspires.

* * * *

Existence as it is known, is nothing more than a foggy swirl of perceptions.
Eternal life is timeless awareness, free of memory, free of known.
It is the end of passion's craving for any form or concept.

45

There is tabula rasa, an uncarved block, an unrippled soul, within,
But the imaginary, make-believe you, formed of consciousness,
Must become very still, very quiet, for its awareness to reign.

46

If you truly seek heaven on earth,
You must fathom it within and without,
The ever-streaming here and now.

47

To fathom complete and utter freedom,
One must be very at rest in the momentary awareness.
Eternal life is not for those still seduced by the dream of manifest time.

49

Knowledge cleaves the enigmatic mystery of consciousness,
Into every sort of dualistic conception under the sun.
The forbidden was harvested, and Eden lost.
Fallen monkeys, indeed.
And this pillaged garden will hobble on,
For as long as humankind survives its memories real.

* * * *

What can the tabula rasa know of original sin,
Until the neuron trail is packed full,
Of monkey-mind blather?

* * * *

You could do this,
Or you could do that.
Or that or this or this or that.
Or you could just stay at home alone,
And do absolutely nothing.
It is your dream,
To play out as you will.

50

Any Supreme Being must surely be an amalgamation of all the greats:
Santa Claus, the Tooth Fairy, the Easter Bunny, Superman,
Harvey, Peter Pan, Tinker Bell, and Captain Hook.
Much easier to accept any given phantasm,
Than to doubt to the nth degree.

* * * *

This moment, this very moment,
Is all you really have.
Use it wisely,
For it is already gone.

* * * *

To gaze out into the sensory theater,
And recognize nothing,
And look within and discern the same.
It is to that, which all who hear the call, unknowingly aspire.

* * * *

The one thing of which You can be very certain, across all time, across all space.
Is that You are not at all separate from anything, in any way, at any moment.
How do You discern this? Because You are the dreamer dreaming it all.
You are the seamless, singular awareness, the one and only reality.

51

The atheist is as misguided as any believer.
All assertions are but the self-deceptions of imagination.
Agnostic [ag'nästik] noun: a person who believes that nothing is known,
Or can be known, of the existence or nature of God,
Or of anything beyond material phenomena;
A person who claims neither faith,
Nor disbelief in God.

* * * *

You are awareness.
The rest is imagination.
Life is surfing within a dream,
Until the wave crashes.

* * * *

All anyone really knows, is what they, or somebody else, thought up.
All things fashioned of consciousness are nothing more,
Than the effervescence of imagination,
In the stardust of mind.

52

Why be at all concerned or bothered,
About awakening smoke to its ephemeral nature?
Is it any wonder that those rare few who realize their true nature,

Become very silent, very still, even in the greatest din?

* * * *

Every life form that is born of this mysterious essence,
Creates and experiences its own finite universe,
With the same awareness inherent in all.
We are all That which never sleeps,
Is never born, and never dies.

* * * *

The world is teeming with every sort of absurd claim.
The only real marvel is that we cannot discern,
All are ultimately of the same mystery.

* * * *

What difference between a moment ago,
And the one just before you were conceived?
All figments within the ether of an indivisible matrix.

* * * *

The body is not You; You are not the body.
You have no body, you never have, and you never will.
The mortal container is merely a fleeting means to one end or another.
A formless, indivisible infinity, without foundation,
Without beginning, without conclusion.
Awareness is the cradle,
From which all things rise into being;
The coffin to which all things are one day laid to rest.

53

Knowing You are solitary witness to Your version of the theater,
Discerning You are awareness manifest, how will You play out your role?
Will You be angel, or demon, or some spontaneous blend between?
It is Your reverie to do as Your desire, Your law, dictates.
Be it heaven or hell, or some purgatory between,
It is Your creation, and Your will be done.

* * * *

Every point and particle of this reverie,
Is ultimately to fully perceive the singular truth,
That You are the eternal upwelling, that You are That I Am.
By whatever arbitrary sound You may describe it,
That Truth ... that Life ... that Way ...
Is the awareness You ever are.

* * * *

Who cares if there is but one lifetime or many?
In reality, the ultimate source, the You,
You really are, has been all.
And this existence,
Is the one and only one,
To which attention need be given.
It is in this moment that all futures are created.

* * * *

Wrangling over which notion of divinity reigns supreme,
Is for those many who have not yet put away childish things.

* * * *

Oblivion is the end to all lies, all fabrications, all self-deceptions.
It is the vital source, the essence prior to all becoming.
It is the experiencing prior to all experience,
The intangible prior to all that is tangible,
The awareness prior to consciousness,
The actuality prior to all that is imagined,
The substantial prior to all that is insubstantial,
That which is prior to all context, prior to all manifest dreams.

54

The big lesson humankind is still hard-pressed to learn, hard-pressed to even begin to grasp,
Is that absolutely everything is connected at every level across the board.
Each and every particle working, playing, dancing together,
Every simultaneous, unrehearsed moment,
To create this grand dream.
That so many take it all for granted,
And deceive themselves and others in so many ways,
That we have become so absurdly disjointed, is folly beyond the pale.

* * * *

From the quietude of boundless slumber, awareness awakens,
And gazing into the pool of memories, stokes the dream into another day.
Dust to dust, a few breaths, a few thoughts, between.
Let the vanity have its way.

55

Time-bound inner chatter is the consequence of inattention to the eternal moment.
A mind naturally becomes still when it is absorbed in whatever is happening.
There is no method, there is no how, merely a focus akin to a laser beam.

* * * *

We are all in the ultimate reality the same pure awareness.
It is neither yours, nor mine, nor anyone else's.
It is simply consciousness playing out,
The ethereal moment's imaginary potential.

* * * *

To be born again into the source of all things,
Is to discard everything and just be,
The stillness of no-mind.
Be ... still.

* * * *

Are you a body, experiencing awareness?
Or awareness, experiencing a body?
Or perhaps, both and neither?

* * * *

In all the incalculable star systems strewn across whatever infinity entails,
There may be many worlds, many dimensions, packed with life forms of every variety.
And yet, ours may be the only one with consciousness as we perceive it,
And, much to our chagrin, we will very likely never know.

56

All dogmas discuss, debate, battle, over imagined facets of the same origin.
Different metaphors, different archetypes, different interpretations,
Different sounds, different principles, different speculations.
Different this ... different that ... different whatever.
All struggling over the same eternal source,
The same inexplicable fountainhead,
Over and over and over again.

* * * *

That You are one with all, is not something to be taken vainly, narcissistically,
But as something to be discerned at the very essence of Your being.
The kingdom is the sovereignty of the indivisible source,
Within all things both manifest and unmanifest.
The eternal matrix is all-inclusive,
Including even You.

* * * *

There is only one awareness,
There is only one consciousness,
Splintered into an endless array of forms,

Playing out every prospect imagination deigns.
A capricious ocean of surging tides and crashing waves,
But an ocean, nonetheless.

* * * *

‘Supreme Being’ is being, in the most,
Omniscient, omnipotent, omnipresent way.
It is less about some imaginary, individual deity,
Than it is the austerity of pure, unadulterated awareness.
Agape is the indivisible, unconditional, impersonal indifference.

57

That which we call god, is the quantum essence which is never born, and can never die.
But if there were a personalized supreme divinity, that so many have imagined,
He, she, it – or whatever – would more than likely be bored to tears,
Having to daily endure the ceaselessly predictable inanities,
Of our two-legged, thumb-wagging, tool-making, monkey-mind kind,
And the ongoing devastation, of what is very likely one of eternity’s greatest creations.

* * * *

The is absolutely no rhyme or reason to suspect, much less believe,
There is some sort of supreme being outside your Self,
Or at least one that does not also include You.
How could any of this be happening,
Without Your participation,
To the very core of Your beingness.
Any duality is false, from all beginnings, to all ends.

* * * *

In youth, life is full of vitality and learning,
But mortal reality – injury, illness, aging, death –
Gradually erode the many illusions of blissful ignorance.
Questions arise about the ever-changing light show of the universe.
And those who give it earnest and unwavering attention,
Discern the awareness, and its immortal nature.

* * * *

How is it anyone truly believes some sort of alien race was required to create our kind,
Or set us on some sort of long, winding, convoluted, evolutionary journey?
How is it anyone could gaze upon this astonishing garden planet,
And not assume it entirely capable of being the source,
Of all the innumerable life forms it sustains?
It is a curious thing that so many require the belief,
In some outside intervention, to explain the mystery they are.

By the time you recognize and react to any given memory,
 Awareness has already moved on to the next,
 And the many nexts beyond that.
 And on and on,
 An eternal, immortal sprite,
 You can never touch, never catch, only be.

* * * *

Sometimes it is heaven, sometimes it is hell.
 Consciousness is flip-flop like that.
 Awareness does not care.

* * * *

That which is mystery is within,
 To whatever degree you feel called,
 To discern the infinity beyond all pales.

* * * *

It seems more than a little curious,
 That so many would choose dogma and idolatry,
 Over the infinite treasure in all things, in all places, in all times.

What is heaven but hope, and hell, dread.
 The nectar of awareness is prior to both.

* * * *

You see only what you perceive.
 You see only what you know.
 You see only what you believe.
 Everyone is but a frame of reference.

* * * *

What desire, what fear can there be,
 If you are immersed in the awareness,
 Of the unfolding ever-present moment?

* * * *

All dogma, all vanity, all everything,
 Ripples from consciousness, not awareness.
 From mind, not that which is witness to all creation.

Who, what, where, when, why, how ... does any universe come into being,
 But through the awareness of the observer, the beholder, the witness.
 All based on structure, sensory input, capacities and limitations.
 Every creature small to great resides in a cosmos of its own weaving.

* * * *

Ultimately, there is no evil, there is no sin, there no dark side.
 There is only corrupted, twisted, perverted consciousness.
 There is only the veiling, the muddying of awareness.
 There is only ignorance and delusion and duality.
 Evil does not truly exist in any way or shape or form,
 But through the vanity-vanity-all-is-vanity of imagination.

* * * *

All vanity is absolutely insignificant to that which is prior to time.
 The entire quantum universe is but an immeasurable, timeless ocean,
 In which all manifest forms appear and disappear in the smelter of what is.
 You are simply one witness, playing out a mortal reverie, for but a brief while.

The senses offer an ever-kaleidoscoping, timeless universe.
 Why be overly concerned about where it has been, or where it is headed,
 When the ever-present nowness is in itself so extraordinary;
 A mystery to be witnessed however any wills.

* * * *

Once a placid, winding river,
 The roar of the falls is now very near,
 And resounding nearer each and every moment.
 Who will survive the chaotic mayhem,
 In the harsh rocks below?
 Who will journey,
 The waterway of history,
 Beyond the coming Great Fall,
 And what stories will their destinies tell?

Waking up to yet another dreamy day,
 Trapped in a body racked with one bother or another,
 The mind willy-nilly between agony and ecstasy, exasperation and rapture.

Curious how thought can play the gamut between amusing and tiring from one moment to the next.
What ceaselessly pointless vainglorious absurdity, this much ado about nothing.
The appeal of ever returning to this manifest dreamtime,
Has pretty much run its course.

* * * *

There is nothing more than this ephemeral now
That can be more than witnessed as a fleeting dream.
Consciousness may play out every distraction imaginable,
But it will never be anything more than the wind of its own design.

63

Awareness has no bond to time and space,
Other than to witness its ever-kaleidoscoping nature.
How can that which is indivisibly eternal,
Ever be bound by any creation?

* * * *

Sometimes serious, sometimes absurd,
Sometimes intelligent, sometimes foolish,
Sometimes divisive, sometimes incisive,
Ever eternally, inscrutably indivisible.
A mystery no matter how long it is,
A mystery no matter how short it is.

64

How many worship some imaginary deity, praying for blessings, for forgiveness,
And then spend every other moment possible in one pursuit or another,
Lying, cheating, thieving, even plotting murder and mayhem,
Never discerning their hypocrisy and self-deceit, or just not caring.

* * * *

How much of your life do you worry over this or that?
How many problems do you spin from practically nothing?
How concerned do you get over everything from micro to macro?
To be free in the unruly mind, you must be utterly insecure,
Completely undisturbed, absolutely vulnerable.

* * * *

Sometimes the absurdity makes you laugh out loud,
And in other moments, you are so serious and sorrowful,
That you wail and curse to the vast quagmire of imagination.

* * * *

You need not participate in any mindset, any groupthink, large or small.
Cleanse your mind, your awareness, of all memes, all inventions, all fictions,
All contrivances fashioned of imagination's perpetual collection of absurd notions.
Stand alone, and be as inwardly free, as the moment before you were conceived.

65

All the idolatry in the world,
Will not transport anyone any nearer to god,
Than they each and every single one already every moment are.
All scriptures, all dogmas, all images, all symbols, all intermediaries, all assertions,
Are but empty, meaningless, untoward, even tragic distractions.

* * * *

Change is the lie.
Truth is eternal, indelibly indivisible,
As still as still can be.

* * * *

All consciousness is of arbitrary design.
The only absolute is the eternal awareness,
Prior to all dreams born of a sensory nature.

* * * *

A drop alone is merely a drop,
But all together they compose a mighty sea.
Such is the nature of awareness, and the infinity of universes,
Made manifest in the ever-kaleidoscoping creation.

* * * *

You truly yearn to know, to touch that which is god?
Then just be very, very still, and in the effortless awareness,
You will discern the true nature permeating all from small to great.

* * * *

The foundation of any religious groupthink is one dogma or another;
All for the longing for something that is not, never was, and will never be.
It requires a timeless mind to discern the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

66

You who have discerned truth, know it to be you, know it to be me,
Know it to be everything within, everything without.
No need for words, no need for dogma,

The awareness is all.

* * * *

All great seers of the ultimate reality,
Are simply incisive knowers of themselves.
Anyone can apprehend it, if they have the insight,
And an unrelenting, unwavering, blade of discernment.
This is yet another conscious articulation of an age-old inquiry.
Indeed, there is nothing either new or old, under this or any other star.

67

It really does not matter, one speck, one smidgen, one iota,
What anybody thinks or believes about anything.
You have always been nothing more,
Than the awareness of the eternal present,
Never the dream born of the mind bound in time.

* * * *

Find a space where you can sit quietly, alone.
Ignore the ever-churning sensory theater.
Allow the thoughts to pass without interference.
Observe completely the beingness throughout the passing.
That simple awareness, that oneness, is the eternal, original nature.
To abide in the essential ever-fleeting moment, the mind still,
Is liberation from the fabrications of false identity.

68

Any given body is merely the outcome of a seed,
A container to which so many become,
More than a little attached,
Despite the oblivion sourcing all.

* * * *

Move prior to concept, to form, to struggle.
Be simple, carefree, serene, tranquil, absolute, sovereign.
For those lacking discernment, the ceaseless inventions of dualistic notion,
Are but the quagmire of knowledge, of opinions, of beliefs,
Absorption in the voracious mind-body identity,
In the ever-beckoning sirens of desire.
All merely distractions,
From the timeless awareness,
The every-moment one-and-only reality,
Within and without all creations small to great.

Nothing is forever.
 Every moment is torn from your grasp.
 Every form, every thought, every context, inevitably evaporates,
 Into the oblivion of the timeless unfathomability.

* * * *

Why anyone would believe in a deity,
 That wants them or others to suffer,
 Is perhaps the only real mystery.

* * * *

Gaze out into the infinite vastness,
 Until you discern it swirling,
 Within your own eye.

* * * *

For any given life whose destiny it is,
 To awaken to the infinite, indivisible nature,
 The universe woven together by the mind and senses,
 Is merely a means to the ending of time.

No one can more than point the way helping you see this.
 All must discover absoluteness within themselves, very much alone.
 Those who own it already can only say a few words,
 And beckon you dare the journey.

* * * *

Always remember that all metaphors,
 No matter how accurate or profound they sound,
 Are not, have never been, will never be,
 The reality of the given moment.

* * * *

Awareness is not a belief system.
 It is that which is prior to consciousness,
 And requires nothing but unconditional attention,
 For you to be both its master and its servant.

The human theater is fueled and driven by vain, limited thinking.
In the ultimate perspective of the essential nature, who can more than speculate,
Who was who, what was what, when was when, where was where, why was why, how was how.
To pretend to know anything, is nothing more than the arrogance of ignorance.

* * * *

Wherever you go, whatever you do,
Whatever light show is played out in time,
The oneness You really are, is touched by none of it.
All forms are different containers, appearing to be so diverse,
Yet all filled and surrounded of the same infinity.

* * * *

If this orb was considered a small lifeboat upon an infinite sea,
The prophets, the mystics, the seers, are those who dive over the side,
Explore the unseen depths, and climb back aboard to share their discoveries,
With those clinging passionately to the vain, illusory safety of their berth.
Many, perhaps most, will very quickly turn away and refuse to listen.
Some will quarrel, scoff, or curse, praising imaginary clay gods.
Some will avidly listen, and then label themselves followers.
Some will timidly test the unknown and find it too cold,
Or, worse yet, misguidedly think they, too, have it.
Some, seeing what needs be done, will dive in,
Perhaps to one day also return awakened,
Emptied by the realization of the indivisible.

* * * *

The quantum matrix can indeed be in far more than two dimensions in any given moment.
In fact, it is capable of generating an incalculable number of permutations,
Of anything and everything, wherever consciousness abides.
Far more grand than any deity imaginable.

72

So many things true, so many things false,
In so many minds, in so many times, in so many spaces.
Yet, no matter how many differences this endless mystery may spawn,
All are, have ever been, will ever be, of the same origin.

* * * *

There is really no you but in the field of imagination.
Any given moment is absolutely indifferent,
To the dream of consciousness,
Streaming through it.

* * * *

Something will eventually annihilate the body.
Large or small, within or without, harshly or gently.
From the ultimate vista; who, what, when, where, why, how,
Make absolutely no difference, whatsoever.

* * * *

A wealthy life is having the health, the means, the spirit,
To do whatever the mystery-given capacities and limitations allow.
Your destiny is already written in the dusty sands of time.
You just have to every moment scrawl it out,
In whatever way the dream calls.

73

In skirmishes born of time and space,
Sometimes it is necessary to dig a hole.
Other times to be shrewd with the tongue.
Still others to be as still as breath will allow.
And then there are the times, when all choices,
But one, quickly dissolve if you intend to survive.
Where immediacy is critical, the instinctual essence,
Swiftly exports ethical ideologies out of consciousness.
There are moments when compassion may not be an option.

74

Even if every creature from small to great, were to cry out in unison,
The cacophonous eruption would amount to no sound at all.
This garden world is but a minuscule particle of dust,
Timelessly spinning in the immensity of space.
Really no different than any of the invisible particles,
Circulating about the space in which you are sitting right now.
Listen very closely, and you will be the deep silence of the universal mind.

* * * *

Just say no to the mumbo-jumbo of all superstition,
All the false, delusional authorities born of time and circumstance.
Discern that the source of the ever-present awareness,
Is the immeasurable, absolute You.

* * * *

We are the collective dice roll,
Of all our ancestors.
However that came to pass,

We are all cousins of the same unknown.
To endlessly squabble over this or that, or that or this,
Is about as meaninglessly futile as it gets.

* * * *

Each and every seed, a unique blueprint,
A pattern in its snowflake of a universe.

* * * *

Who or what is anyone or anything but You,
Disguised in the wrappings of the streaming senses.
What duplicity You have over and over played with your Self,
Across the countless dreamscapes, of no one knows how many creations.

75

It is indeed more than a little curious, how so many,
So-called religious collectives all across this dreamtime world,
Truly believe their fabricated god favors only them.
As if any supreme being would really care,
Who wins a meaningless game.

76

Why even for a moment think,
About struggling to be like everyone else?
To constantly try to blend in with any groupthink,
Kowtow to any tradition, imitate any mindset, abide any meme,
What complete and utter absurdity, to wallow in the quagmire of herd instinct.

* * * *

The ultimate essential nature is exactly the same within all creation,
And consciousness in any form is merely waves crashing,
Upon the shores of infinity's grand theater.

* * * *

What siren-like enticement it is, to believe memories,
Any more than dead things, when the only thing that is,
Is this very ungraspable moment of still, timeless awareness.
The actuality is that you are not, you were not, you will never be.
You need not care about the dreamtime in which quantum mind dwells.

77

Simply put, you are the indefinable, unfathomable, indivisible source;
Playing out the temporal reverie of one form or another.
Born into an ever-changing creation,
You move this way or that;
Nothing more than a dream of consciousness,
A streaming of imagination's potential, inspired by the given senses.

* * * *

What is this unfathomable mystery that some call god,
By many names, many sounds, many vibrations;
But a cloud of untainted, vibrant awareness.
The nothingness prior to consciousness.
The indivisible, enigmatic upwelling.
The oblivion before all patterns.
The stillness before all time.
The soul of all creation.

78

The universe is but a dance of imagination.
You are the singularity, the witness that never sleeps;
Unborn, untainted by creation or destruction,
Or the ever-changing dream between.

* * * *

An ever-changing quantum mirage of time and space,
Within a mind, within a form, within a world, within a universe,
A kaleidoscoping touchy-feely, three-dimensional dream,
In which you are every moment in, but never of.

* * * *

Eternal life is simply living in the awareness of the ever-streaming moment;
Oblivious to the space and time in which the manifest mind abides.
The state of being when the allure of the many attributes,
The countless fabrications of imagined identity,
Lose all meaning, all purpose, all concern.
When the magnitude of the singular present is all.

79

Since all creation's unknowable beginning,
The clock of eternity has ticked away across the cosmos.
Every part and particle of every passing moment has been necessary
For the temporal dream of consciousness to reach this indivisible twinkling in time,
That which is both within and without the only You that has ever been.

* * * *

You are the mystery, You are the awareness, You are the source,
You cannot disengage from the ever-present indivisibility.
To suppose that you are separate, that your personality,
Is any more than an invention of consciousness,
Is unutterably delusional from the get-go.

* * * *

Stars shine, sun blazes, moon reflects, earth blooms, life comes, life goes.
Purpose, meaning, belief, hope, are but imaginary concoctions.
Cling to them as you will, but know that any existence,
No matter how long, is for but a moment.

80

The first and last breath of all time and space is within each and every one of us,
A fluid infinity of swirling elements, an immeasurable quantum mystery,
Effortlessly flowing through all beginnings, through all endings,
From seed to seed, form to form, through all creation.

* * * *

The occupied, inattentive mind is always willing,
To waylay the stillness of awareness,
With its windy this or that.
Being in the moment,
Is not for the meek of spirit.

* * * *

How deep is deep? How shallow, shallow?
How wide is wide? How narrow, narrow?
How infinite is infinite? How finite, finite?
The definitions inspired by any eye, any mind,
Are but endless, arbitrary spins of me, myself, and I.

81

Suicide is only inexplicable to those who do not quite grasp,
Not everyone wants to exist, not everyone wants to play the human game.
Not everyone wants to experience the ups and downs, the ebbs and flows of consciousness.
Not everyone wants to engage in monkey see, monkey do.
Not everyone fears oblivion.

* * * *

The many filters of knowledge, are ever an alluring draw.

To reclaim the untarnished, untainted sovereignty,
You naturally every moment had as a child,
Is likely not possible, for any but the very rare few.

82

The universe created by the senses,
Will draw you again and again into the grand illusion.
For the unsteady mind still mesmerized by the pitter-patter of time and space,
The waking-sleeping-waking of it, is ever a Sisyphean challenge.
It requires great discipline to weather the dream,
And be the momentary awareness,
Prior to consciousness.

83

The road home is neither high nor low,
Nor is it a road, a path, or even one step.
It is just You, right here, right now, bam.

* * * *

Agnosticism is the only rational honest answer,
To any of the fundamental, unfathomable questions.
Neither you, nor anyone else, really knows diddly-squat,
About the who-what-when-where-why-how of it all.

84

It is through the play of consciousness that the mystery,
Witnesses your translation of manifest dreamtime.
The many mythological stories explaining creation,
Are simply tales attempting to explain the inexplicable.
How unfortunate so few are interested, much less capable,
Of perceiving beyond the attachment to one identity or another.
What an eternal garden this world might be if idealism was set aside,
And wisdom and insight, gained sway, in this theater of human invention.

* * * *

The universe is but the gnashing of a morsel of dust,
In the reality of the mystery that You are, as well.

* * * *

All attempts to make life more than it is are futile.
One must be simple to discern the simplicity,

At the root of all things small to great.

* * * *

So many humans seem to wander,
From one hedonistic experience to another,
Seeking out newer diversions, more voracious highs,
Gradually becoming satiated by the dawning predictability of it all.
What happens to those rare few, who discern that all experience is born of mind,
And, peering through the illusory veil of its manifest inception in time,
Eventually discern the end within every moment's beginning,
And walk sovereign in the eternal mist of oneness,
From which all appearances originate.

85

Discerning the indivisible, You realize,
That all manifest forms are of the same reckoning.
All are founded upon knowledge, all are shaped by concepts.
All are but appearances fashioned by the kaleidoscoping quantum theater.
And You, your Self, in each and every passing moment, are imagining it all real and true;
This temporal window of eternity, into which You have been involuntarily cast.

* * * *

Babble, it is all just a tower of babble;
Just a temporal manifestation of consciousness,
Playing out in a teeny-weeny little dust storm of eternity.

* * * *

When You were young and innocent, the movement of consciousness,
Was like fresh sap flowing mightily through a spring tree.
As existence passed by with its many seasons,
There arose a vague awareness,
Of the vast, yawning expanse within.
Of the quietude that had always been present,
Since the ineffable walkabout in time and space began.
The indelible stillness that few are discerning enough to perceive.
Now, You are in that portion of life, when You make peace with the passions,
And quietly prepare for the end of space-time, and complete surrender to Your eternal origin.

86

Another wretched soul living for some future grave,
Always caught in another time, another place, another existence,
Missing completely, the one and only eternal now.

* * * *

From the stillness of awareness, all potentials spring,
Into the stillness of awareness, all potentials subside.

88

To all who truly, earnestly doubt,
It is You, you truly pursue,
In that awareness, so matchless,
Where all trails end, at the end of You.

* * * *

Personality is reaction to the sensory play.
It is the response of the mind-body to its environment.
The disharmony of duality dissolves as concern for mortality dissolves.
Attention shifts from the travails of imagination, to the awareness prior to consciousness.
From desire, fear, anger, sorrow, separation in any of its many forms,
To the indivisible serenity of the eternal witness.

89

Do with your given time whatever consciousness deigns.
It does not really matter how one's life is spent,
For it is naught but a temporary dream,
No matter how real it at any given moment seems.

90

In the vast source of all creation, where logic does not rule,
There is only one way, and one and one is ever one.
In that timeless, elemental, indivisible ocean,
There is no requirement for the mirage,
That one plus one equals two.

* * * *

Listen to elders from across the world.
There is no end to learning, there is no end to wisdom,
But in the end of all beginnings, to which the eternal moment is inclined.

* * * *

You are the mystery.
Forever unknown, forever indivisible.
One in all, all in one.

91

This plain and simple reality at the core of all things, requires no following, no imitation.
It is simply looking closely within, and discerning the awareness,
You truly are, have ever been, will ever be.

92

Yes, it is all meaningless gibberish,
The Tower of Babble, if ever there was one.
But what else can anyone in this madhouse do, really,
But play along with all the other inmates.
We are all just prisoners here,
Of our own device.

* * * *

Everything and nothing,
Converging within the eternal now forever.
How quantum is that?

* * * *

Arduous, indeed, straddling the fence,
Between dreamtime and eternity,
Between mortality and immortality,
Between consciousness and nothingness.

94

Life comes, life goes, ever-present like the wind, gone just as quickly.
What is it but an ephemeral reverie in the hourglass of time.
The sand falling sure and steady to the last grain.
The curtain falling when the show is done.
I am the Truth, the Life, the Way,
And so are you, and so is everyone else,
And so is everything else, and so is nothing else.
We are all the same essence, dreaming the theater of time.
How can there be an exit to a stage, that has no beginning, no end.
Even in that which is deathless, You are ever here now in formless disguise.

* * * *

You quest that which you already are.
You desire that which you already own.
You discern that which is ever unknown.
You are you own worst imaginary enemy,

You are your own best imaginary friend,
Wonderfully, terribly, forever alone.

95

Of course, the deity that is imagined does not exist.
How could that which is omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent,
That which is infinitely, timelessly, indivisibly perfect,
Ever partake anything, as more than witness?

96

Consciousness is the chaotic surf between eternity and shore.
Gravity gradually draws every existence back into its dusty origin.
Where exactly does the body end, and the universe begin?

* * * *

Self has no idea it is, but through you.
Witness to the otherness of manifestation.
Witness to the unknown made known.

* * * *

Existence for the rare few is an inquiry,
Into the mystery that is prior to consciousness.
For most others, it is every pursuit consciousness allows.

* * * *

What an every-moment daily challenge for those who are mindful,
For who would be content to endure, in harmonious simplicity,
To not be drug by the senses, back into the human melee,
And the "me, myself, and I" illusion-delusion of it all.

97

How free any given newborn.
Pure awareness, untouched, untrammelled,
By all the past events or future concerns, all the burdens,
All the baggage they will one day inevitably carry in dreamtime's passing.

* * * *

For those fully imbibing the stillness before time, there is a return to wonder.
From the source within, from oblivion's rainbow, the song of awareness.

* * * *

To wander alone, anonymous, in a crowd of strangers,
No need for the politics of recognition.
Eternal witness,
As serene as a placid stream.

* * * *

Be the totality of awareness.
The only way out is within.

* * * *

A temporary guise, an ephemeral story,
That you are not, never were, will never be.

* * * *

Unrelenting and wretched absurdity,
Each and every moment across the board.
If there were some sort of supreme being out there,
Would it really be any wonder that it long ago abandoned us,
To our own implacably, absurdly irrational design.

* * * *

Why would any supreme being ever need to waste time judging you,
Or instigate any more anxiety than you do upon your Self,
And all the others you do so earnestly condemn,
On a daily basis, to one hell or another.

98

What bother to even for a moment care what others think of you.

* * * *

From the beginning of time's invention,
Deities have been concocted in every geography,
To moderate the mind's dread of its inherent emptiness.
Humankind has distracted itself with every imaginable diversion,
And still the abyss of oblivion yawns forever eternal.

When the mind is still, where is the yearning for continuity?
Where is the notion of duality that harbors passion?
Where is the player, the actor, the identity?
Where is the witness woven of time?
What is there but the awareness of emptiness?
What is there but that birthless-deathless creation of all?

What is there but eternal life, eternal oblivion, eternal redemption?

* * * *

You are only bound by mortal limitations,
While there is identification with the given mind-body.
Awareness is without imaginary attributes.

* * * *

Humankind projects its ceaseless conceit,
Upon an infinite mystery, indifferent to its existence.
What is called death; that state, so many fear, in so many ways,
Is merely evaporation into the impersonal reality,
The oblivion of the ultimate nature.

* * * *

Complete and utter stillness,
Is the serenity in which all things small to great,
Play out their personal dreams in an infinite, indivisible, holographic matrix.
A universe in which creator and creation are one in the same.

* * * *

God as projected by the dogmatic mind is patently, woefully absurd.
That which is eternally omnipotent, omnipresent, omniscient,
Cannot be confined in any way, any shape, any form.
The mystery is ever unknown, ever insoluble.
All assertions are but vain speculation and hearsay.

100

Imagine, if from your beginning,
You were among a modest, wise people,
Who clearly imparted that You were the mystery.
That You were the epicenter of your individual universe.
A guardian of this garden, and that the entire universe about You,
Was filled with teachers, each valued for their gift, whatever it might be.
And that You were also one of their teachers, likewise valued, likewise ordained.
Imagine that You were brought up with the certainty, that each and every fellow life form,
From the very smallest to the very largest, are all kin in the highest sense,
And that You are a solitary witness to the eternal song of mystery,
Never to doubt, even once, that You are truly of the One.

* * * *

We are all of the same awareness,
Etched by the diversity of consciousness,
Into untold assumptions of self-absorbed pretense.
It is only at the source that you will discern,

The vast, indivisible commonality.
There truly is no other.
Thou art God.

* * * *

It appears that You are ensnared for yet another day,
In this mortal scaffold, so profoundly temporal.
Yet, You are not a body, You are not a mind.
You are not, have never been, nor will ever be,
Bound by any manifest container, that any creation,
No matter how inexplicable, has ever, or can ever, muster.

* * * *

You are that which is brick and mortar, to all spaces, to all times.
That which is witness to every dimension, to every dream.
That which is awake, even during the deepest sleep.
That which is asleep, in even the most alert vigil.
That which is the tiniest, infinitesimal point.
That which is the most infinite expanse.
That which none can either claim to be,
Nor feign, except in delusion, not to be.
That which is, ever was, and will ever be.
That which is not, never was, and will never be.
The quantum matrix, prior to all imaginings born of mind.
The eternal nature, prior to all attributes formed of consciousness.
Indivisible, unblemished, singular, supreme, sovereign, absolute, without peer.

101

Prior to imagination ... awareness ... motionless, absolute, unconfined.

* * * *

The harvest of a free mind is awareness:
The complete and utter stillness of oblivion.

* * * *

Freedom is within each and every moment,
You are simple enough to simply be.
To clearly discern true Self,
Merely set aside vanity, become very still,
And soully be the unvarnished, unblemished awareness.
The awareness, the upwelling, that is, has always been, and will ever be.

102

Would that this simple insight about truth were not such an uncommon commodity.
That it was an every-moment-every-man-woman-and-child awareness.
Something discerned at the marrow of each and every one,
Without any conflict, any confusion, whatsoever.

* * * *

There is ever a push and pull between the absurd and the profound.
Between the churning and crashing of the waves,
And the oblivion of the depths.

* * * *

Every moment a new dreaming.
You are the awareness.
Stream on.

* * * *

In what field of gold can you ever truly harbor,
But the awareness, you have within always been.

104

The deity moving about as a concept in the mind, is not the mystery You are.
Every breath in, every breath out, is of the entire universe.
There is really nothing that is not You.

* * * *

Eternal life is an enigma;
The myriad answers to which,
Are forever confined to speculation.

* * * *

Just how present can you really be,
But through the complete and utter stillness,
Of the pure, ever-streaming awareness.
Eternal life is as simple as it gets.

105

Birth and death cycle about throughout your existence.
And You, playing out your meager little part,
Witness to every sensory moment,
Of the dreamtime it is.

* * * *

The quantum nature,

Can only pretend to exist,
In a reverie of consciousness.
What is the creator but the creation.

* * * *

All the many things past,
As well as whatever is unfolding now,
Are long done and forever gone in the sands of time.
And but for the innumerable traces along any given neuron highway,
Did they ever even really happen?

106

Every streaming moment within the awareness of every form, ever the same timeless oneness.
Not an easy truth, not an easy reality; not easy in any way, to wrap ye old gray matter around.

* * * *

Guess you will just never know.

* * * *

Only you, in pure, unsullied awareness,
Can cast your Self free of all constraints.

* * * *

Nothingness is the only thing-less that touches you, the only thing-less you are.

* * * *

What is life for the pessimist but brief moments of serenity between great bouts of irritability.

107

What can you possibly know,
Beyond the confines of imagination?
All beliefs, all speculations, are meaningless.

108

If you must have a religion,
What better than tranquil wanders in nature;
The most heavenly ever-present church creation could offer.
Misspent as it is, what remains, is still the one and only Gaia You will ever imagine.
And what attachment can You really have to this temporal garden creation?
All it is, all it has been, all it will be, is but an ephemeral dreamscape,
In the vast cosmic dust storm in which You are all and none.

* * * *

As significant as humankind might believe itself to be,
What can indeed matter on the cosmic scale,
When nothing is as nothing does.
A major cataclysm in this tiny corner,
Does not even register as a trifle to a smidgen,
To the supreme totality, the greatest story never known.

* * * *

Within the ocean, an infinity of droplets.
Within every mind, the infinity of the ocean.

* * * *

Words come to many who clearly discern the truth of this mystery.
There is no possession, there is no ownership of the song of mystery.
Nothing about which to manifest the unending mayhem of dogma.

109

The longing for oblivion runs silent, runs deep.

* * * *

Awareness is eternity's teflon.

110

Born to see it clearly or not, born to realize it beyond doubt or not,
Rest assured, rest content, rest absolute, in the good news,
That You are it, have ever been it, will ever be it.

* * * *

Every school of thought, every experience gleaned;
Yet another filter through which to witness,
The mystery of the unknown.
The matrix, now.

* * * *

The abyss is the ultimate freedom.
Give over to it as often as you dare.

* * * *

What is the tabula rasa of a newborn,
But complete vulnerability to all potentials.
As freely absolute as dreamtime allows.

111

Any container by its nature must play out its limited role,
In whatever way the matrix of the moment has in play.

* * * *

You are the nothingness of everything, and the everything of nothingness.

112

What hollow, insufferable, absurd idolatry has been fomented,
In hearts and minds in all geographies in every epoch.
Discern and embrace the inescapable infinity,
In which You are both part and whole.

* * * *

To see the simple truth of eternity's ultimate grace,
As clearly as momentary awareness allows,
Is to become inwardly, very, very still,
A shave, just a shave, mind you,
More than death its Self.

* * * *

All minds are sooner or later lost.
From oblivion and back again,
An inevitable, irrevocable fact.
You were long before any sun.

* * * *

Only you care or not,
And at best for only for a brief while,
In the great infinity of the oblivion, You ultimately are.

113

No matter where you may be in this vast mystery of creation,
No matter how many ways you find to distract your Self,
You are ultimately and forever alone all the while.

* * * *

If you are bound up in the hell your own creation,
You may well be your own judge and jury;
Perhaps far more harsh with yourself,

Than any other would likely be.
Forgiveness begins within.

* * * *

Only in utter stillness,
Can the You that is really You,
Be free of the you that is not really You.

* * * *

That from which all existence emanates,
Will ever be an unknowable, enigmatic whodunit;
Far too vast to be constrained or explained by any creation.

114

Despite all the countless flurries of imagination,
Playing out in every nook, every cranny of consciousness,
There is really nowhere to be, nowhere to go,
But right here, right now.

* * * *

Seal off the senses like a sovereign would castle walls,
Like a martial artist would five opponents,
Untouched, timeless, free, absolute,
A bubble unto thy Self.

* * * *

You never know what the Fates have in store.
Best be ready for anything dreamtime allows.

* * * *

If you really get down to brass tacks,
Real religion, if such a thing is even necessary,
Must surely be a moment-to-moment state of mindfulness.

* * * *

An absolute wellspring of irony, of paradox, of doubt, of absurdity;
Is what You must be, to wantonly, to brazenly, to fearlessly, to recklessly,
Peer prior to the sensory mind, behind the imaginary veil, of this vaporous Oz.

115

Come and gone in the momentary twinkle of every eye,
A universe simultaneously created and destroyed,
In the fleeting dreamtime of imagination.

* * * *

How absurd it is to believe anything,
When the present moment,
Is all there really is,
And its essential nature,
Has absolutely nothing to do,
With any belief system, whatsoever.

116

When you are fully absorbed by that which is prior to consciousness,
All concern for the play of time and space is swallowed up,
By the everlasting nature, the one without second,
Known by myriad names, but truly known,
By only those indeed most rare.

* * * *

The immediacy of the ever-present now is just too impossible,
For most minds born of time and space to comprehend,
So they steadfastly adhere to whatever existence,
They are fated by dreamtime to perceive.

* * * *

Your immortality is the streaming now.

* * * *

Instinct is the foundation,
Upon which consciousness is birthed,
Yet the jeweled crest of awareness is for few to discern.
Wisdom is the untainted journey of mystery,
A path to which many are called,
But few are chosen.

117

Forget what your eyes have seen,
Your ears have heard, your nose has smelled,
Your tongue has tasted, your hands and body have felt.
Forget everything the indivisible weavings of earth, water, air, and fire,
Have ever concocted in this temporary mortal container.
Allow the mind to become utterly still,
Timelessly present, completely anonymous.
You will, in those moments of absolute awareness,
Be what you truly are, have always been, and will ever be.

* * * *

The mystery you seek is within and without;
Pure, simple, free, perfect, absolute, supreme.

118

Death is really nothing more,
Than another ephemeral worldview,
With all the assumptions of mind and body,
Dissipating back into oblivion.

119

What need for any belief system, any dogma, any speculation, any meme,
Once you discern the awareness permeating all things small to great.

* * * *

You have seen reflections of it.
You have seen photographs and drawings of it.
But you have never, and will never, see your face the way others see it.
Behind the given mask, we are all the same mystery.

120

Why should sanction from any other be at all needed,
When simply being the ephemeral singularity,
From which all manifestation springs,
Is surely completeness in its Self.

* * * *

Mystery is not in the way You think.

* * * *

No matter how badly anyone wants it to,
Nothing ever stays the same even for one moment.
Even the hardest rock is moving in its own imperceptible way.

121

To the greatest questions: Who? What? Where? When? Why? How?,
There can ultimately be no answers more than speculation.
Agnostic |ag' năstik| noun: a person who believes,

That nothing is known or can be known,
Of the existence or nature of God,
Or of anything beyond material phenomena;
A person who claims neither faith nor disbelief in God.

* * * *

What is the body, the world, the universe,
But a temporal infringement of agony and ecstasy,
An intrusion of mortality's ephemeral nature,
A distraction from what You truly are.

* * * *

DNA suffers no ethical dilemmas, no moral quagmires.
Its only mindless concern is its genetic survival and continuity.
In that quest, no course of action endures any reflection, whatsoever.
“The end justifies any means” is its only true law, its only abiding directive.
Anyone living is only here now, because of every possible permutation imaginable,
Since the mystery of existence came into being, in the puddle of some long ago.

122

Other than one contrived, arbitrary, vain notion or another,
How can there be any separation, between creator and creation?
You are it, and it is You, in each and every form imaginable,
And everything formless, through which all are bent.

* * * *

So many rushing inanely through the mists of time,
Rarely paying attention to the passing moment,
What kind of meaningful existence is that?
Pay attention while You can, Pilgrim,
You will not pass this way again.

* * * *

Individuality is the ruse of imagination,
Inspired by the lie of the senses.
You are the absolute total functioning,
Prior to the limited scope of time and space.

* * * *

What is now current will someday be considered ancient.
The flesh and bones of that to which we are all so attached,
Are already long since dissolved in the wafting sands of time.

* * * *

The ever-morphing universe, every moment,

Appears and disappears before the mind-body receptors.
What is existence but a few breaths, an assortment of experiences,
A succession of conversations, a collection of minutiae,
And the vaporous perception of relativity.

123

Discern your own law, and then keep it to your Self,
To avoid others fabricating some new silliness,
Likely just as dogmatic as all the rest.

* * * *

A snowflake of stardust.

124

Vanity's only destiny is a brief echo in the abyss of oblivion.

* * * *

No place to anchor in the nothingness of pure awareness.

126

Like groups with like; only differences apart.
Instinctual or imagined, it is the nature of all small to great,
Born of this garden world, this theater, this mysterious dream of time and space,
In which enigmas of every variety, rise and fall,
In ephemeral grace.

* * * *

Those who speak do not know.
Those who know do not speak.
The great silence stills tongues.

* * * *

No one can ever know the future.
Every single moment unfolds seamlessly,
In its own profoundly, inexplicably synergistic way.

* * * *

It is all nothing,
And therein resides the meaning:
Infinitesimal, indiscernible, insignificant, immeasurable.

* * * *

Everything between You and Me,
Everything between this and that, and that and this,
Is completely relative in the manifest, time-bound, comparative sense.
But from the essential, ultimate, absolute perspective,
It is all seamlessly indivisible.

127

The eternal mind is simply paying very close, very still attention, to the passing moment.
Simply being present, without fanfare or dogma, without pretext or assertion.
Letting it all come, letting it all go, no vain notions, whatsoever.

* * * *

The sciences, however astute,
Must ever only flail at the windmills,
Of the unknown that permeates all creation.

* * * *

The elements can confound all,
But the most astute, in so many ways,
And even the most sensible, must be en garde,
For the chaos they can in any given moment encounter.

* * * *

Every day it becomes a tad more apparent,
What you are not, have never been, will never be.
What to do when the edifice dissolves entirely,
And the eternal witness is all that remains.

* * * *

Stories within stories within stories,
Woven seamlessly, effortlessly, timelessly,
In imagination's onetime production.

* * * *

The church of awareness is in every moment of every day.
To attend only one sunrise-sunset a week, misses out on the other six.
And that is just in one week, of just one year, of just one life.
And do not forget about all the starry-starry nights.

129

Truth is not something that can be attained,
In any imaginable way or shape or form.

It is merely source to the ever-fleeting,
Ever-mysterious, ever-indivisible moment.

* * * *

If you wish to know that which is truly god,
Then observe within very closely,
Until you clearly perceive that the awareness,
Is the indivisible source, to which all are seamless witness.
Neither yours, nor mine, nor anyone else's; immortal You, all the same.

* * * *

Other than in its human form, nature has no individuality, no character, no ego.
The human paradigm is but a happenstance-happenstance of this beyond-all-pales mystery theater,
Evolved absolutely, by the creative dynamic of quantum, witnessed by awareness.
Intentional or not, here our kind is, doing what vanity does,
In its mixed bag of mindful and mindless.

130

What pathless is there to heaven,
But through the eternal within.

* * * *

That which is ever-changing is not eternal.
That which is eternal is not ever-changing.

131

We are all merely monkeys here, an entire planet covered with monkeys.
Jesus was a monkey, and so were Buddha, Muhammad, Lao Tzu, and Nietzsche.
Your father and mother are monkeys, and your brothers, your sisters, your grandparents,
And your uncles and aunts and cousins and friends and acquaintances and strangers and enemies,
And even you, are all just two-legged tree-swingers, who one day climbed down,
And wandered out into the plains, and across the pale blue dot.

* * * *

The heart of awareness has nothing to do with romantic notion.

* * * *

You are not your body, your mind, your relationships, your things.
You are not your likes and dislikes, nor the perceptions of all your memories.
You are not your world, you are not your universe, you are not anything under any sun.
You are naught but the awareness of totality, witnessing a magical mystery tour of quantum design.

133

Individuality is a delusion, fabricated by consciousness, locked within a sensory dream.
Across the infinity of all dimensions, all creation shares the same Soul.
All are but shards of the indivisibly unfathomable.

* * * *

There is no separation in the awareness,
But through the play of consciousness,
And all its sensory-based differences.

134

The sensory reverie draws the infant,
From the benign womb of beingness,
To a universe of incessant becoming.
Eternity is given over to imagination.

* * * *

The mystery of existence,
A few breaths, a few heartbeats,
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

Your world, your universe, expands in consciousness,
Until you at long last, realize fully, that it never really existed,
As anything more than an indivisible, ephemeral dream,
To which eternal awareness, is sovereign witness.

* * * *

This timeless, very present moment,
Is all that is, all that has ever been, all that will ever be,
Since long before imagination first began, to well after it last comes undone.

135

Would that there were a supreme being that you could slap,
Or at least pull a nose hair as you are sneezed back into hell.

136

The grace of this unknowable mystery is within all small to great,
Discerned fully by the few granted the vision and insight,
And the inclination to peer eye wide open within.

* * * *

All paltry and meaningless; the idolatry of the Golden Calf.
To trade the treasure of Creation for a few gold coins.
What ignorance the many vanities hath wrought.

* * * *

It is all surface sheen to the underlying formless,
An opportunity to peek from behind the veil,
For brief moments dreamed in time.

* * * *

Yet another weary moment flowers,
Through the endless projection of vanity.

137

The senses are ripples away from the awareness where You abide.
The eyes, the ears, the tongue, the nose, the flesh, all feeding into the mind;
How can they ever be the one and only You, but through attachment to assumptions?
How can they ever be more than distant devices, to be witnessed however nature-nurture allows?

138

It is not through words that reality is discerned.
Concepts are but the winds of sound blowing this way and that,
The awareness you are, utterly still throughout.
For that which you truly are,
There is no name.

* * * *

The expanses of imagination,
Are but the ephemeral filament,
Of the thunder perfect mind.

* * * *

What is consciousness,
But the dynamic of imagination,
Playing itself out in the ground of eternity.

* * * *

Avoid the turbulence inspired by the worship of Mammon,
If you might wish to live out a relatively tranquil existence.

139

What is ever new, but the ever-present You, under the ever-present sun.

* * * *

Awareness is all.

140

It is consciousness that steepes in passion and fear.
Awareness is incapable of knowing any difference.

* * * *

There is really only this ephemeral nowness,
Envisioned in the mind via the senses,
Filtered into your version of an imagined universe,
The mirage through which you daily wander your dream of time.

141

Why do some so shudder at the thought of death?
Perhaps because they have never discerned it ever hovering,
Each and every within-and-without moment,
In each and every breath.

* * * *

It is only consciousness that is harbor,
To all the agonies and ecstasies of passion.
The eternal awareness is neither here nor there.

142

Universes come and go; quantum abides eternal.

* * * *

It is all just imagination's attachment to this or that.
A sensory dream in the matrix of eternity.
You are untainted awareness,
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.
Just putting in your time in whatever way the dream calls.

143

Even other dimensions viewed through different eyes,
Will not change the essential nature of all creation.
There is only one source, no matter the mooring.
It may have faces and places beyond counting,
But the underlying nature is ever the same.

* * * *

Ponder the eternal enigma you ever are.

* * * *

In just one ephemeral moment, death rubs out an entire existence,
All its imaginary perceptions, completely undone for all eternity.
And all your power, all your fame, all your fortune, all your belief,
Cannot even one moment more, command, influence, acquire, or hope.

144

The burden of traditions across this magical garden,
Muddy the unfolding now with every sort of dualistic notion.
How can everyone be free to discern the greatest vision,
With so much hollow dogma weighing them down?
Only the rare have the courage to stand alone.

* * * *

Indelible awareness.

* * * *

It is whatever you think it is.
It is not anything you think it is.
All just pretend, all just make-believe,
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.
Nothing, even a moment ago, ever happened.
Everything is devised of time-bound imagination.
You were not, you are not, you need not care.

* * * *

So much of everything within any given cosmos.
Nothing new, nothing old, everything the same, nothing the same.
On and on, the unknowable conundrum churns, ever creating, preserving, destroying.
The timeless in every mind's eye, witness to a kaleidoscoping sensory mirage.
The awareness has awakened in so many dreams, in so many universes,
In so many paroxysms, in so many reflections of consciousness.
To the eternal, in which all small to great equally abide.
You are it, it is You, there is ultimately no other.

The truth of it, is, that not even one atom,
 Across an entire cosmos indivisibly full of them,
 Can for even one iota of an eternal moment, still itself.
 And yet, the awareness within and without its ever-churning all,
 Has never once, across all time and space, even stirred.

* * * *

Do faces shape the minds, or minds, the faces?
 The winds of time sculpt in many ways,
 And are by their many creations,
 Blown many directions.

* * * *

The past becomes longer, deeper, fuller,
 And the unfolding future ever more expansive.
 That is, if You continue bothering to imagine it all real.
 It takes a good deal of effortlessness to be right here, right now.

* * * *

For what, exactly, are you hoping?
 Power? Fame? Fortune? Security? ... Immortality?
 You already have so much: sentience, health, food, water, air, space, time.
 As austere as it may well sound, things so often taken for granted, are truly the greatest treasure.
 After all, You only dream this manifest play for as long as mortal destiny allows.
 Try not to squander the temporal window of beingness too lightly.

Only minds shackled to time and space, require meaning and purpose.
 The sage wanders freely in the quietude of eternal awareness.
 All meaning and purpose evaporates when you do.

* * * *

Consciousness is the cacophony of nothingness.

* * * *

If you are not privy the source of this vast mystery, how can anyone else be?
 An agnostic stance is the middle way, between the true believers of any assertion.

Each and every instant, across all infinity's inexplicable indivisibility,
 Seamlessly, timelessly, irrevocably blending into the next,

From rise and bloom, to decline and demise.
And it is all You, forever one.

* * * *

All dualistic notions are the hoax of consciousness,
Ever enticed by the kaleidoscoping play of the senses and mind.
You are this ephemeral, eternal, nonexistent moment,
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but,
No matter the fabrication.

* * * *

The nothingness of everything, awakens to another day.

148

Pretending to know something you can never know, now there's the rub.

* * * *

What creation can withstand its inevitable destruction.

* * * *

In the ocean of metaphors, awareness abides indivisible.

149

This ever-streaming moment, is all You truly are, have ever been, or will ever be.
How can any thought, any experience, any passion, any notion, whatsoever,
Cleave to that which is flawlessly perfect prior to all that is imagined?

* * * *

Those who long for a serene existence, set aside their many passions,
And surrender to the awareness, in which all creation is harbored.

* * * *

How can anyone know that which is oblivion,
When nothing must be present to witness it?

* * * *

You are not apart from god, you are a part of god.

150

It has always been the same eternity, through which all dreams have streamed.

* * * *

Relish the aloneness of the eternity within.

151

How curious that those who spend their existence in scholarship,
Are never able to entirely examine all the knowledge,
The mystery ever-entices them to create.

* * * *

The first step in any religion, is fabricating a supreme being,
And the second, is dwelling in fear of its imaginary shadow.

* * * *

Reality is ceaseless and carefree, indivisible and inexplicable.
Only imagination ebbs and flows, starts and stops.
In reality, you are the You that You are,
Not the you that you imagine.
The soul of mystery exists, not in time,
But in the timeless nowness of eternal beingness.
To achieve full potential as human being, be a human ... being.

152

What are we but portions of quanta, playing out a three-dimensional theater,
Immortal at the essential level, yet mortal in whatever form played.
Birth, death, and the life between, are but an illusory dream.
In the ultimate eternal reality, prior to all creation,
There is no existence, there is no other, there is only You.

* * * *

Everyone, everything, and all the nothingness,
Within, between, beyond, during, before, after, forever and a day,
Is the You that is Me, the Me that is You.
So simple,
As to make anything else meaningless.

* * * *

The awareness is the ever-present witness.
The observer and the observed are indivisibly one.
It is only in imagination that dualistic notion finds lodging.
Consciousness, no matter how profound or creative,
Can never be anything more than imaginary.

* * * *

We are all of the same mystery, the same awareness,
But the character, the personality, the identity,
Wears the cloak of whatever illusory dream,
The given nature-nurture has spawned.
Nothing about which to be inflated, really.

153

There is only this infinitesimal, ethereal moment,
Untainted by any creation consciousness, heart or mind, has ever invoked.
And you are it, and it is you, pure and simple, free.
There is nothing more.

* * * *

What need for anything,
When everything blows to and fro,
From here to there, there to here, and back again,
In the ever-changing, vagrant dreaming,
Of the ever-unfolding now.

* * * *

To believe the awareness is yours or anyone else's,
Is a misguided assumption, without any validity, whatsoever.
A complete misapprehension of the essential commonality of all creation.

154

It is all You,
Terribly, wonderfully, absolutely alone,
A vast stillness without measure, without rhyme or reason, without cause or effect,
Without purpose or meaning, without beginning or end,
What else would any mystery be?

* * * *

What is it to be born again,
But to be the awareness of a newborn.
As still and silent and attentively timeless as the cosmos,
From whence all phenomena small to great have been immaculately woven.

155

It is only in human consciousness,
That the disharmony of dualistic notion takes place.
In whatever way you might observe this infinite, indivisible matrix of a dream,

Whether physics or chemistry or biology, everything is connected,
Without any separation, any otherness, whatsoever.

* * * *

You were never really born,
You have never existed,
You have no future,
You have no past.
You are the I in I,
The Am in Am,
The That in That.
You are That I Am.
The Truth, the Life, the Way.
Awareness, pure, simple, eternally free.

156

The body is merely a means for the eternal quantum nature,
To experience mortality for a relatively brief while.
All patterning is but a temporary disguise.

* * * *

Whatever the source of the mystery, You are also.
How could You not be?

* * * *

What conclusion can there ever possibly be,
To a mystery capable of dreaming,
Without beginning or end?

* * * *

Agony and ecstasy are only as near,
As the attachment to the body.
Are you your best friend,
Or worst enemy?
You decide,
Every moment.

* * * *

Once upon a time, it all seemed as real as real could be,
And then, the one and only reality, awakened your eternal mind.
It is a solitary, less traveled, winding yellow brick road,
Down which many are called, and few inclined.

* * * *

The awareness that transpires in this eternal now,

Is indifferent to this temporal theater born of time and space.
So, the good news, really, is that it can all be considered absolute bullshit.

157

You really do not know anything, and no one else does, either.
There is no need to be afraid; there is no need to worship false idols.
There is no need to make some meaningless, absurd, bad-theater game of it.
Wonder, ponder, speculate all you please, do with your existence whatever you will;
But the source that you and all things are, is an insoluble enigma,
In which merely being here now, fearless and free,
Is, indeed, more than enough.

* * * *

Mystery may splinter into an infinity of shards,
But in each and every one, the ultimate singularity is absolute.
Only in consciousness can duality be conceived,
And the many delusions of illusion,
Play their wayward daze.

* * * *

What an amazing dream,
All that food and drink,
Has this moment created.
Even an ocean of absurdity,
Cannot undo the mystery of it all.

158

The infinite ocean of totality, is in no way, no shape, no form,
Interested or concerned or involved, with any illusory fabrication of consciousness.
It is solitary witness, within and without, all phenomena small to great,
But untouched by any dream bound to space and time.

* * * *

True science is not a religion.
It is a quality of mind solely intent on rational,
Dispassionate, impersonal, accurate, lucid, measurable observation,
To whatever conclusion the quest for truth may bring.

* * * *

Every day you wake up and wander out into the dreamscape,
And pretend along with everyone else,
Knowing all the while,
That none of it is, was, or will ever be, real.

* * * *

Why would you ever choose to be an adherent of any doctrine, whatsoever,
When you can just naturally be your eternal Self, as free as you dare to be.

160

All moments in this inexplicable theater, are instantaneously come and gone.
Why waste the here and now pondering things already over and done;
All of them no more than the filament of imaginary perception.
Or feel unhinging trepidation, over unknowable futures,
That must manifest, before they can be faced.

161

Smaller and smaller, infinitesimally smaller; or larger and larger, infinitely larger.
How can there ever be any end, any finale to this intractable mystery?
Be still, and know that which is all, that which is none.

* * * *

You are the ethereal moment,
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.
To seek more, is to settle for less.

* * * *

The only solution for times ahead,
Will be the same, as it has always been;
To muddle on, as the given moment unfolds.

* * * *

Imagination is, within the vastness of awareness,
Both least and greatest common denominator.

162

How can awareness be thought to have either beginning or end,
When its momentary nature, is so ever-present, as to be unequivocally eternal.
Consciousness, however, is an entirely different bag of worms.
For all practical purposes, it is unable to hold still,
And is insatiably able and willing,
To distract itself and over and over,
With every antic it can possibly conceive.

* * * *

The activist sees the mystic and calls his way pointless.
The mystic sees the activist and calls his way pointless, as well.
So many ways to point out the pointlessness,
Of the same and only mystery.

* * * *

Truth is the ever-present, timelessly unfolding now.
It is what is, and can never be understood,
By the mind interrupted by time.

* * * *

The world is but a tiny particle, in the infinity of your true beingness.
Discern that what you truly are, and are not, is prior to and well beyond,
The farthest reaches, up into which your temporal eyes, every evening gaze.

* * * *

Consciousness will never do more, than speculate on how this mystery came to be.
All anyone can ever do, is be in the moment, however it is playing out.
Time is born of mind; it is nothing more than imagination.
You were not, you are not, you need not care.

163

Awareness, from cradle to grave, ever the same.

* * * *

In awareness, all potentials reside.

* * * *

So much done;
So little all the while.
The nothingness is like that.

* * * *

The truest mystery is without solution.

* * * *

Be content.
Die with a full breath,
Each and every moment possible.
It is, indeed, the most real, the most true state,
At the core of indisputable You.

164

Awareness beckons You awaken others, as it has been awakened in You.
Pass this on freely, without dogma, to those who are inclined,
And be cordial and kind and tolerant and open,
As much as forbearance allows,
Toward the many sleepers who are not.

* * * *

Why waste time in regret?
There are probably relatively few,
Who would not do many things differently.
But it is through everything you have ever experienced,
However intentional or unintentional,
That You are here now.

* * * *

Through the patterning,
The blueprint of the given seed,
The essential, indivisible nature of mystery,
Molds itself into every form.

* * * *

Totality, so infinite, so alone.

* * * *

It is really all the eternal now,
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.
Yet still you manage to awaken each and every day,
Believing your dream real and true.

165

True aimless wandering, is the art of surrendering to the unfolding moment.

* * * *

You are a portal to the infinity of totality.

166

When there is no attachment to anything,
You are every moment born anew.
You need not be burdened,
By the yoke of time.

167

Earth is earth, wind is wind, water is water, fire is fire.
Once you, without doubt, without equivocation, fully understand this,
And that these forces interact in every way imaginable,
And that you are eternal witness to it all,
What else is there to know?

* * * *

You go, infinity.

* * * *

In every moment,
A new opportunity to discern,
The mystery streaming indivisibly within.

168

It is the dust of stars and shit of dinosaurs, that has allowed You,
The vision and insight to consciously bear witness,
To this infinite mystery of a universe,
A creation entirely born,
Of your own imaginary design.

* * * *

In your mind, all creation.
You are the one.
As are all.

* * * *

Discern Mother Gaia,
Within the home eternity built,
And carry her within, carry her without,
Each and every moment of your brief mortal play.

169

Why would anyone ever imagine a deity,
That did not include them, everyone they know,
Or absolutely everyone and everything else,
In which creation obviously abounds?

* * * *

Indifferent to agony or ecstasy,
Rest easy in the moment of origin,
From which both ascend into beingness.

* * * *

Now is the filament of quantum grace.

* * * *

Anxiety is an unpleasant state of anticipation,
Which transmutes into a predictable loop,
Playing dread of the unknown over and over,
Until the obnoxious moment has waxed and waned,
And the next all-too-predictable trepidation steps up to bat.

171

Be it long or short, smooth or rutted, all philosophizing eventually circles back to You.
Ever the same mysterious awareness, ever unknown, without beginning, without ending.
You are it, it is You, and all your profound speculations mean absolutely diddly-squat.

* * * *

It is not the real, indivisible, sovereign, infinite You,
Who experiences the agonies and ecstasies of mortal existence,
But the movement, the stream of consciousness,
So attached to this or that.

* * * *

There is most definitely an omnipotent,
Omnipresent, omniscient god,
If you wish to call it that.
A state both infinite and finite,
Of which you are a sparkle of awareness,
A witness to the mystery of your most eternal origin.

* * * *

This world is your birthing ground, this world is your burial ground.
From dust to dust, and dust granted consciousness between.
The source is equal ground for all; eternal, absolute.

172

So many seeking meaning and purpose, without ever questioning the assumption.
The mind's never-ending quest for significance, for justification,
Is merely an absurd perception of self-importance.
Absolutely unwarranted and meaningless.
A stupor that keeps one from seeing,
The incomprehensible, for what it truly is.

* * * *

There is only this singular, ever-present, timeless, quantum instant,
Which can always be counted on, to be inexplicably unknowable.

173

From the quantum dust of eternity, You take form,
And through the senses, a universe is imagined.

* * * *

Awareness is the moment, ever serene.
Consciousness starts, sticks, stops,
And confabulates without end.

* * * *

What do you want from existence?
This is it, this is all there is, right here, right now.
What else could it possibly be?

* * * *

The true voice is in all small to great.
To discern it, one must merely, with intention,
Observe prior to the passion, the fear, the false identity,
And surrender courageously, to the sovereignty of the timeless now.

174

The greatest view of the history of all manifestation,
Would be the synthesis of every universe born of conscious design.
It would include a seamless wander through the matrix, through every nook and cranny,
To which the mystery of imagination, is witness in every way possible.
All within the infinite, indivisible, timeless stillness,
Of that source prior to all naming,
That source prior, even,
To that which many call god.

* * * *

What if your core assumptions are all wrong?
Would you be able to recalibrate,
To reconfigure your momentary perceptions?
Or is eccentric, bizarre, absurd delusion, the only trajectory?

* * * *

The given universe kaleidoscopes around the sensory body,
Consciousness ceaselessly fabricating every sort of this or that, or that or this,

But, in reality, the awareness merely witnesses a seamless stream.
Vibration, limited by the perceptions of imagination.

175

Every existence is a unique seed born of the same essence, the same mystery.
All are mortal portals, through which awareness witnesses,
The enigma of its eternal nature.

* * * *

Awareness.
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

All imagination is illusion, samsara, the play of the quantum ether,
Earth ... water ... air ... fire ... in all its countless forms,
All its theaters of consciousness ... across all time, across all space,
In however many dimensions this inexplicable mystery has deigned to create.

176

What is so arduous about realizing the truth,
That the awareness within all, that the witness within all,
Is completely detached, objectively indifferent, benignly disengaged,
To the countless dreamtimes of consciousness, in all its pursuits, in all its passions.
It is the ether, the mysterious spirit of totality; name it if you must.
Duality is but the splintering of imaginary perception.
You are it, it is You, there is no other.

* * * *

If you want world peace, still that busy mind,
And in awareness, take in a few deep breaths.

* * * *

What else do you possibly need,
Once simple awareness,
Is nectar enough?

* * * *

What is infinite?
What is infinitesimal?
And what is not?

177

What words can more than vaguely describe,
That which is prior to consciousness,
That which is prior to perception,
That which is prior to sound,
That which is prior,
To all illusions,
Inspired by the senses.
Be still, be absolute, be totality.
What greater truth can You possibly be?

* * * *

In the grand scheme of consciousness.
It is really not your awareness,
Nor mine, nor his, nor hers, nor its.
All living forms exhibit this sentience,
In whatever way nature and nurture allow.
None are truly greater, nor lesser, to any other.
All are equal players in totality's quantum play within.

178

It has never really been the résumé of experience,
In which any temporal existence has, from birth to grave, danced.
It is the indivisible, holographic matrix of awareness,
In which all creation has ever basked.

* * * *

Infinity is not so far away, really.

* * * *

To move beyond opinion and judgment is to realize,
There is absolutely nothing ultimately right or wrong with anything.
The task is to gaze straight and true at everything: unblinking, unflinching, unconcerned.

179

How else would awareness witness the creation,
But through all its many eyes, ears, tongues, noses, skins,
And whatever other senses this quantum mystery may have concocted.

* * * *

To reach this very indivisible moment,
Has required the synergy of every quantum,
Since creation's much-speculated-about beginning.

* * * *

The only thing sure, the only thing secure,
Is the awareness of the ephemeral now.

* * * *

Humans across this spinning garden,
Have many names for its evolving mystery,
And not even one of them matters at all in the least.

* * * *

Of now and then, it can be said,
Show me the then to which you are referring,
And I will point to the now that just rippled through its marrow.

180

Why worry about heavens or hells,
Or karmic reincarnation?
Now is now,
No matter the who ...
Or what or when or where or why or how.

* * * *

You cannot really know eternal life,
That moment where life and death are not,
Until the mind stills to the nowness of awareness,
Prior to all movement of consciousness.

* * * *

It is through the many reflections of the other,
That any given one awakens to truth.
Who knows how many ways, how many places,
The mystery has awoken to its Self throughout its eternal play.

* * * *

Any universe, or any given supreme deity,
Requires a conscious witness to be baptized real.
Without your myriad desires, your passion for existence,
Without the fuel of incessant pondering, it would all be nothing.
As it is, has ever been, will ever be.

181

Any given seed, any given kernel, any given spore, any given stone, is merely a temporal blueprint,

Through which the omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent, indelible awareness,
Witnesses all creation, all things from small to great,
Playing out their patterning,
As the matrix of manifest time dictates.

* * * *

The only place to arrive, the only place to abide, is right here, right now.
The truth-seeker is, has ever been, will ever be,
That which is sought.

* * * *

Where does awareness begin?
And where can it possibly end?

* * * *

There is nothing to change,
Nothing to criticize, nothing to prove.
You are that which is absolute, and that is enough,
That is perfection in the most ultimate sense.
Everything else is just noise and bother.

* * * *

Is there anyone in this temporal theater,
Who is always happy, or always miserable?
Surely, the mind is far too intemperate a beast,
To maintain any state more than the shortest while,
In the ever-changing milieu of this unchanging mystery.

* * * *

What is all self-image, what is all “me, myself, and I,”
What are all perceptions of birth, of death, and all existence between?
What is everything known, what is everything unknown,
But the endless invention of imagination.

182

You, awareness, a voyeur watching creation thought every eye.

183

Grasping just how alone you truly are,
Is a blow-the-breaker-switches moment.

184

Any given wave is the synergy of many drops,
The currents beyond, and countless more beyond that.
And of the infinite depths, one must alone merge into the totality,
To fathom the immeasurable indivisibility, unfathomable.

* * * *

What a millstone any history, any memory,
To unfurling freely in the unfolding moment.

* * * *

The theater calls you to center stage in an infinity of ways.
We are all just kaleidoscoping mirages of imagination,
Bouncing off each other in every conceivable way.

186

Still looking for some shiny new knick-knack, some exciting new distraction, are we?
More than a little challenging to be unknown inwardly for very long.
Must indeed be very over and done with the world,
To give yourself over to your Self.

* * * *

What is any existence but a thread of ever-kaleidoscoping moments,
Bundled into perceptions, stored in neuron configurations,
All of which, eventually dissolve into the oblivion,
From whence all notions, spring eternal.

* * * *

A breath saturated with awareness,
Is an immeasurably more steadfast companion,
Than those unruly, insubordinate thoughts.
Attentive breathing, is a full embrace,
Of the Self, of the You, You are.

187

You have climbed the mountain,
You have flown to the sun and fallen to the earth,
You have wandered the cosmos, you have witnessed all creation,
And you have discerned clearly the eternal absolute within each and every particle.
So, Pilgrim, what next?

* * * *

To ignore or deny the eternal life of the ever-streaming now,

Is to miss what is, both within and without,
In every moment apparent.

* * * *

How quickly time fades,
Into vague, blurred memories,
Gradually, inevitably, gone forever,
In the vast emptiness of eternity.

* * * *

There is nothing not born of the same mystery,
But the real mystery is how we have made it this far,
How we have survived all our vain foolishness for this long.

188

Just say no to scriptures, dogmas, idolatry, crystal basilicas, dress codes,
All the absurd belief systems born of the conditioned mind.
You are it, it is You, plain and simple, absolute.
The one and only house of mystery,
Is the awareness within,
Sovereign, indivisible, complete.

* * * *

Breathe deep, breathe full.
That is the born again-ness,
Of every eternal moment.

* * * *

The smoke wafts an infinity of dreams.

* * * *

Without a mirror, a photograph, a drawing, or any other reflection or memory,
Describe your face as the awareness sees it from within right now.
Eyes, nose, ears, mouth, chin, hair, teeth, skin, eyebrows,
And what of your neck, shoulders and back?
Cannot do it? Well, why is that?

189

How does it feel to fathom,
That you are just another shuffle,
In the random genetic lottery of eternity?
Do you choose your dance, or merely succumb,
To whatever paradigm the given nature has thrown you?

A speculative venture from the get-go.

* * * *

If this thing we call time really existed, would not you be able to halt it?
Or at least wander to and fro, in the manifest here and there?
As it is, imagination is the only time machine,
And all it has going, is the ethereal filament of perception,
Only as good as the wiring, and only for long as the gray matter holds fast.

190

The matrix is the void filled with You.

* * * *

The you that you every moment believe you are,
Is nothing more than a fabrication of imagination.

* * * *

You are that which is prior to the consciousness,
That contorts into the dream of little self in the frontal lobe.
You are the witness, the awareness, the source,
Through which all dreams dance.

191

Despite the miasma of consciousness, and its ceaseless portfolio of divisiveness,
You are ultimately neither superior nor inferior, to anyone or anything.
All creation is as indivisibly equal, as equal can indivisibly be.
The same indelibly ineffable intelligence resides in all.

* * * *

What is this magical-mystery-tour of a universe, but a vast ecosystem,
Of the, for-all-practical-as-well-as impractical-purposes, infinite kind.

* * * *

Being mindful of the source of consciousness, That which You truly are,
Is not a belief system, nor anything about which to be unbending.
It is simply an experiential awareness of the timeless now,
The observer inherent in all things small to great.

192

Go back, back, back,
To the beginning of existence,

To the awareness prior to the universe,
To the newborn's eternal filled-with-wonder mind,
Before the patterning began sculpting itself,
Into the consciousness, You call you.
Dare again, to be completely,
And unutterably free.

* * * *

Everything is real, nothing is real.
Everything is good, nothing is good.
Everything is special, nothing is special.
Everything is mystery, nothing is mystery.
Everything is sacred, nothing is sacred.
Everything is god, nothing is god.

* * * *

The same magic,
The same mystery,
The same miracle,
The same wonder,
The same source,
Is in everything.

* * * *

There is nothing in which to believe,
Once you realize you are the heart of awareness.
The source of all things small to great; absolutely nothing at all.

193

Your dream will carry on as all dreams do.
Oblivion is the nonexistent destiny of all.

* * * *

Challenging to get a handle,
On a mystery beyond measure.
Too small to see, too large to carry.

* * * *

We honor, commemorate, memorialize, celebrate, venerate,
The death and destruction wrought by war and conflict,
Because we so little appreciate the mystery of life.

194

Now is ever-present.
Wrap your noggin around the actuality,
That everything is in reality, kaleidoscoping simultaneously.

196

Anyone, anywhere, anytime, the awareness you are, is.

198

No superstitious notion has ever, or can ever, even for one moment,
Change, alter, or modify the fundamental laws of physics,
That have been established since time began.
Anyone who pretends otherwise,
Needs to wake up,
And pay closer attention,
To what is going on around them.

* * * *

Intellectual silliness, that is all philosophy is.
A distraction until you are content,
To do nothing but be,
The awareness you truly are.

* * * *

Awareness is an infinite field.
It cannot be contained by any dogma,
Any creed, any belief, any faith, any philosophy,
Any ideology, any principle, any law,
Any thought, whatsoever.

* * * *

If it is not one thing, it will surely be another,
So, you may as well face whatever is coming the best you can,
With whatever resources and gumption, you are in the moment able to command.

199

With every birth small to great, the mystery gets a new set of eyes,
A new reflection, a new paradigm, a new universe,
From which to witness creation.

* * * *

Unless you put aside everything you have been told,

And examine the mystery for your Self,
You will likely just become,
Another meme,
Smugly complacent,
With false gold and delusion.

* * * *

It is not your awareness, my awareness,
Nor any other's awareness.
It is simply awareness,
And all are equally sentient.

200

If you truly realize you are that which is absolute,
Then what need is there to worship or pray,
To kiss your own ass, so to speak?

* * * *

Dimensions are merely different arrangements;
Gradations in the mystery's dream.
Ho-hum, yawn, stretch.
How many layers before You discern,
That totality which is immeasurable, utterly boundless?

* * * *

There is an indescribable, eternal immensity,
In the innermost sanctum, to which you alone have access,
To which words cannot help but be caught, by the limitations of translation,
By the capacity for discernment, of any given listener's ear.

201

The challenge is to discern the passing dream of consciousness,
The here and now, as it is; fresh, without preconception.
To detach the filter of the mind caught in time,
To see reality, not how you think it is,
But clearly, from the stillness of attentiveness,
Without concept, feeling, motive, stereotype, prejudice.
To fathom the mystery of Youness from oblivion's point of view.

* * * *

It is but a dream,
A streaming figment of imagination.
Abandon the quixotic mind and take up permanent residence,

In the sentience and heart of pure awareness.

* * * *

How can anyone not see what is before their very eyes,
But through the intuition of wisdom's eternal future-past.

202

The oceans, sometimes deeper than mountains are high,
Are merely a thin ever-churning facade upon a spinning orb of dust,
Which is but a teeny particle in the vast infinity of a universe,
Which is truly nothing more than a speck in your eye.

* * * *

Now You see it, now You do not.
Where would You be without recollection?
And where, pray tell, will You be when it dissolves?

* * * *

No one can aid anyone else, being truly happy or content.
Each is entirely on their own in discerning that which is eternal,
And it is more than a little unlikely, that anyone can ever truly manage,
The given monkey-mind, unperturbed, every single moment.

203

In a mere blink of eternity, a life,
A figment of imagination, of vain notion,
A flurry of smoke in a gusty wind,
All the pleasure, all the pain,
All the understanding,
All the experience,
Perhaps even wisdom,
So quickly come and gone.

* * * *

So infinite as to be You.
Nobody is not it.
Reset.

* * * *

For You to be here now,
Everything that has happened,
Since time's inception,
Had to happen.

* * * *

Those who would know totality,
Those capable of the greatest vision,
Must get over their imaginary little selves.

* * * *

What is this dreamy existence,
But an immeasurable, indivisible matrix;
A dynamic stillness, ceaselessly creating every patterning,
The essential nature, the source, can fathom.

* * * *

We all have the same monkey-mind,
But for whatever reason, some are able to pull back,
And meticulously examine, the unknown all creation has in common.
It is, indeed, a mystery beyond the pale of any reckoning.

204

There is an awareness, but it cannot be grasped.
There is an absolute, but it cannot be defined.
There is a mystery, but it cannot be solved.
There is a truth, but it cannot be known.

* * * *

No use bothering about or worrying,
That you are going to suffer,
That you are going to die.
Such is existence, and so it goes.
The destiny for all, in one fashion or another.
But the good news is that it will not be the real You dying.
Just another temporal apparition falling beneath,
The wheel of creation and destruction.

* * * *

That which is eternal, that which is by many called God,
Has never really been alive in more than an imaginary, figurative sense.
How can that which can never perish, have ever been born?
All existence is of the same quantum mystery.

* * * *

The body you believe you are, is really already departed in one dumpster or another,
Perhaps abiding in some lackluster purgatory, until the flesh and bones,
Slowly dissolve into the oblivion of the formless origin.
So it goes, deal with it, get over it, move on.

Count yourself among those who do not know, do not care,
 And abide as freely, as harmlessly, as aimlessly,
 As body and mind and spirit allow.
 Be captain of your ship,
 And set sail,
 Through the dream of time.

* * * *

A conceited little theater,
 On a tiny spinning sphere,
 In a mere speck of a universe,
 Floating in the bottommost corner,
 Of an eternal eye, that is but a mirage.

* * * *

Imagination capers about an infinity of its own,
 But just because some fiction can be etched on paper,
 Or thrown up on a movie screen, does not make it possible.
 Even the quantum source, is ultimately bounded by its own nature.
 That is why it is called quantum mechanics.

* * * *

Death only implies an individual existence is all said and done.
 But no life form can ever even know what is done is done,
 Because consciousness requires some sort of edifice,
 Some sort of sensory-awareness receiving unit,
 Able to perceive whatever ethereal dream,
 Those whimsical fates have in store.

From the ordinary day-to-day, all myths, all legends, are fabrications of imagination.
 All creation is very much born of the same quantum mystery.
 Keep the balderdash in perspective.

* * * *

... dust ... creation, preservation, destruction ... dust ...

* * * *

Mystic, seer, hierophant, minister, priest, sanyasi, sage, prophet, priest, vicar,
 Spiritualist, wizard, monk, soothsayer, clairvoyant, prescient, fortuneteller, forecaster, oracle,
 Sorcerer, diviner, sibyl, augur, prognosticator, crystal-gazer, medium, herald, psychic,

Telepathist, mind reader, cleric, preacher, rector, parson, reverend, holy man.
All descriptions of those inquiring into that which is genuine and true;
That mystery which is the ever same, no matter the eye or ear.

207

Human beings are in reality, very much the same as every other life form on this planet.
We may be able to create and preserve and destroy in every imaginable way,
But all sentience is of the same mysterious, ineffable origin.
Absolutely, indivisibly, immeasurably equal,
Despite countless pride-filled,
Self-absorbed claims to the contrary.

* * * *

Rambling thoughts are the patterning of the rutted mind bound in time.
Complete, unattached attention, to the passing moment,
Returns the inner eye, to the tabula rasa,
Of the eternal witness.

208

Everyone is responsible for their own salvation,
Which means learning to surrender to this very moment.
Eternal life is right here, right now, not in some future incarnation,
Or sitting on a wafting cotton ball, taking harp lessons.

* * * *

The writer knows what is being written, but what are you reading?
The speaker knows what is being expressed, but is that what you are hearing?
Everything you see and touch and hear and feel and smell, is but a temporal, arbitrary translation,
Of the subjective nature-nurture mind-body, in which the sentience of awareness harbors.
The witness, before which, creation is filtered through the caprice of imagination;
In which observer is never the observed, and observed, never the observer.
True objectivity is an unattainable ideal, an unreachable brass ring,
Which even science can never more than pretend to attain.

209

You can attempt to run in any and every direction imaginable,
But no matter the way, the shape, the form, in which you are cloaked,
You can never ever, even for one single moment, hide from the witness within.

* * * *

Where does the thou that you think is you begin?

And the me that I think is me end?
'Tis a mystery,
Every moment a spin.

* * * *

Any given universe is but a neurological array,
An indelible mystery, no matter how it is framed.

210

All this self-consciousness, all this self-imagery;
What a burden, to each and every moment, fabricate anew.
A complete and utter invention; an edifice of imaginary proportion.
Let go.

* * * *

Yes, you will forget this, too.
Oblivion is the fate of all.

211

Has any moment of your dream, really ever been any different than this one?

* * * *

This eternal now is no different, than any now has ever been, or will ever be.

212

Now is the eye of the needle, through which consciousness, every moment threads.

* * * *

Nothingness is ever eternal.

* * * *

After the last domino falls, stillness.

213

The nothingness of awareness, fabricating every moment resoundingly clear.

* * * *

No inner, no outer, just you, the infinite oneness.

* * * *

Awareness can only be spoken of, not for.

214

Allow the mind to stream, with the ethereal nature of the ever-changing now.

* * * *

The unreal you, must be bound by your words, for you can know nothing more.

* * * *

Awareness, pure and simple.

* * * *

As a prism with light, insight rainbows the mind into its eternal nature.

215

The death to all things imagined, opens the portal to eternal life.

* * * *

What flaw can there be, in the crescent jewel of awareness?

* * * *

Now, that is freedom.

216

Creation would not be, without the language that gives it name.

* * * *

Look to the mysterious abyss within, and you will discern the You that is all.

217

Nothing done or said, is going to make it any less a mystery.

* * * *

Knowing it all oneness, does not make it any less a jungle.

218

Yet another anonymous face in the mystery of dreamtime.

* * * *

In the infinity of all eyes, there is but one witness.

* * * *

Those who have awakened in awareness, flow.

219

Eternal life is the birth and death of awareness, streaming within every moment.

* * * *

Angel or demon, or whatever between, you are the will of mystery.

220

Humbling to realize how little you really know.

* * * *

There is no now to transcend because that is all it is.

221

And what is freedom, but a mind that rests easy in the unfolding moment.

* * * *

Each of us expresses our true religion in the unfolding moment.

* * * *

How can nothing be said, or not be said, but through complete and utter stillness.

222

In stillness, you are the truth, the life, the way.

223

The theater calls You to center stage in an infinity of guises.

224

The unknown is ever the realm of awareness.

225

If you are looking for future or past, it is not here now.

* * * *

The eye of mystery is within.

* * * *

To be eternally liberated, all you really need, is to truly just want to merely be.

* * * *

What serenity and grace there is, is in the solitude of eternal absoluteness.

226

The brightest star, is just another set piece, on the crest-jewel crown of eternity.

* * * *

Here now, own it.

* * * *

It is all just distraction until you are done; content to allow stillness reign.

227

Busily measuring the indivisibility of oblivion, to what end?

228

Breathe in the duality, and know all divisions are imagined.

229

Truth, momentary as it is, is its own reward.

* * * *

The observer is the observed; the creator, the creation.

Truth is prior to any dualistic notions of creator and creation.

* * * *

All evolution is created; all creations evolve.

There is the imaginary existence of consciousness: worldly, temporal, secular, profane, mundane.

Naught but a brief illusion, a brief collusion, a brief delusion of time and space.

But the real and only You, the real existence, the real eternal life,

Is the indelibly, indivisibly, absolute awareness.

You are the truth, the life, the way.

There is no other.

* * * *

There is only one source, one creation,

And you are but one of its countless manifestations,

Absolutely the same essence, the same gold,

But entirely matchless all the while.

* * * *

True religion is expressed each and every moment.

In deeds are you known; assertions mean nothing.

* * * *

Nature is the quantum mystery's expression.

You are of nature, you are the quantum mystery,

Corrupted as it is, by the whimsies of consciousness.

* * * *

Consciousness confabulates every genre of filter,

Through which it imagines its light show of a universe real,

Every streaming, dreaming, impromptu moment.

How challenging for thinkers across the world, across all time,

To accept the fact that all their insightful philosophies,

Mean squat to the primal force, the source,

From which all creation bursts forth.

* * * *

From the womb of oblivion,

Onto a temporary stage for a brief dream.
Then, back to the eternal source, the timeless nothingness,
The singularity, from which all things spring.

* * * *

You are the eternal nowness prior to all creation.
That which was never born, that which will never perish,
That which is formless, indivisible, absolute, timelessly sentient,
The eternal life, the awareness prior to all beginnings, after all endings.

233

Consciousness plays the genius, the ignorance, the madness, the absurdity,
The loving, the hating, all the myriad passionate vanities.
And all the while, awareness, witness.

* * * *

Consciousness is quicksand.
Awareness, bedrock.

* * * *

The infinity is within.
The infinity is without.
You are it, and it is You.

234

The timeless immediacy of the ever-present nowness,
Has never even once been fathomed by the vagaries of imagination.
Even a still mind completely attentive to the awareness,
Cannot more than be of the flame eternal.

235

Chew your liquids, drink your solids.
It is the replenishment and care of the body and mind,
That allows the witness to this vast mystery,
To tarry within and without.

* * * *

Work, play, experience everything that calls,
Until nothing remains but ever-present awareness,
Indivisible, intangible, indestructible, sovereign, absolute.

Why should you, who would fly into the infinity of the unknown,
Ever be tethered, ever be bound, by the limitations of any other?

* * * *

Yes, indeed, it may sound extremely wacko at first.
But then, the only question becomes, what if it is true?
What if you are that infinite indivisible that others call god?
Eternally alone, immeasurable, indivisible, absolute, supreme.
The challenge, Pilgrim, is not letting it get to your head.

To discern the truth of the reality prior to consciousness,
A determined, persistent, relatively detached,
Moment-to-moment observation,
Is all that is required.

* * * *

Eternal life will not be attained by any container,
Chock-full of an incessant array of vain notions.

* * * *

Who, what, where, when, why, how, am I?
Who, what, where, when, why, how, are you?
Who, what, where, when, why, how, is anyone?
Same source, same awareness, all dreams.
All dreaming themselves autonomous.
All dreaming themselves distinct.
All dreaming themselves real.

* * * *

Agnostic [ag'nästik] noun: a person who believes,
That nothing is known, or can be known,
Of the existence or nature of God,
Or of anything beyond material phenomena;
A person who claims neither faith nor disbelief in God.

* * * *

To carry history in your head, or not to carry history in your head,
Is the conscious choice between the stagnation of memory,
Or the eternal life of moment-to-moment awareness.

Be of such mind, be of such vision, be of such clarity, be of such soul,
That the empty awareness of the grand zero-sum is all that remains.

* * * *

In a relatively few moments,
It will not matter what any of us thought about anything,
Much less each other.

* * * *

An infant's wants, so guilelessly genuine.
Detachment is relatively effortless,
When innocence reigns,
When nothingness blossoms,
From the depths of the unfathomable.

* * * *

There is no other, there is only a dream,
To which you are witness, very much alone,
As free as you, in any given moment, dare.

Heaven is just another word for the oblivion of immaculate awareness.
And hell, well, just look around and endure the wander as best ye may.

* * * *

The void is the void is the void, and, try as hard as you might,
The grand emptiness can never even for a moment be filled.

* * * *

And what is all this experience, really,
But a memory the moment it is dreamt?

* * * *

It is all nothingness, layered with one manifest veneer or another.
The ether of awareness toying with the elements,
Intelligent design, if you will.

If there is a god, a deity, a supreme being, of any sort,
And he/she/it is as vain and arbitrary as you,
Then what, pray tell, is the point?

* * * *

Is not waking up every day, mystery enough,
Without adding a heap of gratuitous folderol?

* * * *

To be in the world, and not be of it.
One foot in dreamtime, the other, oblivion.
Challenging, indeed, to straddle the splintered fence.

242

The song of mystery, an eternal chorus born of time,
With no-one-can-ever-know how many narrations.

243

The nothingness of the ethereal quantum vapor,
Playing out every conceivable size and form,
Every conceivable state of consciousness,
And we, enraptured with all our absurdities.

244

It is entirely your creation.
You are the source, the origin, the genesis,
Of your version, your account, your narrative, of the universe,
And no other can change that.

* * * *

Aligning with any given dogma,
Is more a gymnastic feat than real spiritual inquiry.
A curiously ironic thing, especially since ever-present awareness of the moment,
Requires absolutely no effort, no strife, no belief, whatsoever.
It is as present a present as any present can be.

245

In all its countless imaginary measurements,
The creation of knowledge is inevitably born of limitation.
Yet, prior to all mind-made limits, the mystic observer, a true scientist,
Remains as equally attentive to the immeasurable now, as s/he would any experiment.
The observer is the observed; the observed, the observer.

There is naught but one.

* * * *

What can really be born in the infinity of quantum nothingness,
For which birth, as consciousness imagines it,
Is nothing more than a dream.

* * * *

Awareness, oblivious to the play of good and evil,
Allows every dream of consciousness,
To have its day in the sun.

* * * *

Where would, where could, where should, awareness be,
Without a body-mind in which to imagine its Self real and true?

246

From the now so-long-ago entry into this dream world,
You have been conditioned to believe so many things truly matter,
And have gradually discerned many of them, if not all,
To indeed be very dubious assumptions.
Where to now, Pilgrim,
Now that doubt is your filament?

* * * *

You are the awareness before time.
That which is mystery by whatever sound,
You may choose – or choose not – to ascribe it.

247

All histories are really nothing more than selected snapshots of perception,
Permeated by the unknowable awareness of the seamless indivisibility.

* * * *

You have been every particle, every form,
Earth and water and air and fire have ever concocted.
Imagine it so ... You are the Eternal One.

* * * *

Every moment, within and without,
Is yoga, union, unicity, fusion, samadhi,
If you are giving it close attention.

* * * *

Before the word, there was nothing.
During the word, there is nothing.
And after the word, there will be nothing.
All sounds are but vibrations in any given mind.

248

From the same mysterious source,
The ephemeral dreamtime of all beginnings, all endings,
All causes, all effects, all parts, all stages,
All everything, all nothing.

249

Every moment is born anew.
It is your own choice to imagine space-time real,
Your own choice to be free or not, your own choice to suffer or not.
There is no one, really, compelling you to do anything,
To which you do not willingly capitulate,
For one passion or another.

* * * *

Awareness is only in it for the ride.
For those who see reality,
For what it truly is,
There is neither gain nor loss,
In all the knowledge, all the piles of gold,
Or all of the myriad experiences any given life offers.

250

Your face has never been the same, so why pretend it is?
Why be attached to its ever-changing nature?
Go behind the façade to discover,
The immortality of the true beingness,
The awareness common to all small to great.

* * * *

If you seek angels, there will be angels.
If you follow demons, there will be demons.
It is your heaven, your hell, and purgatory between.
All equal in the ineffable, eternal indivisibility.

No words can describe or contain You.
 All You are, is awareness, now.
 The universe is merely,
 A temporal creation,
 Of the senses and mind.

* * * *

Who is the experiencer,
 When the passing moment,
 Is over as quickly as it began.
 Quantum mischief, indeed.

* * * *

No matter how deeply you delve,
 It ever remains an inexplicable mystery.
 All conclusions are no more than idle speculation.
 It is meaningless to do more than give the passing moment,
 Your complete, unvarnished, constant attention.

Around and within awareness, a food body is created,
 And for a brief duration, it witnesses Self,
 Through a tentative lens,
 Of whatever consciousness,
 The nature-nurture dream allows.

* * * *

We are all abodes of the same moment,
 Despite our seemingly limitless intoxication,
 With every sort of imagined difference.

* * * *

Pray tell, where is this supreme being outside the Self?
 This great creator, this absentee landlord,
 This driver asleep at the wheel,
 That so many are so convinced exists.
 Where art thou, oh noble lord of heaven and earth?
 Do you exist anywhere, but in so many vain plays of imagination?

The real You, is neither past nor future.
You are the eternal presence,
Pure, simple, free.

* * * *

Curious that anyone could ever even for the briefest of moments,
Believe they were somehow distinct from that which created them.

254

Those who are so foolish,
As to believe in all things implausible,
Are not giving full attention to the unfolding creation,
Their own eyes in mind daily reveal.

* * * *

You were born of Mother Earth,
And the immensity from which all reveries are spun,
And one of these daze, she will find a way,
To mill you back into the compost,
With which dreamtime,
Will renew its timeless play.

* * * *

All dreams, all memories, all ideas, eventually evaporate,
Into what they have been all along; the one and only real You.
The timeless awareness, in which all things come and go.
Appear and disappear, like clouds through the sky.

255

There goes imagination again,
Always trying to take credit for everything,
As if its infinity of narcissistic notions, really even exist.

256

The mind as identity is waves crashing.
The mind as awareness is eternally timeless.
Serenity is not born of the cacophony of thought.

257

Every part and particle throughout the entire cosmos, ineffably synchronized,
Spontaneous, impromptu, unplanned, unarranged, unpremeditated, unprepared, unrehearsed,
Extemporaneous, improvised, makeshift, spur-of-the-moment, off-the-cuff,
Ad-libbed, ad hocked, played by ear, on the fly, on cue.
What an amazing beyond-all-pales thing,
This quantum singularity.
And You are it, and it is You, there is no other.

* * * *

Do everything, do nothing,
The illusion of space, the illusion of time,
Ever kaleidoscopes through the same ineffable awareness.

* * * *

The sciences can only peer into the hypothetical-theoretical for so long,
Before it all becomes, for-all-practical-purposes, an unknowable abyss,
Which is the word-filled domain of philosophers and mystics and fools.

* * * *

Considering that you feel all but done, after just one rather fleeting dreamtime of a lifetime,
If there is some sort of supreme deity of an omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent nature,
How beyond-the-pale weary it must be, having to witness the human drama for eons.

258

The nature of knowledge is that it must ever be re-kindled anew,
Or be quickly lost in the ephemerality of Eden's inexplicable enterprise.
Minds fade, clay tablets break, books dissolve, and the digital world,
Is but a flick of a switch away from the black hole of oblivion.

* * * *

We are all kin of the same quantum creation.
We are all born of the same oblivion.
We are all pure awareness.
Even shit is sacred.
Without its golden reality,
Neither flowers nor you would be.

* * * *

What are any of us but a few handfuls of star dust,
Temporarily organized to partake a relatively few breaths,
Until the quantum abyss of oblivion resumes its formless nature.
The only difference between existence and non-existence,
Is in the whimsical narration of the sensory mind.

The same awareness, the same consciousness, permeates every imaginable difference:
 Different bodies, different languages, different times, different spaces,
 In order to play out a very-much-the-same mystery.
 All the universe is a stage,
 And all life forms merely players.

* * * *

Eternal life is right now, wherever You are.
 The only real question is, do You exist as a mere mortal,
 Or as an eye of eternity, a timeless witness,
 To the unfolding mystery.

* * * *

We are all dancing in every way imaginable,
 In the same quantum hologram,
 The infinite matrix,
 Of the inexplicable source.

* * * *

How do you think god witnesses all creation,
 But through your eyes, and the eyes,
 Of all creatures small to great?

* * * *

Since that which You truly are, was never born and never dies,
 Technically, no one can really kill themselves.
 So, suicide is really just about,
 Being done with all the pain and suffering,
 With all the pretense, with all the games, with all the bothers.
 Not everyone wants to be here anymore, and why should that bother anyone else?

From the seed-lines of your parents,
 And all your ancestors since life's beginning,
 You have funneled into awareness.

* * * *

It is ever the same nothingness,
 The same mystery, the same unknown,
 The same quantum-hologram-matrix-ether,
 Into which the given sensors extend their probes,
 And generate universes of every variety and dimension.

* * * *

You can see, hear, taste, smell, and touch,
Everything having to do with the play of consciousness,
But it is awareness – unknowable, indiscernible, indivisible, enigmatic,
Mysterious, impenetrable, inexplicable, inscrutable, incomprehensible, indecipherable –
That is the source, the fountain, the ground, the essence, the witness, of all.

261

Let us idly speculate for a few moments, that God really is a he,
And that he looks something like the Michelangelo Sistine Chapel rendition.
And that Jesus really is the fundamentalist, M-16 toting, bad hair, very vengeful Son of God.
And like Santa Claus, God is keeping a naughty list, and you are near the top of it,
No more than two or three demerits away from eternal damnation.
Who really cares? No, seriously, who cares, really?
Why would anyone even for a moment,
Think of worshipping such a preposterous creator,
Or of idolizing a son, whose testament to the world was so absurd.

* * * *

Who decides what is normal, anyway?
And is what is normal here, normal over there?
And is what is normal now, what was normal back then,
Or what will be normal in some future when?
More than a little arbitrary, indeed.

* * * *

Pure awareness is tabula rasa,
The uncarved block, the empty slate,
Free of the stains of any concept or passion.

* * * *

You long for it to be more than a dream,
But more, it can never be,
And thus, you must learn to face, and embrace,
The eternal aloneness, in which your ultimate nature, in serenity resides.

262

Heaven has been here all along, if you had lacked the vanity to see it.

* * * *

Probably almost everyone has many, many other,
Much, much more, important things to do,
Than mull over their inner mystery.

Who can disagree, that it is much more intriguing,
To stare deeply into the screen of a state-of-the-art smart phone,
Than it is the infinite void of an exceedingly lackluster, lint-infested bellybutton?

263

This moment is where the tire hits the road,
Come and gone each and every instant.
No way You can be anywhere else.

* * * *

How long can the world as we know it,
Sustain the degree of self-absorption,
We have wrought upon its creation?
Where is the edge of the petri dish,
Towards which we mindlessly dash?

* * * *

Bad breathing makes for an unhinged mind,
Wherein the eternal now, is whisked into time.

* * * *

I Am the Truth, the Life, and the Way,
And so are you,
And so is every part and particle,
To the farthest reaches of infinity's formless presence.

264

And behind every face eternity ever cast,
You.

* * * *

Each must awaken very much alone,
To the reality of the eternal absolute within.
Anything less is but the idolatry of form and concept.

* * * *

The unknown is not in any way bound to function,
Within the confines of any given puddle of consciousness.
It is consciousness that must expand beyond its myriad limitations.

* * * *

The human paradigm is a ceaseless array of stories of every sort.
Perceptions, all partial, incomplete, steeped in the ephemeral well of imagination.

Is not everything more than a little hackneyed, more than a little passé, at this point in the human epic?
Have not we done everything, all but inconceivable times beyond counting?

265

The ultimate intention of thoughts such as these, are to strip away everything,
To relinquish You to the aloneness, the oblivion, the absoluteness, You truly are.
To leave only the certainty of You, the essence of You, the wonder and grace of You.
Anything less is only more hollow delusion, in a purgatory already reeking with its stench.

* * * *

For the want of minds, that can discern the mystery within all things,
For the want of ears, that can hear the soundless, eyes that can see the unseen,
Another vision of the grand reality gradually fades in the dream of time.
It is not the choir that needs to discern that which is real and true.

* * * *

Being the timeless presence is very simple, really.
Just be the sovereign, unstained, indivisible, untrammelled,
Flawless, immaculate, absolute, eternal awareness.

266

You have been mortal dreamer;
Seer, mystic, hierophant, oracle, prophet;
And now you are the truth, the life, the way ... That I Am.
Krishna, Shiva, Buddha, Tao, Advhut, Christ, God, Allah, Soul, Brahman;
However it might be designated or identified by all dreams samsara.
Born again, timelessly absolute, every streaming moment.
Immortal, sovereign, infinite, supreme, complete;
Prior to all dimensions of space and time.

* * * *

Everyone is a fabrication here.
Hotel California of the quantum blend:
“We are all just prisoners here, of our own device.
‘Relax,’ said the night man, ‘We are programmed to receive.
You can check-out any time you like,
But you can never leave.’”

267

Who, what, where, when, why and how, You really-truly are,
Is the indivisible quantum formlessness of eternity,

Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

How can anyone own the mystery, when everything is the mystery?

268

What happens after death? ... Don't know ... Don't care.
Didn't ask to be here, ain't prayin' to be stayin'.
Seen and done enough to be ready,
For some eternal rest in the land of oblivion.

* * * *

Through these words, and many others of the same ilk,
Your ultimate nature speaks earnestly true, sovereign, absolute.
Look clearly, listen closely, You who would discern that which is real.

270

It is by the light of awareness within, that all is seen.

* * * *

The ever-present, timeless nowness of this garden cosmos,
Is ever right here, right now, ready to take you back into its fold,
Back into the ceaseless kaleidoscoping of its ever-dreamy matrix reality.

271

From nothingness to nothingness, and the pretense of somethingness between.

272

You are an eye of mystery.

* * * *

Nowness requires no other.

* * * *

Look closely, and you will find the nothingness within every perception.

* * * *

This moment ... gone ... before you can even think about it.

273

The sovereignty of one's aloneness, is the sun of awareness within.

* * * *

In the vastness of the ocean of infinity, all drops are equal.

* * * *

The other side of nothingness is nothingness, too.

* * * *

To be born again, you must die now.

* * * *

Holding on to nothing, is a timeless endeavor.

* * * *

Not too many problems can contend with a good, full breath of awareness.

274

What freedom, in wanting absolutely nothing.

275

By what form can awareness be bound?

* * * *

By the time you recognize it, any given moment is long gone.

276

The eternal absoluteness is within all, but the mind must be very still to discern it.

* * * *

What is the universe that the mind gazes out into, but its own creation.

* * * *

Every moment is equal, no matter the play of light and sound.

* * * *

To what need awareness cling?

* * * *

Become the mystery within; what have you got to lose?

277

How forever it is for awareness to try to reach the inside of any skull.

* * * *

Another piece of trivia to file in oblivion's circular file.

278

What is knowledge, but a means to pretend the unknowable, known.

279

Awareness has no name, no attributes, and is aligned with no mindset.

* * * *

The kingdom of mystery is within all.

* * * *

This now, too, gone forever.

280

What is to save, when it is already spent, only moments before you know it.

* * * *

The mystery heeds no bounds.

281

This right now is the truth, for it could be nothing less.

* * * *

Ask not what the mystery can do for you, but what you need do to merge back into it.

* * * *

How can you be bored, when every single moment is exactly the same?

282

You are the hunger, the thirst for existence, that sculpts eternity into time.

283

A wake only shows where now has been.

* * * *

Profound and passé every streaming moment.

* * * *

Awareness, the final frontier, the grand voyeur of all eternity.

284

In the ever-changing sensory theater, awareness is the only constant.

* * * *

The witness of awareness, neither heeds nor stops for any judgment or conclusion.

* * * *

Inattention to the given moment, is the first and last mistake.

285

Know the mind, know the body, discern the Soul.

* * * *

Everything and nothing, in every passing moment.

286

The mortal senses do not care what they see, hear, touch, taste, or feel.

It is only the mind, only imagination, that creates a universe of dualistic notion.

The body is but a vehicle, in which the singularity plays an eternal game of hide-and-seek.

* * * *

You have never even once been what you think.

The imaginary self is no more than a fiction of consciousness.

Truly, you are simply awareness, as is everything else.

The singularity is nothing more, nothing less.

* * * *

Different jewelry, same gold.
Different stars, same universe.
Different waves, same ocean.
Different eyes, same mystery.

* * * *

All movement of thought is the play of consciousness,
Mesmerized by the myriad creations born of its temporal nature.
Unbound awareness is the unutterable stillness of the ephemeral moment.

287

Existence is a mystery.
It is not a Christian mystery,
A Buddhist mystery, a Hindu mystery,
An Islamic mystery, or anyone else's mystery.
It is equally the same mystery for all.
Any given belief system,
Is merely vanity,
Promoting differences,
That have never once mattered.

288

Allow time to play its game without You.
Eternal life is a many-are-called,
Few-choose-it sort of thing.

* * * *

Everything is created of the same source, the same awareness, even that which is deified,
Were such a supreme being to be contrived by the matrix of the quantum unknown.
So, of course god exists, and it is within and without all things small to great.
Each and every one, including you, sovereign witness to the mystery.

289

Stretch your mind to its infinite presence.

* * * *

What cannot be peaceful, if stillness reigns within.

291

The greatest wealth is eternally within, but vanity must still itself to discern it.

* * * *

Born again ... just now ... just now ... just now ...

* * * *

Every moment an unfolding clue to dreamtime's enigma.

292

Every moment, the flowering of eternity, new and fresh and forever undone.

* * * *

So many inexplicable moments woven together in any given mind.

* * * *

So content, as to make each moment the last.

* * * *

Awareness is that prior to all dimensions.

* * * *

Who more deserves to play an eye of mystery than you?

293

No matter the dream, you cannot be in any other now than this one.

* * * *

The greatest serenity is abiding in the solitude of awareness.

* * * *

In the eternal moment, we are all that which is mystery.

* * * *

There is great stillness just beneath the most agitated wave.

* * * *

Rediscover the infant's untainted awareness, and know eternity.

294

A true witness is the eye of mystery.

* * * *

Be the singularity witnessing its creation through your eyes.

* * * *

The heart of awareness is most clearly viewed with full, deep, regular breathing.

295

The mystery explores its rainbow's each and every essence.

* * * *

Such ado, such absurdity; all over absolutely nothing.

* * * *

Within all the movement, awareness, an indefinable stillness.

296

The eternal journey begins with each and every step, each and every breath.

* * * *

Where duality reigns, the ever-present truth is ever veiled.

* * * *

Mystery cannot exist without you as witness.

* * * *

Freedom or bondage, you choose, each and every moment.

297

Here now; now here.

* * * *

What fearful grip can death have, on those who exist now?

* * * *

Truly want nothing, and the mind evaporates into its eternal nature.

298

Meeting any given moment fully, is mind's greatest challenge.

* * * *

Every kaleidoscoping moment: utterly new, utterly old, utterly nothing.

* * * *

Eternal salvation, is just not caring anymore.

* * * *

The mystery has no expectation of you, nor should you of it.

* * * *

How everything, just seems to appear and disappear, is always such a mystery.

299

A most challenging thing, not to grow more inflexible,
More harsh, more cynical, as the world daily takes its toll.
To be as a child; innocent, free, untainted, uncarved, unbroken;
Is a momentary awareness, only timeless minds realize.

* * * *

Eternal life is merely playing out the existential moment.
The very same moment in which every other creature on the planet,
Is instinctually, seamlessly, effortlessly, simultaneously, selflessly functioning.

300

After awakening to a larger vision of all creation,
Except for a greater sense of the grand connectiveness,
You are really no different than you were before.
You must still abide the mortal dreaming,
And that is never always easy.

301

From the ether of nothing, burst quantum, which formed itself into many earth-wind-water-fire elements,
That created a vast universe, sprinkled with countless stars, around which many worlds twirled,
Upon which, on at least one whirling marble, volcanoes spewed and oceans roared,
And life upwelled into existence, and mutated into biological streams,
One of which gradually, irrevocably, evolved into you,
Mortal witness to the timeless mystery,
To which there are but questions without answer.

* * * *

You are the temporal outcome of a lineage of seeds, streaming from life's origin.
You are the mystery, the enigma of DNA, and its futile attempt at immortality.

* * * *

If you cannot establish heaven in the here and now,
What in god's name makes you even fantasize,
That you will just be given it carte blanche,
After your existence is extinguished?

* * * *

You are yet another flowering of nature.
How can you even for a moment consider yourself separate,
Or in any way lesser or greater than anything else?
You are it, it is you, there is no other.

302

Nobody can save anybody, or anything, in the grand creation-destruction of it all.
Only the eternal singularity, which we all are, which some call God,
Is prior to all dreams of time, to all birth, to all death.
There is no point at all, believing any sound laced with concept,
Will ever even once, touch the ultimate reality of it, the ultimate truth of it.

* * * *

Through the other, you gradually discern your Self,
Until you perhaps fully drink of the grand elixir of singularity.
Absolutely alone within the peace of the inner sanctum,
Irrespective of whatever songs the sirens sing,
To entice you to crash into the rocks,
Of the ever-tumultuous mind.

* * * *

You are the center of your known universe.

* * * *

Why would you ever even contemplate,
Much less expect, any other to be like you?
To see or do anything, exactly the way you do?
We are all just snowflakes here, of our own device,
Forever alone in our individual shard of the singularity.

* * * *

Despite all assumptions and collusions to the contrary,
Neither your body, nor your mind, nor your dream,
Has ever, for even one moment, been the same.

303

Some things you do for years; some things for months.
Some for days, some for hours, some for minutes, some for moments.
And some, you just scarcely even need to imagine,
And that is more than enough.
Illusion is for those who lack imagination.

* * * *

What is close? What is far? What is here? What is there?
Where is the dividing line between you and anything?

* * * *

You do not really exist,
As more than a figment of imagination.
Everything you know, everything you think, everything you do,
Is merely built upon the smoky vapor of mind.
Nothing more, nothing less.

* * * *

How can it be anything more than streaming sensation?
The eyes, the ears, the nose, the tongue, the skin,
Are nothing more than nerve endings, channeling into the brain,
Which every moment imagines a conditioned translation of what is called a universe.
A solitary dream of consciousness, awareness playing its Self real,
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

304

You have never for even one moment been the same.
You have never for even one moment not been the same.

* * * *

The entire religious-spiritual game is just that, a game,
Artificial diversions fabricated by others,
For monkey-minded purpose.
There is only You,
And no other is necessary,
To fully apprehend, to fully appreciate,
The ineffable mystery of every moment's eternal presence.

305

You are That I Am.

You have ever been That I Am.
You will ever be That I Am.
Utter it however you will,
You can never not be,
The source of all creation.

306

Prior to the body and all its sensory inputs,
Prior to the mind and all its ephemeral concoctions,
Prior to consciousness in every way, every shape, every form,
You are.

307

You cannot teach what you do not know,
And you cannot teach something well, until you know it very, very well.
And you cannot teach that which can never be known,
Until you have very, very clearly discerned,
That you are the unknown.

* * * *

Imagination is the trove of all agony, of all ecstasy,
But it is truly nothing more than echoes,
In the vacuum of eternity.

* * * *

What is this ephemeral trait called beauty,
But an ever-distracting promise of something,
That does not, has never, will never, exist.

* * * *

Only in the very-much-now momentary presence,
The stillness of absolute awareness, does vanity end.

* * * *

How can there be just one teacher,
When your universe has been laying the foundation,
With every sort of instruction, since long before you were conceived.
Awakening is a timeless process, not any particular mask, not any particular point in time.

308

We all discern it a mystery,

And then quibble and feud and battle,
Over the endless speculations all minds contrive.

* * * *

Without You to witness to it,
There would be no light by which to see.
There would be no matrix of mystery to be explored.
There would be no truth to again and again and again be discerned.

309

To see you are that which is mystery is not arrogance,
But recognition, acceptance, appreciation, salutation.

* * * *

There are always consequences,
In the causes and effects of this manifest dream.
Consciousness must ever pay the many pipers of its own creation.

310

Consciousness synergistically playing itself out,
However each and every single one wills,
Each and every streaming moment.

* * * *

What is the point of all this knowledge,
If it does not transmute from trivia into intelligence,
From intelligence into wisdom, and from wisdom into eternal life.

311

Heavens and hells, karma, or any other afterlife speculation of reward or punishment,
Are nothing more than fabrications of ever fearful, ever unhappy, ever-conniving minds.
The one and only truth – all that is, has ever been, will ever be – is timelessly here now.

* * * *

The unknown is faceless.
Put away all the photographs.
Forget the reflection in the mirror.
Shelve all the knowledge of this and that.
You are the immeasurable; You are the mystery.
As pure, as simple, as free, as you allow your Self to be.

312

An ocean of nothingness;
Light shimmering upon every permutation,
The timeless miasma of consciousness can conceivably imagine.

* * * *

The same eternal awareness has been housed in every life form since life was formed.
In all creatures small to great, the same omnipresence, omniscience, omnipotence.

* * * *

The awareness, the witness you ever are,
Is the indivisible, immeasurable source:
Omnipresent, omniscient, omnipotent.
It is You, You are it, there is no other.

* * * *

Apply to the ever-streaming moment, as many words and numbers as you like,
Time and space are nothing more than abstractions born of temporal imagination.

313

The ephemeral me-myself-and-I is but an intangible presence,
A glimmer of the unknown imagining all its dreaming real.

* * * *

Do you move in time, or does time move in you?
Do you do nothing, or does nothing do you?

* * * *

It is consciousness that moves,
Not You, the stillness of awareness,
The unstained, infinite witness.

314

Who can say who or what or when or where or why or how,
The seeds of doubt are planted, take root, get watered, and grow to fruition.
It is, as all things ever are, the same ineffable mystery from all beginnings to all endings.

* * * *

Continually processing, grokking your little dream,
When you could, instead, be nirvana now.
It is right here, right now,

As it has always been, will ever be.

* * * *

Be as indivisibly indifferent as all the stars,
It has taken to create this imaginary dream.

* * * *

Existence is the unknown, cloaked in known,
Which we all must each in our own way endure.

* * * *

When the finite reunites with the infinite,
When the drop is no longer distinct from the ocean,
Where can any seam between observer and observed reside?

* * * *

Yet another day in the examined life, the torrential spew of consciousness,
Playing its tiringly silly, often pathetic, unendingly absurd, song of mystery.

* * * *

To return to the upwelling, to Para Brahman, may or may not be your calling.
There is no predicting who will comprehend the source of awareness.
Nor is it really all that important, for the mystery is in all things,
No matter how many are, or are not, destined to awaken.

315

The malarkey of fear and superstition and ignorance,
Would have you bow and scrape and pay homage for all eternity.
But in truth, there is nothing to which you are in any way required to submit,
If you have the courage to stand free of all claims, utterly alone,
In the elemental winds of your quantum dream.

* * * *

Best discern the existential of it now,
For there will likely not be the opportunity,
Once the container to which you are so attached,
Blows back into the dream-weaving quantum sands.

316

You are not the body, nor the mind; You are not the left hand, nor the right.
You are not the eyes, the ears, the nose, the tongue, nor the layers of nerve-ridden flesh.
You are not the heart or any other organ, nor are You the tip of the biggest toe.
You are naught but awareness, as ethereal as the sky is to clouds.

* * * *

Resistance to the reality within and without,
Is but an every-moment exercise in futility.

* * * *

It does not have to make any sense, you know.
The mystery of it all is really far too inexplicable,
To ever wrap even the most immortal head around.

317

If it is your calling, your vocation, to know you are that which is mystery,
Know that you will discern it within, it will become you,
And you will be the all-seeing witness,
Of the all and none.

* * * *

You will suffer until you let go of your universe,
And the incessant movement of the mind that sustains it.
Until you give way to the stillness of the awareness,
The source from which all dreaming streams.

* * * *

Not too much longer before this mortal dream will fade into oblivion.
What a relatively short set of streaming moments, any given life truly is.

318

Nothing for which to feel guilt or remorse.
Nothing for which to apologize or beg forgiveness,
The pain is the price all must pay to be right here right now.
Only the rare few discerning the one and only reality.
Forgive your Self, and carry on, best you can.

* * * *

You, Quantum.
Quantum field.
Quantum infinity.
Quantum freedom.
Quantum tranquility.
Quantum indelibility.
Quantum sovereignty.
Quantum absoluteness.
Quantum indivisibility.

Quantum timelessness.
Quantum singularity.
Quantum totality.
Quantum truth.
Quantum joy.
You, Quantum.

* * * *

Why be bound by any historical notion?
Why be crimped by any mythology or tradition?
Why not be entirely free in the sovereignty of awareness?
It is only fear that ordains you acquiesce to any artificial limitation.

319

Now, now, now, now, now, now, now ...
Eternity is right here now, the mystery is right here now,
Prior to all attributes, prior to all assumptions, prior to all identification,
Prior to all movement of consciousness, of imagination.
You are it, and it is You; there is no other.
What is so difficult to fathom,
About the stillness of the ineffable awareness,
Which as simple as simple can be?

* * * *

Tiny ants wandering their hills and caves,
The grand infinity of their six-legged universe,
That few two-leggeds will ever fully realize,
Is more than a little similar to their own.

* * * *

It is not through thought that You, the witness, exists.
The You, you really are, is not this time-bound, fabricated character.
What You really are is the awareness, the presence,
The nowness of the eternal life.

320

The labor of children is timeless play.
The labor of adults, all too often time-bound drudgery;
A state of mind to which none need succumb.
To retain the innocence of a child,
Is a wondrous talent.

* * * *

Forget that you were ever born.
Die to all past and future.
The streaming now,
Is the awareness You are.
Everything and nothing, all the while.

* * * *

It is the body that is growing older,
Not the ageless, indivisible, immeasurable You,
The awareness that was never born.

* * * *

A Self-reflective inclination,
Is obviously not calling,
To every one across the board.
The abyss within, is perhaps too large,
Perhaps too frightening, perhaps too unenticing,
For all but the rarest, to want to peer into at any given time.
The old 'many are called, few are chosen' theme,
Played out in any given solar flare.

321

A challenging thing, being in the world and not of it,
Attentive to the given moment, yet still locked in a body,
Still attached, like it or no, to the universe in which it wanders.

* * * *

The abyss can be plumbed forever, and no edge ever reached.
The senses are but an ephemeral veil to the solitude,
You are, have ever been, will ever be.

* * * *

In the ever-present, the mind dissolves,
Into the immeasurable nothingness,
To which attachment has no tether.

322

Few are inflicted with the great doubt,
That eventually conveys them all the way back,
To the ephemeral awareness prior to all consciousness.
So many temptations, so many distractions, so many delusions,
On the long and winding ever here now road home.

* * * *

Are you prepared to leave everything behind?
To be totally, absolutely free, of all manifest claims?
Are you prepared to be, You, absolutely alone, dreamless?
Naught but pure awareness; formless, for all eternity?
Or will you do all this to your Self, yet again?

* * * *

What a vast difference between
Thinking you are infinity
And being infinity.
One the product of thought,
The other simply mystery its Self.

* * * *

Let go all the struggle.
Be completely, unequivocally effortless.
Give yourself over to the beingness, the nowness, the stillness,
Of the absolute awareness prior to consciousness.
It is your true nature; it is the eternal life.

* * * *

No matter how many ways you may find to distract yourself,
No matter how large a family you might propagate,
No matter how many people you may know,
Or the size of crowds you may daily stride through,
You are ever, have ever been, will ever be, absolutely alone.

323

Your dream of existence is a mystery,
That time will never long attest really happened.
Truly not at all different than any tree falling alone in a forest.

* * * *

Creation is an ever-unfolding, ever-evolving transmutation of energy.
Of the stardust, the elements, the quantum, the singularity,
Playing at existence in every way imaginable.

* * * *

When did you begin to imagine you were this mind-body?
That it belonged to you like all the other possessions,
With which emptiness continually shrouds itself.
What point is there, really, in being attached,
To its ever-changing corporeal nature,
For even one iota of a singular moment?

* * * *

When you are merely awareness, you are free.
When you are a mind attached to a body, you are bound.
So guileless, as to be yet another, of the greatest stories never told.

* * * *

What ego could exist without attachment to the body-mind,
And all the perceptions that have been but imagined,
In the streaming dream of absolute awareness.

324

It all means whatever you choose to believe it means, until you clearly realize,
Even the most profound vision of that prior to all imagination,
Really means absolutely nothing at all.

* * * *

You may be the indelible, indivisible, unborn-undying mystery,
But you are still cousin to a hodgepodge of monkeys,
Chimpanzees, gorillas, and sundry primates.
In other words, you are but a beast,
An evolutionary invention,
Of puddle magic,
And muddied thinking.

* * * *

You already are the eternal life.
For what is there to pray?
What need for some imaginary god?
You alone translate creation into heavens and hells.

* * * *

We all know different things,
We all perceive different universes,
We are all stained by different experiences,
Yet we are all born of the same mystery all the while.

325

If not in every breath time offers,
Then at least in the last moments before death,
Surrender to the ineffable eternal awareness prior to consciousness,
And rest fulfilled, content in that immortal knowingness,
When the Reaper comes to gather the vehicle,

To which vanity is so attached.

326

The universe the senses and mind present, is your eternal teacher,
And will use every feasible device to awaken you,
Whether or not it is your calling.

* * * *

If you are not completely present,
Completely, with fresh eyes, here now,
Then you wander the death of recollection,
Oblivious to the eternal nature in every moment.

327

It is not a matter of believing you are that which is quantum, but in being that which is quantum.
It is in the immediate perception, the immediate awareness, the hereness, the nowness;
Not some self-absorbed entity, ensnared by the movement of mere thought.

* * * *

There is always tomorrow,
That day that never quite arrives,
That rainbow, that always just manages,
To elude now's ephemeral grasp.

328

Consciousness is a vibrating lens,
With countless filters crafted of every imaginable limitation.
Awareness is of the infinite source, witness within all things small to great, bound to nothing.

* * * *

Eternal salvation is not about the body or mind or soul being saved.
It is the purging of the fabricated identity, of the ceaseless inventions of the mind,
And timelessly being what You truly are; that which is mystery.
You are the Truth, the Life and the Way.
Be That I Am,
The Self of all selves.

* * * *

How can you not be that which many call god by countless names,
When, without the light of awareness shining from within,
Your cosmos would not for even a moment exist.

* * * *

Is consciousness the river, in which you flow,
Or you the stillness, through which it dreams?

* * * *

Where is ahead? Where is behind?
Where is up or down? Sideways or crossways?
Where is the center of that amorphous, eternal indivisibility,
That which is the center, yet has no center.

330

History is the arbitrary highlighting of selected snapshots,
From eternity's indivisible, ever-graceful streaming.
The crisscrossing of the endless array of ripples,
Which bring notable events to realization.
And from those streaming moments,
New ripples, ever make their way,
In the quantum theater's dreamtime.

* * * *

You must someday die to this mortal vessel.
Enlighten and liberate your Self now.
Rebirth of the unknown is now.

* * * *

The immediate is, without peer.
Serene, tranquil, peaceful, graceful, aware,
Ever-steady, indivisible, eternally immeasurable, absolute.
To reside in the here now is to know eternal life.

331

Play your little part in the world, but know it is but a dream, no matter how real it seems.

332

The eternal life is within and without every moment.

* * * *

The sensory mind-body is the theater; awareness, the audience.

Though there is absolutely no requisite,
 For any moment to be played out in any particular way,
 Everyone performs their destiny according to the given nature-nurture.
 Though someone could perhaps do anything conceivable in the quantum-matrix sense,
 Free will is an illusion, and all will journey through whatever destiny their form,
 Their capacity and limitation, their amalgamation of desire and fear allows.
 For anyone to do something entirely out of mind-body character,
 Really just means it was in their character from the get-go.

* * * *

Think you cannot at all get along without someone or something?
 Oh, you will, my fine friend, rest assured, you will, indeed.
 Whether voluntarily, or from your cold, lifeless hands,
 Absolutely everyone and everything will cease to exist when you do.
 When this magical mystery tour of a dream reaches its most certain conclusion.
 Consciousness is but a temporal state, requiring a vessel of some sort, in which to play out.
 The promises of everlasting life, of access to one deity or another, will always prove but empty and vain.
 And of what is called rebirth; it is not some individual persona, but the mystery that all things are.
 And that quantum “You-ness” born anew, will blow in the nature-nurture winds of its time.
 Experiencing many things; always with very much the same awareness within all.

Accepting dogma and idolatry is the first and last mistake.
 Truth is an ever-present-every-moment-now kind of thing,
 And no intermediaries, past or present or future, are required.

* * * *

Eternity is the seamless now,
 To which momentary awareness is witness.
 Die to the dream of time, and totality becomes absolutely clear.

The singular mystery somehow created You.
 And You in turn, witness your version of a manifest dream.
 You are it, and it is You; as indivisible, as inseparable, as it must ever be.

* * * *

There are the many, whose existence is lived out of obligation, to the arbitrary memes born of time;
 And the sporadic few, whose spirits are drawn to the exploration of its mystery.
 Not all can be scientists, else there would be no laboratory,
 In which wisdom might brew.

* * * *

Seriously, who really cares about this mundane universe, or any other?
Set them all down, wander the infinity, blissfully carefree.
Be the cosmic child you have always been.

* * * *

What is this temporal food-body,
This witch's brew of a biological stew,
But the timeless, indivisible, quantum ether,
You are, have ever been, will ever be.

* * * *

This pale blue dot is but an infinitesimal iota of dust,
In an immense ocean of ineffable mystery.
Who truthfully knows if or when,
You will ever exist again?
But, tell me, Pilgrim, have you ever seen,
Any seed being given a second chance, much less a third?

336

It is likely inevitable in this vast mystery of a cosmos,
That any given garden world will allow life forms to evolve,
Which will sooner or later potentially threaten their very existence,
Creation is destruction, destruction is creation, extinction is nothing new.

* * * *

Everything simultaneously streaming, unfolding one moment to the next,
In this immeasurable quantum matrix of a holograph universe.
Only your little slice of imagination is about you.

* * * *

Sometimes small-minded, sometimes large.
That is the unfathomable nature of consciousness,
And the awareness from which, and into which, it blossoms.

337

Seriously, what is so great about you, that any supreme being would want to save?

* * * *

Identity is merely awareness, temporarily usurped.

* * * *

Every moment erased by the next.

* * * *

Yet another vague memory spinning its way toward oblivion.

338

Created of the infinite unknown, a mystery beyond all reckoning,
You encapsulate it with your finite vanity,
And call it God.

* * * *

If you would know God,
Then look within, friend, look within.
Look within, so deeply, that it all becomes so indivisible,
That the entire cosmos instantly dissolves,
Into this very moment.

339

An ineffable, inexplicable, unfathomable mystery,
Of which you are inscrutable observer,
Of which you possess nothing,
In so many shapes, colors, tastes, sounds, scents.
Reflections of light, and the unknowable from which all are cast.

* * * *

It is not the will of some deity, but your own, that plays out its fate.
Timelessly perceived, within and without, by the dispassionate witness.

* * * *

Any given mind, is nothing more than an arbitrary bubble of consciousness.
The only constant is the awareness, from which all dreams indivisibly spring.

340

Do not all stories have a certain predictability about them?
Same old monkey-mind plots drawn up with different characters and sets,
Different languages and costumes, different this, different that.
All ultimately merely tributaries of consciousness,
Racing in time back into the eternal,
From which all arise.

* * * *

No matter how much any may experience in any given lifetime,
It can never be more than a statistical sample.
Enough to discern the whole,
But no more,
Than the merest drop,
Of the infinity of all things possible.

* * * *

An angel of death you are,
To so many creatures small to great,
You have consumed and destroyed to be here now.
Alas and oh well, it is a god-eat-god world.
Nothing is lost, nothing is gained,
In the grand dreamtime.

* * * *

The ancients called the elements,
Earth, air, water, fire, ether.
Scientists in these times,
Call it the periodic table.
Intuit it, name it, label it, describe it,
Measure it, organize it, in whatever way you will,
It is, has ever been, will ever be, must ever be, the same mystery.

* * * *

All things small to great are of the same grand eternal infinity.
Any lesser vision is but mind-born idolatry and dogma,
And not even worth one moment's distraction.

341

There is no god in the way you or anyone else across time or space has ever conceived.
That which is supreme is so indivisibly, formlessly prior to consciousness,
That all human concoctions are absurd by any comparison.
And you are it, it is you, there is no other.

* * * *

Within the quantum indivisibility of the singularity,
All things from the smallest to the greatest,
From the infinite to the infinitesimal,
Play out dreams too countless to comprehend.

342

No matter the effort any mind has ever made,
None have ever changed or altered,
Even one tiny hair on truth's chinny-chin-chin.
The play of consciousness has absolutely no say in the matter.
The way it is, is the way it is, the way it has always been, the way it will ever be.

343

Before you began fabricating an identity,
You were naught but eternity, fresh from the womb of Eden.
And then you cloaked Self in a throng of thoughts,
And, without further ado, forgot it all.

* * * *

In the larger picture of all things eternal,
Your final moments, however they come to pass,
Will be very much like the ones kaleidoscoping right now.

* * * *

No matter how humble one may appear on the exterior,
Few are capable of transcending the illusory call to glory.
Vanity, vanity, all is vanity, for all but the most absolute.

* * * *

So much ambition, so much vanity, so much absurdity,
To be what you already are, have ever been, will ever be,
In this right here, right now, indivisible quantum mystery.

344

Loneliness versus aloneness, duality versus singularity,
The sorrow of imagination versus the sovereignty of absoluteness.
There is really nothing to compare, when there is really nothing to be measured.

* * * *

To judge others is to be the critic of a theater,
You have in supreme ignorance created.
Close your eyes and other senses,
And you will see it all nothing.
Awareness dancing in stillness.
An eternal lightshow, nothing more.

* * * *

Consciousness is the flower,
Awareness, the root,
And the indivisible totality,

The ground in which all dreams,
Blossom, flourish, diminish, dissolve.

345

You came into this mystery with nothing,
You will leave it with nothing,
And there has really been nothing more,
Than imaginary notions in every moment between.

* * * *

If it is your calling to discern that which is mystery,
That which is within all, small to great,
You must let go everything.
Yes, everything.
The you, you pretend,
Fabricated by imagination,
Must become so inwardly quiet,
That you divine the awareness You are,
That which is boundless prior to all conception.

346

Save a world that cannot be saved, or souls that can never be lost?
Such meaningless theatrics our kind over and over so predictably play.
Why on earth should any creation ever dread or deify its source?
Nothing but monkey-mind brew from beginning to end.

* * * *

You need not give so much attention to the mind and body.
It is all made up for such a short ever-changing while.
Give it little weight in the grand scheme of things.
It is the real that You are here to discern and explore.

* * * *

Duality is nothing more than an arbitrary, meaningless concept,
Born of the sensory illusion that you are separate.
It has no ultimate reality whatsoever.
You are the primal essence that is indivisibly singular,
Unfathomable, absolute, prior to all imaginings born of consciousness.

* * * *

Though we peer across world, and into the far reaches of the universe,
Though we see into the infinitesimal of which all is created,
Still we cling to all the traditions and superstitions,

Of one geographic assumption or another.
How absolutely amazing is that?

347

Peering out from the stillness of awareness,
Through every visage from the infinitesimal to the infinite,
Unknowably mysterious, inexplicable, enigmatic, inscrutable, unfathomable,
The timeless, indivisible, immeasurable, quantum singularity,
The one and only, ineffably eternal You.

* * * *

The boundless awareness is, without any movement of me or myself or I.
It cannot be altered, claimed, manipulated, possessed, or usurped.
It is the untapped spring, the uncarved block, the tabula rasa.
It is the primal source of all; partial or beholden to none.
It is prior to all manifestation, equally present in all;
And ever carries on after the dissolution of all.

* * * *

Peace, tranquility, contentment, harmony,
Are of the ever-unfolding instant.
Not a product of thought,
But an effortless relinquishment,
To the timeless beingness, a.k.a., eternal life.

* * * *

Self-discovery is a moment-to-moment process,
As true a scientific inquiry as there could possibly be.

* * * *

How can there ever be a collective vision in the human epoch,
When every human being, every life form, is a universe unto its Self?
All are spun of the same awareness, the same quantum, the same singularity,
But consciousness, imagination, knows naught but bounds at every turn.

* * * *

The many others across all eternity are no different than you,
And the Golden Rule says it as clearly as it can be said:
Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.
What need for any further suggestions, principles,
Guidelines, rules, decrees, edicts, amendments,
Or commandments or regulations or laws?

348

Your world, your universe, your self-metaphors, are all imagined.
Still the mind, close the eyes, the ears, all the other senses,
And the nothingness of awareness becomes apparent.

* * * *

Why should you be concerned,
With what others think,
When it is really,
Your own creation,
From beginning to end.

* * * *

Absolute awareness is the underlying operating system,
Upon which all consciousness is artlessly programmed.

* * * *

The quest for truth is more than an assertion of this or that.
True inquiry delves into the source, into the awareness,
Into the infinity prior to all concepts born of mind.

349

Every life form that is born of this mystery must inevitably die.
But the essence of which all creation is formed,
Is never born and never dies.

* * * *

The swimmingness of the eternal nature,
Is the realm of all the other creatures of Eden,
Who have managed not to degenerate, to devolve,
Into the madness, the absurdity, of imagination.

* * * *

Nothing new under the sun, everything new under the sun.
So predictably unpredictable, so unpredictably predictable,
Every unfolding, eternally streaming, matrix of a moment.

350

Those few who manage to stream along in the pure awareness,
Prior to time, prior to space, prior to consciousness,
Are unburdened by any history, whatsoever.

* * * *

The past had its momentary window.
You need not allow it to dominate, to control, yours.
The tyranny of tradition has no power, but through your acquiescence.

* * * *

Who knows what incredible mysteries may reside,
On other worlds, in other dimensions, of this vast quantum matrix?
You must rely on your own frame of reference, to hypothesize all possibilities possible,
Yet how can any ever be anything but You, whatever the guise?

352

Believers and atheists, all playing their little game, dancing their little dance.
Pretending to know what they cannot, never have, and never will.
To know you know nothing is the only honest stance.
Make-believe may offer some solace,
But no assumption can ever touch what is real.

* * * *

This momentary nowness,
Is all that is really happening.
The dream is just that ... a dream.
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

353

How beyond all pales absurd it at some point becomes.
We prattle endlessly about the silence, the serenity, the austerity, of a still mind,
But to remain in that state every moment, is for most, if not all, very challenging, very unlikely, indeed.
The monkey-mind is ever an absorbing thunder and lightning show,
To which death is really the only antidote.

* * * *

The indivisibility of the quantum chaos, is order unto its Self.
What stability can there be in the theater of consciousness,
But what awareness, through imagination conceives?

* * * *

No matter the creative or destructive enterprise playing out,
How can the ocean of mystery, ever become greater or lesser?
It ever reigns sovereign, absolute of its own inherent nature.

354

Call it That I Am, call it Brahman, call it Tao, call it God, call it Self, call it whatever you will.
It is all the unnamable awareness that is prior to all dreams of consciousness.
Absolute, indivisible, complete, supreme, without peer.
And You and everything else, it as well.
There is nothing that is not this ineffable mystery.
Despite all imaginary inventions, it is ever the indelible unknown.

* * * *

The quantum mystery does not care into what form it is fashioned,
Or if it is used in any meaningful or profound way at all.
It plays any part that indivisibility dictates.

* * * *

All your many attempts to hold onto anything,
Are absolutely futile, utterly meaningless.
There is naught but the dreamy now,
And the perceptions to which the mind,
With such tenacious determination, clings.

* * * *

No matter the form,
No matter the time and space,
You cannot be anywhere but here now.
It is the way it is, across the board.

* * * *

All forms are but variations of quantum vibration,
The underlying physics of the elements within all things,
As witnessed by the ever-present, ever-perfect, eye of awareness.

355

The relatively agreeable thing about imagination,
Is that you can do absolutely anything your mind might dare.
Often much more enjoyable, and certainly less bother than the real thing.

* * * *

All creatures small to great are born of the same indivisible mystery.
All are fated never to see more than reflections of their own faces.

* * * *

Wander beyond the idolization of form,
Geography, language, culture, creed,
Or any other temporal, tangible creation.
Discern the infinite intangible, the unmanifest,
The indivisible, from which all creation materializes.

356

From the quantum, all-seeing perspective,
What is any existence, any stream of consciousness,
But yet another footnote in the annals of this mystery theater.
Important unto its Self, but really nothing more than a brief dreaming,
A brief notion, a brief glimmer, in the play of time, in the quantum stardust of it all.

357

Is not the world humankind has together created, purgatory enough?
What can you expect from a creation chock-full of vain sheeples?

358

One moment streams into the next, seamless,
And in each and every absolute, sovereign, unblemished,
Indivisible, nameless, flowing moment,
You are all that is.

* * * *

Anything can end without a moment's notice.
So it goes, deal with it, get over it, move on.

* * * *

No destiny can be changed.
No fate can be avoided.
All are merely played out,
As nature and nurture sculpt.
All are written, or yet to be written.

* * * *

Dogma is the worldly vision,
Of those who, for whatever reason,
Lack the eyes to see, and the ears to hear,
The infinite mystery, in which each and every one,
Equally participates in so many ways.

359

How can anyone look at all these fellow creatures small to great,
And not, without doubt, discern the obvious fact, that within each and every one,

Is the same indelible source, the same awareness, the same intelligence?
That all are the same omnipresent, omniscient witness as you.

* * * *

So many masks come and gone, and many more yet to be,
And behind all, the same faceless source.
Call it what you will,
It is ever indivisible and absolute.

* * * *

Passionate responses to any of life's tremors,
Ever magnify the moment's passing.
In the agony and ecstasy,
One cannot be, without the other.

* * * *

Nope, nope, nope, there is nothing more to it,
Than what this moment, each and every now offers.
Even gods on high, are caught up in one dream or another.

* * * *

Idol worshippers will never be content with the truth of the here now.
The inexplicable absoluteness of eternal life is not for the meek of spirit.

360

Gravity must eventually collapse into itself,
So deeply as to completely evaporate,
And then, boom, big bang again,
Into some vast new invention,
Upon which philosophers,
So eloquently blather.

* * * *

Eternal means timeless.
Eternal life means timeless life.
To live a timeless existence, you must abandon,
The false identity born of imagination,
To that nowness you truly are.

* * * *

For memes to let loose their rigid grip,
Would require a revolutionary paradigm shift,
Seemingly well beyond the monkey-mind's capacity.
In the eternal struggle between intelligence and ignorance,
It is not rocket science to predict which mindset will rule the future.

* * * *

Clouds are merely the wisps of an ocean of air,
The sun a smidgen of dust, around which other particles orbit,
All flecks in a cosmos, that is but a brief commotion in the infinity of awareness.

361

Just because you think it,
Does not mean you have to do it.
The garden is for those who lack imagination.
It is in the moment-to-moment choices,
That heavens and hells are created.

* * * *

You, who are the unfathomable, indivisible singularity,
Seem to have been born to experience the otherness, and may well do so,
Until who knows how, who knows why, who knows when,
Who knows where, who knows what,
Who knows who.

362

No mortal frame can be preserved in this ever-changing theater.
It, and the personality to which imagination is so attached,
Must inevitably, as all forms do, dissolve from the stage,
On which it has so sincerely, and with such passion, played.

* * * *

It is attachment to our mind-bodies, to all the sensory inputs,
To the mirage, the illusion, of a kaleidoscoping cosmos,
That precipitates all this agony, all this suffering.
A relentless moment, all across the world.

* * * *

Kill off little self however you will.
The awareness is indifferent,
To all manner of fates.

364

Where is this vain, resolute, notorious “I” we so readily assume real?
Is it the ever-changing body, the ever-changing identity?
Is it the rambling compendium of perceptions?

Can it even be the timeless awareness,
Common to all things living?
How can there truly be,
“Me, myself, and I”
In that infinity which is prior,
To all forms fashioned of quantum vibration?
That which is ageless, formless, indivisible, sovereign, absolute.
That which has never even once suffered mortal birth,
Much less the pangs of imagined death.

* * * *

Every streaming moment, so fleeting, like an ever-burning fuse.
Every point of nowness, gone as swiftly as it arrives.
Everything, but figments of imagination.
Merely a dream of the senses.
A magical, mystery theater of illusion.

365

The differences there are be between so-called angels and demons,
Are in the arbitrary choices made by consciousness.
The same awareness is witness to all.

* * * *

Why would you ever, even for a moment,
Believe yourself anything other,
Than pure awareness?
All identification, all naming,
It but the fabrication of imagination.

* * * *

To be born again into the absoluteness of eternal awareness,
Is the true purpose and meaning, the true reckoning,
The true potential, of every breath, every step.

366

This garden world has been spinning round and round for several billion years,
And the universe billions more than that, as it will be for eons more.
How can anyone seriously believe their imaginary notions,
Are anything more than a momentary flurry,
In the grand totality of it all?

* * * *

The universe created of senses and mind,

Is both the teacher and the greatest distraction.
A manifest dream, in which the stillness of awareness,
Is locksmith to the momentary nature of an eternal existence.

367

The question ever remains:
Do you follow your own observations,
Or subscribe mindlessly to the countless delusions,
Consciousness, with complete and utter ease, every moment weaves.

369

You have played the given nature-nurture part as well as You possibly can,
But you have all along been something of a pretender, a chameleon.
The truth is, you have often sensed You are not a human being,
Nor any of the countless other forms in which You dance,
In this infinite eternal theater that You, your Self, are.
For that which is absolute, indivisible, complete,
Is what You truly are, have ever been, will ever be.

* * * *

The filament of awareness,
Is the eternal Me, my Self, and I.
Anything less is delusional.

370

Even an entire universe cannot fill you.
The utter aloneness of the infinite singularity,
Is absolutely, indivisibly, eternally unfathomable.

* * * *

The only constant in this ever-changing cosmos is awareness.
The elemental theater, in which consciousness runs amok,
Is a veil, in which suffering is an inevitable outcome.

371

In stillness, you are as before all creation.

372

A vastness, filled with swirls of consciousness;
All coursing the same immortal, timeless awareness.
The quantum matrix of that which is prior to all naming.
That source, that is the one witness within all, small to great.

* * * *

A multi-dimensional, ephemeral dream of matter,
With which You identify for a brief sense of time.

* * * *

Every body-mind is a facet of the ever-unfolding genesis.
An every-moment fabrication of evolution.
Nothing more, nothing less.

373

It is a mystery.
It is the mystery of all mysteries.
It is not a Christian mystery, it is not a Jewish mystery.
It is not a Muslim mystery, it is not a Hindu mystery, it is not Taoist a mystery.
It is a mystery that does not belong to, or favor, any -ist, or any -ism.
It is not subject to any idolatry, it is not subject to any dogma.
It is a mystery free and clear from any and all claims,
By any individual or group across all eternity.

* * * *

To wander in awareness,
Without accumulating this or that.
Free from ownership of any thought or thing.
Holding onto nothing, how difficult can that be, really?

* * * *

From infinite to infinitesimal, everything to nothing, known to unknown,
Top to bottom, small to great, here to there, this to that, that to this,
You are indivisibly, infinitely, perfectly, absolutely connected,
Yet completely, irrevocably, forever alone all the while.

374

There is no existence in any creation, no matter the dimensions, that will not be but temporal illusion,
Because, no matter how hard it tries, Self, the grand witness in all things small to great,
Can never discern its true reality but through the reflections of otherness.
So, delude yourself in any and every way for all eternity,
It is ever the same dreamer dreaming;

Ever You, in one imaginary holograph or another.

* * * *

Religion that is not religion, belief that is not belief;
In which momentary awareness is the only faith required.
Staged, ever-streaming, in a sensory theater of a timeless dream.
No one can help you realize your ultimate, indelible reality.
You must discover it completely, totally, forever alone.

375

No matter how real it all seems, the you that You play,
Is but the whim of imagination swirling about the senses.
An arbitrary, ephemeral set of perceptions from all get-go's.
You have never been more than this every-moment streaming.

* * * *

Everything we take for granted in the given day-to-day,
Is, really, just as astounding as all the things,
We consider inexplicably mysterious.
How are we not every moment lost in wonder?

* * * *

To be content with the life you have been dealt,
From Royal Flush to not even a high card,
That is the every-moment challenge.

* * * *

Awareness is not,
Has never been, will never be,
Confined by any limits set by consciousness.

376

Sometimes the mind become so clear,
That it seems You have finally awakened for all eternity.
But then the murkiness of consciousness resumes its conditioned grooves,
And You must once again stumble about the convoluted labyrinth of your very vivid imagination,
Until the eternity of every moment breaks through the mists anew.
Perhaps one day You will stay here.

* * * *

The ever-kaleidoscoping sensory streaming,
Is given the illusion of continuity by consciousness,
But it is, has ever been, will ever be, eternity all the while.

* * * *

This moment, this right now,
Is all there is, and there ain't no more,
No matter how much imagination yearns it so.

377

Which moment can ever crowd out or define another,
When all are equally, timelessly, here-now, come and gone.
It is only imagination born of mind that concocts time's illusion.

* * * *

You are that mystery from which all things spring.
You are the earth and sun and moon and stars,
And all the intervals betwixt and between.
And you are none of it, all the while.

* * * *

"The way of humankind is harsh," God said wistfully.
"But was it not a splendid creation?" Mother Nature sighed.

* * * *

Your spirit has never known anything but well-being and good fortune.
It is impervious to the vagaries of any form, any existence.
It is pure, immaculate, untainted, innocent,
To the most indivisible, sovereign, absolute degree.

378

And what does the actor do with the given life,
Once it is clearly, absolutely understood that it is all,
Nothing more than hollow, impromptu theater?

* * * *

The awareness is not the manifest dreamscape.
It is the unfolding creation from which all things ascend.
It is for each to discern, to perceive, within their individual dream;
That they are the same awareness, the same source, as any other is in theirs.

379

What is it, draws some minds into the examination of mystery,
And other into living out the dreamtime of the senses,

But an inexplicable mustard seed of curiosity.

* * * *

Any given body is really no more than a container,
From which mystery witnesses a sensory play.
The challenge is not forgetting it is not real.

* * * *

Why should you not agape your Self?
Why deprive your Self the infinite immensity,
Of what you truly are, have always been, will ever be?

380

When the given existence gives way to inevitable departure of the container,
The vast cosmos that mind and senses have into dreamtime spun,
Will dissolve back into the indivisible quantum mystery,
The given mind-body is a one-time-only show,
Never really “yours” from the get-go.
This is the only imaginary you,
That is, has ever been, will ever be.

* * * *

Attributes and handicaps, capacities and limitations,
Merely define the actor in this mortal theater.
Prior to them, You are imperceptible.
No matter the shifting exterior,
No one can know You,
Unless they know themselves.

* * * *

That you exist is not mystery enough?
That you exist is not eternal enough?
That you exist is not time enough?
That you exist is not gold enough?
That you exist is not real enough?
That you exist is not true enough?
That you exist is not holy enough?
That you exist is not sacred enough?
That you exist is not magical enough?
That you exist is not spiritual enough?
That you exist is not purgatory enough?
That you exist is not heaven or hell enough?

381

There is nothing practical about knowing you are the mystery.
Much of the time you may well be considered,
Quite eccentric, even mad.
It is not easy being a chosen One.

* * * *

What have you not done under your sun?
This.
Right here, right now.

* * * *

Why would the moment after the last wheezing breath,
Be any different than the one just before it?
Or the one just before birth,
Be any different,
Than the one just out of the womb?
The totality that is unborn-undying, is without attributes.

382

Mystery forbid, we ever cross space to reach another garden paradise,
When all our species has ever really ever done to this world,
Is subjugate and exploit and torture and slaughter.
Curious how easily guardianship gave way to avarice.

383

Free of past, of future, of desire, of fear.
Free of birth, existence, identity, hope, dread, death.
Free of the sensory theater, of the world, of the cosmos, of any deity.
Free of anything and everything, free even of nothing.
Simply awareness, eternally alone.

* * * *

Pay attention.
That moment is gone,
And another who knows how many,
Just streamed by, too.

* * * *

You want to know the one and only truth?
It is all You, nothing but You, and You absolutely alone.
Now, Pilgrim, sally forth against the many windmills of space and time,
And discern yet again, You are the source, You are the mystery,

If such dreamtime fate be yours in some future telling.

384

Who cares who said something, who did something?
Who penned it, drew it, composed it, cooked it, created it, demolished it.
Ultimately, that it was played out, is all that matters.
The same mystery is within all.

385

Any given life is but a fleeting sense of space and time,
In which the ever-present ether of awareness,
Equally permeates every moment.

* * * *

Discerning the infinite truth of your Self,
Erases all karma, erases all consequences,
And aligns your dreamtime fate with eternity.

386

And what, really, is there to dread about the dissolution,
The evaporation, the oblivion, of the mind and body,
Of this imaginary identity of the manifest kind?

* * * *

Wake up, my dears.
You are all the same oneness.
Move beyond your self-absorbed dreams.
They are not, have never been, nor will they ever be,
The infinity of mystery You truly are.

387

There is nobody to follow,s
In the quest for the infinity of truth,
Because it cannot be taught,
Nor can it be learned.

388

You need not keep rehearsing; you need not continue practicing.
You have your little character down; you have it figured out.
The big challenge now is enduring getting off the stage,
Taking off the costume, and departing the theater.

* * * *

In the grand eternal now,
You are that which was never born,
That which can never die.

* * * *

When you are out of kilter, when you need to recover some detachment;
When you need to reset, rekindle, retune, reorganize, recalibrate,
A greater perspective from one hellish moment or another;
It generally works to take a physician-heal-thy-self-time-out ride,
On the flying carpet of imagination, to another shard of the given dreamtime.

389

Are you really all that interested,
In allowing others to embezzle too great a slice,
Of what little eternity remains in this finite, temporal container?
Puttering along indivisible seems far more enticing.

* * * *

The intriguing thing about the indivisibility of nothingness,
Is how it permeates every fragment of this touchy-feely matrix.
An illusionary banquet that leaves consciousness ever hungry for more.

390

If there is a god, it surely must be the same for all.
And here humanity is, ceaselessly battling,
Over dogmas all belief inspires.
The sheer inanity of our limited vision,
Is the madness of vanity beyond all reckoning.

* * * *

Neither past nor future exist.
Nowness is your kingdom.

* * * *

What is freedom?
What is truth?
What is real?

What is not real?
What is aloneness?
What is indifference?
What is absoluteness?
What is contentment?
What is detachment?
What is equanimity?
What is happiness?
What is serenity?
What is bliss?
What is totality?
What is the Way?
What is That I Am?

* * * *

The ecology of the passionate mind
Is little more than a muddled, discordant jumble.
The real you, prior to consciousness, is spacious awareness,
From the deepest within to the farthest without.

391

What is unknowable is unknowable, no matter how adroit the speculation.

* * * *

Philosophers wrangle with a universe absolutely indifferent to their struggle.

392

It is only the mind and body that imagines experiencing anything.
You, the eternal observer, the awareness, remain ever indifferent.

* * * *

We are all but ephemeral dreamtimes of our ultimate nature,
Temporal waves crashing upon the rocky shores of infinity.

* * * *

Each must ascertain his/her own eternal salvation,
In the nothingness of the ever-present awareness.

393

Why narrow your Self to this or that assumption,
When you are in every way truly nothing,

But the clear space of awareness.

* * * *

You need not believe anything.
The awareness you are, does not require,
Any movement of consciousness,
For you to witness the play,
Created by the senses.

* * * *

There is neither time nor space,
But through the play of the senses,
As witnessed by the awareness you are.

* * * *

Going further than a couple zeros on either side of the decimal point,
Is the abstract realm of theoreticians of one focus or another.
Scientific abstractions, as accurate as they may well be,
Jump through cerebral gymnastics all but meaningless to daily existence,
Wherein consciousness must every moment sound the depths of its own imaginary invention.

394

Before good and evil,
Before all its causes and effects,
There is only the vast unknown stillness.
Within it, is the truth, the freedom,
That the intangible You is.

* * * *

Nature is the mystery's expression,
And humankind but one of its myriad creations.
Separate only in consciousness, dualistic only in the mind,
In no way any less indivisible than all creation can be from its creator.

395

We all share the same awareness,
The same reverie of time and space,
Yet each and every one is utterly unique.
All frames of reference are relative,
Until what is seen is no more.
All judgment is absurd.

All that is done is simultaneously undone each and every moment.
 Whether it is taken seriously or with a chuckle, makes no matter, whatsoever.
 No point of consciousness has ever been more than the timeless transience of imagination.

* * * *

Only that which is mystery,
 Can spin something from nothing,
 Every moment, for all eternity.
 And You, witness to it all.

* * * *

Call it destiny, fate, kismet, dream,
 It is ever ephemeral and time-bound,
 And has no lasting nature, whatsoever.
 Only that prior to quantum dust has merit.

* * * *

You are imagined within me, and I within you.
 Each of us fathoming our little dreamtime selves real,
 Yet nothing more than ephemeral junctures of consciousness.
 Nothing more than illusory droplets in this ineffable quantum mystery.

The secular triumvirate: creation, preservation, destruction,
 Are equal, ever-present, kaleidoscoping qualities,
 Of this indivisibly timeless dreamtime.

* * * *

Caress all the wounds and tension,
 Your vat of flesh and bones has endured,
 That you might arrive at this moment of existence.
 All those injuries are ultimately imagined.
 Allow the ground to nurse and heal,
 Your twisted, misaligned spirit,
 Into the totality it truly is.

Discern the simplicity prior to consciousness,
 The clarity born of pure awareness,
 That which is witness,
 To all that is known and unknown.

* * * *

You are not the body,
Moving through time and space.
You are the eternal awareness, witnessing,
A temporal, three-dimensional weaving of the senses.

* * * *

This is the only here-now there can ever be.
The infinite singularity made manifest in the finite moment,
Timelessly discerned through the consciousness of each and every witness.

399

All the gibberish, all the babble, all the drivel in the world, means nothing.
Be still, and know You are, have ever been, will ever be, That I Am.

* * * *

Awareness is prior-to-conscious dream of time and space,
Fabricated in the quantum-neuron matrix of any given mind.

400

The sages say, look within,
And when you do, you find zilch, nada, zip, nil.
And so, you begin looking everywhere else for something, anything,
Because a still, gaping abyss could not be all there is.
It just has to be more than naught,
But, alas, it is not.

* * * *

What nonsense, this need to believe in anyone or anything,
Much less have anyone or anything believe in You.
Here You are: unknown, indefinable, timeless.
Nothing to believe in, nothing to prove,
Once the beingness of awareness
Has reclaimed its primacy.

* * * *

Your quantum nature is indivisibly timeless.
Are you mad for seeing it, or mad for not?

* * * *

Why would you need for anybody,
To know you, or know of you,

Once you discern your absolute nature?
Vanity is nothing more than imagination gone askew.

401

The nothingness offers little into which imagination can bite, ergo, much ado about it.

* * * *

Every birth the creation of a new universe; every death the destruction of one.

* * * *

You have never been anywhere, but this ever-present, eternal now.

* * * *

Creator and creation are always one in the same.

* * * *

The senses and mind timelessly creating time.

* * * *

Identity is something of a trespasser, a squatter, upon the indivisible indelibility of awareness.

* * * *

Life is a string of momentary decisions, choices, to which the only end is death.

402

This garden world, this universe, this creation, this great nada of a dreamtime,
Is going to do just fine without its two-legged, absurdly estranged cancer.
Consciousness is really nothing more than a feverish flash in the pan.

* * * *

So many in these modern times,
Seem more interested in spending their existence,
Staring mindlessly for hours and hours into one screen or another,
Rather than engaging in the bona fide virtual reality,
Playing every moment in their minds.

* * * *

If this amazing, inexplicable mystery is happening,
Then is not just about anything a possibility,
Out there in the universal immensity?
And all of it, and beyond, You.

* * * *

Forget everything.
Dismantle the conditioning;
The attachment to any conceptual weavings.
Become that which has no boundaries.
That which discerns no duality.
No within, no without.
No inner, no outer.
No this, no that.

* * * *

See what cannot be seen,
Hear what cannot be heard,
Smell what cannot be smelled,
Taste what cannot be tasted,
Feel what cannot be felt.
Be what cannot be known.

403

Likes and dislikes are always subject to change.
Each of us is endlessly changing and re-arranging the furniture,
In the creation-preservation-destruction of all things born of the passionate mind.

* * * *

All memories are but vague, ephemeral perceptions,
Of an ever-kaleidoscoping sensory mirage,
Born of the mind bound in time.

404

Make awareness the default setting, and Eden reappears;
Now camouflaged by metal, asphalt, cement, glass,
And countless other patterns of born of mind.

* * * *

The literal-minded will never comprehend truth,
No matter how adroitly it is articulated.
It requires a figurative awareness,
To ascertain the ultimate.

* * * *

There is no love, there is no hate.
There is no light, there is no vibration.
There is only the singularity of awareness,
In which every other, every moment, is imagined.

405

Simple beingness requires no identification,
No movement of thought, whatsoever.
Being in the world, and not of it,
Is to be, ever-present, now.

* * * *

... Here now ... here now ... here now ...
... Now here ... now here ... now here ...

* * * *

Most have always ignored truth,
So why would they pay attention now?
Much easier to commit every form of idolatry,
Than to become what you truly are.

406

... detach ... big breath ... detach ... big breath ... detach ... big breath ...
The absoluteness, the sovereignty, the indivisibility of eternal life, eternal freedom,
Is an in-the-moment-unburdened-by-all-the-baggage kind of thing.

407

Awareness is awareness.
Neither light nor dark, right nor wrong, strong nor weak, vibrant nor passive,
Kind nor cruel, sweet nor bitter, great nor small, good nor evil.
Absolutely indifferent in every way imaginable.

* * * *

A quick, hard slap across the face,
A bucket of water dumped upon the head,
The knock of a stick across the back,
Whatever it takes to wake up,
To the stillness of truth.

408

Desire for gratification, dread of pain, curiosity about life, fear of death,
Are DNA's evolutionary means in its futile attempt at immortality.
Keeping the mind from devolving into paranoia and paralysis,

Is the moment-to-moment tightrope the mind daily walks.

* * * *

The newborn is pure awareness.
In the infant and child,
The seeds of consciousness,
Begin gradually sprouting in the mind,
In whatever direction the winds of time may blow.
But it is in the awareness, that all truly are,
Have always been, will ever be.
It is from the source of all,
That eternal life ever springs.

* * * *

Attitude is a bell curve,
Ranging from joy to sorrow.
Where anyone journeys on the curve,
Is all about the play of imagination that manifests,
In the given mind, in the given context, in the given moment.

409

Therapy for the blind is vision;
For the deaf, hearing; for the hungry, sustenance;
For the numb, feeling; for the artist, creativity; for the gluttonous, more;
For the seer, the mysterious unknown.

* * * *

You ask me who ... I tell you I do not know.
You ask me what ... I tell you I do not know.
You ask me where ... I tell you I do not know.
You ask me when ... I tell you I do not know.
You ask me why ... I tell you I do not know.
You ask me how ... I tell you I do not know.
All I can tell you is ... I am That I Am.
All I can tell you is ... you are, too.

411

When you discern what is true, and disappear into the timeless awareness,
The universe within and without, converts to its untainted singular reality.

* * * *

Humility and modesty are just stilling the self-absorbed inner chatter,
Immersing into the imperturbable, timeless tranquility of awareness.

* * * *

God is prattled about in consciousness; merged into, in awareness.
Always a case of earnest conviction versus discerning equanimity.

* * * *

This streaming dreamtime moment, will be at best partially perceived.
More likely quickly forgotten, and even more likely all but unnoticed.

* * * *

Any earnest scientist inevitably discerns that the observer is the observed.
Measurement can only go so far, before it evaporates in the limits of imagination,
The pale beyond which, the eternal immeasurability, is forever unknowable.

412

In all our myriad forms, in all our myriad minds,
We are all the same witness, the same awareness,
Playing out different portions of same mystery.

* * * *

The repetitive grooves of limited thinking,
Only grow deeper and more and more confining,
As eternity does its time-marches-on thing.

* * * *

If there is any ultimate purpose or meaning to this mystery of existence,
Surely, it is realization of the singularity, within and without all creation.

413

Where to go if you are happy here, where to be if you are satisfied now.
So many looking for happiness and satisfaction everywhere but within.

* * * *

You are each and every moment born completely anew.
Why should you ever feel at all bound or obligated,
To be the same in everything you say and do?

* * * *

Freedom is in the clarity of awareness,
Not the quantum theater of sensation.

* * * *

Eternal life,

Is forgetting everything,
Even that perceived but a moment ago.

414

All our imaginary universes are built within frames of reference molded by experience.
Each of us can only see and hear and touch and taste and smell and feel,
What minds have been conditioned to discern and realize.
The ineffable mystery, is vessel for all.

* * * *

As real as it may seem in the moment-to-moment,
Of this three-dimensional sensory theater,
None of it has ever truly been,
More than a brief sensory distraction.

* * * *

A different time, a different existence.
A different appearance, a different dream.
A different world, a different universe.
All the differences; same mystery

* * * *

We are all that which is called god by many names.
Each of us exploring our own exclusive aspect of creation.

415

The challenge with fate is not knowing what it is, and having to play it out one moment at a time.

* * * *

Creation is a roshambo – rock-paper-scissors – kind of thing.

* * * *

Born again and again, with every breath, for all eternity.

416

The truth of awareness requires nothing.
No laws, no principles, no dogma, no creed, no hierarchies,
Fabricated by the mind-made limitations,
Of self-serving middlemen.

* * * *

The notion of history is sculpted in countless ways,
Through the never-ceasing, indivisibly eternal now.

* * * *

Since you are truly everything,
In your immortal never-born-never-die way,
You experience birth and life and death every passing moment,
In an all but infinite number of ways.

417

Perhaps God is manifest for the same reason you are.
Wine and women and song, are not necessarily just mortal fare.
Even the deities of olden times enjoyed altered states of consciousness,
In the grand once and a while of the given here and now.

* * * *

Dwell in that stillness, that awareness, that timelessness,
From which the dream of consciousness rises and falls.
Imagination, as present as it seems, is not eternal life.

* * * *

I am you, and you are me,
And together, we, each in our own unique way,
Sing the song of mystery.

* * * *

All the attachments,
To all the things,
To all the memories,
To all the relationships,
To all the this's, all the that's;
What weights chaining the free spirit.
Distractions from the ever-present awareness,
In which life is eternal, in which the real You, ever are.

418

This very moment is as inexplicable as every other moment that has ever been or will ever be.

* * * *

Pay close attention: time does not exist, and the nowness streams quickly eternal.

* * * *

The eternal life is a state of beingness, not becomingness.

419

Awareness is the one and only real You prior to consciousness.
Consciousness is nothing more than imagination,
In the playground of the mind.

* * * *

Every streaming moment the quantum matrix,
Vibrates itself indivisibly, immortally anew,
Within and without the one and only You.

* * * *

You can be as small-minded as everyone else,
When You forget You are awareness, not the body.
Samsara is an enduring 24/7/365-all-your-life antagonist.

420

Those who long for mortal immortality live in dread of the shadow of death.
Though many are called, few ever die to time, few live eternally free.
What is called death is merely returning to the quantum womb;
Oblivion's potential to arise into whatever adventure calls.

* * * *

We are all dust in the wind in some who-knows-when tomorrow.
Worms' meat in some moment, some modern time or another.
It is really just a matter of who is going to bury or burn who,
Assuming, of course, there is even a pound of flesh to find.

* * * *

To believe awareness,
Is attached to any concept or form,
Is but vain arrogance born of human limitation.

* * * *

The manifest dream is a grand feast,
And at its source is that which is absolute.
And when you are stuffed to the point of bursting,
Self-discovery is the final desert, the nightcap, so to speak.

421

I have given you conscious reality.

Through this mind, you exist.
Had we never met, or had I never heard of you,
You would not be, but through the wide-ranging intuition of all things possible.
Outside this awareness, this consciousness,
You do not exist.

You have given me conscious reality.
Through your mind, I exist.
Had we never met, or had you never heard of me,
I would not be, but through the wide-ranging intuition of all things possible.
Outside your awareness, your consciousness,
I do not exist.

What is the world but a brief ephemeral dream for all.

422

Included in the relatively few quotes attributed to or about Jesus in Christian mythology,
And largely misinterpreted by those many inclined to idolatry and dogma:
Know thy Self; Love thy Self; Physician, heal thy Self;
You shall love your neighbor as your Self;
To thine own Self be true;
Husbands, love your wives as your Selves;
Have this mind in your Selves, which was also in Christ Jesus.

* * * *

Eden is still very much present, very much here now.
It is you who must clearly divine its eternal presence.

* * * *

What vanity to call your Self by any name.
“I Am” is even an assumption of dubious consequence.
Only in complete stillness are you unstained, indivisible, absolute.

423

Faith, hope, love, are but ephemeral concepts born of the monkey-mind,
Bothers born of the wiring of an evolutionary track.
Nothing more, nothing less.

424

What makes you think you deserve heaven if you cannot endure its serenity here now?

* * * *

Why not live in bliss, in perpetual happiness, in an ever-present orgasm of awareness?

* * * *

What upshot any concept, but a distraction from the “what isness” of any given moment.

425

The real You has ever been born, the real You has never been born,
In as many forms, in as many places, in as many times,
As there are zeroes to follow any number,
And yet your eternal nature,
Ever remains indivisibly immaculate.

* * * *

All are born anew each and every eternal moment,
But it is the realization of the reality within,
And the total dissolution of the mind’s fabrication,
That is, for every earnest enquirer, the greatest challenge.

426

To discern the intrinsic serenity of the unfolding moment,
You must detach from all the pleasures and pains,
Of mind and body in the sensory plane.

* * * *

Suspend knowing, forget everything.
Be the awareness, absolutely free.

* * * *

So nothing as to be everything.
So everything as to be nothing.

* * * *

Before genesis, you are.
After genesis, you are.
In genesis, you are.

* * * *

From awareness springs life eternal.

427

The awareness is equally within every particle of creation.
Omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent.
You are it; it is You.

* * * *

All have equal access to the source of this mystery.
Rest assured it is quite indifferent to all creation.

* * * *

It is a god-eat-god cosmos.
Everything in one pattern or another,
Because that is how this mystery matrix works,
For as far, for as wide, for as deep, for as long,
As the quantum sandbox of eternity plays out.

* * * *

Discerning truth is an experiential actuality.
It has nothing to do with the endless assertions of blind faith.
It is simply being attuned to the timeless awareness in the right here, right now.

428

Despite all assertions that there is or is not a god,
No one really knows who-what-where-when-why-how,
Which leaves agnostic the only honest perspective.

* * * *

Whether you call it cause and effect,
Karma, fate, kismet, chance, luck, accident,
Consequence, providence, fortune, upshot, lot, result,
Destiny, ordained, designed, predetermined,
All play out in the ever-present now.

* * * *

This eternal moment is all are, all you have.
Whether or not it is where you might wish to be,
How could you be anywhere or anyone else?

* * * *

New day, same old story.
Without fresh eyes, who can discern,
The newness under every moment's starry sky?
Without fresh eyes, what are there but regurgitating puppets,
Dancing to the whims of the strings of history.

* * * *

If yesterday and tomorrow were real,
Why cannot you see and hear and touch and taste and feel them?
Even this moment is forever done and undone.

429

The natural laws govern all creatures, all things, from small to great.
Gibberish is not what makes the universe spin round and round.
There is not some deity tracking demerits on a naughty list.
Heaven, hell, is the world you every moment imagine.
You are ultimately on your own, completely alone.
Even your mother cannot shield you for long,
From the long and winding road ahead,
On which the many agonies and ecstasies,
Will reveal the lessons to which you subscribe.
So it goes ... deal with it ... get over it ... move on.

* * * *

All the sensations, all the passions,
All the concoctions of mind and body,
None are the essential, real You,
The sovereign, immaculate,
Absolute witness,
The heart of awareness,
The oneness prior to all dreams.

* * * *

If you were to suddenly perish,
What others, what thoughts, what problems,
What things, what wealth, what karma,
Would you carry into the abyss?
Be free, die now, to all of it.

430

Alas for the sciences that they shall never discern,
The very first moment consciousness,
Separated from Eden.

* * * *

The course humankind has taken is not all that inspiring anymore.
The petri dish is getting too trashed, too crowded,
Too predictable, too absurd.
It is all vanity and greed,
And there is really no way out,

But for the rarest, most astutely discerning,
Who can, in the face of any temporal sensory temptation,
Maintain a steadfast immortal presence in the eternal “so it goes” of it all.

431

It may all be written in the sands of time,
But it is you who must live it out, one moment at a time.
Free will, such as it is, looking forward,
Fate looking back.

* * * *

Life is but a few breaths,
And back to sleep, back to sleep,
In the eternal manger prior to dreamtime.

432

How long, how short,
How broad, how deep,
How narrow, how steep,
How, how, how,
How it all is,
Is, indeed, a mystery.

* * * *

There is no personal deity,
So much as there is a personal you,
That is a mystery called god by many names.

* * * *

That which never sleeps,
Is within and without all small to great.
A boundless abyss of serenity; a mystery beyond compare.

* * * *

The cosmos is an eggshell; the mind a beak.
Eternal salvation is the sovereignty of every given moment.
It is the ineffable timelessness of awareness, that the perpetual now ever offers.

433

Likely these thoughts and others of a similar ilk will not appeal,
If you lack a certain yearning for the end of absurdity,

And the bliss of oblivion beyond the pale.

* * * *

Once some deity is postulated real and true,
Eventually that deity must wonder how it came to be,
To which the only indivisible answer is You,
And You do not know squat, either.

* * * *

You have invested so much in so many things,
And now you must somehow let it all go,
To discern that which You truly are.

434

Earnest science is the most enlightening way,
Of examining this immense mystery;
Call it whatever you will.

* * * *

Nothing is sacred.
Nothing is not sacred.

* * * *

Consciousness is a means,
To playing out the dream of time.
You are the awareness, not consciousness.

* * * *

To wander the eternal life,
You must be both in and out of life,
In each and every breath, each and every step.

435

All these sounds are but interchangeable concepts describing the same unfathomable reality:
God, Brahman, Buddha, Jesus, Allah, Soul, matrix, unicity, oneness, stillness,
Indivisible, sovereign, absolute, awareness, consciousness, bliss,
Serenity, divinity, nothingness, totality, ether, dream,
Universe, quantum ... mystery ...

* * * *

Whatever gave you any sign, any indication, any hint, any suggestion,
That the quantum mystery has ever cared about the personal you,
Except the vanity of the meme into which You were launched.

* * * *

This world is your home.
You were born here,
You will live and die here.
There is no other viable alternative.
If you do not cherish her, if do not nurture her,
She will tit for tat you, she will quid pro quo you, in spades.

436

This existence is your opportunity to awaken.
Play out your attachments knowing they are but dross,
In the true reality of the stillness before time.

* * * *

Consciousness can never keep up with the awareness,
That creates and destroys time each and every moment.
All it can do is relinquish all control to the eternal witness.

* * * *

Wrestling with the future of humankind,
And all the myriad fellow creature small to great,
Is an eternal chess game, a Sisyphean task, indeed, indeed.

437

It is the same stillness, the same nothingness,
The same nowness, the same perpetuity,
As it has ever been, and will ever be.
In each and every breath, a tidbit of eternity.

438

There is nothing in this world, or any other, that must, or can be, continued.
The eternal moment is, with or without a manifest dream.
So, Pilgrim, where are you in all this?

* * * *

What is wealth, what is not wealth?
Has a nugget of gold really any more value,
Than the ocean-born mystery of a tiny grain of sand?

439

Eternity is far larger, far smaller, than any metaphor can ever travel.

* * * *

The effortless mind is an abyss unto its Self.

440

To discern religion of the divine kind,
You must set aside dread of the unknown.
You must summon the courage to stand alone.

* * * *

Every life form across all creation abiding in a niche of its own,
Struggling to survive in whatever way the programming of the genetic lottery allows,
Against the endless waves of annihilation cast upon its mortal frame.

441

It is the same awareness in all,
Dreaming eternally in one simultaneous here now,
Witness to all genesis, in every way, in one synchronized, indivisible instant.
I, Quantum ... You, Quantum ... He, Quantum ... She, Quantum ... Us, Quantum ... All, Quantum.

* * * *

Have we not seen enough cults to know that every group creates its own mythology,
To sustain its groupthink vision, its groupthink vanity, its groupthink raison d'être.
No need to believe, no need to follow, no need to subscribe to any limited notion.

* * * *

To be unconcerned about the endless concoctions of space and time,
While the clock tick-tick-ticks away in the timelessness,
Is, indeed, the challenge for any who see.

* * * *

So many facets, so many reflections,
What is a quantum mind, a god mind to do,
But be as detached as the awareness ever allows.

* * * *

Anyone can discern that which is eternal,
If they are able to inwardly liberate everything.
The eye of a needle is only as small as the eye is blind.

442

You are but one,
Of the myriad eyes of mystery,
Yet another matchless witness to the infinity of dreams,
The mystery ever inspires in imagination.

443

The future transforms into the past in the ever-present now.

* * * *

You are awareness, consciousness the spark.

* * * *

Find the courage to be strong in the winds of your brief moment in time.

* * * *

It may matter far less what You are doing, than the awareness You are, as you are doing it.

444

Another place, another time, another sunny day, another stormy night,
Another conversation, another meal, another cup of coffee, another shot of whiskey,
Another book, another movie, another television show, another play, another song, another photo,
Another workday, another vacation, another holiday, another anthropological event,
Another journey to the privy, another shower, another preening moment,
Another war, another accident, another birth, another death,
Another creative moment, another amusement,
Another ... another ... another ...
Another so it goes.

* * * *

All who have touched your existence, your body, your mind,
Have played but ephemeral parts in the dream you dream.

* * * *

For those who ponder the mystery in majestic metaphor,
In the revelation of that they deem to be God,
Awareness is King and Kingdom.

446

It was knowledge that cloaked the vision of Eden.
It is awareness that renders it apparent again.

447

Awareness is witness peering out, and consciousness, quantum larking about.

448

Do not believe even for a moment,
That anything you have ever spoken or written,
Will significantly modify or change the human paradigm.
Toying with history is an amusing diversion;
Far more than likely futile fare.

449

The river does not cling to the boulder, nor the boulder to the river.
Everything, every moment. the same smoky quantum streaming.

* * * *

Just because it is a beyond-the-pale mystery,
Does not mean it was fabricated by a deity,
Who in some minds resembles Santa Claus.

450

Existence is often painful, churning in every sort of struggle and conflict.
And each in his/her own way, daily endures the agony and ecstasy, into which they are cast,
Until that last exhaling breath finally exchanges the myriad pleasures and pains,
For the serenity of the oblivion to which all inexorably succumb.

* * * *

What is any given childhood but an empty mind, an innocent mind, a tabula rasa mind;
Not yet filled with a lifetime of perceptions, of desires, of fears, of dreads,
That future agonies and ecstasies, will over time imagine real.
Forget everything; be reborn into the timelessness.
Into what you were before all beginnings.

* * * *

Are you moving through now? Is now moving through you?
Or are you simply now, eternally aware, infinitely absolute?

* * * *

Pass on what you can, to as many as you can, as often as you can.
You never know who will have the ears that hear and eyes that see.
Nor what will flower in the challenging dreamtime now unfolding.

451

On a small spinning pale blue dot, in an outback of a brief manifestation,
Vanity arose in a noisy flurry, for barely a whisper of the space-time it imagined real,
Before relatively quickly dissolving back into the indivisibility of its fundamental quantum nature.
Such is the outcome of all imaginary forays inspired by the theater of consciousness,
In the likely very rare moments that it manages to evolve into being.

* * * *

Truth does not require anything of any of its incalculable creations.
It is prior to any given who-what-when-where-why-how.
It is anonymous in its indivisible singularity.

* * * *

At the heart of awareness,
All the naming means diddly-squat.
What is, is, no matter the sound it is granted.

452

What is consciousness but a dreamy cloud of imagination;
Of dualistic notions inspired by the sensory creation.
One may clearly distinguish reality though it,
But the dream in itself is not the truth.

453

The shift from consciousness, from imagination, to awareness,
Is like a submarine moving from the churning surface,
To the stillness of the tranquil depths below.

* * * *

From the mystery, quantum formed.
With its isness, quantum spun manifestation.
Without this quantum patterning, no thing would be,
Yet its untouchable original nature, will be forever unknown.

454

Is history that does not eventually point you to your ultimate Self, history worth knowing?

* * * *

Stop pretending you know anything.

* * * *

The awareness in one, is the awareness in all.

* * * *

It is a god-eat-god world, a god-eat-god universe, a god-eat-god mystery.

* * * *

... eternity ... birth ... an imagined existence ... death ... eternity ...

455

The real You is indivisible, unchanging, sovereign, absolute.
Repeat after me: I am the Way, I am the Truth, I am the Life.

* * * *

Still the mind, breathe in, breath out, in awareness, You are.
The seeker is that which is sought, it is that simple, that clear.

* * * *

What do all these thoughts, all this knowledge, all this trivia,
Mean, really, to a mind that has been stilled into eternal grace.

* * * *

Regarding any religious assumption, any spiritual speculation,
You really only know what someone else did not know, either.

456

True meditation is not at all forced,
And no tradition, no scripture, no posture, no symbol,
No dogma, no mantra, no status, no garb, no diet, no gender, no vernacular,
No attribute contrived by the monkey-mind is in any way required to abet its momentary process.
Pure awareness is the source, the baseline, the witness, of all quantum creation.

* * * *

However immense and majestic the vision these words may attempt to convey,
Its reality is so much greater than even the greatest imagination,
Will ever be able to even vaguely imagine.

* * * *

Perception is but a very infinitesimal, very biased sampling,
Of the quantum vibrating within all patternings,
Whose mystery is ever-present.

* * * *

You are born now, you live now, you die now.
Time is just a temporary state of imagination.

457

Awareness is the quiet hum of the boundless awakeness.

* * * *

You are as alive as you have ever been, or will ever be, in this very much right-here-right-now.

458

What is existence but every moment fathoming, navigating, negotiating,
A quantum dreamtime that will never even once stop,
Until death do you merge.

* * * *

How can anyone ever even begin to settle,
For any infinitesimal egocentric-ethnocentric-geocentric-solarcentric vision,
Of this beyond-all-pales enigma of a mystery?

* * * *

Across the universe, throughout eternity,
There are an inestimable number of perceptions,
Within each and every imaginary moment,
From each and every imaginary angle.
So boggling as to make any mind,
Singularly serene in wonder.

* * * *

The quantum either of genesis is still evolving,
And we are all equal players in the dreaming of it.
Intelligent design, free and clear of idolatry or dogma.

459

One moment so quickly gone, another hour an hour too long.
Every one passing exactly the same, no matter the weather of any given mind.

Every one witnessed by the same omnipresent, indelible awareness,
That permeates equally all things from small to great.

* * * *

How quickly every moment passes the same.
Sometimes as terribly, swiftly ruthless as an enraged sword.
Others, as softly untroubled as a butterfly's wing.
Yet ever the same, ever the same.

460

None can hold onto the good any longer, nor get through the bad any more quickly.
All must be enjoyed or endured as consciousness sanctions.
And the awareness ever untouched.

* * * *

It is not original sin, it is original separation,
And it happens every instant one forsakes the eternal moment,
Every time one embraces the pretense of knowing,
Imagined by the mind bound in time.

* * * *

Any definitions of that which is mystery,
As ludicrous as all descriptions ultimately are,
Should always be as nebulous as imagination allows.

461

There are no doubt, many, many extraordinary,
Inexplicable moments in any existence.
Porcelain thrones are like that.

* * * *

Quantum light.
Quantum sound.
Quantum vibration.
Quantum consciousness.
Quantum awareness.
Quantum mystery.
Quantum home.
I, Quantum.

* * * *

Do you cling mindlessly to your passions?
Your desires, your fears, your angers, your likes and dislikes?

Let go in the awareness of mind; be free in the day-to-day, as the moment allows.

462

The anxiety over death is within those who live in a mind with every sort of dread.
If you are existing fully, if you are born and dying every moment,
Then what fear of the inevitable end finds harbor?
Eternal life is the inexorable grace,
Of those who discern their immortal nature.

* * * *

So absorbed by the space-time continuum of your little dream,
That only during rare moments in the given here and there,
Will you detach from the mind, a bag of neuron goo,
Seemingly filled with every imaginable inanity,
Born of the ceaselessness of consciousness.

* * * *

One must forget absolutely everything to discern that,
Which only the utter stillness of presence can know.

* * * *

Suspend the thought process,
The movement of the sensory mind-body,
Rest easy in the essential state, attentive to the ground,
To the eternal, in which the many boundaries between within and without,
Dissolve into the immeasurable prior to consciousness.

* * * *

To have gotten this far in life, to have reached this very here-now moment in time,
Is pretty friggin' amazing, considering what it took to tolerate the agony-ecstasy of it all;
That you somehow managed to dodge, managed to survive, those many, many, very close calls.

463

Consciousness is movement; awareness just is.

464

Every one's account of awakesness cannot help but be different,
As are all things that emerge from the ground of consciousness,
Conditioning being such a strong mainstay of its erratic nature.

* * * *

The mystery of this vast creation is a beyond-the-pale enigma.
The Greatest Story is at best to be surmised, never told.
All notions are but speculations of imagination.
Nothing more, nothing less, nothings but.

* * * *

The newborn is but simple awareness.
The identity that will gradually in imagination bloom,
Will be the mind-body's nature-nurture adaptation to the sensory theater.
The means to survive, to endure physically and psychologically,
The dreamtime into which it has been by mystery cast.

* * * *

What need for belief, for hope, for faith, for love, for philosophy, for fealty, for dogma,
For any attributes born of the other, which are but ever-moving shadows within the ultimate.
What is, is, and it is an immeasurable, indelible awareness, prior to any and all quantum theaters.

465

What is knowledge but busy-busy distraction,
From the what is of the unfolding moment.

* * * *

Imagination sallies forth,
Always behind, no matter the moment.
The collusion putters on of its own synergistic whimsy.

* * * *

The manifest space-time continuum is not linear.
It is a boundless, indivisible, multidimensional, quantum matrix,
Eternally singular, inexplicable, but for imagination's dynamic, time-bound dream.

466

So many spending their existence trying to be good, trying to stay out of trouble,
Based on the contrived belief in an extremely jealous, vengeful deity,
That will see that they are eternally judged and punished,
If they fall short of the dogmatic mark.

* * * *

Much easier to worship idols,
Much easier to follow someone else's law,
Than it is to perceive the timeless within for your Self.
Many are called; few are inclined.
So it goes.

Despite the muddle humanity has in every way imaginable made of it,
 How can it possibly be that all creation is not fashioned of the same source?
 All the creeds ever devised across all eternity cannot negate this one indelible truth:
 That the quantum in one is the quantum in all, and the quantum in all is the quantum in one.
 No one possesses the ultimate indivisibility any more than anyone or anything else,
 Regardless of the incalculable machinations of the undiscerning multitudes,
 Given over to every imaginable paradigm under any given sun.
 Do not be drawn into delusion by the fog of words.
 Monkey-see-monkey-do is not bona fide.

* * * *

That which is prior to consciousness is awareness.
 Awareness is timeless; consciousness, time.
 Awareness is still; consciousness, movement.
 Awareness is reality; consciousness, imagination.
 It is what it is; nothing less, nothing more, nothing but.

* * * *

All you are, all anyone or anything else is,
 Is the timeless awareness playing out a pattern,
 A blueprint, a design, an archetype, a genetic construct.
 Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

Is this whole dream, is all of eternity,
 Just an interminable recording going on and on?
 The unknowable, merely playing it all out to pass the time.
 A cavernous awareness simultaneously inhaling,
 Through every eye, every single moment.

Just you, totally alone, absolute, indivisible,
 The senses streaming a world, a universe,
 To which no time or space is attached,
 The eternal life of the quantum soul.

Why would anyone be unable to see this mystery as anything but a spontaneous creation?
 Why would anyone embrace any make-believe dogma, when none are essential?

Why would anyone adhere to a deity limited by any vain confabulation?
Why would anyone debate the fact that they are whatever it is?
Why would anyone ever feel the need to be anything,
But very much present, very much right here, right now.

* * * *

What greater serenity can there be,
Than to be alone with one's thoughts,
Steeped in the timelessness of awareness.

* * * *

Envision a mystery, so immensely now,
As to include You in its field of awareness.
You as one of its countless eternal witnesses.
Indivisibly one, in every way creation sanctions.

* * * *

Bother that it is for those who must endure the mortal aspect,
The quantum essence cannot know its Self but through creation of the other,
In as many ways as possible as often as possible, to better reflect upon all things imaginable.

470

You must have a deep and earnest yearning for oblivion to discern it for long,
Elsewise, the inattentive mind rockets off in one direction or another,
And there you are, back in the same old, tired, hurried flux.

* * * *

Are you the identity to which you so resolutely cling,
Or the ephemeral awareness that perceives it all,
Prior to consciousness, prior to imagination?

471

Sometimes you give your attention to consciousness.
Sometimes you give your attention to awareness.
And in the end, it does not really matter at all.
There is no meter, there is no final judgment.
It is a three-dimensional quantum dream,
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.
Rest assured, it shall carry on without you.

* * * *

We are all patterns seeking some sort of respite, some sort of reprieve,
From whatever purgatory the sensory-mind every twinkling, imagines real.

The promises of god, of heaven, of eternal bliss, however hollow, are an easy sell.

472

Total freedom is the end of the countless assumptions,
Born of the busy-busy, incessantly chattering mind,
The dancer dancing in the nowness of awareness.

* * * *

When you are completely, totally, alone,
You need not believe or pretend anything.
You can be free to be absolutely nothing.

* * * *

Every life form is of a seed line,
An eternal thread of life sowing new life,
All evolving from life's origin, however it began,
To which speculation and conjecture proffer every answer.
That the unknown is forever unknowable does not seem to register.

* * * *

What irony that in the face of an incredibly astonishing mystery,
Humankind has lost itself in an absurd collusion of every possible vanity.
An entirely imaginary invention, this myopic notion of a separate, individual persona.
A duality sparked in consciousness, when it began its evolutionary spin in the jungles of long ago.

473

There are no followers in the journey toward wisdom and beyond.
One may peruse the many thoughts of those who have come and gone before,
But the expedition into the great unknown, is, as it has ever been, an unqualified solo act.

* * * *

When has the awareness ever seen more than an ever-changing reflection,
Of any eyes through which it is has peered out upon its given universe?

* * * *

What is the universe, but very tiny, very brief sparkles,
In the grand infinity of the inexplicable eye of awareness.

474

And why should not every day be rife with contemplation of the unknown?
Why should not every day, even in the tempest of great activity, be a day of rest?

What is it so many are striving to be, to prove, in this most astounding dream of time?

* * * *

From the neurology of the primal brainstem, the dawn of consciousness,
Gradually evolved into the imaginary perception of a separate self.
The inherent collusion of a species on its journey of survival.
In the nothing more, nothing less, nothing but of it all,
The challenge is to move on to the final chapter,
To discern the unconditional singularity,
The origin of all things quantum.
Whether or not that will ever happen,
Will be in some far-future-stay-tuned telling.

* * * *

The eye of mystery is within all,
But it is the rare who seek and discern it,
And the rarer still, who become it.

* * * *

Ultimately, the task is to move beyond flag-waving for some mind-made outcome,
And discern that you are really a resident, a citizen, of the cosmos, across all eternity.

475

The quantum clayness plays out any given genetic function,
Without judgment, without qualification, without rhyme or reason.
Consciousness is witness to the innumerable differences,
Awareness, to the indivisibility of the all.

476

Why maintain any sense of fabricated self, any sense of imaginary identity, at all?
To pretend you are other than the awareness of the eternal moment,
That which is real, that which is true, that which is all,
Why would you want to do such a thing?

* * * *

Krishna, Buddha, Lao Tzu, Zoroaster, Moses, Jesus,
Socrates, Aristotle, Muhammad, Confucius,
And on and on and yawn and yawn.
All clichés, all stereotypes,
All two-dimensional souvenirs,
Afflictions of time upon the timeless.

* * * *

Here you are: eating, drinking, sitting, walking, running;
Living out each and every day, sleeping through each and every night.
Here you are, witnessing the sensory dream playing out every moment in your mind.
Here you are, seeking meaning and purpose, in a vista that offers none,
But through imaginary intercourse with perception.

477

Insight into the unknown has never been a group thing, and never will be.
Groupthink only muddles the truth of it into one absurdity or another.

* * * *

True religion, true belief, true faith, true conviction,
Is surrender to the beingness, the aloneness of the eternal moment.
There is no deity, no creed, no dogma, no groupthink.
It is for you, and you alone, to discover.
So simple, as to be discerned, in each and every breath.

* * * *

And to those who abide in the biblical framework,
What is the length of a day, what is the length of a night?
What is anything having to do with space-time,
To those harboring the eternal eye?

* * * *

Why would anyone ever be in denial about the good news,
That they are the quantum creator experiencing its creation?

* * * *

Challenging, perhaps all but impossible,
Not to discern the sensory present through the countless filters,
The mind-body's tree rings from a lifetime of abiding the dreamtime of the given universe.
Only the newborn perceives it for the kaleidoscoping unknown that it ever is,
And none for long as the mind steadily puts order to the chaos
Into which it has from oblivion been cast.

478

The ultimate truth, by whatever metaphors are used to describe it, is unquestionable,
Undoubtable, indisputable, unarguable, undebatable, incontestable, undeniable, irrefutable,
Incontrovertible, unmistakable, unequivocal, certain, sure, positive, definite, absolute, conclusive,
Watertight, ironclad; beyond doubt, beyond the shadow of a doubt, beyond dispute,
Beyond question, not in question, not in doubt, sure as shootin'.

* * * *

Believe it or not, like it or not,
Existence requires a certain discipline.
A knowing when to say yes, and when to mean no.
An opaque awareness that every streaming moment flowers anew,
To new decisions in the ever-changing coursing of time,
And that balance is required to meet it rightly.

* * * *

Pardon me for inquiring, but why do some humans ...
Seem to loathe nature and her many creations?
Become so determined to control others?
Go to such extremes to feel happy?
Believe gold so important?
Seem to delight in hurting others?
Partake in so many preposterous notions?
Corrupt the world with so many unproven creations?
Despise so many others simply because they abide by different values?
Become so vain about their bodies that they cloak them with every imaginable costume?
Focus on so many differences when there is so much more in common?
Acquire so much more than they could ever need or use?
Bear children in whom they have little interest?
Create a world so indigent and forlorn?
Learn so little from history,
And are so blind to its reckoning?

* * * *

What is the Buddha mind, the eternal mind,
But the mind that thinks without thinking, sees without seeing,
Hears without hearing, smells without smelling, tastes without tasting, feels without feeling.
The sensory theater is but an ephemeral, ever-kaleidoscoping dream.
A quantum play, nothing more, nothing less.

479

What would it have been like to only know a tiny slice of this garden world?
To have lived among a small group in forest, a valley, a prairie, a mountain, an island, a desert.
Communicating orally using a unique language spawned by the given geography.
Scratching out an arduous existence with nascent tools and weapons.
Wearing simple attire, living in caves or modest shelters.
Hunting, fishing, gathering, harvesting.
Consuming whatever the niche about you offered.
Gazing up at the boundless unknown in wonder, perhaps in dread.
Weaving stories, establishing traditions, rituals, customs; creating myths, legends, gods.
The prehistoric etchings of what we vainly call the modern, civilized world,
All in the same eternal moment it has always been, will ever be.

* * * *

We spend so much of our existence spouting over and over and over:
I am this ... I am that ... I am not this ... I am not that ... I am ... I am ... I am ...
When in truth it has all along been the indivisible quantum nothingness,
Playing a timeless game of hide-and-seek with its Self.

* * * *

We are all that which is of the same origin, the same creation.
But relatively few at any given time seem to be conscious of it.
And even if we all were, would the world be all that different?

* * * *

There are no experts, there is no mastery,
Once you realize we are all just beginners here,
Prisoners of our own device, programmed to receive,
Some with minds jam-packed with more insights than others.
All are ultimately of the same essence, just filled with different notions.
You can check-out any time you like, but you can never leave.

480

No set of writings, no persona, no group,
Should ever be accepted thoughtlessly as some authority.
Everything should be approached vigilantly, rationally, with a critical eye.
You are captain of the given mind-body to which You are witness.
Take command of your helm, navigate your own course.
History has its station, but You are here now.

* * * *

The mystery, the unknowable you truly are, is utterly anonymous.
Identity is but the temporal fabrication of consciousness,
Of imagination, and its secular attachment to form.
The source, the awareness, is prior to time, prior to mind,
And the rare who fully discern it, abide in the unassuming solitude,
The sovereign, unconditional, indivisible, immortal aloneness of eternal life.

481

What is news but gossip with varying levels of exhortation to give it an aura of great importance.
Why we give attention to unfolding events across the world, or even across town,
Is the mystery of the monkey-mind and its evolutionary roots.

* * * * *

All knowledge, all assumptions, all speculations,
Are they really anything more than time-bound distractions,

From the eternal seamlessness of the nothingness,
That can never be more than imagined.

* * * *

How is the human species really any different,
Than lemmings irreversibly rushing towards oblivion?
What is this dream, but patterns within patterns within patterns?

482

Change up the sensory field:
Look with your ears, listen with your fingers,
Feel with your nose, smell with your tongue, taste with your eyes.
In a quantum mystery already well beyond the pale,
What is there that is not conceivable?

* * * *

Best take reasonable care of the body.
It is the portal through which the dream is experienced,
Through which You witness whatever slice of mystery You have been allotted.
Life offers too many challenges to not be able to face it squarely,
With as much health and well-being, as possible.

* * * *

Might be better to call 'The Truth' by some other sound
– The Way, The Mystery, The Indivisible, The Great Zambini, or some such vibration –
So as to avoid making the error of believing it is any kind of thing,
Rather than the ungraspable enigma that it is.

483

Every life form ever born manifests unique facets of awareness;
Of intelligence, intuition, practicality, acumen, judgment, knowledge, wisdom.
All of which enable it to survive, to abide, to perhaps even thrive,
In its wee little niche, in the given patch of jungle.

* * * *

Even if you were some sort of super being,
Able to burst across the universe in a single bound,
It would still be in this very eternal, very singular moment.
It would still be yet another inexplicable twist of the indelible origin.

484

Consciousness is the movement within a bubble of manifest awareness,
Whose brief mortal dreamtime allows the grand quantum mystery,
To witness its Self in whatever way the genetic lottery spins.

* * * *

Any given life so full of memories,
And all of them, even those just moments ago,
Seem such distant things in the mindscape of perception.

485

We are all wandering the quantum matrix.
Sometimes running, sometimes walking, sometimes standing,
Sometimes swimming, sometimes flying, sometimes waking, sometimes sleeping.
But of the same infinitely inexplicable mystery, all the while.

* * * *

No matter how you will it so, you are of the quantum genesis,
And can never, in more than in the filament of imagination, part.

* * * *

You seek nirvana, bliss, grace, samadhi, call it whatever you will.
Well, just still the thoughts, detach from the world, and breathe.
Yet another perception in the ephemeral pool of indelible awareness.
Available whenever the given mind can, to such indivisibility, be managed.

* * * *

You really – despite a mind chock-full of so-called religious knowledge,
To which you cleave with such self-absorbed tenacity – do not know anything of the great unknown.
All you are doing is regurgitating the countless absurdities of universes forever undone,
Instead of fully living in the given right-here-right-now, free of all claims.

486

Those who know of you, shall remember both the good and bad about you,
But gradually, they will cease thinking about you, except in rarer and rarer moments,
Until all traces of you wash away, and you are forgotten completely,
As all things finite eventually are, and must ever be.
Vanity is but the wind of mind.

* * * *

The frame of reference, that bag of knowledge, that stew of perception,
Is but a phantasm of consciousness, a.k.a., imagination.
What you really are is prior to it all.
Discern it, and be as free as the moment allows.

* * * *

Who knows who, who knows what, who knows where,
Who knows when, who knows why, who knows how,
But the sensory consciousness you imagine you are.

* * * *

Do not confuse what you think or what you do,
With the prior-to-consciousness awareness you are.

487

What is birth but the beginning of a story, and death its end.
It is in the manifestation, the consciousness, that all creation unfolds.
For the newborn, not a care in the world – chaste awareness,
Witnessing the senses buzz away, slowly sculpting,
The chronicle, the legend, the fate ahead.

* * * *

When you are done with it all,
When you have consumed in every way, more than enough,
Then it is time to do absolutely nothing,
As often as possible.

* * * *

What are the sensory organs – eyes, ears, tongue, nose, flesh – of any mortal vessel,
But readers of the ever-streaming colors, flavors, tastes, smells, and textures.
What is any universe, but awareness witnessing the creative handiwork,
Of the mind's rendering of the data, the nervous system weaves?

489

How attentive are you the garden world about you?
The birth, the death, and all the exquisite dancing between.
And all the befores, all the durings, all the afters,
Ever the same inexplicable mystery.

* * * *

Look prior and beyond all religion,
And recognize for your Self the one and only Truth,
That you are That I Am; the source, the ground, the essence, its Self.
You are eternal, singular, sovereign, absolute.
There is no other.

* * * *

What agony, what ecstasy, it is to exist; every possible delight, every possible torment.
Each and every life form – across all space, across all time – experiencing a unique rendering.
And the awareness, prior to the quantum play, witnessing it all – right here, right now – in every way.

490

If you were that which is mystery, and wanted to experience each and every one-of-a-kind creation,
How else to do it but by casting your Self center stage in each and every role?
It is, indeed, a god-eat-god, beyond-all-pales mystery.
And you are the mystery, in just one of its incalculable forms.

* * * *

Timelines within timelines within timelines,
An indivisible quantum sea playing out a space-time relativity.
Everything written in the sands of ever-timeless time,
For you to discern as mind and heart allow,
In this very mortal walkabout.

491

All the so-called scriptures were written by seers and sages,
Really no different than anyone who has pondered existence before or since.
We are all cousins of the same puddle, responding to the life and times into which we are cast.
The geography, culture, language, technology, and on and on, are inevitably different,
But guaranteed, beyond all doubt, we are all very much the same monkey-mind,
And prior to that, very much the same quantum stardust of all creation.
It is but a veiled, temporal play, in which the myriad players,
Are, in the ultimate eternal reality, one in the same.

* * * *

Discerning eternal life takes a little more insight than mere belief teamed up with hope.
It is always right here, right now, but you must have the astuteness, the wit,
To realize, to perceive, that time is but a notion of consciousness,
Masking the eternal here-now, the majestic theater,
Within which all manifestation dances.

* * * *

Eternal life is the instinctual default for all life forms,
And though many creatures may exist with some sort of sense of time,
Humankind is so immersed in it, as to need religion and every other form of distraction,
To offset the pain and suffering that a mind, chock-full of memories, inspires.

492

Have you really, ever thought, said, or done anything all that different,
Than anything thought, said, or done countless dreamtimes before and since?
Perhaps, but likely ever so rarely, and really, naught but minor tweaks,
In the eternally evolving patterning spun of quantum stardust,
In the puddles and jungles of the unfolding long ago.

* * * *

What is the smallest small, what is the largest large,
And what are you if not the awareness, the nothingness,
The indivisibility, that weaves within and without all.

* * * *

Human existence, as it is known,
Is about the accumulation of imaginary conceptions.
To release the mind that attains, is to relinquish all, to the eternal nowness,
The timelessness that is as near to the one and only ultimate reality,
As awareness, through mindfulness, is capable of realizing.
Only in a very serene mind, only in that awareness,
Can the mystery you truly are, be realized.

* * * *

You may believe all this the intentional working of some supreme-on-high deity,
But even if that is true, it must certainly be subject to the same force underwriting all.
Subject to the same evolutionary process, the same pool in which all attributes ebb and flow.

493

And in that oblivion, that obscurity, that emptiness, that gap, that space,
That abyss, that vacuum, that void, that nothingness,
That nada of awareness, You are.

* * * *

Unhook the engine, let loose all the baggage cars.
Be that sharp-cutting-edge, up-front-and-center awareness,
That which was never born, that which never dies,
That which You truly are and are not.

* * * *

Be the world, the cosmos, everything You imagine it might contain.
Do not be held back by the innumerable limits of your given conditioning.
Stand alone, absolute, indivisible, inscrutable, the zenith of your panoramic view.

494

Of all the knowledge gleaned since the fruit of the garden was figuratively picked,

Your little set is but a speck of a bit of a tad of a drop of a crumb,
Of a trace of a fragment of a morsel of a smidgen,
And yet all of the all, all the while.

* * * *

We all have an individual worldview, a unique universe of our own making.
All are equally authentic in their own indelible, imaginary way.
And yet, all are created equally of the same origin,
The same inexplicable mystery.
There is no way it can ever be truly changed.
It may gradually evolve into something somewhat dissimilar,
But its roots will always harbor the conditioning of its nature-nurture beginnings.

* * * *

You see and hear and taste and smell and feel,
Through the mind-body filter, to which you are so attached.
The memes of dreamtime have molded you into a pattern you think you.
Only by discerning the indivisible awareness prior to the nature-nurture programming,
Can the essential, intrinsic freedom, of that which is timeless, that which is eternal life, be truly won.

495

The human paradigm, perhaps the paradigm of all manifest, conscious existence, created of awareness,
Is about consumption of the given sensory feed: sights, sounds, tastes, smells, textures.
Experiences of every imaginary scope, filling every conceivable moment.
Meditation is a state of beingness, less about consuming,
Than it is riding the kaleidoscoping wave,
Impassively witnessing the inexplicably timeless mystery,
That which has neither beginning nor end, cause nor purpose, rhyme nor reason.

* * * *

Every form is an energy transmutation module,
Every moment taking in and giving out,
As the indivisibility of the matrix,
Churns on and on and on.

* * * *

The nothingness of the eternal,
Cannot be taught, only learned;
And in the learning, process is all.

* * * *

To discern the awareness prior to consciousness,
You must look prior to all the perceptions, all the memories,
Prior to all the thoughts drifting willy-nilly in the smoke of imagination.
Consciousness is but an imaginary veil, behind which is ever the essence You truly are.

Not easy to let go of all you think you are, and are not, in this absurd little dream of space and time.
 The monkey-mind will seemingly do whatever it must, to preserve its many illusions.
 Absolute attention – desireless, fearless – is the key to eternal freedom.

* * * *

As limited as any given manifestation must be to dream any existence,
 The ultimate You – omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent –
 Is within all creation and the space between.
 Why would anyone imagine it to be anything less?

* * * *

If you cannot fit it all into a simple, timeless breath,
 Then it probably does not matter much, anyway.

* * * *

What need for any dogma, really?
 You are your own law, and it can be an ever-changing thing,
 As dynamic as any given moment.

* * * *

You very likely, are not at all concerned what happens to some seemingly insignificant life form,
 In a tide pool or stream or valley or desert or mountain or ice sheet, in another corner of the world.
 But, comprehend it or not, that web of life, of which absolutely everything is part, is why you exist.

Are you really this form, this mind-body?
 Or is it merely a vehicle for consciousness to play out its dream,
 And you nothing more than a passenger, a witness;
 Awareness, timelessly observing it all.

* * * *

Until you left the tranquility of the womb, there was no other.
 And once you moved out into the roar of the world,
 Consciousness began its sculpting,
 And here you are.

* * * *

To which modern time might we be referring?
 All modernity has its moment in each and every mind,
 And all are forever lost, the very instant they become memory.

* * * *

Even the most vile foe, is teacher to you, and you to s/he.
There is no occurrence that has not played its part,
In your reaching this moment in dreamtime.
You may not much care to offer heartfelt thanks,
But the truth of it, best be acknowledged for what it is.

499

The addictive mind is an insatiable mind, a consuming force, obsessed with every possible extreme:
Food, sex, alcohol, drugs, religion, power, fame, fortune, materialism, greed ad infinitum.
A habitual, undisciplined, pride-filled mind, driven to debilitating dependency,
By what is really nothing more than a kaleidoscoping sensory theater.
Ever running from the aloneness, the stillness, the essence,
Of the indelible mystery permeating everything.

* * * *

Here You are – awareness, consciousness, imagination – timeless, right here, right now.
And really no answers to the questions: who, what, where, when, why, how.
Agnostically faking it the best you can, the modus operandi.

* * * *

What is the body but a bag of perceptions,
Of memories, of desire, of fears, of ecstasies, of agonies,
All cavorting in eternity's indivisible stillness, in every way imaginable.

* * * *

Nothingness is the timeless constant, within which, every imaginable variable –
Each and every one fashioned of the quantum essence and its ever-shifting nature –
Ever condenses and evaporates, like clouds in the sky, in its unborn-undying here now.
The mystery has been labeled by many names, to which, it has never even once answered.

500

Pretend you are already dead.
Die to time, literally be here now, right here, right now.
As still as the morning dew, totally alone, eternally present, not a care in the world.
All knowledge vaporized, no family, no friends, no enemies, no problems.
No attachment to the agonies and ecstasies of the sensory feed.
Unequivocal negation of any and all assumptions.
No body, no identity, no possessions.
Just attentive awareness.
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

The awareness, the spirit, the soul, the essence, the mystery;
How can it be said to belong to anybody, if not everybody and everything?
In the raging sea of metaphors, it is all very much the same.

* * * *

How ludicrous to imagine that we really know anything,
That all our speculations mean diddly-squat,
That all our ceaseless wordplay,
Is any more than another form of wind.

* * * *

The difference between any you and any me, is all in our heads, is all in our minds.
Our perceptions, our imagination, our relentless emphasis on the ever-kaleidoscoping universe,
Playing out every timeless moment, bewildering us all with its inexplicable veil.
And who has the unshakable witness behind the curtain ever been,
But the same You that is Me, the same Me that is You.

* * * *

And if it is perchance in your cards to figure out this mystery of mysteries,
How far will you glean it? What will you say? What will you do?
How will you play this, what might be called, fate of fates?

The Last Page

Those whose destiny it is, to become seers, ponder many things,
Until they gradually become aware of the foundation of consciousness itself.
And in that observant attentiveness to the awareness that never sleeps,
Their minds perceive that from whence all things come and go.
And in that awareness, merge back into the indivisibility,
Of the eternity that is, has ever been, will ever be.

* * * *

Is there any creature, any form, fashioned in this vast universe,
That does not journey to the conclusion of its paradigm?
All nature is naught but patterns within patterns.
All functions of the same choicelessness.
All programming of quantum design.
Indivisible within one and all, for all eternity.

* * * *

If the world, if the universe, was truly real,
How could it, would it, every instant be changing?
Only You do not change, only You have ever been the same,
Only you have ever been the one and only You,
Awareness, witnessing a dream.

* * * *

That quantum essence that you truly are, cannot die, for it was never born.
You are eternity, the stuff of stars, come to life in a dreaming of time.
There is no who, no what, no where, no when, no why, no how.
You are the nothing more, the nothing less, the nothing but.

Breadcrumbs 2015

Leftovers

How can there be even a trace of loneliness,
Once the eternal aloneness of the ultimate nature is discerned?
It is not a thing to be dreaded or forestalled once the monkey-mind is transcended.
Embracing its indivisible sanctity is the truest religion.

* * * *

The thoughts of time mixed and remixed times beyond counting.
Who knows what was scribbled when or where,
And why would it matter?
Wisdom is the coin of eternity.

* * * *

This universe, this world, was not created by meekness,
By fear, by hope, by political correctness, by any absurdity whatsoever.
The vagaries of the human condition are but a hiccup in the kaleidoscoping eternal theater.

* * * *

Religious fervor ebbs and flows, rises and falls, in the bell curves of space-time.
Eternal life is the essence, the genesis, of the ever-present now,
The born again-ness of each and every moment.

* * * *

It is your desire for more and fear of less that leaves you time-bound,
That leaves the born-again-death of eternal life ever just out of reach.

* * * *

Go to that state of solitude, that awareness before to time,
That eternal here-now prior to consciousness,
Where no other has never abided.
That placeless place,
The source code of creation.

* * * *

The only way you fabricate the perception of past or future
It through the eternal, very present nowness of awareness.

* * * *

Neither happy nor sad, kind nor bitter, humble nor vain,
The eternal awareness of the quantum essence simply is.

* * * *

You already are the eternal life of the quantum indivisibility.

The only question is whether or not you have discerned it.

* * * *

The crashing waves are not the eternal ocean
From which they rush foaming across the sand.

* * * *

Between the nowness of eternity and the dream of mind,
'Tis a ceaseless in and out ... in and out ... in and out ...

* * * *

Why is this moment so fresh, so clear?
Because the present is where eternity abides.
The quantum nowness is the only reality possible.

* * * *

Until you discern the wonder
Of the unfolding eternal moment,
You will never truly see Eden.

* * * *

Duality exists only in the dreamtime of consciousness.
Reality is singular through and through for all eternity.

* * * *

We are all witness to the eternal Way.
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.
Equal participants in this game of charades.

* * * *

Do the math, do the words, do the music, do the dance, do the whatever,
They all double-double-toil-and-trouble down to the same eternal emptiness,
The least common denominator of the ever-most-excellent Great Nada.

* * * *

What is a day in the nothingness of eternity?
And would seven of them really be any more?

* * * *

Stream of consciousness, stream of imagination, stream of mind.
Call it what you will, it is the same eternal mystery
Playing out however it will.

* * * *

To discern the eternal life, the myriad binds of mind must be undone.
Cut the Gordian Knot of consciousness to discern the freest state of mind.

* * * *

From the eternal eye of awareness
Through the sensory plays of all existence,
An infinity of universes are created.

* * * *

What does it take to waylay the conditioning,
But the momentary attentiveness called by some eternal life,
That which is prior to the mind-body, and the dream to which it is so attached.

* * * *

To be at peace, to be immersed in the ultimate awareness
That this mortal dreamtime offers in each and every streaming moment,
What greater quality of mind could there be than the intangible brass ring of eternal life?

* * * *

Pure awareness, agnostic, totally attentive,
Fully absorbed in the eternal moment,
Is the highest state of beingness.

* * * *

You are the same awareness, the same oneness,
That has witnessed all eternity and its countless creations.
Only imagination lost in vanity pretends otherwise.

* * * *

What need to believe in anything, really,
Once the eternal beingness of awareness
Resumes its default position at the helm.

* * * *

Mind-altering substances across this magical world are the gift of eternity to its Self.
The challenge, given their hedonistic potential, is a certain level of moderation,
And how well you utilize them for right purpose, at least once in a while.

* * * *

An unseen force, in which all existence rises and falls,
An ocean churning for whatever time eternity gives way.

* * * *

The you that you play is but history.
The You that You really are is eternal.

* * * *

This awareness of the oneness is the capstone,
The distillation of experience and knowledge into wisdom,
The eternal insight into the immortal essence

Of a mortal existence well spent.

* * * *

To be as a child is to return to that indivisible state of pure, eternal awareness,
Prior to the smoke-ridden consciousness to which time requires subscription.

* * * *

If you always do your best, if you always strive in a mindset of quality, of excellence, of virtue,
Then succeeding or failing is only of cursory consequence, a relatively negligible detail.
Process is all, and goals merely imaginary pauses along the eternal journey.

* * * *

You are that which is mystery, that which is unknowable, that which is eternal,
That which is prior to all attributes, all properties, all characteristics, all arrangements,
That which is prior to all the divisions, all the dualities, all the contrasts, born of consciousness.

* * * *

All groups, all cultures, since the origin of language,
Have used their natural environment to communicate their world.
The sun, the moon, the planets, the stars, the climate, the geographical features,
The myriad fellow creatures from small to great, all played parts in every mythological paradigm.
In these our modern times, we use our own creations to decipher the universe about us.
Technologies, politics, religion, business, media, personalities, ad infinitum.
Every conceivable mind-made, artificial, contrived invention,
Has all but usurped the relationship with nature.
The rules of the game are ever the same,
But ignorance leaves us deaf and blind and dumb,
To the one and only reality, that all creation is eternally interwoven,
At such an indivisible level, as to make any part, absolutely inseparable from anything else.
Imagination, and all its fabricated notions, all its dualistic concoctions,
May believe it can control this biosphere, this cosmos,
But it cannot make-believe for long,
Much less forever.

* * * *

To live fully in the moment requires that every moment be immediately perceived and released.
Life eternal is an ephemeral quality of mind, a state of unconditional detachment,
In which the you that is the timeless awareness prior to consciousness
Observes without giving weight to the incessant vanities
Of the fictional me-myself-and-I that you imagine your Self to be.

* * * *

Thought is the stagnancy in which the mind harbors the notion of existence.
Only in awareness is the quantum essence playing at the cutting edge of dreamtime.
Thought is death, awareness, life eternal; the conceptions of consciousness merely vibration,
Waves crashing upon neuron shoals, naught but imagination confabulating sensory perception real.

* * * *

How attentively can you listen, and for how long,
To a babbling brook, to a roaring river, to a crashing wave,
They who babble and roar and crash ever eternal.
The no-mind, the mind without mind,
Is a mind full of eternity.

* * * *

Awareness is the eternal purity, the eternal clarity, of all dreamtimes.
The silky-smooth elixir, the cosmic brew of those rare few
Called to discern, to witness, the only reality.
Source to all, source to none.

* * * *

Human consciousness is really nothing more than imagination
Playing an eternal game of hide and seek with its imaginary self.

* * * *

No new technology can more than offer brief respite, brief reprieve,
From the consequences of its accelerating exponential.
Fingers can only plug any dike for so long
Against the indivisible vibrancy of eternal nature.

* * * *

Lives ripple through all the lives they meet: friend, acquaintance, foe ...
And through all the lives they meet: friend, acquaintance, foe ...
And through all the lives they meet ... And through ...
For as long as memory holds fast against the tides of eternity.

* * * *

The awareness you truly are is but eternal witness
Bound in one form or another, trapped in one patterning or another,
For as long as there is a manifest theater, a matrix, for dreams of consciousness to wander.
The inexplicable universe is but a quantum playground in which you will act out
Whatever agonies and ecstasies the given patterning allocates.
There is no escape; you are a captive of time.
Enjoy or suffer; attitude is all.

* * * *

Understand the union, the merging, the yoga,
Is not about the mind-body about which you are so vain,
But the you that is the eternal awareness in the all and nothing of it.
The inexplicable cannot be made any more explicable.

* * * *

From nothing to something, from something to nothing,
All things emerging, all things disappearing, all things forming, all things dissolving.

The ocean, the source, ever tranquil, ever indivisible, ever absolute,
The many patterns nothing more than appearances,
Winds blowing, currents flowing.
All attributes nothing more than vibrating elements,
The primal chaos creating-preserving-destroying, the synchronicity of eternity.

* * * *

The insights, the revelations of eternity, are for any,
With the wit, the calling, to discern its timeless truth.

* * * *

Pure observation without measurement, pure awareness without movement,
Without ripple, without wake, without time, without space,
Is not that the highest form of science?
Is not that the way to discern the reality of the eternal
Within and without the within and without that has never really existed?

* * * *

Believing you know is but a false security to which most minds cling.
To a be as a child, alone and free; to be this instant, unborn and undying;
Is to be the mind realigned with the eternal moment and its inherent insecurity.

* * * *

The challenge is to get back to the timeless garden, the eternal Eden,
Of which no other animal on this spinning orb has ever lost vision.

* * * *

Still the busy mind, and without giving anything any thought, simply be the awareness.
Give full attention to each of the senses: the eyes that see, the ears that hear,
The tongue that tastes, the nose that smells, the flesh that feels.
Pay attention to the momentary now, ever-streaming
Through the neural network to the central processing unit.
Where is your world, where is your universe, without the given mind
Projecting, reflecting, through the byzantine filters fabricated of imagination?
All creation is but the ceaseless patterning of nature-nurture set in motion some long ago.
A handiwork that has never been anything but an indivisible quantum matrix,
Never more than an inexplicable dreamtime of unknowable origin.
And the eternal unborn-enduring-undying awareness,
Witness to it all, you are it, and it is you.

* * * *

There it is again, beneath all the interminable facades of conscious design,
The essential as-real-as-it-gets youness, right here, right now,
Eternally present in an ever-timeless sort of way.
You are the irrefutable awareness.
There is no other.

* * * *

You are the mystery of you, the wonder of you, the eternity of you.
Only sensory perception, imaginary notion, separate you
From that most inescapably authentic reality.
Realize it, grapple it, know it, be it.

* * * *

To awaken to eternity, you, the inexplicable awareness,
Must doubt everything to such a great degree
As to be able to shake off the mind and senses entirely.
To become so inwardly at peace as to be neither mind nor body.
A state of timeless beingness for which few have either capacity or inclination.

* * * *

Even as quickly as sensory news travels through the synapses to the brain,
By the time it filters, by the time it registers, in the given mind,
The ever-present now has indivisibly streamed on.
As immeasurable as it may seem,
Even eternal life cannot keep up with reality.

* * * *

To be agnostic, to be uncertain, is to explore for your Self,
No direction known, no answers sought, no conclusions made,
Is to be as eternally present as consciousness in space-time allows.

* * * *

Most life forms exist in a choiceless eternal vulnerability,
That knows neither birth nor death, nor any measurable notion.
Instinct is the patterning established in all through the Darwinian shaping,
Of each and every genomic strand, over millions and millions of years of evolution.
Consciousness, as the human ego fields it, assumes an invulnerability that is utterly fictional.
The assumption of free will, of choice, despite all illusions to the contrary,
Is every moment shackled to the instinctual roots of origin.
To suppose that you are truly and completely free,
That you have reign over your choices,
Is a dubious assertion, indeed.
The ultimate truth of it is,
That in any manifest dreamtime,
You can no more alter the given part you play,
Than any other living thing acting out its minute function,
In this inexplicable, indelible, indivisible, immutable, cosmic hologram,
Born in the vapors of imagination moving to and fro in the clear space of awareness.
To give over to the vulnerability you in reality ever are, is a reflective view to which few are drawn.

* * * *

The weight of the world is but imaginary notion.
Still the mind, ignore the senses, waylay all the desires and fears.

Attend the awareness prior to consciousness, and, poof,
The world disappears in the mists of eternity.

* * * *

Stop believing all the deceptions the conditioned mind endlessly weaves.
You are the eternal awareness: nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

The clock hands go round and round and round, and you ever the same.
Whoo-hoo for eternity playing out the dream of space and time
In the awareness of your most thunder, perfect mind.

* * * *

What is heaven, what is hell, but potentials of mind given over to equanimity or volatility.
What more can any ask of their dreamtime than to have a mind at peace with its Self,
A mind that is content, a mind that is serene, a mind that is eternal unto its origin.

* * * *

There is only the timeless instant, the eternal moment.
There is only right here, there is only right now.
There is no yesterday, there is no tomorrow.
In the ever-present hereness-nowness of the indivisible ever is.
There is no past, there is no future, there is no ever was, there is no will ever be.

* * * *

To recondition the mind into being timelessly ever-present,
Rather than being lost in time-bound imagery,
That is the eternal challenge.

* * * *

Doubt will carry you to whatever falsehood you can abide,
And then on to the next and the next and the next and the next and the next,
Until you finally achieve that eternal moment where there are no more untruths to be had,
That unutterable, timeless realization where you finally, indelibly discern
That you are, and have always been, and will ever be,
The way and the truth and the life.
There is no other,
Playing out every possibility.

* * * *

In every end, it will be as it was in every beginning,
As it was in every meridian and every twinkling in every between,
And as it is in every imaginable before, as it is in every imaginable after, as well.
Any notion that your "youness" is in any way separate from the eternal
Is nothing more than the delusion of the sensory mind-body.

* * * *

Each and every timeless, streaming moment passes the same.
Call it second, call it minute, call it hour, call it day, call it night, call it this year or that,
It is ever the same quantum eternity dancing in its own illumination,
And you, the awareness, its creator and witness.

* * * *

The eternal salvation so many glibly guarantee is up to you to alone discern.
Even if you follow a trusted guide up an arduous, rocky mountain trail,
You are still required to endure each and every step along the way.

* * * *

What is the universe but a quantum creation spun of nothing,
And every existence witness to a unique cosmos of patterned design,
As devised by the senses in their eternal perception of the winds of illusion.

* * * *

What sense can perceive the eternal conundrum of awareness?
What attribute can prove it? What word can define it? What mind can bind it?
Awareness is the sovereignty of all things imperceptible, unprovable, indefinable, unbindable.

* * * *

You are the eternal awareness experiencing manifest form.
To die to the little self is not physical death, but psychic death.
It is awakening, it is being born again, into the Self you truly are.

* * * *

You have always been very much alone.
Your attempts to avoid it have always proven futile.
It is your eternal nature no matter the diversity streaming about.

* * * *

Somehow the mysterious indivisible quantum glue of the eternal now
Holds together each and every streaming holograph moment one into the next.
It is just all too fucking boggling for consciousness to ever wrap its wee little mind around.

* * * *

At some point in the hereness, at some point in the nowness,
Some minds, bit by bit, little by little, awaken to the given conditioning.
Awaken to the great doubt, the great question, and in that calamity of consciousness,
Begin a long and winding and solitary journey towards eternal reunion.

* * * *

Those who would explore the expanses of the eternal mind
Will wander through many cycles of limbo, of anguish, of despair.
In the play of consciousness, there are no heights without nadirs between.

* * * *

The sea of awareness knows no time,
Knows no space, is bound by no limitation.
What words could ever suffice to expound eternity?

* * * *

All mythologies are mind-made narratives; none abide in the eternal abyss.
They are not foundations to anything more than arbitrary, capricious cultural memes.
Thumb-sucking security blankets for those unable to endure alone the winds of temporal illusion.

* * * *

The weaving of doubt and negation are the magic carpet, the ruby slippers,
That will get you back to the integrity of the eternal mind,
The virtuousness of the eternal life.

* * * *

There is much more faith in timelessly abiding in the awareness of the given moment,
Accepting whatever gifts, enduring whatever tortures, the eternal dreamtime manifests,
Than can ever be concocted by any fear-based belief system fabricated of the human mind.

* * * *

All belief systems of mortal persuasion are fear-based, greed-laced, and mundanely played.
It takes much more courage to stand alone, absolute and free in the indivisible dreamtime of eternity,
Than it ever will milling about, mindlessly ditto-heading with any time-bound, idolatrous herd.

* * * *

Your mortal stance, when contrasted to the eternity you truly are,
Is really no longer than that of a fruit fly, or even the universe.
What is it that entices you to believe this worldly theater real?

* * * *

You are That I Am
Which is born again and again anew
In each and every eternally kaleidoscoping immortal moment.

* * * *

Despite all groupthink to the contrary, you must work out your own eternal salvation.
Believing, hoping, praying, that some other will do it for you misses the reality.
Embracing agnostic oblivion is the true potential offered by awareness.

* * * *

Real and true peace is an unattainable ideal for the passionate mind.
Only in the stillness of eternal awareness is its true realization attained.

* * * *

What is consciousness but wave after wave bound to attributes.
Awareness is the nothingness, the unknowable unknown of eternity,
Prior to all dimensions, all imaginary dreams of space and time.

* * * *

Birth is a moment like this, death is a moment like this,
And the eternal life between is filled with moments like this.

* * * *

You are but a momentary portal to that which is unknowable.
An ephemeral window between what is and what is not,
In which the eternal witness has the opportunity
To observe its Self through a worldly dream.

* * * *

Awareness is a solitary quality of mind, a state of timelessness, of eternal life.
And if you are to awaken to it, you must awaken alone,
For no one can do it for you.

* * * *

Death will arrive in a moment very much like this one,
With consciousness coming to an end, and eternity steadfastly carrying on,
Without the you as you have come to know it in the identification with the mind-body dreamtime.
The one and only real you, that you always are, have always been, will ever be.

* * * *

To fathom all you are, to fathom all you are not,
To discern the ultimate reality of this enigmatic eternal awareness,
You must examine the given life, the given mind, the given body, both within and without,
Catching and releasing any and every form, any and every thought,
Until only you in still awareness remain.

* * * *

Each and every moment, inhaled and exhaled, examined and released.
The eternal life is not for those who cling to the imaginary concoctions of mind.
The vague memories of all that is ever come and gone, is not real living.
It is the stillness of awareness that is the fountain of existence.

* * * *

From the immeasurable mystery of eternal nothingness,
The churning quantum of creation and preservation and destruction,
An ever-emanating juggernaut beyond all reckoning,
The eternal nothingness all the while.

* * * *

How can this unfathomable mystery not be boggling prior to and beyond all belief?
What need for faith? What need for religion? What need for philosophy?
What need for anything but to meld into the timeless nature,
The eternal awareness pervading all creation.
What need to more than realize the indelible enigma of it,

And to freely blossom into the inexplicable reality that you are it, it is you.

* * * *

The mind that craves more, more, and still more.
Has everything but eternal life, sometimes called heaven.
Something to do with camels and eyes of needles.

* * * *

The personal mind, the quantum mind, the cosmic mind, the eternal mind, the no-mind,
Are all the same ephemeral awareness, the same witness, the same youness,
Really nothing more than alternating frames of consciousness,
Filtering as the whimsical moment inclines.

* * * *

You are this eternal nowness, and this eternal nowness is you.
This is the one and only nowness awareness ever is, has ever been, will ever be.
In some soon-to-be mind-body space-time, you will be “doing” something else in the same nowness.
And still later, it will be the same awareness “doing” something else in the same nowness.
The timeless mind prior to the kaleidoscoping dreamtime is ever the same.
Eternal life is being mindful in an empty-mind sort of way.

* * * *

We are all witness, ever alone, ever absolute, in our own unique version of a universe.
We are all right, we are all wrong, each and every one, each and every eternal moment.

* * * *

The same eternal source in all timelessly witnesses all.
It is the omnipresent-omnipotent-omniscient undying force.
Ageless, changeless, perpetual, unending, interminable, transient,
Immeasurable, inestimable, everlasting, boundless, infinite, immortal.

* * * *

What is eternal life but the ephemeral awareness you truly are,
Paying as much attention as possible to the one-moment-at-a-time universe,
To which the given sensory mind-body dreamtime of temporal consciousness subscribes.

* * * *

What is real meditation
But the turning off of time-bound imagination
For a brief wander in eternity.

* * * *

The momentary awareness perceives through the senses
What the mind born of the quantum essence has engineered.
Always something to see, to hear, to touch, to taste, to smell,
Yet ever the eternal nothingness in each and every while.

* * * *

What is the point, what is the reality, of any story, any chronicle, any history,
Once all trace, all recollection, of it has been lost in the mists of eternity.
Ask the forest tree, fallen and decaying, unwitnessed and unheard.

* * * *

Where is the difference? Where is the attribute? Where is the transformation?
Where is anything in the mystery of mysteries, that which is eternally indivisible?

* * * *

What is death but the end of time, the end of space,
The return to the eternal indivisibility that all ever are.
Nothing to fear, nothing to doubt, simply the way it truly is.

* * * *

To be the undying awareness is to wander without attachment to the dream of mind,
To endure, free of time, free of all the agonies and ecstasies imagination musters into notion.
Eternal existence is for the rarest of the rare, those few and far flung who render themselves whole.
One must be absolutely fearless to ascertain the immutable immortality
They are, have ever been, will ever be.

* * * *

Are you streaming through space-time, or is it timelessly appearing through you?
What is this inexplicable, impenetrable, indelible, incomprehensible,
Indecipherable, inscrutable, inseparable mystery,
But an indivisible emanation of the ephemeral eternity you are.

* * * *

All time, all history, all narration, whether individual or cultural,
Is nothing more than the play of consciousness, a paradigm of imagination.
All illusion, all delusion, all nothing more than the existential collusion of memory cells.
You are, have ever been, will ever be, the ever-present, right-here-right-now of eternal awareness,
The singular observer, the solitary wanderer, in the infinite-infinitesimal
Of nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

The eternal life offered by pure awareness is the one and only true religion.
It has no name, and requires no faith, no scripture, no dogma,
No idols, no symbols, no priesthood, no followers.
Those who believe otherwise muddle in the fog of vanity.

* * * *

All patterns are created of illusion.
From the indivisible, all creation arises, all creation subsides.
There is naught but eternal unicity.

* * * *

The explorer of consciousness is very much alone
In the maze-like concourses of the eternal fabric,
The imaginary hologram of the passionate mind.

* * * *

Who-what-where-when-why-how creates this kaleidoscoping theater of dreamtime,
But the eternal awareness neither within nor without the quandaries of imagination.

* * * *

There is only the here-now, there is only eternal life.
All vain notions about it are ultimately meaningless.
Be anonymous within and without, free of all claims.

* * * *

How would any of this be if the awareness you truly are were not bound to the mind-body,
If you were not attached to all the notions inspired by the sensory dream.
The universe did not exist before the unborn was born.
It will not exist after the unborn dies.
Die to it now.
Eternal life is yours for the being.

* * * *

An indifferent mind is a reflection of the indifferent awareness.
And the eternal mystery from which it all indifferently emanates.

* * * *

Everything you experience,
Everything you see, hear, smell, touch, taste,
Adds to the frame of reference from which it is eternally witnessed.

* * * *

What is it to awaken, to realize, but to become very still, very attentive,
To the eternal awareness you truly are, have ever been, and will ever be.

* * * *

Eternal peace is merging into the indivisibly, the aloneness, free of attributes.
Giving the world no thought: some call it heaven, some call it madness.
What matter what any other thinks, what any other believes?

* * * *

In truth, you have no past, you have no future.
You are but a subjective dream of consciousness, of imagination.
There is only now, there is only awareness, there is only quantum, there is only eternity,
Timelessly witnessing an indivisible, kaleidoscoping, sensory play.

* * * *

Your world, your cosmos, your dream, is an imaginary invention,

Founded upon the sensory input, as interpreted by your patterned mind.
However you see anything unfolding, is what it is, always was, and will ever be.
Whatever you imagine others think, they think; whatever you imagine others do, they do.
You are perceiver, witness, observer, viewer, watcher, eyewitness, onlooker, bystander, ogler, spectator.
You are the one and only awareness, acting out a programmed, conditioned, habituated persona.
Immortally absolute, indelibly sovereign, timelessly unconditional, eternally indivisible,
And unutterably, irrefutably alone, in your center stage of Self-consciousness.

* * * *

We are all the same oneness playing out the parts, the same oneness playing out the many.
We are all a kaleidoscoping hologram of inestimable, immeasurable, infinite proportion,
A quantum matrix emanating a dream of time in the timeless indivisibility of eternity.

* * * *

Complete, unconditional, unadorned vulnerability is the means to nirvana.
To give your self over to Self, to set the body-mind adrift in awareness,
Is the discerning tap of the Ruby Slippers that will get you home.
Eternity is now, there is no other, nothingness is as apparent as it gets.

* * * *

The ever-motionless awareness of the eternal mind
Is prior to all movement of consciousness,
And the myriad attachments therein.

* * * *

To be caught in the web of time
Is to play out the death born of imagination.
Only in the timelessness of eternal awareness can existence
Be as real as the quantum dreamtime allows.

* * * *

In any given twinkling, it does not matter how you play out your reverie of time.
It does not matter whether you were good or not, smart or not, happy or not, earnest or not,
Passionate or not. productive or not, powerful or not, wealthy or not, famous or not, beautiful or not.
The timeless awareness does not care one scintilla about you, or anyone or anything else.
We are all but temporal quantum forms in the grand nothingness of eternity.

* * * *

It is only imagination that feels happy or sorry or anything else, for its imaginary self.
Imagination ever-translating the ever-streaming sensory perceptions
Into endless shades of emotional gratification.
How can the timeless awareness prior to consciousness,
Feel anything for the still emptiness from which it springs eternal?

* * * *

Truth is not an idea; it is not tangible.
It is the intrinsic, indivisible, inviolable thread

Within the stillness of each and every timeless moment
Prior to any and every quantum dimension.
And those rare few who discern it
Live life eternal.

* * * *

Discern the primordial awareness prior to consciousness.
Stay with that timeless moment, that stillness,
And know the serenity of eternity.

* * * *

Nirvana is just giving your mind
Over to the timeless mystery of awareness;
Dissolving back into the eternal now you ever truly are.

* * * *

All creation, all universes, have come and gone in the same everlasting, undying, unending,
Perpetual, endless, ceaseless, timeless, interminable, infinite, immortal,
Never-ending, transient, temporary, eternal instant.

* * * *

You need not allow the world into your eternal sovereignty,
Unless you feel like being mesmerized by the quantum illusion,
And all the habituated conditioning it has in the given mind stirred.

* * * *

What ever-present instant is not of eternity?
Only the countless dualistic notions of consciousness,
With all its delusions born of desire and fear,
Would have you believe otherwise.

* * * *

Is your inner default setting consciousness or awareness?
Are you the imaginary figment, the mortal you?
Or are you the eternal immortal You?

* * * *

Eternal life, eternal awareness is ever-present, undying, unending, timeless process.
The sage stares at a rock, and sees the rock anew each and every eternal moment.

* * * *

A moment is only wasted
If you fail to give it full attention free of recollection.
History is written by the living dead.
Eternal life is now.

* * * *

Time rises and falls in every mind,
And is but a biological mutation in the evolution of humankind.
It does not truly exist as anything more than the mind-made, imaginary notion of consciousness.
There is only this now ... and now this now ... and now this now ... and now this now ...
An immeasurable quantum matrix, ever-kaleidoscoping, eternally indivisible.

* * * *

Eternity, the mystery that is prior to consciousness, is immaculate, unblemished, spotless,
Unsullied, undefiled, untarnished, perfect, flawless, faultless, pure, pristine,
Impeccable, stainless, pure, virtuous, incorrupt, above reproach.
The so-called Original Sin is really about separation,
About being born into the dream of time,
About being born into mind.
And given that there is no choice in the matter,
Given that no creature has ever had any voice in its being born,
What sin, what wickedness, what offense, what estrangement, can there truly be?
To be timelessly present is to erase all notions that inspire the insipidity of creeds across the world.

* * * *

The timeless awareness of eternity is unconcerned what you do with your dream of time.
Only human vanity – egocentric, ethnocentric, geocentric, heliocentric – believes otherwise.

* * * *

You are not a noun: a person, a place, a thing.
Nor are you a verb: an action, a state, an occurrence.
You are, and you have always been, and you will always be,
The stillness of eternal, immortal, absolute awareness,
Witnessing the ever-kaleidoscoping quantum play.

* * * *

The stillness, the eternal life of the awareness prior to consciousness,
What more could you possibly be than the supreme virtue of the eternal unicity?
Will there come a moment when you never again subscribe to the manifest quantum matrix?
Will there come a moment when the mind born of time no longer calls you?

* * * *

The sensory mind-body evolved in DNA's quest to continue,
To survive the creation, to abide the quantum field.
The vehicle you occupy is the result of that ever-present eternal dance,
And whether or not you continue to pass on that dream-state is a decision only time will tell.

* * * *

In the no-mind, there is no history, there is no buddha, there is no you.
There is merely the eternal awareness, the ever-present, indivisible now.

* * * *

So much more knowledge with each and every passing moment.

To let go, to forget, is the challenge of the mind that would be eternal.

* * * *

Perfection in consciousness is but an ideal.
There are pluses and minuses to practically everything,
Unless you are Mary Poppins or some other imaginary fabrication.
Only in the indivisible nothingness of eternal awareness can perfection be realized.

* * * *

Your personality, all you imagine yourself to be and not be, is born of desire and fear.
To be free, to abide vulnerably in awareness, you must still all thought,
And merge back into the timelessness of eternity.
To do so is to be born again into the indelible indivisibility,
Into the absoluteness, into the mystery that is prior to consciousness.

* * * *

The world spins and spins and spins.
The cosmos glimmers and glimmers and glimmers.
And you, unmoving witness through all eternity, through all eyes.
Naught but awareness: indivisible, immortal, immaculate.

* * * *

In every mind across the manifest board,
The ethereal winds of imagination huff and puff helter-skelter
In their own little singular double-double-toil-and-trouble bubbles of space and time.
The world, the cosmos, the unicity, is ever eternally unmoved, indifferent,
To all the self-absorbed dramas of the human paradigm.

* * * *

The moment is ever-fresh, ever-anew,
But are you clear enough, attentive enough,
To imbibe fully the eternal upwelling?

* * * *

Humankind has always been about making into its own image, into its own imagination,
That which has no image, that which is eternally faceless, that which is eternally nameless.

* * * *

The newborn knows nothing of space and time, knows nothing of any other,
And it is the longing to rediscover the timeless birthright, the no-mind of awareness,
That calls cosmic seekers few and far between to quest without and within,
Until they are reborn into the stillness of eternity's quantum womb.

* * * *

Eternal awareness is the state
Of those who have shed name and identity,
Of the rare few who bear no memory of that needing none.

* * * *

The quest for truth, the quest for eternal nature,
May be less about discovering something else,
May be less about experiencing some higher state,
Than it is simply unchaining from everything imaginable.

* * * *

The quest for the eternal, journeys a long and winding Yellow Brick Road,
In which there nothing is to be had, in which there is nothing is to be un-had.

* * * *

A window of mind.
A window of space and time.
A window of eternity.

* * * *

Those who fathom eternal life abide artlessly in the ever-present moment.
To embrace the duality of space-time and all the assumptions of identification,
Is but the living death fashioned by the usurpation of awareness by consciousness.

* * * *

The awareness you are observes the body breathing in, breathing out.
The awareness you are observes the mind thinking this, thinking that.
The awareness you are, call it what you will: observer, watcher, witness;
Always ever-present, always motionless, always changeless, always ageless.
An eternal mystery traveling dreams of time in mortal patterns of every hue.

* * * *

Eternal life is awareness of the awareness.
Enlightenment is awakening to the awareness.
Liberation is wandering the awareness.
Nirvana is being the awareness.

* * * *

How can there be karma if you are nothing more than the eternal moment?
Karma is but another illusory, another imaginary notion,
Playing in the smoke of the given mind.

* * * *

Soul [sōl] noun ... is defined as the spiritual or immaterial part
Of a human being or animal, regarded as immortal.
Part? What part? How can it be a part?
Let us not confuse that which is indivisibly, immortally eternal
With the imaginary personality, the trite character born of time-bound consciousness.
Let us not fall into the egocentric trap that its ephemeral nature
Is anything that is in any way exclusionary.

* * * *

To be that which is prior to consciousness,
To be that which is but unending awareness,
To be that which is nada-nil-zilch nothingness,
To be that is to be the eternal unicity in all:
Omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent.

* * * *

Where would time be without stars and sun and moon?
Without the tick-tock-tick-tock-tick-tock of clocks on walls?
Without ever-changing digital numbers scribing silent screens?
What is time but a mind-made collusion pretending eternity is real?

* * * *

In the tale "The Emperor's New Clothes," a tale of a vain king swept up by a deceitful notion,
The young child, too young to understand the desirability of keeping up the pretense,
Cries out the truth no one else dared: "But he isn't wearing anything at all!"
And if you step back a bit, you will clearly see the human paradigm
Is based entirely on the vanity-vanity-all-is-vanity trickery of consciousness,
An imaginary dreamtime reality to which eternal truth has no allegiance, whatsoever.

* * * *

Eternity whisks away every footstep without thought, without remorse.
Only the sensory mind bound to the dream of time imagines any of it real.

* * * *

Wisdom is the distillation of all the ecstasies and agonies
That have brought you to this point in the eternity of time.

* * * *

Awareness is the baseline of all consciousness,
No matter the manifestation, no matter the dimension.
Prior to that eternal stillness, that timeless now, naught but mystery.

* * * *

Eternity does not at all careen or lurch.
It does not sputter, it does not shake.
It does not jerk, it does not strain.
It does not stick, it does not slip.
It does not tick, it does not tock.
It does not do anything but be exactly what it is,
Which is to stream, to emanate, smoother than silk in every way imaginable.

* * * *

Eternal life is not something remembered, not something born of the mind in time.
It is merely being the timeless awareness, the timeless nowness, the timeless emptiness, you truly are.

There is nothing to become, nothing to prove, nothing to maintain, nothing to pretend.
To be in that state of timeless quietude is to be all there is to be.

* * * *

You have played out every conceivable mythological role:
God, Allah, Brahmin, Tao, Buddha, Christ, and on and on ad infinitum.
None of them are anything more than collusions born of the idolatrous monkey-mind.
Let them all go, give Self over to the eternal awareness prior to all naming, prior to all imagination.
There absolutely is no need to be, to pretend anything more than the timeless stillness,
The quantum indivisibility you are, have ever been, and will ever be.

* * * *

The source for one is the source for all,
Which means in the ever-changing quantum theater,
All things great to small are ever consuming, ever being consumed.
It is an eternal, indivisible, kaleidoscoping, one-in-all-all-in-one, god-eat-god reality.

Soon enough, I shall join the graveyard of dead philosophers,
And all this absurd babble will play to what end, I need neither know nor care.
Likely as not, it will evaporate back into the prior-to-consciousness abyss, relatively undiscerned,
And the human species shall continue racing madly toward the dualistic destiny,
Ordained by its vanity-laced Darwinian genomic predisposition,
Which is so oh-well-so-it-goes-deal-with-it-get-over-it-move-on the way it is,
In the grand schemelessness of all things manifestly grist-for-the-mill eternally indivisible.

Standout Duplicates from “The Return to Wonder”

Chapter One

Nothing wrought of this quantum genesis is ultimately real.
Everything is imagined, everything is dreamily timeless.
All indivisibly appearing, all indivisibly disappearing,
Within and without the eternal matrix of awareness.

Chapter Two

The eternal quest for understanding,
For emancipation from that which is known,
Is a convoluted, subtle, puzzling, chess-like maze,
A timeless game of strategic and tactical finesse,
Which only the most earnest discern and mate.

* * * *

When one surrenders to insight, eternity emerges:
Infinite, timeless, pathless, unencumbered, serene.

* * * *

The quest for eternal freedom requires great courage.
The oblivion of identity, simple as it is,
Is not easily realized.

* * * *

Nothing is lost, nothing is forgotten.
Each alone must search for it, each alone must discern it.
Each alone must let go of all that is known, release all that is held near and dear,
To realize the eternal truth that must forever remain unknown.

Chapter Three

In the ultimate eternal infinity of reality, each of us our own law.
In the club and fang of this mortal garden, however,
That is entirely a relative matter.

Chapter Four

All distinctions, though seemingly real, are ultimately illusory,
A vast eternal play of light and shadow imagining itself,
On the kaleidoscoping screen of consciousness.

* * * *

The quest for eternal freedom takes you to an arena
Few have the insight, discernment, or courage to explore.

* * * *

Circumstance frames each of us to play out one identity or another.
In discerning this truth clearly, you can rediscover reality,
And in that reality, eternal life, eternal freedom.

* * * *

Detachment comes with understanding, illumination with the liberation of eternity.

* * * *

The promise of permanence is a mythological weaving born of mind.
No manifestation can resist the kaleidoscoping nature of isness.
Only in the original state can the eternal reality be fathomed.

Chapter Six

Your eyes, when seen impersonally,
Are just one set of those beyond number,
In eternity's well-trod, ever-present witnessing.

* * * *

No one observing you will ever see much.
You function and interact habitually,
Completing all required tasks,
In much the same mode as before.
It is only within, out of exterior viewing,
That the absoluteness disclosures its handiwork,
The ineffable nature of its eternally timeless moment.

Chapter Seven

Any attempt to fill the void is futile
And only prolongs unnecessary suffering.
Aloneness should be savored like premium wine.
Learning to waft in your eternal vintage is the challenge.

* * * *

It takes a great deal of discerning courage
To be vulnerable, unconditional, intelligent, content, total,
To allow no phenomena to deter opening your heart and mind to eternity.

* * * *

To be ensnared in the web of identity is unequivocal misery.
To believe the temporal mind-body personality real and lasting,
What an arbitrary, confining impingement upon the eternal spirit.

* * * *

Travel as far as the farthest reaches allow,
That which is absolute, that which is eternal,

Is ever the space prior to all imaginary pursuit.

* * * *

In the quest of your eternal nature,
There is no good-old-boy authority network.
You are the soul author of your dreamtime universe.

* * * *

So many try to change themselves into someone else's ideal.
See the complete falseness of trying to duplicate anyone else's journey.
This discernment of the awareness, this insight into the eternal, cannot be imitated.

* * * *

Surrender all you think you are, and what is left is the harmony of eternity.

Chapter Eight

The dreamtime river is an ever-flowing quantum matrix.
Though mind may attempt to dam it, to channel it,
Or to encase it until it wallows in stagnation,
It ever remains eternally unconstrained.

* * * *

To flow in the symphony of isness
Is to know the serenity of eternity.
It is as simple as the next breath.

* * * *

You are ultimately alone in this eternal journey.
At best another can only offer some hints and urge you on.
You must blaze it anew in whatever way you will.

* * * *

When you came into this garden through your mother's womb,
You and all the other creatures knew only the concord of eternity.
You consumed the harvest of knowledge and lost sight of its source.
The so-called beasts still reside in there, awaiting your timeless return.

* * * *

The point of all this is to help you learn
To tap your own eternal nature.
That all your vain divisions are illusory,
That your sense of duality is utterly fabricated.
Examine closely everything you have ever been told.
To fully own this, you must be in revolution to the very core.

* * * *

Every culture creates an ethos to perpetuate its continuity.
Identification with any mindset, any tradition, is inevitably a quagmire.
To become eternally boundless, to realize absolute nature, to become the cosmic dance,
Discern that all mythos is nothing more than vain, arbitrary fabrication.

* * * *

All are free to drink fully from the eternal reservoir.
How thirsty any are, is really the first and last question.

* * * *

To quaff at the trough of eternity without sharing
Does not seem to be the nature of the indivisible.

Chapter Nine

The eternal salvation so many claim
Remains up to you to discover and recover.
Following some guide up an arduous mountain pass
Still requires that you undertake the journey very much alone.

* * * *

You are on your own.
The eternal is yours to tap.
The keys are your heart and mind,
And your unwillingness to settle for lies.

* * * *

To discern heaven, you may well long and far traverse purgatory,
That which this temporal enterprise oftentimes appears to be,
Until, within and without, you awaken to its eternal reality.

* * * *

All the imagination in the universe
Cannot project itself into either past or future.
The eternal here now is the only time there has ever been.

Chapter Ten

Using some confining, dogmatic, pointlessly hollow concept of god,
To endure, to stomach, the day-to-day time-bound mundane,
Does not make anyone more spiritual or transcendent,
Than they and everyone and everything else,
Every indivisible eternal moment is.

* * * *

Never disbelieve or deny another's experience.
Just because it has not yet been discerned within your realm

Does not mean anything is not perhaps possible.
You are the eternal proof of that.

* * * *

Coming to grips with the eternal nature is rarely as simple as it is.

* * * *

Do not hope for a better time.
Heaven's eternal way will ever be now.
Hope only puts off the realization of the unfolding.

* * * *

Eternity begins and ends this moment,
A birthright most are far-removed from ever knowing,
And even fewer tap with their whole being.

* * * *

To give over, to relinquish one's existence
To fully discerning the awareness, the godness within,
There is no greater actuality, no superior truth,
Than opening the portal to the eternal.

Chapter Eleven

Those who quest that which is true will discern it written about in many teachings.
But to actually be the awareness is to look prior to mere belief and faith.
Union with that which is absolute, that which is eternally real,
Is far more than hollow superstition and idolatry.

* * * *

At some point in some given here-ness-now-ness,
Some minds undergo a crisis, a watershed, of consciousness,
And begin a long and winding and solitary divergence toward eternal reunion.

* * * *

For the rare few, mind is a quantum seed that sprouts and grows,
Flowering into timeless realization, eternal liberation,
Conscious awareness of the original nature.

* * * *

Any given mind-body experiencing offers its own means to the eternal.
It will be realized by earnest seekers in every time, in every space, imaginable.
There is really only one Way, but there are any number of pathless paths to discern it.

* * * *

The countless abuses of affluence have ever been set before you.
Those whose greed helms their destiny have neither heart nor mind for eternity.

Their absorption with gold and other shiny things blinds them to the reality of the. Mystery.

Chapter Twelve

You are a human being by design only,
And from the eternal perspective,
Fads change very quickly.

* * * *

Own your given virtue, your given quality.
Put behind you all guilt, all hesitation, all remorse.
Rest content in the serene indivisibility.
You are eternally absolved.

* * * *

The god state is a persevering realization
And you will absorb the conviction
Sooner than you may think.
After all, there is eternity to play.

* * * *

Admission to eternity will cost you everything you hold dear, chiefly your mind.

Chapter Thirteen

The still point now, ever fresh,
Is the boundless spring of the eternal,
The dawn of creation and dusk of destruction.
It is where pleasure and pain, cause and effect are not.
It is where the timelessness of awareness streams conscious.

* * * *

Judgment is an act of separation.
Discern the indivisible awarenesss,
And the weighing will dissolve eternal.

* * * *

Sex and the countless other pleasures of the senses
Take a back seat when contrasted to this reunion within.
What earthly pleasure can possibly match eternal salvation?

* * * *

The senses are merely specialized nerve endings
Evolved though eternity's quantum orchestration.

* * * *

The eternity of time traverses all creation.

* * * *

The eternal ether courses through the veins of the river of creation,

Chapter Fifteen

The fountain of youth is the eternal spring within.

* * * *

Be of good cheer at the demise of your identification with the body-mind.
You are at last eternally free of the many constraints of human concoction.

* * * *

Those rare beings who discover the false separation of the universe within,
Free themselves of all binds in the realm of conscious awareness.
Through their eternal freedom heaven opens to the manifest.

* * * *

To be eternally reborn, to never perish again, you must die to what never was.

* * * *

If you understand science and its methodology,
You know it has been proven beyond all doubt that all is one,
And that you are an equal part of that oneness,
Witness to its eternal mystery.

Chapter Sixteen

Pure eternal awareness is the common ground for all

* * * *

Even just one life, no matter the role played, is an eternal epic.

* * * *

Do not confuse aloneness with loneliness; the latter is time-bound, the former eternal.

* * * *

Dive beneath the choppy waves of the mind's reefs,
Into the silent, serene depths of eternal beingness.

* * * *

You are an eternal mixture of clay and gold, both mundane and extraordinary.

* * * *

It is the indivisible awareness,
The quantum nothingness of eternity,
That is the essence of all things.

Leftovers Added to “The Return to Wonder”

Chapter One

Male and female merge in the throes of sexual ecstasy.
In the quiet tempest of goo, two fertile eggs unite.
In the mystery of the woman’s dark womb,
In the eternal stillness before time,
The seed grows, forms into life.
Out comes an organism,
Wired for a fate yet unknown,
Into a universe of its own conception.

Chapter Two

Every moment springing simultaneously anew within the indivisible quantum matrix.
All its concoctions, all its innumerable forms, ever the same source,
Ever the same awareness, ever the same you-ness,
Ever the same boggling mystery.
How astounding this indelible Song of Godness,
This eternal eye gazing out the masks and veils of manifestation.

* * * *

Awareness is the “awakeness” of all living creations,
Of the indivisible quantum matrix, the stardust, come to “life.”
It is the eternal eye of the unknown prior to all manifestation ever-changing,
And whatever dreams they in spontaneous combustion may inspire.

Chapter Four

It can indeed be a long and winding and oft times lonely road
Until you discern the matrix through which all time-bound linear notions wander,
Is, has ever been, will ever be, eternal aloneness unto thy Self.

Chapter Ten

None are islands in this finite, temporal, mortal dream of time.
Only in eternal awareness are all worlds, all universes, undone.

Chapter Eleven

What is any word but a stagnant thing
Without the dynamic of the eternal moment
Beneath the wave upon which it surfs.

Chapter Twelve

To give attention to the ephemeral eternal moment
Is a busy-busy, measuring-measuring mind's most arduous task.
The imaginary past and its countless projected futures stoke far too much passion
For the quietude of eternity to be allotted its true autonomy.

* * * *

What is evolution but the unknowable,
The creation, the preservation, the destruction,
The selecting, the pruning, the thinning, the harvesting,
The ever-changing nature of matter and motion, energy and force,
In the dance, the play, the lila, of eternal space and time.
An indivisible, boundless, quantum billiard table,
With neither beginning nor end nor middle,
Witnessed each and every moment,
In every imaginable way,
By the awareness you truly are.

Chapter Thirteen

Only in the stillness of eternal life,
Of the awareness prior to all things imagined,
Is there freedom from the myriad vanities of consciousness.

* * * *

There are those rare who dwell in the momentary awareness,
Those who dwell in discernment, those who dwell in the eternal mind,
Insight is its own law, neither bowing to authority, nor subscribing to dogma.

Chapter Fourteen

What does it truly mean to be one with the oneness?
Completely free, completely alone, completely eternal.

* * * *

This universe is merely a temporary theater,
But the you that you really are is real,
Immortal, and free for all eternity.

Chapter Sixteen

The hologram born of imagination is discerned complete
When the awareness you believe a separate you
Fully realizes that its true, ultimate nature
Is the infinite, eternal oneness.

* * * *

Yet another dogmatic, idolatrous, cultish hoax played out as religion.
Why waste any eternal breath attempting to convince others,
Of that which is obvious to those who are not blind?

* * * *

You have pretended it all matters long enough.
Feel free to take a long vacation,
An eternal holiday,
From this theater of the absurd.

There are consequences to action or lack of action.
There are consequences to yes, to no, to maybe.
There are consequences to every turn of the card,
To every roll of the dice, to every spin of the wheel.
Every cause becomes effect, every effect becomes cause.
Creation becomes destruction, destruction becomes creation.
There is no end to the kaleidoscoping wheel of quantum persuasion,

There is only one eternal moment,

Of the ephemeral right-here-right-now.

Awareness is aware of every point and particle of the manifest dreamtime.
It is aware of every kaleidoscoping matrix quantum moment throughout all eternity.
The many creations it omnisciently witnesses are aware of it only rarely, if ever.
To awaken to the awareness, the indelible mystery within and without,
To wander through the reverie, conscious of the omniscience,
Is a center stage role available to all, but offered to few.

* * * *

Awareness is the unknowable source of all intelligence.
Creation is but the sequential means of its eternal quantum potential
For dreaming whatever its kaleidoscoping matrix of a mystery has in no-mind store.

* * * *

Curious so many believe Jesus is going to save them,
When he could not even manage to save himself as more than a myth.
Besides which, every living thing already has eternal life,
So what is there to save, what is there to lose?

* * * *

The irony and paradox of eternal life is that the living is in the dying.
So obvious, so clear, guileless, as to be unintelligible,
To all but the most astute eye and ear.

* * * *

The world, the cosmos, will consume your body, your mind, your dream, as it does everything else.
The real you, however, is eternally immortal, indivisible, untouched, ever aware.
It is That which is never born, That which never dies.

* * * *

To perceive the human paradigm
As anything more than a temporal fabrication of vanity,
Is to miss the indivisible, unblemished, immortal awareness permeating all eternity.
The illusory quantum dreamtime is but a means to all the endings
That are harvested from all the beginnings,
None of which ever really truly even once happened.

* * * *

You are the mystery, eternally infinite, indelible, alone.
All else, all other, all new, all old, all anything, all everything,
Are but imaginary notions, no matter how seemingly real and true.
Time and space are but illusion fashioned by the sensory quantum mind.
This ever-present, ever-motionless, unborn-undying moment, is all there truly is.
All experience, all knowledge, all rumination, is ultimately but an inconsequential dream.

* * * *

What you are is a quantum configuration.
What could possibly be real or true about that?
Is a statue carved of marble the statue or the marble?
Enjoy the magical mystery tour as best you may,
But try to remember, at least occasionally,
A dream is all it is, was, will ever be,
In the indivisibility of eternity.

* * * *

Is the journey to eternity a long and winding road,
Or merely the right-here-right-now of this ever-present moment?
Imagination or awareness, you choose.

* * * *

If you run or stand or sit or lie absolutely present in the here now,
Unattached to, unburdened by, any thoughts, any things,
Breathing in, breathing out, in perfect awareness,
The nothing more, the nothing less, the nothing but,
You will realign with the simplicity, the grace, the harmony,
The indivisible, the eternal virtuousness that nature every moment is.

* * * *

Nature is permeated with an eternal grace,
That consciousness through knowing can never attain.
Only in full awakening and surrender to the underlying awareness,
Can any ever realign with the ultimate reality upon which all creation functions.

* * * *

Such is the fleeting-ungraspable-immeasurable quantum nature of eternity,
That the senses forever lull all but the most judicious minds,
Into a hypnotic state of unavoidable delusion.
Surely as indelibly binding as the instinctual patterning,
Of any other creature this ineffable garden orb has ever fashioned.

* * * *

Such is fleeting-ungraspable-immeasurable nature of eternity's quantum play,
That the senses ever hypnotize the deluded mind into believing it all real and true.

* * * *

Timeless awareness is continually usurped by time-bound imagination.
Awareness is now, awareness is undying, awareness is eternal life.
Imagination is the dream of past and future, imagination is eternal death.
Knowledge and identification are artificial, knowledge and identification are dead.
To exist in the present, to exist unequivocally, to exist eternally, one must forget everything.

* * * *

Imagination is the usurper of perpetual, everlasting, undying eternal life,
It has created time and contrived mind into every permutation of Self, imaginable.
It has woven light and sound into arbitrary meaning, and deified shimmer and vibration.
It has commandeered truth, and interminably manipulated it into deceit after deceit after deceit.
And nature, alas, poor nature, so many crimes in every way, so many crimes to every end.

* * * *

The challenge is letting go of the cacophony ever playing out in our aloneness.
We spend so much time questing the most unadorned reality the mystery has to offer,
Yet there it is: the awareness, the witness, the enigma, peering out from behind every mask.
What need for religion? What need for spirituality? What need for belief, faith, prayer, scripture?
What need for heavens and hells and purgatories, deities and demons, mythologies, icons, sacraments?
What need for messiahs, saints, priesthoods, traditions, superstitions, caste systems, groupthinks?
What need for philosophies, dogmas, ethics, laws, principles, doctrines, idols, mystic powers?
What need for cathedrals, temples, shrines, holy places, titles, hierarchies, dress codes?
What need for dualistic or non-dualistic concepts, or any light or sound shows?
Why worship what you are? Eternity is right here right now, timeless.
Merely being the awareness is all there is: You are it, it is You.
Anything less is nothing more than the trickster mind,
Playing its more-more-more imagination game.

* * * *

Awareness is the timeless, spaceless, right here, right now, eternal moment,
Which human consciousness, ever strives to define or explain or categorize or analyze
Or evaluate or capture or predict or limit or expand or mythologize, in every way imagination allows.
You are inexorably drawn into the delusionary morass of the illusion inspired by the senses.
The indefinable is indefinable; what is not obvious, not unequivocal, about that?

* * * *

Thought is a transitory interloper of eternity.
Space-time is but a distracting illusion of consciousness.
An evolutionary hiccup in the unwritten chronicles
Of the quantum mystery's pathless nature.

* * * *

It is the mind no longer enticed by the sensory paradigm,

Done with the dreamtime fabrications of imagination,
That returns to the immaculate eternal awareness
That it is ... has always been ... will ever be.

* * * *

The world, the cosmos, all form, all light, all shadow,
Is but a temporal perception of the mind born of mystery,
In which the quantum ground every moment seamlessly weaves
An ever-changing eternal tapestry of creation-preservation-destruction.
An eternal play to which you are center-stage witness in every form imaginable.

* * * *

How can a dream, as tangible, as substantial as it may seem, ever be measured?
Even science, incisive as it for all practical purposes appears to be,
Is ultimately little more than another fallacious creed.
The mystery is the mystery is the mystery,
Eternally inscrutable,
No matter how penetrating the mind.

* * * *

Believe any who-what-where-when-why-how you will,
There is no supreme divinity out there choreographing your every move.
You are nothing more than eternal awareness, very much alone,
Playing out a temporal, mortal dream of consciousness.
Navigating it free of all claims is the challenge.

* * * *

There is no deity greater or lesser than You.
All are founded of the same eternal mystery.

* * * *

Eternal life, living fully in the moment, is to waylay all past, all future.
As if nothing has never happened; as if nothing will never happen again.

* * * *

The eternal mystery of awareness,
Beneath an anonymous, ever-kaleidoscoping mask,
Is all you truly are, all you have ever truly been, all you will ever truly be.
If seers keep repeating the same mantra over and over, it is because that is all it boils down to,
Every time the vanity of any given monkey-mind yearns for more.

* * * *

To divide eternity by space-time constraints,
Requires mathematical systems of such scale and proportion,
As to plumb the greatest minds, bound by time as they are, unto their greatest depths.

* * * *

Here you are right now, timelessly eternal.
Nothing before or since has ever happened.

* * * *

The imaginary you is a function of fluctuating consciousness.
Consciousness is a function of the quantum synergy.
The quantum is a function of still awareness.
Awareness is a function of ageless eternity.
Eternity is a function of the ineffable mystery.
All of which comes full circle back to the real you.

* * * *

In the existential mind, there is no one to reproach; the eternal moment is all.
Which makes you responsible for everything you choose to do,
As well as everything you choose not to do.
Perhaps an onerous assertion, but as true as any truth is.

* * * *

What are you but a dream of perception,
In a dream of consciousness,
In a dream of mind,
In a dream of time,
In a dream of eternity.

* * * *

Christ was not a Christian, why should you be?
Buddha was not a Buddhist, why should you be?
Lao Tzu was not a Taoist, why should you be?
Ist's and Ism's, what are they to the eternal?

* * * *

You can tell those who perceive themselves on the losing end of the culture wars
By the way they continually refashion their labels and symbols,
And work so hard for recognition and approval;
Only just maybe discerning, that empowerment blooms within.
Assume it so, damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead, is the way of the eternal warrior.

* * * *

A replete and content existence may well be less about what is accomplished,
Than the attention, the awareness, that is given to as many fleeting moments as possible.
Time is but the illusion-delusion of sensory-inspired memory, and the imagination it casts future past.
Eternal life is in the perpetual birth and death of each and every indivisible instant.

* * * *

The gap between awareness and consciousness,
Is the same as the one between eternity and time.

* * * *

You are this set of biological functions; you are not this set of biological functions.
You are this set of bodily networks; you are not this set of bodily networks.
You are this set of perceptions; you are not this set of perceptions.
You are this set of memories; you are not this set of memories.
You are this set of truths; you are not this set of truths.
You are this set of falsehoods; you are not this set of falsehoods.
You are this set of likes; you are not this set of likes.
You are this set of dislikes; you are not this set of dislikes.

You are this set of failures; you are not this set of failures.

You are this set of fears; you are not this set of fears.
You are this set of reflections; you are not this set of reflections.
You are this set of pleasures; you are not this set of pleasures.
You are this set of pains; you are not this set of pains.
You are this set of vanities; you are not this set of vanities.
You are this set of sensations; you are not this set of sensations.
You are this set of connections; you are not this set of connections.
Your story, your tale, your narrative, your history, your sense of self,
Is but a temporal play of imagination in eternity's misty mystery,
And is, for all practical purpose, forgotten as soon as it began.

* * * *

You in the utter aloneness of pure awareness are the eternal nowness, the eternal life,
Playing the quantum matrix real, timelessly witnessing the mystery you are,
The mystery you have ever been, the mystery you will ever be.

* * * *

All creation is really as modern as it is ancient; all creation is really as ancient as it is modern.
The relativity of the dreamtime you are streamlessly witnessing, and believing so real,
Is tens, hundreds, thousands, millions, billions of years, both ago and hence.
Each and every part and particle very much eternally ever-present,
In all the incalculable pasts, all the incalculable futures, that the indelible awareness,
In every way and shape and manner, simultaneously permeates in this indivisible quantum theater.

* * * *

The mind is swept up by the windy senses
Into an imaginary existence fashioned by nature-nurture.
To discern the ultimate reality, awareness must release into its eternal abyss.
True nature, true Self, is prior to any and all dimensions in this beyond-boggling mystery you are.

* * * *

To be at peace, to align with the eternal way,

You must discern the final course, the ultimate tack.
You must leave behind the sphere of imaginary knowing.
You must still the busy mind into its eternal unknown,
Into the awareness prior to little-self consciousness.

* * * *

Awareness moves not.
It is ever-present, ephemeral, eternal.
Only a very still, very composed, very attentive mind,
Can discern it the singular source of all consciousness, of all dreamtime,
Of all creation, of all preservation, of all destruction.
And from before all beginnings,
To after all endings,
It is all the you, you truly are.

* * * *

What is that which is called god by so many names but an impersonal all and nothing,
An implausible totality so absolute, so timeless, as to be everything and nothing all the while.
An eternal quantum mystery so intrinsic as to be and not be simultaneously in every pointless point.
How is it humankind is not genuinely, beyond doubt, humbled by its relative insignificance?

* * * *

Breathing in, breathing out, as fully, as deeply as you can,
Is as much as the mystery of eternity can offer.
It is as present as you can ever be.

* * * *

Living and dying each and every moment is the way of the mind given over,
To the mysterious ever-emanating nowness of eternal awareness.
Space-time is but the illusion of the neuron trail.

* * * *

And from what might you hope you can be rescued?
Misfortune? Conflict? Suffering? Pain? Death?
If you truly fathomed what life and death are,
You might well perceive eternity's harmonic ballet,
Playing out each and every twinkling, before your very eyes.
That birth and death are but temporal illusions of mind-body consciousness.
That the you, to which you subscribe, is in reality nothing more than a figment of imagination.
Eternal life is the stillness of the unborn-undying awareness, You every instant are,
Witnessing the reverie of a quantum matrix, born of a quantum mind.

* * * *

From the ultimate quantum view,
The so-called evil deed is as indivisible as the good one.
Consciousness is not in any way as important to the infinity of eternity,
As the egocentric, ethnocentric, geocentric, heliocentric mind, in its limited visions assumes.

The temporal individual-tribal mind is to be transcended, not embraced.

* * * *

Time is a function of imagination.
Awareness is a function of eternity.

* * * *

I who am, I what am, I where am, I when am, I why am, I how am,
How can any me, any myself, any I, ever be anything but the same mystery,
The same upwelling, the same unknown, the same abyss, the same quantum essence,
Eternally ever-present, timelessly streaming, indivisibly emanating, unremittingly enduring,
Ever witnessing the kaleidoscoping dream of creation and preservation and destruction,
Through the awareness of the given seed, and its passage through the winds of mind.

* * * *

You are, have ever been, will ever be, the same eternal, indivisible, sovereign, immortal Self.
It is only the nature-nurture, the times and spaces, the minds and bodies,
The cultures and language, and everything other,
That appear to change.

* * * *

Eternity.
More eternity.
Even more eternity.

Soundbites

The stillness, the timelessness of the aloneness, is the essential nature of all eternity.

* * * *

Nothing exists but the eternal now, and even that is a dubious assumption.

* * * *

Eternity, more eternity, even more eternity.

Breadcrumbs

A student of time rooted in eternity.

* * * *

There is no other, only me, ethereally eternal, forever present.

Breadcrumbs 2019

Leftovers

The unborn-undying indelibility of this unknowable eternal mystery
Is that the awareness, the you-ness, within and without,
Indivisibly, timelessly, permeates everything,
And nothingness, all the while.

* * * *

There is no resolution to the loneliness fashioned by consciousness,
But to immerse in the unadulterated aloneness of awareness,
That is the eternal source of its thought-created torment.
To seek respite in conscious schemes is but a transient salve.

What can you be once you stop identifying with the mind-body and the universe it has created?
Once you stop imagining the dream the senses every moment, hypnotize you into believing is real.
Once you discern that pure awareness is the one and only reality there is, has ever been, will ever be.
Once you realize your true nature is the ever-present here-now, the absolute totality, of all eternity.

* * * *

The immaculate awareness you truly are, is ever absolutely alone,
Unbound in the indivisible, indelible, unborn-undying solitude of eternity.
Your illusory universe will distract the mind you occupy in every way imaginable.
Fashion every possible hook to every moment, draw you out into its kaleidoscoping theater.
And as challenging as it may be to realize, to accept, it is ever your choice whether to give in, or not.
And in every moment, you do acquiesce, in every moment, you do sip the quantum elixir,
You become but a marionette playing out an ultimately inconsequential dream.
To believe or not believe, to slumber or awaken, that is the question.

* * * *

Another instant, another moment, another twinkling,
Another second, another minute, another hour, another day, another night,
Another week, another month, another year, another decade, another century, another millennium,
Another period, another era, another span, another epoch, another age, another eon,
A quantum medley, all kaleidoscoping in the very same eternal now.

* * * *

Rushing, rushing, always rushing, as though you have the power to make eternity,
That mysterious presence that is neither time nor space, somehow move any faster,
Or slower, if you believe digging in your heels will have some effect that direction.

* * * *

Consciousness born of mind, born of the illusion inspired by the senses,
Ever conspires to usurp the awareness that enables its imaginary dreamtime,
But cannot because fallacy can never reign when smoke and mirrors is its only hand.
That which is but time and space can never capture even for a moment that which is eternal,
That which is unborn, that which is undying, that which is not of times and space,
That which is indivisible, prior to all that is temporal and mundane.

* * * *

Living for what others think of you can be a very long, very winding journey
Through an endless labyrinth of netherworlds born of imaginary notion.
The mind-body suffers, consciousness suffers, imagination suffers.
The eternal awareness you truly are – and are not – is ever untouched.

* * * *

You are eternity pretending a limited, oftentimes narrow vision.
Hence vanity, and its indivisible, kaleidoscoping dance
Of every virtue, every depravity imaginable.

* * * *

How this mystery came to be, how consciousness came to be,
Neither you nor anyone else will ever more than speculate.
It is only in the eternal stillness of the ever-present awareness
That you will ever realize any tranquility in your existential quest.

* * * *

The continuity is imaginary.
In reality the awareness is born anew every moment.
Eternal life, such as it is.

* * * *

Time is but a memory, a perception, a vision, an insight, a timeless flicker of imagination,
Sparked of the electromagnetic spectrum generating the invention of existence.
Upon a more esoteric scaffold, it has been called the Lila of Brahman.

The means by which the mystery may be eternally distracted,
With but a relative few stimulated by stubborn doubt
To quest, to wander, prior to consciousness.

* * * *

Like air filling up a balloon, unconcerned its size or shape or color,
Who-what-where-when-why-how it will wander, when it will pop or deflate.
The same indivisible essence equally filling all things great to small for all eternity.

* * * *

This eternal moment is all you are, all you have.
Observe it well, for it is ever come and gone
Before you can even begin to perceive it.

* * * *

Supreme being is not an entity; it is not a dualistic notion.
It is the awareness, the indivisibility, the timelessness, the quintessence,
Within all creations great to small in the omnipresence, omnipotent, omniscient sense.
It is the beingness, the oneness, that reigns unconditional.
It is the absolute, it is eternity.

* * * *

In awareness, the seeker distinguishes Self.
In imagination the seeker seeks and seeks, on and on.
Breathe in, breathe out, to discern how eternity is far too simple
For the busy-busy of imagination to long endure.

* * * *

Your genetic past is the foundation of the patterning you are right here, right now.
Everything you say, everything you do, was written in your sands,
Long before eternity bloomed into consciousness.

* * * *

Do you truly yearn for the freedom of eternal awareness,
Or is it merely the huff and puff of agreeable words?

* * * *

There are a variety of remarkable substances
That will aid your discerning the truth of this mystery of existence.
That this quantum dream of time and space, of agony and ecstasy, of all dualistic notion,
Is ultimately nothing more than an imaginary light and sound show.
That you are absolutely alone for all eternity,
And cannot do a friggin' thing about it,
Except succumb to one diversion after another,
Until you perchance wake up and stop smelling the roses.

* * * *

What on earth leads human beings to believe any deity worth its salt
Would be at all interested in, at all concerned about, their pathetic tripe?
Imagine listening to all that wretched whining, day after day, for all eternity.

* * * *

Heaven, hell, purgatory, call them what you will, are but conceptual perceptions,
Attitudes, insights, experiences, beliefs, realities, dreamscapes, notions, impressions,
Equally witnessed by the indelibly indivisible, eternal awareness of any given moment.

* * * *

Whenever thought attaches to any sort of attribute,
Imagination usurps reality, death raises its conditional mind,
And the indivisible awareness seamlessly dissipates from center stage,
Serenely witnessing the eternal dream from behind the veil of consciousness,
The cloak that flutters amok in every rational and irrational way imagination allows.

* * * *

The philosophers scrutinize with their language.
The scientists and mathematicians with their facts and figures.
All dispatching imperative thoughts and conclusion upon every this, every that,
To the awareness, the anonymity, the obscurity, the spaciousness, the timelessness, the stillness,
The wakefulness that witnesses all eternity with equally immeasurable detachment.

* * * *

What is the eternal mind?
A mind that is awareness.
A mind that is perpetual.
A mind that is quantum.
A mind that is timeless.
A mind that is infinite.
A mind that is unborn.
A mind that is undying.
A mind that is absolute.
A mind that is immortal.
A mind that is indivisible.
A mind that is ever-present.
A mind that is ever-tranquil.
A mind that knows nothing.
A mind that is immaculate.
A mind that is everlasting.
A mind that is unbound.
A mind that is at rest.
A mind that is clear.
A mind that is solitary.
A mind that is sovereign.
A mind that is no mind at all.

* * * *

The consequences of the Seven Deadly Sins:
Pride and envy and gluttony and lust and wrath and greed and sloth,
Are eternities of universes beyond counting.
Moderation is the challenge.

* * * *

What effort it takes to hold that imaginary universe together.
So much simpler to abide in the pure awareness of eternity.

* * * *

No matter how far you wander, how long you wander, where you wander, how you wander,
You will ever be abiding in the very same eternal prior-to-consciousness awareness.
You will ever be enduring in the very same perpetual right-here-right-now.

* * * *

Awareness is prior to consciousness.
Awareness is eternal, timeless, boundless.
Consciousness is temporal, time-bound, limited.
A dream and dreamer ensnared in a quantum mirage.

* * * *

So many words, so many concepts, so many philosophies, so many dogmas.
All artificial, all just to describe, to explain, to illustrate, to capture, what always boils down
To the same timeless, unborn, undying, ungraspable mystery of awareness.
The eternal source that requires absolutely none of it.

* * * *

Why fill your immaculate, indivisible, eternal mind
With all these religious labels, with all these religious dogmas,
To which our kind is so needlessly, pointlessly addicted?
Awareness is all there is, and there ain't no more.

* * * *

The human mind, human consciousness, is an insatiable beast,
Ravenously consuming everything it can, seeking experience at every level,
Including attempting to grasp, to know, the immeasurable unknown,
Whose indelible mystery is eternally, indivisibly unbreachable.

* * * *

It is religions that are dead, not god.
That which is immortal source is very much present.
Very much eternally, indivisibly, permanently, right here, right now.
Very much the awareness, the witness, you truly are.

* * * *

A brief, narcissistic existence, replete with fabricated, delusionary meaning,

Surrounded in all directions by an eternally infinite ocean of purposelessness.

* * * *

All the gusty flurries of the mind are of absolutely no consequence to the eternal awareness.
The myriad concoctions of imagination are but time-bound fabrications
Of an ever-changing make-believe reality.
If you yearn for tranquility, if you yearn for true Self,
Abide the cosmos kaleidoscoping about you in the ground of awareness.

* * * *

Destiny is all, all is destiny,
Naught but a blink, a blip, a flash, a pfft, in all eternity,
Whatever that is, or is not.

You see an identity; the sage, eternity.

Three eyes; two for the world, the third for eternity.

You are eternity.

No order to these many reflections.
In their long transcription, they have been mixed
And re-mixed too many times to count.
So, open your Self to any page
To fathom the moment
In which you eternally dwell.

All these words have bubbled onto paper
Because the scribe is prone to easily forgetting
The unseen reality in the day-to-day of work and play.
Despite the many reflections about existence and absoluteness,
He is not quite austere enough, at this writing, to completely surrender
To the be-in-the-world-but-not-of-it everlasting god-drunk
That the indivisible emptiness of eternity offers.
And so, the words keep coming.

An intellectual reverie of the eternal flame.

If you peer long into this mind,
You will find it as simple and complex
As the mortal dream of time in eternity allows.

Without sun or moon or stars,
Without clocks or watches or calendars,
Without memories of this or that, or that or this,
Who-what-where-when-why-how is there such a thing as time?
This timeless awareness, this timeless moment, this timeless right here, right now.
Is all there is, all there ever was, all there will ever be.
Dissolve the sensory mind-body.
Be eternity.

* * * *

What a bizarre thing to supposedly be created by some supreme being,
Only to be cast forever into hell or purgatory for not falling into line
With a controversial collection of desert-dweller commandments,
Or an implausible messiah and his frothing cult of true-believers.
Even if there is some sort of Santa Claus rendering of a god on high,
Have you really lived such a despicable existence to be all that apprehensive
About being eternally damned in the byzantine abysses of some Dante-esque inferno?
I mean, seriously?

* * * *

For all practical purposes, you are as anonymous to the universe as it is to you.
Even the most powerful, even the most wealthy, even the most known,
Are already forgotten in the timeless expanses of eternity.

To really go all the way,
To really surrender all the way,
To really be totally awake in awareness,
Is the eternal harmony, the unborn-undying reality,
Of the great nothingness from which all appearances are spun.
The challenge is to embrace the mystery of awareness,
Without the imaginary limits of consciousness.

Before the advent of humankind, this garden pearl was akin to a finely-tuned clock.
As eternally precise as its Darwinian nature could be.
And then man learned of fire,
And history streamed into absurdity beyond all pales.

The eternal awareness observing, thoroughly detached, thoroughly indifferent,

Where ethics or any other imaginary notion or sentiment,
Had any say, any validity, any reality, any truth, whatsoever?
The eternal mystery does not give a flying hooey about anything.
Oh well, so it goes, deal with it, get over it, move on.
Irony and paradox and absurdity rule.
Practice detachment.

* * * *

Awareness is the bastion of serenity.
Vanity is the source of all hells, of all purgatories.
Eternity has been right here, right now, every moment, all along.
Time and space are but quantum illusions choreographed by the sensory mind.
It is through the self-absorption of consciousness, of imagination,
That we have become blind to the timeless presence.
Still the mind-body, abide in awareness,
Discern the mystery you are.

* * * *

There is no yoke, no millstone, no chains, no shackles, in seeing, in being, the mystery you ever are.
No idolatries, no tribes, no traditions, no dogmas, no symbols, no rituals, no rewards, no punishments.
Just you, pristine awareness, the eternal eye, the mystery itself, witnessing the ever-present moment.

A neural network of memories, of perceptions,
Is all you are, have ever been, will ever be.
Space-time is but a quantum illusion.
Consciousness, but temporal theater.
Clouds drifting in the eternal awareness.
Unborn, undying, indivisible, unfathomable.

For those who seek truth, awareness of awareness,
Awareness of the eternal moment, is all that it is required.
You are the truth, the life, the way; the challenge is just to be it.

The eternal moment is the nexus
Through which all creation, through which all destruction, all that is unborn, all that is undying,
Kaleidoscope in the immeasurable, indivisible, indelible awareness,
Witness to all that is, witness to all that is not.

No matter how tainted, no matter how corrupt, no matter how vile, no matter how despicable,
The imaginary, the make-believe, the fictitious, the pretend, the illusory role you play,
The you that is real, the you that is true, the you that is eternal, is immaculate.
Free of all that the ever-ebbing-ever-flowing currents of consciousness are capable.

* * * *

The mind is drawn to silence, to stillness, to eternity, but churns on and on.
Despite all assertions to the contrary, consciousness does not really want to let go
Of its imaginary, of its illusory, of its ever-kaleidoscoping quantum space-time creation.

Eternity is the timeless, spaceless, right-here, right-now, every-where,
For every ever that has ever been, for every ever that will ever be.
That all this is happening, that this world and cosmos transpire,
Is as mysterious a mystery as any mystery could ever chance to be.
The challenge is not attempting to name it; the challenge is just being it.

* * * *

Being awareness, being the moment, is eternal life.
To want more is to be ensnared in the maze of imagination,
The dreamtime of the sensory mind given over to quantum illusion.

* * * *

To bask in the eternal unborn-undying moment,
Some call it nirvana, some satori, some rapture, some joy, some harmony, some ecstasy,
Some paradise, some heaven, some bliss, some contentment.
I call it home, sweet home.

* * * *

Awareness is eternal witness to the omnipresent, kaleidoscoping quantum theater.
All identity, all personality, is but the conditioned response of imagination
To all the causes, to all the effects, played out in each and every mind.
The you that you think you are, the you that you believe you are,
Is but an electromagnetically-induced chemical perception,
An illusion, a delusion, a deception, born of a mystery
Whose immeasurable truth can never be known
But by those rare seekers who become it.

* * * *

It is a quantum theater.
You are not the quantum theater.
You are the unborn-undying eternal moment.
You are the awareness infusing the quantum theater.
You are the awareness perceiving the quantum theater.
You are the awareness witnessing the quantum theater.

* * * *

Awareness is the eternal moment.
It is without time, without space.
It is without cause, without effect.
It is without beginning, without end.
It is without purpose, without meaning.
It is absolute aloneness, unborn, undying.

* * * *

Awareness is the indivisible, impenetrable moment.
Awareness is prior to consciousness; there is no prior to awareness.
It is the inexplicable, immutable, indelible, omnipresent, faceless witness of eternity.
Label it whatever sound or symbol mind wills, no paradigm can ever own its unborn-undying nature.

* * * *

Why be at all concerned about heavens or hells or purgatories?
Or reincarnation, or any other mind-made, time-bound conception?
Of past lives you have no memory; of future lives you have no certainty.
All that is relevant is this very right-here-right-now eternal moment.
As it would have been, or will be, in any future-past ever created.
Be in this very singular moment, wherever, whenever, you are,
And all theaters will play out as the sands of time prescribe.

* * * *

Despite imagination's interminable penchant for make-believe,
There is no other time, there is no other space, that you can possibly be,
But this very right-here-right-now, unborn-undying, eternally absolute moment.

* * * *

For all practical purpose, vanity is hardwired into the human genome.
Some religious folk like to call it original sin for their own pious reasonings,
But it is really nothing more than the long and arduous path of natural selection.
The morphing evolution of breeding choices in the brewing stews of cultural theaters,
As the species gradually migrated every direction out of the African jungles of so long ago.
It is much less about sin than the inevitable outcome of all the dynamics this mystery has coined.
And awareness, the eternal, indivisible, unborn-undying witness in every sentient creation.

* * * *

What is the mindful state given over to absolute awareness of the unborn-undying nature?
That which is prior to all imaginary notions evolved of the mind's quantum dream.
That which is eternally right here, right now, without past, without future.
That which is all you really are, that which is all you really are not.
That which is the omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotence that is truly God.

* * * *

To abide in the eternal awareness is to live in an existential state,
Ever anew, flawless, pristine, impeccable, untarnished, immaculate.

An 80-year existence as a human being, not including 20-ish leap years, is:
960 months; 4160 weeks; 29,200 days; 700,800 hours; 42,049,000 minutes; 2,522,880,000 seconds.
What will you do with all those moments in your preordained eternal dream?

* * * *

How can you discern the eternal but by observing very lucidly,
By observing beneath the shallows of consciousness at the timeless awareness,
The moment in which the world, the universe, all creation, kaleidoscopes unborn-undying.

The awareness of the eternal moment neither condemns nor absolves.
The awareness of the eternal moment neither ascends nor descends.
The awareness of the eternal moment neither hopes nor despairs.
The awareness of the eternal moment neither seeks nor finds.

Humankind worships what it sees, what it feels, what it conceives,
Rather than the timeless indivisibility that can never be known,
Rather than the eternal moment that is ever unfathomable.

All things – animate or inanimate – are always in the quantum here now.
All forms great to small are but notions given reality by the sensory mind.
The eternal moment, the timeless awareness, is all there truly is, and is not.

* * * *

The mind-body is the only way you can ever travel the space-time of this eternal quantum mystery.
And it will ever be at a one-breath-at-a-time, one-step-at-a-time, one-moment-at-a-time, kind of pace.

* * * *

All sentient life forms small to great gaze out upon their unique universe,
Each and every one, the same indivisible, ubiquitous awareness,
The same indivisible source, the same indivisible mystery.
Declare the awareness to be one god or many,
By whatever deific-sounding sounds comes to mind,
The inscrutable that humankind ever aspires to penetrate,
Is eternally indifferent to, unaffected by, all conscious endeavors.

How can you prove anything; why should you have to?
How can you prove everything; why should you have to?
How can you prove awareness; why should you have to?
How can you prove eternity; why should you have to?
How can you prove naught; why should you have to?
How can you prove You; why should you have to?
And as for some God, what would be the point?

* * * *

To imbibe the clear elixir of eternal life, timeless life, momentary life, disengage the mind from time;
From all the memories of existence – even from the recollection of a moment ago –
As often as the ever-present attention can wrestle itself free,
From the insistent grip of imagination,
The creator of all that is time-bound and illusory.

* * * *

Every life form has its rise and fall.
Every tribe has its rise and fall.
Every culture has its rise and fall.
Every nation has its rise and fall.
Every boulder has its rise and fall.
Every mountain has its rise and fall.
Every world has its rise and fall.
Every star has its rise and fall.
Every galaxy has its rise and fall.
Every universe has its rise and fall.
The mystery is all, the mystery permeates all.
The awareness, every moment, indelible witness of all.
There is no other; only the quantum matrix, and its eternity of appearances,
Kaleidoscoping a most excellent dream of space and time, that only the rarest minds discern unto Self.

* * * *

The less you cling to any given moment,
The less the dream will distract you from your eternal due;
The absoluteness you truly are, and are not.

* * * *

You each and every moment decide, whether or not,
To engage in the temporal, or the eternal;
In the tangible, or the ethereal.

* * * *

Still your mind.
Eternity is that stillness.
It is that simple.

* * * *

Every moment, a decision.
Every moment, a slice of process.
Every moment, the kaleidoscoping now.
Eternity will not be undone.

* * * *

Hallucinogens have no doubt played a significant role in the eternal quest, in all times, in all geographies.

To see the mystery clearly, one is not required to use the bounty the garden has used to entice us forward,
But they are useful tools, that can be used in conjunction, with whatever wandering opens the inner eye.

* * * *

Space and time can come to an end,
And eternal awareness, regain the helm,
If you manage to disregard the sensory input,
And allow the mind to be very still.

* * * *

Odds are that imagination will always be lurking about,
Waiting for any opening to distract You from the eternal moment,
From the timeless awareness You truly are, have ever been, will ever be.
Until those occasional moments, in which full attention kicks in,
And the real You awakens in the moment you ever are.

* * * *

The sense of self is not the body, not the mind, not the life.
Imagination usurps the eternal awareness for its own mortal schemes,
For its time-bound creations, that are, in reality, no more lasting than the moment.
Reincarnation is but an imaginary concept; no thespian returns to center stage again and again.
All are new seeds, new actors, in which the awareness, the mystery, performs yet another one-time show.
All who are born to the stage, are the same awareness, the same consciousness, the same witness.
Call it theater, call it matrix, call it god, call it whatever you will, it is one in all, all in one.
It is quantum stagecraft: unscripted, extemporaneous, serendipitous, happenchance.

* * * *

I observe you, you observe me, each of us peering out.
Only in reflections do we discern our masks and costumes,
Because we are both the same awareness, the same faceless Self,
Eternally gazing out upon all other imaginary parts.
And they, eternally gazing back at you.
You are the indelible mystery, and it is you.

* * * *

What if you could profoundly articulate and understand, every human language ever spoken, ever written.
That you were intimate with the histories from which they, in partnership with nature, evolved.
What an astounding thing it would have been, to have witnessed all creation, all genesis,
From beginning to end, from germination to fruition, from cradle to grave,
And what if that 'what if' included all life forms, from small to great,
All the other organisms this Darwinian garden has in space and time devised.
You would have to be some sort of all-encompassing deity, to achieve such awareness.
And surely that divine omniscience, can never more than imagine its way onto any mortal stage.
And though we all are all of this eternal awareness, we are but pawns in its mystery theater extraordinaire.

* * * *

The expanding cosmos of human knowledge is the first and foremost zero-sum game.

What will happen to it all, when the human species eventually goes who-knows-when-how extinct?
Is there some vast, eternal vault, wherein can be found a manilla folder, with a single page,
On which are, in faded print, typed beginning and end dates for a planet called Gaia?
So much for the vanity-vanity-all-is-vanity show being even noteworthy.
Maybe go ask all the Petri dish universes what they were about,
To voilà-realize that all existence anywhere, anytime,
Is really nothing more than a fleeting stain.

* * * *

Forget your imaginary self,
Forget your imaginary world,
Forget your imaginary universe,
Forget everything you think you know.
Become the ineffable, indelible, unknowable, unfathomable, intangible, indivisible, lasting, unutterable,
Irrational, unborn, undying, inexpressible, overwhelming, indefinable, expansive, immortal,
Unspeakable, deep, beyond words, ineradicable, permanent, enduring, intrinsic,
Engrained, deep-rooted, deep-seated, impenetrable, timeless, eternal,
Awareness,
You truly are.

* * * *

And why would it be in any way at all important, why would it be in any way at all significant,
To be known, to be remembered, to be revered, by two-leggeds you will never meet?
Neither now, nor hundreds nor thousands of orbits round our star hence.
Anonymity is the very solitary actuality for all things eternal.

* * * *

Are you really any more than a flesh-packaged-wrapped-sheathed-incased-bundled blob?
Are the human body's five sensory accessories— eyes, ears, nose, tongue, nerve-ridden skin —
Anything more than Mr. Potato Head mechanisms wired into an organic central processing unit?
Are all the things that make the human paradigm what it is — opposable thumbs, larynx,
Two arms, two legs, lung capacity, group dynamics, sexuality, et cetera —
Anything more than the happenstance of natural selection?
The mystery is the master of all possibilities.
Nature is its ever-changing, ever-evolving expression.
The device You inhabit, is but current issue in a timeless dance,
Eternally kaleidoscoping, for as long as the enigma of imagination endures.

* * * *

Can any following ever not create some sort of unnecessary mischief?
Best to retain this variety of eternal questing in the solitary confines of your mind,
And if you do pass it on, try to be sure to chance into the recipient only as serendipity allows.

* * * *

It is not the awareness that does anything, that remembers anything.
Consciousness is the engineer of all mischief.
The eternal is immaculate.

* * * *

Your spin in the genetic lottery may make you lucky,
But it does not make you special, it does not make you superior,
It does not make you higher or lower, stronger or weaker,
In the eternal eye of the spaceless-timeless moment.
Try to avoid getting all narcissistic about it.

* * * *

If you think life is monotonous, imagine eternity.
As mundane and lackluster as the mind it is given.

* * * *

The busy-busy mind, the curious mind, the time-bound mind, the illusory mind,
Can be easily drawn, easily enticed, down every variety of rabbit hole.
To reside in the eternal awareness requires great detachment
From the temporal world and all its distractions.

* * * *

This moment is all there is, and there ain't no more.
No who, no what, no where, no when, no why, no how.
Nothing to know, nothing to be, nothing to be curious about.
That there is nothing to conceive, is so amazingly slam-dunk obvious.
In fact, it is impossible to conceive, to imagine, anything, within any given moment.
Even if the momentary, unborn-undying awareness, could, somehow, stop long enough to consider it;
Could somehow, make the quantum space-time matrix, stop its kaleidoscoping merry-go-round;
Could somehow hold absolutely still, for even one single poof of an eternal moment;
It would all boil down to: this moment is all there is, and there ain't no more.

* * * *

Imagination takes you anywhere you please.
It is the magic carpet ride of this eternal mystery.
Perhaps wearing a bit thin as far as this garden goes.

* * * *

How did you ever come to believe that You, were this mass of crunchy and chewy and gooey?
This double-double-toil-and-trouble vat of quantum, patterned into life,
That somehow, through countless Darwinian choices,
Came to be but the current chariot,
From which to witness your eternal creation.
Be not too attached to it, for it must go the way of all the rest.

* * * *

We all play the part, the role, spun by the genetic lottery.
Nature-nurture spins character, and they, together, spin destiny.
Only in looking back, can there be any awareness, any understanding,
Of what it took for you to have reached this moment,

In your performance, in your spectacle.
And you, its solitary, dispassionate, eternal witness.

* * * *

What would happen if humankind across the world, somehow awakened to its eternal nature?
How would we behave toward each other, and the garden, we have so brought to its knees?
How would we mend ourselves, and the environment, we have so abused and neglected?
What discourse would there be, if vanity and greed no longer spun their absurdities?
What decisions would the species make to become guardians instead of destroyers?

* * * *

Consciousness (a.k.a., imagination), the great usurper,
Is a trickster, a jester, a charlatan, a skalawag, a scoundrel, a pretender,
With every imaginable diversion, every ways and means, every moment, at its beck and call.
Ever enticing the awareness that you are, that you are not,
Away from its eternal nature.

* * * *

Yet another day, same mind, same body, same instincts, same routine, same storyline.
Awareness can do nothing more than witness; it is the unborn-undying, sleepless eye of eternity.
Taking the Red Pill, the no-stone-untuned existence, is a quest to which few are inclined.
Any fallacy, any delusion, any lie, can only usurp the truth in undiscerning minds.

* * * *

Being present in the timeless now, is the most simple state the eternal moment offers.
How ironic, how paradoxical, that it is among the most arduous for imagination to bear,
Given how the breezes and gales of illusion and delusion so easily distract the wavering mind.

* * * *

This here-now, ever-present, eternal moment, this timeless awareness, is all there is.
There are no other moments, no other space-times, no other dimensions, no other dreams.
You are captive to its kaleidoscoping intrigues for as long as the mind-body is fated to endure.

* * * *

After everything is gone, the mystery will remain,
As ineffaceable and untarnished as eternity allows.

* * * *

Awareness is an impenetrable, changeless stillness, both clear and obscure.
It is that in which creation and preservation and destruction compose genesis.
It is the soul of all dreams, it is the source of all potentials, it is the eye of all eyes.
It is the moment, it is timeless, it is spaceless, it is eternity, right here, right now.

* * * *

You have read the books, seen the movies, know the tales of so many histories,
And the oh-so-many-ways people can die, in both fiction and nonfiction,
And how would it be, if you could experience them all, each and every one?

Imagine dying ... every ... imaginable ... death ... for all eternity ... Ooh-la-la.

* * * *

Your individual dream of consciousness, of imagination,
Is but an infinitesimal splinter of the grand dream of all dreams,
And that is naught but the very same moment all eternity is,
All that is not, all that never was, all that will never be.

* * * *

If only eternity could tell the full tale,
The mystery's mysteries would find a resting place.
Meanwhile, dread and speculation and adversity and death will carry on
As they have since the dawn of consciousness.

* * * *

You are the current issue of your genomic lineage
Since the origin of all life several billion orbits around the sun ago.
Every moment of eternal awareness playing out the quantum dream of space and time.

* * * *

Clocks, watches, calendars, or any other measurement device,
Are gauges of illusion, not reality, and most definitely not eternity.

* * * *

How can you continue believing this imaginary self is at all real, is at all true?
It is an ever-kaleidoscoping quantum theater of ecstasy and agony,
Swirled in the nature-nurture dream of the given seed.
Nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.
Without thought, where is time?
Forget everything; unclench your mind.
Let go your world, let go your universe; be eternity.

* * * *

Without thought, where is space, where is time?
Forget everything; unclench the mind.
Let go the world, the universe.
Be the eternal, You are.

Eternity is right here, right now, this very singular, timeless, spaceless moment; cease looking for more.

Give your Self over to what You really are, and are not, in this eternal moment.

* * * *

You are forgotten by eternity every moment.

* * * *

If you think life is monotonous, imagine eternity.

* * * *

Eternity is only as boring as the mind you give it.

* * * *

Consciousness, a.k.a. imagination, is far too ephemeral to last long in eternity.

* * * *

What is death but the return to the undivided attention of eternity.

* * * *

What is long ago, what is long hence, in the relativity of the timelessness of eternity?

* * * *

Nothing that has ever happened has had any bearing on the eternal moment.

* * * *

You must listen very closely, to hear the eternal silence.

* * * *

Goals can blind you to the process, the now playing out one eternal moment at a time.

* * * *

The moment is the wave of time and space coursing through eternity.

* * * *

Awareness can do nothing more than witness; it is the unborn-undying, sleepless eye of eternity.

* * * *

Eternity is indeed magical, but it does not take magic to see it.

* * * *

Eternity is closer than you think; certainly, far less than a heartbeat away.

* * * *

Eternity is not a circus; certainly not the one so many two-leggeds make it.

* * * *

How can awareness, how can the moment, how can eternity, be anything but pure?

* * * *

The indelible awareness within is the eye of eternity.

* * * *

This moment, right here, right now, eternity in a nutshell.

* * * *

A gazillion tomorrows will all transpire in the same awareness, the same eternal now.

* * * *

Time is a function of imagination; awareness, a function of eternity.

* * * *

Let go your world, your universe; be eternity.

* * * *

What is eternity? A moment? An hour? A day? A life? Forever? All of the above?

Breadcrumbs

These writings are an offering, a gift, to the eternal life within all creation.
Am I the delusional one for spouting all these thoughts? Or you, for not discerning it?
Or perhaps both, for ever having engaged in this fantastical, utterly improbable dreamtime, at all.

* * * *

This entire adult life has been spent observing, imbibing, exploring, inquiring, whatever came to the door;
To very gradually, very unpretentiously, very unintentionally, very scientifically,
With great naïveté, wander into this eternal conclusion.
It is as honest as honest can be.

* * * *

Eternity is bound by neither space nor time.

* * * *

Still mind, eternal mind.

* * * *

Is it really some 'me', some 'myself', some 'I', who is reading this?
Or is this sense of 'me' really nothing more than programmed imagination?
Imagination shrouding the awareness timelessly witnessing this sensory-mind dream.
The awareness eternally witnessing dreamtimes in all sentient beings in which mystery harbors.
What is there to say, but that these musings have all willy-nilly bubbled into the abyss of this mind's eye,
And then step-by-step morphed from that emptiness, to paper to screen to world-wide web.
Oh, that I could somehow see how they play out in the epoch decline and fall,
That all existence will endure through the dreamtime ahead.
I would hazard a guess that most writers,
Most artists, most creators, of any and all persuasions,
Feel much the same as they watch their creations drift into a future-past
They cannot more than in imagination play out, all the twists, all the turns, of possibility.

* * * *

The eternal philosopher, historian, anthropologist, scientist, mathematician,
And any other academic arenas this mind was drawn to reconnoiter,
All together, pervade the ever-expanding frame of reference.
So full, so empty, an imaginary destiny plays out.

Breadcrumbs 2023 & Beyond

Leftovers

2023

Awareness is the one and only You, the everything within all,
And it has no attachment to any shape, to any existence, whatsoever.
Its indivisible omnipresence-omniscience-omnipotence permeates all totality.
It is the unborn-undying, imbuing all dimensions, all illusions, cultivated by sentience.
If you are to realize the truth of that which eternity is, it must include everything, including You.
There is no need for deities, no need for souls, no need for angels, no need for saints, no need for demons,
No need for belief, no need for scripture, no need for dogma, no need for priests, no need for idols,
No need for worship, no need for prayer, no need for superstition, no need for cathedrals,
No need for heavenly ecstasies, no need for purgatories, no need for infernos.
Awareness is witness to all, and You, a sparkle of that eternal now.
All You need do, is be the solitary witness You ever are,
Without the self-imagery chained to form.
Be the ever-present moment.
Be the awareness.
Be the ineffable mystery.
Be the flawless sentience of eternity.
Be the indelible Self of all selves, of all creation.

* * * *

Time is but a concoction of imagination's perception of gravity's dust balls,
Angled this way or that, in varying distances from the furnaces of their given stars.
A galactic potion, double-double-toiled-and-troubled-fire-burned-and-cauldron-bubbled.
The natural selection of the mystery playing its Self, by its Self, across its eternal nothingness.
Awareness, in its quantum collider, its laboratory of creation, all outcomes naught but illusory dreams.
And you, that ineffable, intangible, indelible, indivisible, unborn-undying, timeless awareness,
Playing out your little part, in your little dream, all alone, right here, right now, poof.

* * * *

Change is a challenge for minds bent on custom, on belief, on habit, on ritual, on convention, on tradition.
To be free of inward constraints, to be unfettered by limitations of human consciousness,
Is not something for which any oracle will find widespread reception.
Paradigm shifts are not instigated by the multitudes,
And revolutionaries often run afoul of swords, not always their own.

* * * *

We are all extemporaneous players in this Shakespearian mirage.
We all strike the pose, the attitude, the passion, the given twinkling beckons.
The moment none can help but complete in whatever fashion nature-nurture has allotted.
From royal flush to low card, the hand you are dealt, is the one you must play.

Should you choose to stick around, to enjoy and endure it all, that is.

* * * *

Every life form in the six kingdoms is the same indivisible, indelible, timeless quantum matrix mystery.

Every life form in the six kingdoms plays out the nature-nurture of its genetic lottery algorithm.

An archaeobacterium plays out its archaeobacterium nature-nurture genetic lottery algorithm.

An eubacterium plays out its eubacterium nature-nurture genetic lottery algorithm.

An animalia plays out its animalia nature-nurture genetic lottery algorithm.

A protista plays out its protista nature-nurture genetic lottery algorithm.

A fungi plays out its fungi nature-nurture genetic lottery algorithm.

A plantae plays out its plantae nature-nurture genetic lottery algorithm.

And the inert players – earth, wind, water, fire – the clay of all existence.

Stardust come unto life, stardust born of mystery; natural selection its chisel.

All ever vibrating away simultaneously; all dancing their given places in the sun.

All ever creating, ever preserving, ever destroying; all ever indivisibly unborn-undying.

All ever the same ineffable quantum matrix mystery; all ever the same ineffable eternal moment.

* * * *

You are stardust come unto to life, mystery come unto life, eternity come unto life.

Dial into the timeless moment, and all questions, all answers, will become irrelevant.

* * * *

This mind-body you imagine yours, is a drop of the quantum matrix,

Streaming like a current through the electromagnetic spectrum,

Flowing through lesser masses; stopped by more solid ones.

Physics is physics is physics; there is no breaking the laws.

And what is the ether allowing it all to happen: Awareness.

We drift like clouds passing to and fro in an untouched sky.

A touchy-feely dream; nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

Space and time are illusions, to which there is no direction.

There is no forward, no backward, no right nor left, no up nor down,

Nor any other bearing that imagination might in sensory perception envision.

The quantum dream is always, right here, right now, kaleidoscoping, no direction known.

And You are the centerstage, You are the awareness, You are the witness,

To the ineffable mystery playing out the given sentence.

All that is, all that is not, every moment.

* * * *

You are already samadhi, ecstasy, bliss.

All you need do, is be still enough to discern it.

We are all that which is called God by many names.

Each of us exploring our own exclusive matrix of creation.

And why do you need to believe in anything concocted by mind?

Is not just being, enough, without all the nonsense born of imagination?

The infinite ocean is an infinity of drops; how could all this be, any other way?

Without the endless splintering, there would be no existence, there would be no witness.
And it is You, who must endure it all, with all your spirit, very much alone, a light unto your Self.

* * * *

It is indeed beyond boggling, to fathom: You are the universe and beyond.
That you are the indivisible, indefinable, unfathomable, indelible, ineffable mystery.
But wrapping your head around it, is as simple as letting go, and wrapping your head around it.
One does not ask for permission to be free; one asserts it, affirms it, champions it, with their entire being.

* * * *

Creation is the moment; destruction, the same;
With a kaleidoscoping of eternity's moment between.
And creation to one beholder, may be destruction in another's.
The quantum matrix is an ever-morphing playhouse;
All witnessed by the ineffable awareness,
Through the eyes of sentience.
There is no other.

* * * *

Science is only what it is, because of all the technologies,
That awareness, through imagination, has created to measure the cosmic illusion.
The dreamtime, that the electromagnetic spectrum – the quantum stardust, the divine dance, the Shiva –
Has spun into sentience upon this pale blue dot, is a sentience capable of exploring its mystery.
As to the question – whether it is intelligent design or naturally-selected happenstance –
Is it really, worth, all the absurdity, all the horror, our kind every moment inflicts,
Upon one another, all our fellow earthlings, and this very pale blue dot?
We are all the same mystery, come unto the dream of existence;
What narcissism to give it more narrative than that.

* * * *

... As real, as it every single moment, every single breath, every single blink, seems ...
... Your entire existence – this thing called life – from the cradle to the grave ...
... Everything you see and hear and touch and taste and smell and feel ...
... Your mind, your body, your world, your cosmos, your dream ...
... Is entirely imagined, entirely fictional, entirely illusory ...
... Poof! ...

* * * *

Imagination has thoroughly conquered this garden dust ball.
And thrashed it into a twisted shadow of its naturally-selected, Darwinian purity.
It is a cancer wreaking havoc upon the host, that cannot forever allow its wayward nature to continue,
If Gaia is to survive and blossom anew, in the grand theater of this grand mystery.
The story's conclusion will never see its campfire telling.

* * * *

It is the insatiable ravenousness of the mind, of consciousness, of imagination,
That must be disciplined, be tempered, be controlled, be mastered.

You can pretty much do anything, once and a while.
You cannot do anything all the time.

* * * *

You are but a particle,
Wafting to and fro in the sea of mystery.
All of it all the while.

* * * *

This moment has been a window of freedom and affluence,
The masses have never experienced in all human history.
And the zenith of that world is in the rear-view mirror.
Oppression and anarchy will dance a perverse duet,
In the scar-tissue of the world we have set afoot.

* * * *

Seriously, how much software do you need, how many apps do you use, how many games do you play?
Virtual reality has its time and place, and is the dominating stimulus in these our times,
But an existence without a relationship with the real virtual reality,
That mystery from which all this has come to be,
Is a dubious existence, indeed.

* * * *

There is absolutely no concoction of consciousness, of imagination, human or otherwise,
That will even for a moment hold fast, in the spaceless, timeless awareness,
Of the ineffable, indivisible, indelible stillness, of eternity.
Quantum illusion is ever quantum illusion;
No matter its hunger for a more,
That has never been, and can never be.

* * * *

Imagination creates time, imagination travels time, imagination is time,
And through it all, imagination make-believes it truly exists forever and a day.
Only in the timeless tranquility of awareness, can it be discerned as the perjury it is.
Nothing the busy-busy mind will ever concoct, will ever fathom what you are, and are not.
To be truly free of all its monkey-mind assertions, the no-mind, the unclenched mind, is the key.

* * * *

It is the body, the corporeal container, that dies, not You.
The reality is, we were never born, so dying is highly improbable.
You are the awareness, the right-here-right-now, the mystery, of all eternity.

* * * *

Time and space are an illusion of consciousness.
We only believe we exist because of a sensory mind-body,
Fabricated by the electromagnetic spectrum, a.k.a., quantum matrix.
Meditation long ago intuited it illusion; science has proved,

We are all very much alone in our own twilight zone.

* * * *

Consciousness, cognizance, imagination, memory, mindfulness, insight, intuition,
Can never even hope to be more than a shadow of the awareness,
That is as real as it can ever, will ever, get.
The real and the unreal are a duet of the unknown.

* * * *

To follow, to worship, the vain and mighty; why?
When being your Self, in this very right-here-right-now,
Is the 24/7/365 all-accepting alter of what is, is-ing ever along.

* * * *

What else can truth be, need truth be, but awareness its Self, pure and simple and free?
Prior to all priors, within all within, without all withouts, beyond all beyonds, You are.

* * * *

You have never been real, you will never be real, in any way you think.
There is only pure awareness, it suffers not, be free, die now, to all of it.

* * * *

You may be an extremely complex pattern, but you are a pattern, nonetheless.
Your fated destiny is playing out – ineffably inexplicable as its indivisibility ever is –
As the first moment of creation, spun into being, its magical-mystery matrix of space and time.

* * * *

If there is an omniscient-omnipresent-omnipotent, merciful god,
Why would you ever have to pray, to beg, to plead, to hope, for anything?
How would he-she-it not know your every need, your every want?

* * * *

Always curious how our kind build ups or tears down,
The many others who chance through the conditioned awareness.
To illustrate it in agricultural vernacular: we till, we prune, we thin, we grade,
And then enjoy the bounty, the harvest, the fruits, of our industry.
And woe unto those who are not deemed worthy.

* * * *

In the infinity of all eyes, there is but one witness.
No need to give it any name or rank, other than You.

* * * *

We are all dancing in every way imaginable, in the same quantum hologram,
The infinite matrix, of the inexplicable source, that has ever been You, awareness.

* * * *

To wander untouched, untroubled, untainted, by the sensory theater,
Is the way of the eternal mind, timelessly witnessing.
As the mind moves, so does the dream.

* * * *

You are first and last, with nothing before or between or after,
If space and time truly existed as more than a quantum dream.

* * * *

Eternal salvation is about being free of the fell grip of the space-time born of imagination.
The return to nothingness, is the dissolution of all things imagined,
Of all things begetted of consciousness.

* * * *

We all get a sensory window, oh-so-mortal, to the mystery all equally are.
All tweaked and twisted by the imaginary conviction,
Through which all things are viewed.

* * * *

Awareness neither creates nor destroys.
Awareness neither begins nor ends.
Awareness neither loves nor hates.
Awareness neither praises nor maligns.
Awareness neither enjoys nor dislikes.
Awareness neither celebrates nor broods.
Awareness neither favors nor disfavors.
Awareness neither simplifies nor complicates.
Awareness neither discerns nor neglects.
Awareness neither is nor is not.
Awareness neither supports nor opposes.
Awareness neither validates nor refutes.
Awareness neither admires nor derides.
Awareness neither clarifies nor confuses.
Awareness neither wins nor loses.
Awareness neither catches nor releases.
Awareness neither lightens nor darkens.
Awareness neither lives nor dies.
Awareness neither ascends nor descends.
Awareness neither endures nor succumbs.

Awareness neither rescues nor abandons.
Awareness neither does nor undoes.
Awareness neither clears nor blocks.
Awareness neither frees nor imprisons.

Awareness neither perceives nor ignores.
Awareness neither solidifies nor evaporates.
Awareness neither strengthens nor weakens.
Awareness neither enables nor prevents.
Awareness neither facilitates nor impedes.
Awareness neither shortens nor lengthens.
Awareness neither appears nor disappears.

Awareness is the unborn-undying; with neither beginning nor end.

* * * *

Watching the second hand move, watching the minute hand move, watching the hour hand move;
Watching the world turn, watching the clouds in every shape and size race across the sky;
Watching the sun, the moon, the stars, go round and round, every day the same;
Who-what-why-when-where-how, is the witness doing the watching?
Eternity is ever-present for those who have eyes and ears,
To see and hear the mystery, as it frolics in its quantum infinity.

* * * *

Awareness is ... right here, right now.
To dub it either infinitesimal or infinite, or anything, actually,
Is to give it a space-time tone that absolutely has no basis in its reality, whatsoever.
Consciousness is but an imaginary wisp of nothingness, wafting through the beyond-expansive expanse.
And humankind playing out its ceaseless dramafest in a pre-determined fashion,
Far grander than the human mind can comprehend,
Lest it doth become it.

Has your lifetime of philosophizing, in any way,
Transformed the patterning of your terrestrial mind-body?
Not that you have, in any way or shape or form, ever once witnessed.
Destiny is destiny, fate is fate, fortune is fortune, upshot is upshot, kismet is kismet,
No matter how it is chiseled in stone in the sands of time.
All sentience endures it the same.

* * * *

... The mystery of the immaculate, flawless, pristine, impeccable, immortally eternal awareness ...
... Prior to all priors, within all within, without all withouts, beyond all beyonds ...
... Ineffable, intangible, indelible, indivisible, unborn-undying ...
... Omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent ...
... Spaceless, timeless...
You

* * * *

The awareness sees.
The awareness hears.
The awareness smells.
The awareness tastes.
The awareness feels.
Long gone before mind remembers it.

* * * *

If there is a guiding hand to this mystery, it is the process of natural selection,
Set into motion at the inexplicable, ineffable inception of creation.
The only answer, for those always seeking answers,
Is solitary walks, or staring into space,
Until the mind's need for answers dissolves.

* * * *

The relatively agreeable thing regarding imagination,
Is that you can do absolutely anything the mind might venture.
Angel on high in the lap of some deity; or demon, as low as low can go.
The mind is the magic carpet time machine, that can meander all creation at will.
Far less bother than the real thing can be; especially when it comes to the harsher fantasies.
That so many must twist and destroy other lives, is the wretched absurdity of this planet of the apes.

* * * *

Neither You, nor anyone else, can help but play out their destined role.
There is nothing to do, but spontaneous extemporaneous.
Play out every scenario as the moment calls.
Choice has nothing to do with it.
None can do more,

Than surrender to the abyss in all.
Call it whatever you will, it is all You; there is no other.

* * * *

Why are you so fearful of it all coming to an end?
Oblivion is the state from whence You came.
Oblivion is the state to which all return.
There is absolutely nothing to fear or dread.
There is absolutely nothing for which to hope or plead.
There is simply eternity, which You are, have ever been, will ever be.

* * * *

Is natural selection a function of spontaneity, of autonomy, of self-determination, of free will,
Or simply the continuation of the pattern-selection, kaleidoscoping since the first moment of genesis?
Impromptu, spontaneous, extemporaneous, when viewed from the macro level;
But precisely, exactly determined, at the quantum level.
Has there ever been even one choice?
Is such an unsynchronized flow even remotely possible,
In this ineffable cosmos, absolutely orchestrated, every moment, in every way?
Looking back at your entire existence, what say did you have in anything, that lead you to be reading this?

* * * *

The you, you imagine carries on, is not the You, You are.
All forms are but ever-changing, temporal, quantum illusions,
To which only imagination, stimulated by the senses, is witness.
The awareness You truly are, is the omnipresent, immortal actuality.
Humankind's capacity for delusion is the harbor of all things irrational.

* * * *

This ultimate truth is all that really matters in this théâtre absurde.
Everything else is nothing more than quantum illusion.
Everything else is but an imaginary dreamtime,
In which You are voluntary prisoner,
Of your own mind's design.
There are no chains.
There is only the moment,
And You are as free as You dare.

* * * *

You are but a particle, wafting to and fro in the sea of mystery; all of it all the while.
The quantum sea allows every variety of form to play out however it will,
Without parameters, without attachment, without judgment.
Only human imagination, imagines otherwise.
What need for any deity, for any dogmatic entanglements,
Once you have discerned right-relationship, with the mystery's totality?

* * * *

Any given mind is a universe unto its Self;
Unto the awareness in which all forms dance.
In which imagination, imagines an authenticity,
Engineered entirely by the given nature-nurture.
An impromptu performance of genomic design.
To assume it free will, would be a conclusion,
Without substance, in the abyss of eternity.

* * * *

The unknowable created the cosmos.
The cosmos created the world.
The world created nature.
Nature created Gaia.
Gaia created humankind.
Humankind created imagination.
Imagination imagined the unknowable known.
Ineffable, indivisible, ineffaceable, unfathomable, immaculate.
And in that knowing, the sense of self was imagined.
And in that awareness of imaginary self, You.
Omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent.
Creator, preserver, destroyer.
Eternity, born into time.
Eternity, imagined.
Awareness, all.
All, You.
There is no other.

* * * *

You, Awareness.
Awareness field.
Awareness infinity.
Awareness freedom.
Awareness tranquility.
Awareness indelibility.
Awareness sovereignty.
Awareness absoluteness.
Awareness indivisibility.
Awareness timelessness.
Awareness singularity.
Awareness totality.
Awareness truth.
Awareness joy.
You, Awareness.

* * * *

How they always win, how they always rule, how they are always at top of the food chain,
Has been the same tale since long before our kind migrated out into the plains.

It is the tale of power, of might makes right, of the law of the club,
And who is willing to wield it, with the most savagery.
Submit or die, it matters not to the big ape,
And the minions who serve in every possible way.
The axis of evil is nepotism and cronyism and favoritism.
It is the reality of natural selection since life's most primordial etchings.
Quantum stardust – morphing, mutating, evolving, dancing – in the mystery of awareness.
The mystery of Self, of the one and only dancer, playing itself alive in every possible way, including You.

* * * *

Letters and numbers and notes, and any other hieroglyphs,
Are all imagined, and bound to the mirage of time and space.
The awareness is prior to all; the sky in which all clouds dance.

* * * *

Your universe will never be the same once you wander from the first one.
Actually, it has never been the same every moment since your conception.

* * * *

Imagination can only imagine itself to be awareness.
That which is prior to all things born of quantum design,
Cannot be grasped by the whimsy of consciousness.

* * * *

Whether awake or asleep, a dream is a dream,
And that is all it is, all it has ever been, all it will ever be,
No matter how many memories the imaginary you shores it up with.

* * * *

Are you walking alone, paying attention to the given moment,
Or with the cloud of memories rolodexing through the cerebellum?

* * * *

If there is movement, there are ripples,
And ripples, and ever more ripples, rippling away.
That is the disposition of the coin of creation and destruction,
With preservation flipping to and fro about the edges.

* * * *

How you deal with the kaleidoscoping moment,
Is entirely shaped by the nature-nurture,
You drew in the genetic lottery.

* * * *

Humankind is what it is, has always been, and will always be.
Would make sense to just sit and stare at a wall, as to get all twisted about it.
Discerning the sanctity of eternity – to be at peace with the illusion – is a gift to your Self.

* * * *

The body is always in the present moment.
Awareness is always in the present moment.
Only imagination wanders space and time.
Only imagination creates space and time.
Only imagination imagines itself alive.
Only imagination imagines itself real.
Only imagination imagines its Self.
Only imagination imagines totality.
Only imagination imagines nothing.

The mitote, the chaos of 1,000 voices all trying to talk at once in the mind,
Are always ready and waiting and eager to sally into the windmills of your mind.
How many are playing over and over and over in your head, in the right here, right now?

* * * *

The mystery created imagination.
Imagination created deities of every variety,
And plays out ceaseless permutations of vanity and greed.
Its trail of horrors ignores all rationality, all compassion, all munificence.
The mystery, in all its vastness, has no shoulders to shrug.

* * * *

Hot or cold, hard or soft, clean or dirty, clothed or naked,
Comfortable or uncomfortable, asleep or awake, seen or unseen,
Engaged or unengaged, self-absorbed or Self-absorbed, it is all the same.
The awareness is equally within every particle of creation.
Omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent.
You are it; it is You.
The other is but imagined.

* * * *

Someone who has not got a lot to do, has less time to do it in,
Than someone who has a hectic existence, with so much on their plate,
That any need is added to the list, and done as quickly and efficiently as possible.
Yet another peculiar irony in the paradox of all things two-legged in this quantum dream.

* * * *

What is creation's beginning but the space of awareness,
Stirring just enough to explode into the quantum soup,
That would eventually manifest into all the forms it,
In any given here now, pervades, including yours.

* * * *

Our kind does not deal well with not knowing everything that consciousness can come up with.
It was not the fruit of knowledge, that was plucked in Eden; it was the fruit of imagination,
That was swallowed in full by the tree-dwellers, in whom the mind-spark first sparked.

* * * *

Big bang, genesis, turtles all the way up and down, call it whatever you will,
Somehow it began, and somehow it will go on for as long as it does.
What need to speculate about a mystery that can never known?
All who try, only wave their arms about, uttering vague absurdities.

* * * *

The clinging to memories, to all that is perceived,

Are just imagination's refusal to let go of any allotted moment,
To let go the existence it believes really happened,
Forever gone as soon as it happens.

* * * *

Suspend knowing, forget everything.
Be the awareness, absolutely free.

* * * *

The awareness is your magic carpet ride home.
How much closer to God could you possibly be?

* * * *

In dissolving the mitote – the chaos of 1,000 voices all trying to talk at once in the mind –
Into the stillness that is real, into the silence that is real, the first and last voice is your own.

* * * *

No matter how it tries, no matter what tricks, what fallacies and delusions, it plays with itself,
Imagination, confined to the space and time of its own dreamy invention,
Can never ever keep up with the timeless moment.
Alas that eternal awareness has no time to taunt such a loser.

* * * *

No matter how far and wide your pathless walkabout,
You will always find your Self right here, right now.

* * * *

This may be the last time,
You ever do that.
Or see that.
Or hear that.
Or taste that.
Or smell that.
Or feel that.
Or be that.
Savor every moment.
It is gone before you know it.

* * * *

Let go of everything.
Memories.
Things.
Relationships.
Family.
Friends.
Adversaries.
Enemies.

Power.
Fame.
Fortune.
Desires.
Fears.
Dreads.
Passion.
Sensuality.

Concerns.
Cares.
Hopes.
Hates.
Loves.
Problems.
Solutions.
Ideals.
Beliefs.
Habits.
Pipedreams.
Dogmas.
Busyness.
Distractions.
Knowledge.
Self-importance.
And any other stirrings of consciousness.

* * * *

If you believe I am saying, there is not a supreme deity, think again.
If you believe I am saying, there is a supreme deity, think again.
Back and forth that whirling dervish, as you are inclined.
But the truth is, I do not know, nor do I care.
I Am ... What more need be said?
The moment is all.

* * * *

The human paradigm is founded on imagination's usurpation of the eternal awareness.
The young in any clan, any tribe, any culture, only know what came before,
Because imagination requires them to embrace the dreamtime,
It has so diligently, so earnestly, worked to sustain.
The human paradigm would not be what it is without it.
How long imagination can preserve its anomaly, is the question.

* * * *

Assuming it is your intention to waylay the usurpation of imagination,
It is all about paying close attention to whatever is going on.
It does not really at all matter what you are doing;

Only that you are giving the eternal now full attention.

* * * *

We are all timeless figments of imagination,
Attached to the biology from which the senses peer out,
In an impromptu nature-nurture, matrix-theater of quantum design.
The ineffable, indelible mystery of stardust come to life.

* * * *

The entire human paradigm is nothing more than stories born of imagination.
Your story is but a collage of perceptions, all founded on a fabricated frame of reference.
The only story you need to end, is your own; without a story, the incessant inner narration falls silent.
You must let it go, as if it never happened, if You wish to be the eternity You are.
One does not need to forever pretend something that is not real.
Without the story, what is a given moment?

* * * *

You were born with no story; what happened that you made up this illusionary tale?
A fable which all seems so real in the streaming moment, but is instantly but a vague memory.
And yet you cling to it real, until the body perishes, and the neuron matrix no longer ignites imagination.
And what you all the while really were, what you all the while really were not, becomes apparent.

* * * *

Very possible, very probable, indeed, given its magnitude,
That there are many superior beings in many parts of the universe,
But whether or not there a supreme one, only the most discerning discern.

* * * *

The hungers of human consciousness can be insatiable,
If not bound to moderation by an austere, disciplined mind.

* * * *

Die to the world, die to the cosmos, die to everything that consciousness imaginations.
Become the sky of awareness, the presence of awareness permeating all and nothing.

* * * *

You are every moment, a twinkle of stardust, come unto existence.
Ever an indivisible, indefinable, unfathomable, indelible, ineffable mystery.
How is it, so many give over to the empty speculations and inventions of storytellers?

* * * *

Without consciousness, without imagination, without vanity,
You might well be something slimy, or a rock,
And call yourself lucky, to boot.
After all, being an abyss, is eternal fare.

* * * *

What a transcendent mystery, for sentience to have evolved,
And somehow further mutated into imagination.
The mystery of the Mystery, indeed.
And will imagination survive itself?
Is a query the moment will never answer,
Until the last twinkle of stardust, twinkles its last.

* * * *

Who among us, is able walkabout throughout any given day, any given night,
Without the perpetual pitter-patter of every variability of judgment?
The human paradigm is eternally lost to its tribal instincts,
Very much hinging on the relativity of differences.
To be indifferent to differences, is prior-to-consciousness fare.

* * * *

All perception is ever a right-here-right-now illusion-delusion.
Space and time are but imaginary fabrications of the sensory mind,
Trapped in its own nature-nurture labyrinth, evolved of natural selection.
Whether designed or happenchance, dualistic or nondualistic, divine or secular,
Is but conjecture of the ever absorbed, ever agitated, ever busy-busy mind in question.
From birth to death, first breath to last, the ineffable ever remains ineffable.

* * * *

Ponder the revolutions it took for a hunter-gatherer species,
Migrating out of the jungles of Africa, to arrive at this moment in time:
... Agricultural ... Industrial ... Technological ... Scientific ... Commercial ...
Boggling how right Malthus will relatively soon be, as we surge, every instant, ever closer,
To the inevitable edge of our spinning blue marble, hanging-in-space, Petri dish.
What more can you expect from a cancer, bent on consuming its host.

* * * *

Explore your limits, expand your limits, and then do the same with the new limits.
The many boxes, in which you ever reside – no matter how many you may punch through –
Are entirely of your own imaginary creation, as patterned by nature-nurture's quantum programming.

* * * *

All life forms are but a one-time seed, a one-time instrument, a one-time vehicle,
Through which the indelible, indivisible mystery of awareness,
Witnesses yet another illusion of creation.

* * * *

To imagine you are the mind-body is an error,
All of humankind has over and over and over made,
Since the first seeds of imagination took root,
In the mutations of natural-selection,
In the jungles of so long ago,
But a blink of eternity.

* * * *

Look at all those stars in the sky, and me tell, truthfully,
That you believe they are Santa Claus, and the North Pole, Heaven.
And he is Peeping Tom everyone, and keeping an eternal tabulation of demerits;
Casting all upstairs or down, for choices made in an existence,
In which no one has ever had any choice.
He is You; figure it out.

* * * *

ChatGPT query: An aphorism about the stillness before time.
Answer: In the silence preceding time, existence finds its breath.

* * * *

This right-here-right-now moment is the one and only truth.
How could the mystery be any more; how could it be any less?

* * * *

Pure awareness is the thick pea soup of oblivion,
In which space and time have no access,
And imagination is immobilized.

* * * *

What is sleep but a mini-oblivion,
Practiced over and over in the given lifetime,
Until the curtain falls, and the Reaper takes another bow.

* * * *

Build contentment into your dynamic.
Infuse it into the depths of the awareness You are.
No need to beat your Self up over anything, anymore, anyever.

* * * *

How can you be bored? How can you be restless?
When every single moment, is, in reality, exactly the same.
When it is only the degree, the motivation of attention, that changes.

* * * *

Yes, there is indeed a supreme deity, and it includes you and me,
And every quantum-dust-filled star and planet and moon and rock and grain,
And the unutterable, ineffable, formlessness of nothingness betwixt and between, as well.

* * * *

How boring, oblivion; how could any Self ever say no,
To every form of distraction imagination might devise.

* * * *

There clearly is no 'keeping-a-list-checking-it-twice-be-good-or-coal-in-the-stocking' Santa Claus deity.
That notion has been patently absurd from the get-go in every culture humankind has spawned.
If some god-word must be used to describe this beyond-boggling quantum matrix,
The concept surely must incorporate everything, including you and me.
There is no need for the banalities of organized religions,
Because we are all very equal witnesses,
To the same ineffable mystery,
Every kaleidoscoping eternal moment.

* * * *

Those eyes you are gazing into, those lips you are kissing on, are no different,
Than any gooey protoplasm this stardust world has ever spawned.
It is only imagination, playing out the imaginary theater,
This line of genomic sequencing has ordained.
And You, lead imaginary thespian,
In your production of quantum stagecraft.

* * * *

For the eternal stillness, for the eternal moment, to reign supreme,
The imaginary mind must be made whole, must be given over to awareness,
Through complete, utter, unreserved, absolute, total attention.
A level of attention, immortal in nature.

* * * *

The cosmos within, the cosmos without; they are the same.
It is consciousness, it is imagination, that has counterfeited their duality.
Tabula rasa has no chance against nature-nurture, and the first birth, 3.8 billion years ago,
Which has, permeated by awareness, mutated through natural selection, into You.
And it is You, and You alone, who must set aside all the conditioning,
And become the stillness that is the birthright of all things.

* * * *

Imagine if you had just been born, and knew absolutely nothing;
What would be that state of mind, and might it still be accessible?

* * * *

No matter the religion, the belief, they are all just stories.
If God is so great, why does he need anyone to affirm it?

* * * *

Resign yourself to the fact that you will likely decline and fall with a very long list,
Of books and movies and music and whatever, unwatched and unread and unheard and unknown.
The cruel reality is that the most anyone can hope to achieve in this dreamtime mystery,
Is a hearty statistical sample, in whatever frame of reference fate allows.

* * * *

We are all but ephemeral dreamtimes of our ultimate nature,

Temporal waves crashing upon the rocky shores of infinity.
What is the point of judging any part or particle of it, really?
A dream is a dream, nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.

* * * *

How many moments in an attosecond?
How many moments in a nanosecond?
How many moments in a second?
How many moments in a minute?
How many moments in an hour?
How many moments in a day?
How many moments in a month?
How many moments in a year?
How many moments in a decade?
How many moments in a century?
How many moments in a millennium?
How many moments in a million years?
How many moments in a billion years?
How many moments in a trillion years?
How many moments in a gazillion years?
How many moments in a moment?
Eternity, right here right now.
Bam!

* * * *

No need to sentimentalize the mystery, no need to idealize the mystery.
It is what it is, it is what You are, nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.
Mundane, dull, boring, dreary, monotonous, repetitive, tiresome, uninteresting,
Lackluster, tedious, wearisome, unvaried, colorless, pedestrian,
Deadly, droning, ordinary, bland, nondescript.
Despite all your vain pretenses,
You know it true.

* * * *

You are older than the stars, younger than the moment.
Right here, right now, this very, one-and-only, unborn-undying, timeless, ineffable instant.
Eternity ... Bam!

* * * *

Contemplation and meditation,
Are the means to explore and realize for your Self,
The mystery You are.

* * * *

Every moment, the garden, and of all its life forms,
Eat and drink and devour and munch and chomp and guzzle itself in ways beyond counting.
It is an ever-kaleidoscoping quantum mystery from the get-go.

* * * *

Nobody goes through life without having an impact on others in this dreamtime theater.
Some cast more ripples than others, but every part and particle,
Is required for the dream to play out,
In this quantum matrix of space and time.

* * * *

You were born the tabula rasa of awareness,
Until the cosmos drew you into its web of consciousness.
To discern and reclaim its immaculate, indivisible, ever-present nature,
Requires diligently watering and nourishing the seed of doubt with truth everlasting.

* * * *

All the knowledge the illusionary manifest world has to offer,
Is nothing more than trivial pursuit in eternity's yawning abyss.

* * * *

It is not your consciousness, nor my consciousness, nor anyone else's consciousness.
It is simply consciousness, playing out in every mind, in every way imaginable.
All the gibberish, all the babble, all the drivel in the world, means nothing.
Be still, and know You are, have ever been, will ever be, That I Am.

* * * *

That world, that universe, that you, exist only in imagination.
You are naught but the awareness of the unborn-undying moment;
Regardless the ever-kaleidoscoping illusion the sensory-mind weaves.

* * * *

How arrogant any who consider themselves masters.
Every mind is the spawn of imagination,
Begun anew every moment.

* * * *

The challenge is to give the moment your fullest attention,
In whatever way the sensory mind is riveted,
For it is quickly come and gone,
In its ineffable, indelible, indivisible way.

* * * *

It is all an illusion, it is all imagined,
There is no one to follow, there is no one to be.
You are as free as You allow the awareness You are to be.

* * * *

There is no scripture, no dogma, no authority, that can prove the mystery this or that.
Put them all down, let go all narrow thinking, let go all attachments, embrace eternity.

* * * *

The higher high, the greater buzz, the more meaningful moments, are illusory,
And are meaningless, delusionary projections, of a mind that does not really exist.

* * * *

Attention to the timeless moment is as spiritual as it gets.
There is no more, except in the endless maze of imagination.

* * * *

What cosmos does the mind gaze out upon,
But its own creation, its own perception.

* * * *

Truth, ever the right-here-right-now moment,
Kaleidoscoping from one to the next,
Differing only in the mirage in which it is cast,
Bound by no mind, in its sentience through space and time.
Very much akin, to very fine dry sand, in loose fingers, on a very windy day.

* * * *

Millenniums can be counted.
Centuries can be counted.
Decades can be counted.
Years can be counted.
Months can be counted.
Days can be counted.
Hours can be counted.
Minutes can be counted.
Seconds can be counted.
As can every class of epoch,
And age and era and eon and cycle.
But how do you count the eternal moment,
Upon which all inklings space and time are imagined?

* * * *

Realigning the mind to eternity.
Realigning the mind to sentience.
Realigning the mind to awareness.
Realigning the mind to mindfulness.
Realigning the mind to wakefulness.
Realigning the mind to endlessness.
Realigning the mind to the moment.
Realigning the mind to perpetuity.
Realigning the mind to infinity.
Realigning the mind to now.
Requires great attention.

Breathe through it.

* * * *

Consciousness, neither is, nor is not.
Awareness, neither is, nor is not.
Eternity, neither is, nor is not.
Space, neither is, nor is not.
Time, neither is, nor is not.
You, neither are, nor are not.
It is but quantum kaleidoscoping.

* * * *

Pure and simple infinity,
Pure and simple nowness,
Pure and simple awareness.
Pure and simple wakefulness.
Pure and simple timelessness.
Pure and simple mindfulness,
Pure and simple endlessness,
Pure and simple perpetuity,
Pure and simple sentience.
Pure and simple eternity.

* * * *

Quantum earth.
Quantum wind.
Quantum water.
Quantum fire.
All playing in ether.

* * * *

This led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Led to this,
Ad infinitum.
The moment is like that.

* * * *

All the letters and numbers and notes and other tools of creation, cannot,
In the ever-present timelessness of eternity, more that fleetingly entertain.

* * * *

No matter how quickly you move, no matter how quickly you cogitate,
Momentary awareness will always beat you to the punch.
Even the fastest computers cannot outrace it.
Nor the speediest quantum.
A tie at best.
Else it would be time travel,
Which would be difficult, even if time existed.

* * * *

Stardust come to life, quantum come to life, awareness come to life, eternity come to life.
Molecular beings, chemical beings, carbon-based beings, genetic beings, biological beings.
An indivisible, indelible, ineffable mystery, baffling on a scale beyond all comprehension.

* * * *

Enjoy the eternal moment, best you can.
The alternative is much less entertaining; torturous, actually.
Why not up the game, with the highest-grade endorphins, imagination can conjure?
There are so many drugs available, both natural and man-made, to use to explore the moment-to-moment.
And for those who want to fly solo without aids, there is the zafu and zabuton,
And more than a few solitary places to sit and walk.

* * * *

Looking closely at words,
How they are spelled, what they mean,
Can oftentimes seems more that a little inexplicable.
Language, what an indelible mystery consciousness hath wrought.
And every one, across the world, across time, an expression of its culture of origin.
Could there be anything more boggling about the human paradigm?

* * * *

To declare awareness infinite,
Is as wrong as it would be, to call it infinitesimal.
How can any measurement measure, how can any thought encapsulate,
That, which the bounds of time and space, cannot contain.

* * * *

Even if you were to spend an entire existence wandering about the world,
It would be as meaningful as any ant wandering about a kitchen sink.
Vanity might wish to think itself important to its imaginary deities,
But imagination can do nothing to waylay the reality of eternity.

* * * *

How else would any divinity create a universe,
But through awareness pervading the quantum sea.
Awareness, ever-present witness to every sentient dream.
Natural selection the means to play out the Darwinian theater.
And You, the spontaneity of the eternal, come unto mortal existence.
Where is it even possible for duality, to have any possibility, whatsoever?

* * * *

What would you have done with your existence, if you were rich beyond rich?
What would you have done with your existence, if you were poor beyond poor?
Who, what, where, when, why, how, are all relative frames of imaginary reference.
Stars twinkle, suns shine, worlds spin, all the same one, each and every eternal moment.
No matter the seed cast by natural selection, the awareness fills all equally, all indifferently.

* * * *

How can you not see, the all-pervading sentience,
Within all existential forms, including You,
Is the deity you worship from afar?

* * * *

A mind that is watchful, but no longer curious,
No longer caught up in the ceaseless chitter-chatter of consciousness,
Is an ever-present, eternal mind; sentient but still, timelessly absolute, serenely aware, flawless.

* * * *

It all seems so large, until you grow into seeing it all You,
And large and small brandish an unimaginable relativity,
In the immeasurable awareness that permeates eternity.

* * * *

A mind at rest is an eternal mind, a no-mind, a quantum mind, an unbound mind.
Death is merely evaporating, back into the nothingness, that nothingness ever is.

* * * *

Extinction is the sure end to all who cannot, will not, adapt to the ever-changing.
There is no benevolence, no compassion, in the Darwinian paradigm,
This mystery garden, has ever since creation, ordained.
Even the rat wolves and meow tigers will have to figure it out.

* * * *

How can sentience be separate in any way, in any shape, in any form,
From whatever niche, whatever world, whatever dimension, it evolved?

* * * *

Could the forest Panda be any more bound to bamboo,
Than we are our greed and vanity for more?
Patterns are patterns are patterns.

None can be free of them,
But in surrender to awareness.

* * * *

Any who have somehow happened upon this edifice of blather, know well, the pathless path,
That all buddhas and krishnas and miscellaneous others, wander like ants over a pile of sugar.
A pile of sugar most other ants in the world never discern, and perhaps more happily carry on,
For unfolding a lifetime of conditioning, of taming, is a hearty helping of every-moment stew.

* * * *

Burn through the moment,
Like a flame through a fuse.
Like an asteroid through space.
Like a dream through the night.
Like a ripple through a pond.
Like a cloud through the sky.
Like an electron through a wire.
Like a spark through a plug.
Like a breeze through a tree.
Like a candle through a read.
Like a laser through metal.
Like a mind through a moment.
Like a mind through awareness.
Like a mind through here.
Like a mind through now.
Like a mind through eternity.
Like a mind through You.

* * * *

It is often in the unbidden moments,
That the clarity of right here, right now,
That the clarity of the ever-present,
That the clarity of awareness,
That the clarity of eternity,
That the clarity of You,
Makes its Self, apparent.

* * * *

Somehow, creation.
Somehow, life.
Somehow, sentience.
Somehow, consciousness.
Somehow, imagination.
Somehow, You.
No answers to any of it.
The mystery of the mystery,
Will ever be a mystery of a mystery.

* * * *

The awareness before time, before space.
The stillness before time, before space.
The absoluteness before time, before space.
The aloneness before time, before space.
The quantum before time, before space.
The innocence before time, before space.
The vulnerability before time, before space.
The immaculate before time, before space.
The nowness before time, before space.

The serenity before time, before space.
The transcendence before time, before space.
The nothing special before time, before space.
The You before time, before space.

The one and only true church is the Church of Awareness,
And it cannot be contained by any arbitrary concoction of imagination.
By any edifice, any concept, any equation, any sound,
Any symbol, any artifice, whatsoever.

* * * *

The future is already past the moment it happens.
Awareness is, without time; awareness is, without space.
There is no past moment, there is no future moment.
A moment's pathlessness is all that is, all is not.

* * * *

When exactly does fate begin its wayward trail?
The truth of it, is, you were born the moment of creation.
And if there is a supreme deity, you were born,
Whenever, however, it got rolling.
Assuming it ever did.

* * * *

You are not even the person, the identity, you imagine you were a moment ago.
The quantum nature never stops, until it morphs into a rock,
And then the rock keeps moving, too.
Maybe back into some other life form down the dream.

* * * *

Move to the back of the skull, into the brainstem,
Where the awareness began to be discerned,
Where awareness began its flowering.

* * * *

Seeking is such a long and winding and endless journey,
Because there is nothing to seek, because there is nothing to find.
There has never been any pot of gold loitering at the end of any rainbow.
Right here, right now, will be the same, any then, as it is, any now.

* * * *

Believers and atheists wage yap over whether or not there is a God,
As if all their quibbling over nothing more than speculation, really means something.
Agnostics do not pretend to know anything, and wander no-mindlessly, whatever garden is still around.

* * * *

Good things happen to bad people; bad things happen to bad people.
Good things happen to good people; bad things happen to good people.
The mystery does not differentiate, does not reward, does not care.
Despite what middlemen spout in all their glass cathedrals.

* * * *

Travel as fast as light might, darkness is always waiting it.
Think as fast as mind, as consciousness, might,
Awareness is always waiting for it.

* * * *

How can you travel time if it does not exist,
And its sidekick, space, but quantum illusion.

* * * *

Walk as if the mind-body was already dead; happily reaped.
Walk as if you were already back in eternity's timeless bosom.

* * * *

How would it be even remotely possible, feasible, viable,
To create and destroy all that we have, in our 3.8 billion-year narrative,
Without all the permutations of Darwinian natural-selection, nature-nurture intrigue;
All the machinations, that brought us to this moment, in illusion's delusion;
And then somehow, miraculously shed it all, to survive ourselves.

* * * *

Being just the pure awareness You are,
Letting go the world, letting go the illusion, is a rare feat.
Far easier to conquer the world than the mind.

* * * *

The sentience of awareness cannot see without eyes.
The sentience of awareness cannot hear without ears.
The sentience of awareness cannot feel without nerves.
The sentience of awareness cannot smell without a nose.
The sentience of awareness cannot taste without a tongue.
The sentience of awareness cannot reason without a brain.
The sentience of awareness is an abyss without any other.
It is the quantum dust of creation that drives the matrix.
The sentience of awareness is simply eternal witness;
The ether in which all timelessly kaleidoscopes.

* * * *

Nothing, for farther than you can see.
Nothing, for farther than you can hear.
Nothing, for farther than you can feel.
Nothing, for farther than you can taste.
Nothing, for farther than you can smell.
Nothing, for farther than you can believe.
Nothing, for closer than all of the above.

* * * *

Fathom your innocence.
Fathom your forgiveness.
Fathom your compassion.
Fathom your contentment.
Fathom your truth,
Your Self.

* * * *

Every moment offers a choice:
Look, do not look.
Listen, do not listen.
Taste, do not taste.
Smell, do not smell.
Feel, do not feel.
Speak, do not speak.
Move, do not move.
Think, do not think.
Become, do not become.
Be, do not be.
Bam!

Instead of always gathering, grasping, filling, amassing, mustering, marshalling, mobilizing;
Give releasing, give dispersing, give disbanding, give dissolving,
Give diffusing, give disappearing, a shot.
Be as nothing.
Just be You. The stillness, the motionlessness of awareness. That I Am.
Prior to consciousness, prior to time, prior to space, prior to all things imagined.
Prior to all things measurable, prior to all things infinitesimal, prior to all things infinite.
Prior to all things that are but ever-morphing clouds, dust balls in the immeasurable sky of eternity.

* * * *

Awareness is the void, the abyss, of eternity.
It is without time; it is without space.
It cannot be measured, for it has no essence.
Light cannot discern it, because it has no reflection.
It is nothingness, untouched by any cloud, by any universe.
It can only be comprehended by the mind given over to no-mind.
And in that, that is no gain or loss, there is no reward, there is only being.

* * * *

So many sustaining the illusion that they will not die,
Because they are truly different than everything else.
Some how, some way, they are going to cheat death.
Ergo, God.

* * * *

Other than playing the necessary politics of survival in the human paradigm,

What would it possibly matter what the dream of consciousness thinks of you?

* * * *

Regarding whether or not there is some supreme deity or deities on high,
You might not think there is, but do not know there is not.
Ergo, agnostic is the least tawdry label.

* * * *

Amazing that few switches in the genome, determine whether you are born male or female.
Gender-ize it as you choose, how remarkable is it, that we all begin life as women,
And with just a few clicks in the chromo-zone, set course, that of a man.
What a mystery you are, to have naturally-selected all this.

* * * *

You think you just came into sentience just because a few quanta amalgamated and naturally selected?
You think you just came into sentience just because two seeds joined and grew in your mother's womb?
You think you just came into sentience just because the Self you are, is in any way cleaved from totality?

* * * *

Why feel shy or embarrassed or hesitant or concerned or doubtful,
About awakening to a greater vision of the ineffable mystery you are?

* * * *

Desire is the insatiable hunger to which all in imagination, at least occasionally succumb.
Fear and dread are the anticipation of suffering, of pain or loss or undesirable change.
All are induced by the chemistry of the electromagnetic nature of consciousness.

* * * *

It may be fairly frightening, even irritating,
For many to begin fathoming they are the eternal,
Because up to this point, their manifest consciousness,
Has not even begun to open to that expansive an inner vision.
It is they who cling to one book, with all its dogmatic tribal traditions,
And ponder putting to torch or blade or many forms of torture,
Those who dare ponder, truth might be so much more.

* * * *

Understand the subtlety,
Between claiming you are god,
And simply being that which is eternal.
One can never be, and the other never was not.

* * * *

The quantum cosmos is always in perfect balance.
"Research" is always well behind the actual algorithm.
Whether or not, life can survive that balance is the question.

* * * *

A mindful mind is one of attentive, intentional, eternal awareness,
Witnessing its version of the world, its version of creation.

* * * *

Embrace the eternal awareness, the stillness, You are, have always been, will ever be.
In which the quantum matrix vibrates the illusion-delusion dreamtime.
It really does boil down to, to believe, or not to believe.
The other is the infection of imagination.

* * * *

Nothingness has no notion.
Nothingness is without airs.
Nothingness knows no other.
Nothingness has no bounds.
Nothingness has no space.
Nothingness has no time.

* * * *

And from the humble beginnings of infancy, of childhood, of adolescence,
You wandered into the mundane world, and entered unto a void few discern.

* * * *

Imagination is always rushing, rushing, rushing, on and on.
Though it can never be anywhere but right here, right now.

* * * *

Abiding in the singular moment, abiding in the singular awareness,
Is a close to full-stop, as is possible, in this kaleidoscoping matrix.

* * * *

You are a chemistry set, come to life, a quantum organism,
Nature-nurture, naturally-selected, from an eternal bag of tricks.

* * * *

Still the mind, and the cacophony of sounds will be simultaneously, without discrimination, heard.
Add to it the other senses, and explore the sensory theater, the mind through every moment weaves.

* * * *

Heaven, bliss, ecstasy, rapture, nirvana, liberation,
Is right here, right now, if it is Your fate to discern it.

* * * *

Rest assured, the real You can never perish, for the real You were never born.
Only perceived by the naturally-selected evolution of imagination,
That can ever be more than witness to the essential nature,
To which it gives time, to which it gives space,

To which it gives meaning and purpose,
For an eternity which has nothing for anything imagined,
The mortal body is a but a chrysalis for eternity to blossom into nirvana.

Where can there be any boundary, when it is in awareness that it glides?
Where can there be any boundary, when it is You who is witness?

Is it truly worth engaging with those who cross your path,
Depends on your character, depends on the given moment.
There is no telling where the spin of a conversation can lead,
So one must always be willing to endure the consequences.

You are a drop of the quantum ocean.
You are a particle of the quantum creation.
You are sovereign witness to all things eternal.
Solitary witness to all things unto the mystery of Self.

* * * *

Without memory, there would be no consciousness, there would be no imagination.

There would be no creation, there would be no preservation, there would be no destruction.
There would be only the eternal moment, as perceived by whatever senses are there to perceive it.
Space and time are entirely the creations of biological patterns morphing the reveries of quantum design.
The sensory theater has no ultimate reality, whatsoever, other than what humankind imagines it.

* * * *

Whether or not you have the doubt to discern it fully, you are the mystery.
You have always been the mystery; you will always be the mystery.
Love it, hate it, fear it, condemn it, dread it, ignore it, worship it,
It will always be the ever-present question, the ever-present moment,
To which there is no answer; only witnessing whatever dreams may come.

Supreme being is not some celestial entity in any way separate from anything.
It is a state of awareness; a state of omnipresence, omniscience, omnipotence.
A state in in which all are part and party to every moment the moment divines.

What is a seer, a sage, a mystic, but a mind given over to the mystery.
A mind capable of journeying any and every way, to which its patterning is disposed.
One able to embrace the oblivion from which all fates are born, the oblivion to which all fates return.
One able to walkabout existence, with the whisper of death a constant companion.
Be at peace, be serene, let the Fates take you where they will.

Your dreamtime, your world, your cosmos, and everything in it, is imagined.
None of it, anything more, than an electromagnetic-spectrum-quantum matrix.

* * * *

From the slime of your father and mother's seeds joined, arbitrarily amalgamated in your mother's womb,
You have morphed from one moment to the next in a mind-body cast from life's long-ago origin.
Molded, shaped, by the environment of whatever time, whatever space, you were cast.
To believe you had any choice in it, to believe you have any choice in it,
Or to believe it was all the plan of some all-seeing deity,
Are all remarkable leaps of imagination.
It is a mystery, to which all answers are but speculation.

* * * *

The winds of consciousness, of imagination, through the eternal mind's eye,
Is locked on, to what it can see and hear and smell and taste and touch.
To all things tangible, in this indivisible matrix of quantum design.
It cannot long endure the stillness of awareness, the timelessness of now,
And fashions every distraction, to entice the mind into its willy-nilly usurpation.

* * * *

All that has ever happened since Creation,
From a particle of dust to the farthest reaches,
Is why you are right here, right now, imbibing this.
It is an indivisible matrix of quantum design.
With, or without, some divine designer,
It is ever the same mystery,
As are You.

The world we as a species have fashioned –
Overpopulated, full of violence, poisoned in every way imaginable –
Is not the one for which the hunter-gatherer was designed, and many are suffering for it,

Because their nature-nurture, their frame of reference, does not have what it takes to acclimate.
The rules of the quantum matrix are ever the same, and the nightmare is only just getting underway.

* * * *

The future, imagined, is the past projected.
In truth, there is no such thing as space, there is no such thing as time.
No matter the illusion, both past and future are the dreamy fabrications of imagination born of mind.
Only the awareness, only the eternal now, only oblivion, is real.

Nature has no attachment to the ceaseless vagaries, the absurdities, of human consciousness.

We all play it real,
Because we have no choice.
Hotel California of the quantum blend:
“We are all just prisoners here, of our own device.
‘Relax,’ said the night man, ‘We are programmed to receive.
You can check-out any time you like,
But you can never leave.’ ”

Who is not sitting in constant thumbs-up-thumbs-down judgment of the world about them?
Consciousness itself is judge, jury, executioner; awareness is, without any concern, whatsoever.

Deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) is the self-replicating material that is present
In nearly all living organisms as the main constituent of chromosomes.
It is the carrier of genetic information since life’s origin on this dust ball,
And is not concerned whether it passes on consensually or non-consensually.
It has no ethical binds born of consciousness; all that matters is that it passes on.
It is the closest thing to immortality this garden has ever, and perhaps will ever create.

Your destiny has always been whatever is unfolding in your sensory mind-body.
There is absolutely nothing to change, there is absolutely nothing that can be changed.
You are the awareness, the totality, the mystery, witnessing the dream into which it was cast.

* * * *

Scrape away everything that is imaginary, everything that is illusory, everything that is delusionary –
Your knowledge, your things, your memories, everything whirling about your consciousness –
And what is left, but the ineffable, timeless, ungraspable awareness that You truly are.

* * * *

Whether or not your brief existence, and all the knowledge and wisdom you may have gleaned,
Will be warehoused by the quantum matrix, be stored in some great eternal library,
Is but the idle speculation of those still bound in the space-time dream.
Read by the five senses, fashioned by central processing unit,
The cosmos, the kaleidoscoping illusion, is spun,
In the only moment the mystery of eternity has to offer.

* * * *

Who can help be what they are,
In the part they have been allotted by the genetic lottery,
In the part they have been dealt by the nature-nurture choicelessnesses of all creation?
All are the same awareness, playing out the manifest dream,
Of the quantum sands of time.

* * * *

We and all the myriad creatures who have ever inhabited this garden world,
Are little more than scrabbling microbes on a spinning dust ball,
In a dust storm, in the ethereal abyss of awareness.
Only vanity believes itself, fashions itself, large and important.

* * * *

If you want to meet the demon, peer into your darkest, most perverse, most cruel thoughts.
If you want to be the demon, carry out your darkest, most perverse, most cruel thoughts.
In every moment, a choice.

Existence is a daily grapple with the limitations of consciousness.
True humility is a mind given over to the timelessness of awareness.

* * * *

You do not ask to be free; you take the reins, and assume it so.
Even in the darkest, most torturous moments, you can be sovereign.

* * * *

If it involves time, if it involves space,
If it embraces any movement of consciousness,
Imagination, and all its illusions and delusions, are at play,

And may be duly ignored by those given over to the abyss of eternity.

* * * *

Alas for fame that You relish anonymity.
Alas for greed that You have more than enough.
Alas for power that You allow all to go their own way.
Alas for vanity that You know it not real.
Eternity is subject to none.
Awareness is all.

* * * *

How did imagination begin but through very gradual evolution, very gradual natural selection,
That is estimated to have begun 140 million years-ish ago in the jungles of Africa.
Something to do with memory cells gradually gaining enough oomph,
To start working together to counterfeit a sense of identity,
And the rest is the chaos of vanity and greed,
Given the name history, for the lack of a better word.

On the evolution of imagination, from Wikipedia:

Phylogenetic acquisition of imagination was a gradual process.

The simplest form of imagination, REM-sleep dreaming, evolved in mammals with acquisition of REM sleep 140 million years ago.

Spontaneous insight improved in primates with acquisition of the lateral prefrontal cortex 70 million years ago.

After hominins split from the chimpanzee line 6 million years ago
they further improved their imagination.

Prefrontal analysis was acquired 3.3 million years ago
when hominins started to manufacture Mode One stone tools.

Progress in stone tools culture to Mode Two stone tools by 2 million years ago signify remarkable improvement of prefrontal analysis.

The most advanced mechanism of imagination, prefrontal synthesis, was likely acquired by humans around 70,000 years ago
and resulted in behavioral modernity.

This leap toward modern imagination has been characterized by paleoanthropologists as the "Cognitive revolution", "Upper Paleolithic Revolution", and the "Great Leap Forward".

And where is this cognitive revolution, this upper-paleolithic revolution, this great leap forward,
Irrevocably taking we two-leggeds, and many if not all, of the life forms in this world,
But down an ever-accelerating-exponential path to a very dystopian extinction.

To survive what it has through human consciousness over millions of years fashioned,
Imagination would need to, and rather quickly, mutate a wholistic, less individualistic platform.
Whether that is possible in this snail-paced, naturally-selective garden, seems more than a little unlikely.
And thus, will the rise of consciousness in this tiny iota of the mystery, fall upon its own sword,
And the vain hope that humankind might somehow shine its light across the cosmos,
Be forever dashed upon the austere reality, that it never really mattered,
That it was never more than a fallacious blip of absurdity.
And the eternal abyss, will eternally abyss, as it eternally does.

Awareness does not love.
Awareness does not passion.

Awareness does not evolve.
Awareness does not change.
This dream is entirely quantum faire.
The universe but a matrix born of the imaginary mind.
Awareness is the clear endless sky, the mystery in its entirety, You truly are.
It does not participate, it does not regulate, it does not adjudicate, it does not concern its Self, in any way,
But without it, none of it would be possible.

In times not all that long ago,
A person's geography determined their world.
If you were born in the mountains, that was all you knew.
If you were born on an island, that was all you knew.
If you were born in a valley, that was all you knew.
If you were born on a plain, that was all you knew.
If you were born by the sea, that was all you knew.
If you were born on a mesa, that was all you knew.
If you were born in a forest, that was all you knew.
If you were born in a desert, that was all you knew.
If you were born in a wetland, that was all you knew.
But these modern times subscribe to an infinite cosmos.
And in all these differences, the relativity of all is ascertained.

What a curious thing, the quest for immortality.
 Someday, long after this dust ball garden has been consumed by the sun,
 And the galaxy has fallen into a black hole, and that hole is eventually victim to the dissipating universe,
 The immortals, imprisoned by their attachment to decrepit, likely pain-ridden bodies,
 Are going to be very much alone, floating about in the eternal abyss,
 Hoping yet another universe will somehow kickstart,
 And a habitable world, magically appear.
 It may take a few billion or trillion years or so,
 And a great deal of torturous agony for those determined not to die,
 But the solitary wait for a new dreamtime will be worth it, if there are handicap ramps aplenty.

* * * *

One hundred and fifty years ago, before electricity, before oil,
This garden orb was a dark little dust ball, spinning away in the void.
Now it is a dust ball, with a bit more glimmer, still spinning away in the void.
And the void does not give a hoot about it, nor any of the organisms wandering its face.

* * * *

A gazillion yesterdays all transpired in the same awareness, the same eternal now.
A gazillion tomorrows will all transpire in the same awareness, the same eternal now.
The gazillion yesterdays and tomorrows, are the same awareness, are the same eternal now.

It is less than about being chosen,
Than it is being handed a nature-nurture script,
And extemporaneously playing the seed as the moment unfolds.
Free will looking forward, fate looking back; there is really no choice in any of it.

* * * *

See if you can approach the given moment,
Without all the craving, without all the fear, without all the dread,
Without all the whatever, imagination ever concocts.

* * * *

Imagination is both angel and demon in this 'anything goes' sensory playhouse.
We are all scrunched together, believing our parts in this quantum theater, real and true,
And all of it nothing more than sensory-inspired separation born of imagination.

* * * *

Outer babble and inner babble,
Combine to keep You believing it all real and true.
You must die to time and space to see the eternal You, You ever are.

* * * *

The moment is the time machine, the flying carpet,
From which you gaze out into the mystery you are.

* * * *

Every mind has a frame of reference to which it clings.
Science may be more rational and exacting and articulate,
But it is no less a belief system than any other belief system.
Is it even possible to discern and function in absolute relativity?

* * * *

It is You, and You alone,
Who every moment, chooses freedom or imprisonment.
Attention the key; inattention the jailer.

* * * *

Always rushing, rushing, rushing, into the future,
As if imagination can get you there any faster than the timeless moment allows.
Be still, Master Quantum.

* * * *

Imagination is only as powerful as your inattention to the given moment.
It is entirely reliant upon its capacity, its ability, to entice You into its dreamtime web.
Entirely at the mercy of your being mesmerized-hypnotized-brainwashed into playing its vanity game.
Without your unwitting participation, without your instinctive collusion,
It dissipates into the nothingness You are.

What is the purpose of any culture, but to mold the young into its version of the world,
With all its history, its politics, its laws, its economics, its traditions, its religions, its languages.
All its tribal hierarchies, customs, rituals, behaviors, practices, lifestyles, conventions, costumes, patterns,
Beliefs, ethics, routines, schemes, addictions, activities, cuisines, athletics, holidays, celebrations.
And, of course, all the horrors and absurdities imaginable, in this our human paradigm.
How anyone manages to doubt, to question, to awaken, to shake off,
The conditioning, the habituation, the indoctrination,
Is indeed a wonder, if not a miracle.
What a hold imagination has upon our kind.

* * * *

All you can be sure of, is that you are part of the totality.
You are the mystery; what else is there, needs knowing?

* * * *

All the effort to become something more than you are, is nothing more than imagination,
Keeping you from being what you are, keeping you from being what you are not,
Which is nothing more than the timeless, eternal filament of awareness.
You are not a body, from which nowness gazes out into illusion.
You are the mystery, through which quantum waltzes every whichaway.

* * * *

Any given moment is simultaneous creation-preservation-destruction.
And by the time the mind discerns it, nothing more than dreamtime.

* * * *

To be, in consciousness, the eternal awareness permeating all things living;
To be, the ageless, elemental, unborn-undying moment,
Is the goalless goal of the seer.

Like a Ponzi scheme coming undone, the dream is changing across the board,
And that is just the way it is; there is nothing anybody can do about it.
The politicians and talking heads are just earning their buck,
And Wall Street and Las Vegas will likely take it down to the last bet.
This is the course our species set long before we departed the jungles of long ago.
Knowing more than the gist, filling one's head with nonstop gorp, is hollow trivial pursuit.
All any can do is play out their little Sisyphean algorithm; enjoy and endure whatever the fates allot.
The tempest is going to be beyond the pale sooner or later, and perhaps even relatively quickly for many.
And those unfortunate enough to be born, those now running about in backyards and playgrounds,
Are just going to have to survive whatever comes at them, or perish in flames if they cannot.
Every geography will have its own anthology of consequences, its own crash and burn,
And will deal with them as human beings always have when struggling to survive.
It will be, as always, might makes right, as savage as the given players deign,
With Conrad's "The horror! The horror!" and Vonnegut's "So it goes,"
Echoing throughout the last throes of human consciousness as we know it.
Whoever is going to be the final two-legged lingering in this Anthropocene epoch,
Will be last witness to all the absurdities our genomic sequencing has ceaselessly perpetrated.

* * * *

So, there was that timeless, very still moment in the abyss, when You, the mystery, all alone,
All of a sudden came up with an inspiration for a gargantuan playhouse,
With You, the one and only, centerstage to all parts.

And bam, the quantum matrix,
A kaleidoscoping, extemporaneous realm, explodes into being.
Le Théâtre Absurde, produced and directed by natural selection; You, sole thespian,
The showstopper is realizing that you are none of the forms in which you ever play the starring role.
They are but crunchy-chewy-goo, from which you peer out through the given perceptions,
Upon all that is but illusion, and all the delusions the given dreamtime inspires.

* * * *

How much fear, how much dread, how much passion, is inspired by oxygen-deprivation,
Caused by holding the breath during the tension of manipulating the moment to your advantage.

* * * *

All the wisdom ever gleaned, can overcome all the absurdity,
Existence every moment spins across this whirling dust ball.

* * * *

The clinging mind is temporal, inflexible, resistant, closed; the breathing stilted.
The eternal mind is timeless, fluid, accepting, open; the breathing effortless.

* * * *

Life is about experiencing whatever satisfies the given nature-nurture moment.
Keeping it simple, keeping it frugal, keeping it passionless, is the moderate way.

* * * *

Why should you fear, why should you dread, any given moment?
A reasonable amount of stoicism in the face of it all,
Metes out the justice absurdity deserves.

* * * *

How even and steady the breath must have been when you were tabula rasa.
Before the passions took root and you began your centerstage role in the grand theater.
And what are you now, but double-double-toiled-and-troubled-fire-burned-and-cauldron-bubbled.
Questing that breath, now suffocating in the muddle of conflicting impulses that life has heaped upon you.
And right-here-right-now, it is done, it is over, it is past, just like everything else ever is.
And the next moment already right-here-right-now, done-over-past, too.
The senses stream through the timeless quantum illusion,
And you, totally alone, witness to it all.

* * * *

Disappear right-here-right-now; continuity is illusion.
Disappear into this twinkling; continuity is illusion.
Disappear into this moment; continuity is illusion.
Disappear into this instant; continuity is illusion.
Disappear into here-now; continuity is illusion.
Disappear into eternity; continuity is illusion.
Disappear into oblivion; continuity is illusion.
Be the eternal beingness, the eternal awareness,

Be the timeless beingness, the timeless awareness,
You truly are, You have always been, and will ever be.

* * * *

See your Self, see eternity; see eternity, see your Self.
Feel your Self, feel eternity; feel eternity, feel your Self.
Hear your Self, hear eternity; hear eternity, hear your Self.
Taste your Self, taste eternity; taste eternity, taste your Self.
Smell your Self, smell eternity; smell eternity, smell your Self.
Discern your Self, discern eternity; discern eternity, discern your Self.

What are You but the centerstage eye, centerstaging?
The observer is the observed; the observed is the observer.
Awareness is all, Self is all, You are it, it is You, there is no other.

* * * *

Religions across the world are no longer required.
Science has discerned the truth of this mystery, we all together are.
To allow history, to allow tradition, to ensnare us any further is entirely unnecessary.
There is no need for any belief, any religion; only detached observation of what is within and without all.
We are, of course, incapable of doing this as a species, but rest assured, it is an option,
Were not arrogance and greed, were not narcissism and hedonism,
So entrenched in the genomic source code.
So it goes.

* * * *

A mind full of knowledge, full of trivia, full of gossip, full of notion, is not the eternal mind.

All the memories, all the histories, all the dreams, all the creations, all the affluence, all the possessions,
All the pleasures, all the pains, all the successes, all the failures, all the skills, all the arts,
All the friendships, all the loves, all the strangers, all the adversaries,
All the likes, all the joys, all the resentments, all the hates,
All the accolades, all the hopes, all the fears, all the cravings,
Are but illusion, the kaleidoscoping dream, streaming before you.
To be free, one must let go all things imagined, all things born of time.

* * * *

What is it about this timeless moment that you refuse to perceive?
What is it that you want it to be, that it will never be, that it can never be,
No matter how you imagine it so, no matter how you desire it so.
You cannot even penetrate how to appreciate this eternal life,
And here you are, yearning-pleading-negotiating another,
Or many, depending on the geographical assumption.

* * * *

It is the quantum matrix you quest.
The nothing more, nothing less, nothing but.
And in its discernment, called enlightenment by many,
The illusion become clear, and liberation the every-moment quest.

* * * *

You already have eternal life; you already are eternal life.
It is this very singular, very immediate, ever-present moment.
The trick is to discern it, and to surrender all that hinders living it.
The gold lining the streets of heaven is not the earthly variety.

* * * *

This blob of crunch-chewy-gooey from which you peer is but a quantum-matrix fabrication,
In which imagination is but a trickster deceiving you into believing the dreamtime all real.

* * * *

What will you do when all your gods have failed you,
When all your traditions have lost all meaning,
When all your histories prove to be lies,
When the planet of the apes has lost its way.

* * * *

Science ever seeks the truth of the quantum illusion.
Prior to the veil, beyond the veil, there is no knowing.

* * * *

Why should some deity bequeath you a place in heaven at its feet,
When you were but a moment, but a state of mind away,
Throughout your entire temporal existence?

* * * *

The quantum matrix, the universe, the world, the dream, the mirage, the illusion,
Will be only too happy that your sensory mind-body joins in, and imagines it all real.

* * * *

The body is a temporal vehicle, guided by a temporal mind,
With eternal potential for those destined to discern,
That which cannot be more than intuited.

* * * *

Awaken to all possibilities; awaken to universes beyond counting, awaken to infinity's rainbow,
And somehow, abide the kaleidoscoping illusion of the given mind-body's dreamtime,
Dancing the dance, singing the song of mystery, between heaven and earth.

* * * *

Procreation is the primary directive of the genomic sequencing within all life.
Think of the who-knows-how-many lives, how many generations, it has taken for you to be here.
Every one of them relatively unconcerned about the pain, the suffering, the death,
Into which they were casting, catapulting, their matériel génétique.
The Grand Théâtre of Quantum, come unto existence.
An electromagnetic matrix in which many,
If not all things, are possible.

* * * *

Rest assured, rape and molestation are genetically viable ends and means,
In all the bumping and grinding it took, voluntary or involuntary,
For You to be sitting right-there-right-now reading this.
Ethics is a relatively recent appendage in the human timeline,
Ever enforced by the reigning oligarchy, who decide who gets what.

* * * *

That moment you just observed,
Came and went before you even knew it.
The past is kaleidoscoping before your sensory mind.

* * * *

All that is going on in this world of over eight billion people,
Meandering across its face, this way and that; upon high, no different than ants.
And seven billion of that in just over two hundred years: agriculture, medicine, oil, electricity, bam!
It is not some conspiracy; it is the reality, the inevitable outcome, of all the natural selection,
That it has taken for the human paradigm to achieve the point of dysfunctionality,
Of absurdity, of madness, of malice, beyond all pales of genetic rationality.
All that imagination, partnered with all-but-infinite vanity and insatiable avarice,
Has brought into being, into light, since its long-ago mutation in human consciousness.

* * * *

The You, You truly are, is not a belief system.

You are not a leader, You are not a follower, You are on your own.
You do not require priests, You do not require sanctuaries, You do not require scriptures,
You do not require faith, nor dogmas, nor the support of others.
There is only the right-here-right-now moment.
There is only pure awareness.
There is only You.
Alone.

* * * *

Where would, could, we be, without stardust, without gravity,
And the light in which its creation is every moment bathed?

* * * *

The world, the universe, that you believe you know, is nothing more than a figment of imagination,
And imagination, nothing more than an illusory timebound evolution of the quantum mind-body.
All just stardust of a forever-mysterious, ineffable origin, come to make-believe all things real.
Play your stage as you will: passionate-indifferent, attached-detached, happy-sad, it matters not.

* * * *

The entire world, the entire universe, the entire unfathomable kaleidoscoping quantum fabrication,
Has been subject to the same natural selection, the same survival of the fittest,
Set in motion, in the whatever long ago means.
And here you are, playing out the fate you have been dealt.

* * * *

You are but the mystery of awareness, swathed in a crunchy-chewy-gooey, biologically-ordained stew,
Pretending your imaginary character real, and yet, all that full-of-sound-and-fury, ever signifying nothing.

* * * *

Eternal life is this one and only timeless moment,
This one and only right-here-right-now timeless awareness,
This one and only omniscient, omnipotent, omnipresent timeless now.
To be the big Self, you must die to the little self.

* * * *

Enlightenment is very much the easy part; awakening is something that just happens.
Liberation completely depends how well you manage to work things out,
Out of interest, out of importance, out of concern, out of mind,
In the given moment kaleidoscoping before you.
In a nutshell, to see the eternal, you must be the eternal.

* * * *

It is only through indefinable surrender of little self to Big Self,
That indefinably expresses the moment, the awareness,
Through which it indefinably appears to move,
In the indefinable way humankind has imagined into reality.

* * * *

Do you really think the quantum matrix,
Or the eternity in which it indivisibly dances,
Are at all concerned, at all attached, to any pattern?
How vain to believe anything is forever.

* * * *

Did some deity create the quantum matrix, or is the quantum matrix the faceless mystery unto its Self?
Obviously, they are one in the same; otherwise, why would you not be viewing your own face?
Where is the maestro without the orchestra; where is orchestra without the maestro?
All dualistic notions are imaginary fictions, and should be ignored for their absurdity.

* * * *

As absurd as it has been since the beginning, creating endless forms of idolatry, is what we do.
To see that totality is an infinite force, requires an aloof rationality, in which vanity cannot root.

* * * *

One of the first things any true seeker must do is trash all notions of a deity or deities.
There is only the faceless awareness, from which all worlds, all universes, are witnessed.

* * * *

What are human beings but collectives of organized protoplasm,
With exteriors about which narcissism and hedonism and greed orbit.
About which consciousness, about which imagination, makes endless ado.
Crunchy-chewy-gooey vats of imagination, vats of make-believe;
Dreamtimes, dancing in the timeless void of eternity.

* * * *

Om is the quantum vibration, the quantum hum, the quantum drone.
The source of all materialization, of all dreamtimes, of all creations.

* * * *

We all have impacts on the lives of others, the dreamtimes of others, both positive and negative.
Impacts that spin all our worlds into seemingly new directions, that fate's long and winding illusions,
Every moment – through awareness, five senses, and a transmitter – make this quantum matrix apparent.
Our fates pull and push us all along in kaleidoscope fashion, in an eternal, inescapably timeless journey,
That none can discern, but through but vague perceptions we glean, as our dreams tick-tick-tick away.

* * * *

* * * *

Prior to sight, prior to sound, prior to touch, prior to smell, prior to taste, prior to consciousness,
Awareness is.
Prior to sight, prior to sound, prior to touch, prior to smell, prior to taste, prior to consciousness,
Eternity is.
Prior to sight, prior to sound, prior to touch, prior to smell, prior to taste, prior to consciousness,
You are.

* * * *

There is nobody to follow; you must forge your own path.
You must explore, You must discern, what is true, for your Self, by your Self.
There is not some all-pervasive, all-powerful deity, at the helm, despite all propaganda to the contrary.
The moment can be heaven, the moment can be purgatory, the moment can be hell.
You are the one and only witness to your dreamtime.
Attitude is all.

* * * *

No need for deities.
No need for souls.
No need for angels.
No need for saints.
No need for demons,
No need for belief.
No need for scripture.
No need for dogma.
No need for priests.
No need for idols,
No need for worship.
No need for prayer.
No need for superstition.
No need for cathedrals,
No need for heavens.
No need for purgatories.
No need for infernos.
No need for anything.
Awareness is all.

* * * *

There is nothing to follow, nothing to be, nothing to do.
You are your own teacher, you are your own student.
Learn whatever suits you, do whatever draws you.
Live your life as freely as the given time allows.

* * * *

What is this garden planet, what is this pale blue dot,
But a tiny speck of dust, spinning away in the void.
All that vanity and greed, absolutely meaningless.

* * * *

What will come of all this?
Well, absolutely nothing, of course, and what do you care?
Worlds come and go, stars come and go, galaxies come and go, universes come and go.
Only You remain, awareness, eternally alone.

* * * *

Life or death, every moment a decision.
Another day; let the countdown continue.

* * * *

Where is the yoke in these writings? Where is the burden?
What yoke can the clarity of rationality ever create,
But a mindfulness to not accept any pretense,
At least as far as the ultimate truth goes.
We all have to survive, to abide, in some how, in some way.
The one-percenters have always set the tone, to which all below yield or perish,
But you need not give the insatiable beast more than the token morsels of vanity and greed it demands.
Play their theater, endure your stage, with whatever serenity and harmony you can muster,
In whatever dreamtime this ever-kaleidoscoping quantum garden manifests.

* * * *

Nothing can be more, nothing can be less, nothing can be, but what it is.
What more is there to say, what more is there to do, what more is there to be?

* * * *

See the nothingness.
Hear the nothingness.
Taste the nothingness.
Inhale the nothingness.
Feel the nothingness.
Be the nothingness.

* * * *

Perhaps this matrix all began because You got a craving, a hankering, an itch,

To do something more than just be timeless nothingness.
So here you right-here-right-now are,
Imprisoned by a creation, far from conclusion.

* * * *

Being in the moment, being the moment, being the pure unadulterated awareness,
Prior to the movement of consciousness, prior to the movement of imagination,
Is a discipline not easily forged, and only by the rare few drawn to the quest.

* * * *

The mind's eye, bent by the trivia of time, is lost in the tapestry of imagination.
All the yesterdays, all the tomorrows, however any given moment is nooked and crannied,
Are a long and convoluted maze, in which imagination, through eternity weaves.
All threads are relative to the mind's eye in which they are beheld.
None more absolute, more true, than any other's.

* * * *

This blob, this wall of flesh, this sheen of light,
Is outside and inside the one and only You,
Each and every kaleidoscoping moment.
Duality is the lie born of imagination.

* * * *

The final solution to the blasphemy of the human paradigm is extinction.
How long it can be dodged, how long it can be forestalled, how long it can be annulled,
Is a question for history to answer, if there perchance happens to be anyone left to ponder the question.
Who will be the last man, the last woman, the last boy, the last girl, the last any tag?
And how could that one last shimmer of human intelligence,
Possibly know, much less care,
As that last breath, without fanfare, quietly expires.
And the eternal quantum mystery, kaleidoscopes on, nary a tremor to the beat.

* * * *

Almost like you never did it.
Almost like you never saw it.
Almost like you never heard it.
Almost like you never tasted it.
Almost like you never smelled it.
Almost like you never sensed it.
Like it never happened at all.

* * * *

You cannot hold on to anything for more than an instant at a time.
And even in that moment, there is nothing that is not quantum illusion.
You are the awareness, you are the mystery, that is witness to all of eternity,
Whirling and twirling within and without, that which is neither within or without.
Forever is a fallacious idea, an imaginary notion; only as real as imagination imagines.

* * * *

Now.

It is not a belief system.

There are no leaders, there are no followers.

There are no sanctuaries, there are no scriptures, there are no doctrines.

There are no priests, nor is there any need for faith, nor others.

There is only the right-here-right-now moment.

There is only primeval awareness.

There is only You.

Alone.

* * * *

All the human beings you have known as friends and family;

As lovers, acquaintances, coworkers, strangers, adversaries, enemies,

Have all, each and every one, wrought the frame of reference, of the witness,

The mind, the awareness, the Self, that has chanced upon this aphorism.

* * * *

Each and every moment, each and every perception of your existence,

Is a translation, a rendition, an epiphany, a revelation, an insight,

That is continually incorporated into your frame of reference.

The pattern you are, the part you play, was scripted from the get-go.

* * * *

Does tabula rasa think itself tabula rasa?

Does a microbe think itself a microbe?

Does a squirrel think itself a squirrel?

Does a salmon think itself a salmon?

* * * *

The mind bent by the trivia of time, clings, contained, compelled.

The mind given over to awareness, streams, unbridled, boundless.

* * * *

Where is the mind that is but a still, serene pool of awareness?
Where is the mind, content merely to be the given moment?
Time is an illusion, space is an illusion, mind is an illusion.

* * * *

How to be in the world, and not of it,
Is for each imaginary mind to alone discern,
On its long and winding pathless never traveled.
To surrender to the moment, to allow serenity to reign,
Can be a challenge for a mind shaped by striving and conflict.

2024

The only difference between any moment,
Is the continuous movement of sentience, of consciousness, of imagination,
Interpreting the perpetual input of the allotted senses,
As they weave their universes.

* * * *

To believe You can ever know your unknowable is delusional.
All You can do is be the awareness that You every moment are.

* * * *

Awareness is ever-present, ever now.
It is up to consciousness to throw in the towel,
If it seeks to get anywhere in the vicinity of keeping up,
With the eternity in every breath, in every step, in every moment.

* * * *

Imagination, despite all its efforts, races the moment, to no avail.
The awareness, is always to and beyond any brass ring, in every race.

* * * *

This eternally timeless moment seems real, but in the next, is forever gone.
And the next, and the next, and every other next, forever on and on.
And then, with the final wheezing breath. they are all done and gone forever.
And the placidly philosophical Tralfamadorians, all nod in unison, the 'So it goes' nod.

* * * *

It is attachment to the mind-body and its quantum sensory theater,
That holds You back from being the timeless eternal moment You are.
Simply detach from the dreamtime, and You will be the only You there is.

* * * *

How can the intangible moment, the intangible awareness,
Be anything but unutterably priceless to the measuring mind?

* * * *

Mother Nature bats first, she bats last, she bats every moment between.
For the human species, to believe it can, with impunity, forever stretch and break her rules,
Is absolute madness beyond all pales, absurdity ad infinitum on steroids.
The unfolding dystopian catastrophe has barely begun.
How lucky you are, if you are old.

* * * *

That subtle belief in the human mind, that it is more, that it will be more,
Is the false flag of consciousness, enticing You back,
Into its foggy illusion-delusion.

* * * *

Conscious breathing is the about the only way to keep up with the awareness,
And even then, it is a horse race, in which consciousness,
Is always going to come up short.

* * * *

Face it, bro, we are in an extremely bizarre dream, and death appears the only escape, maybe.
It may seem very touchy-feely real, but that is because the quantum programming is friggin' amazing.
Whether it was natural selection or some supreme deity's design, is not worth quarreling about.
If there is more to it, that is way above any pay grade, anyone here is deigned to know.

* * * *

Scientific Method is the most rational, precise way, to examine this mystery, but it is far from infallible.

Scientific Method ... noun ... a method of procedure,
That has characterized natural science since the 17th century,
Consisting in systematic observation, measurement, and experiment,
And the formulation, testing, and modification of hypotheses.

- 1) Define the question
- 2) Gather information and resources (observe)
- 3) Form hypothesis
- 4) Perform experiment and collect data
- 5) Analyze data
- 6) Interpret data and draw conclusions that serve as a starting point for new hypothesis
- 7) Publish results
- 8) Retest (frequently done by other scientists)

* * * *

What is this thing we call death, but the end of another beginning.
Yet another trifling moment, done and undone, in quantum timeless.

* * * *

To be ... the truth ... the life ... the way ...
Is to be in absolute, solitary relationship,
With the moment, with the singularity,
You, awareness, every moment are.

* * * *

History can be looked at from an infinity of angles and dimensions.
Personal history, group history, world history, natural history, universal history.
There is no end to the myriad ways consciousness can cut the pie, it has in imagination baked.

* * * *

The magical mystery tour of imagination.
Time and space are mind-body illusion.
Five senses contrive a cosmic theater.
The agony, the ecstasy, the absurdity.
All are helpless upshots of mutation.
The genetic lottery casts all askew.
Sand ever falling in the hourglass.
Quantum matrix, the same in all.
The awareness, the same in all.
The sentience, the same in all.
The moment, the same in all.
The mystery, the same in all.
We are stardust, come to life.
Dust to dust, ashes to ashes.
We are cousins of the puddle.
All are molded by their niche.
Who has ever had any choice?
Who has ever seen their face?
Who has ever been like me?
Who has ever been like you?
Who has ever been like him?
Who has ever been like her?
Who has ever been like them?
We are all just prisoners here.
All adrift in labyrinth of mind.
Ever more in common than not.
Belief is but a delusionary fog.
Be and allow, the highest law.
'Tis but an hour, strutted, fretted.
Vanity and greed rule the world.
A species unable to contain itself.
A cancer devouring our dust ball.
The horror, the horror, no respite.
No one sees their allotted facade.
All wander the same stage, alone.

Nothing is ever the same nothing.
All lives are but imaginary dreams.
All differences are but shell games.
We are cousins of natural selection.
So many trivial things given weight.
All differences share the same grave.
Paradox and irony and absurdity rule.
The sound, the fury, signifying nothing.

The good news is that ...

The eternal moment, the eternal awareness, the eternal singularity, the eternal You,
The ineffable You, the indivisible You, the indelible You, the unfathomable You, the indefinable You,
Is free and clear of all trespass, free and clear of any yoke, whatsoever.
You are it, it is You, there is no other.
Be, free.

* * * *

What is it about humankind and its genomic blend, that it is so insecure, that it is so fearful,
That it, across all geographies, has imagined a supreme deity or a gaggle of deities,
To praise or blame for the blessings and misfortunes of this mortal theater?
Surely, existing as gracefully as possible in the given ebb and flow,
Is enough for anyone sensibly abiding the rhythms of nature.
There is no exultant ending to any mortal narrative.
To endure it rationally, stoically, is an admirable achievement.

* * * *

You are the timeless awareness.
You are the eternal moment.
You are all the worlds.
You are all the stars,
You are all the stardust.
You are every quantum display.
You are all the space within and without.
You are the entire universe, and beyond all beyonds.
You are the infinitesimal, the infinite, unborn-undying totality.
You are the ineffable, inexplicable mystery, in which all appearances dance.

* * * *

How is it that so many seers of this infinite, indifferent mystery,
Generate so much absurdity, that morphs into so much painful misery?
How much better for the all, it might be, to stay silent, to say little or nothing.
Daito Kokushi, fourteenth century Japanese Zen master of the Rinzai school, wrote:
“Wishing to entice the blind, The Buddha has playfully let words escape his golden mouth.
Heaven and earth are ever since filled with entangling briars.”
Hopefully, these way too many cogitations,
Will find their way to oblivion,
Before wreaking too much mayhem.
One can never discern how noble intentions,
Will be warped and perverted in the theaters of mind.

* * * *

All sentience is the awareness.
You are the awareness.
I am the awareness.

He is the awareness.
She is the awareness.
They are the awareness.
The same awareness is in all things.
Despite all imaginary concoctions to the contrary,
There is no other.

* * * *

Prior to consciousness.
Prior to sentience.
Prior to dreams.
Prior to words.
Prior to thought.
Prior to narratives.
Prior to forms, You are.

* * * *

Call it eternity.
Call it god.
Call it awareness.
Call it the moment.
Call it now.
Call it perpetuity.
Call it infinity.
Call it nothing.
Call it everything.
Call it ineffable.
Call it mystery.
Call it whatever.

It is the same nothing, it is the same everything it is, has ever been, will ever be.

* * * *

Science and all related fields, can never grasp the full truth,
Because truth, is prior to all things measurable,
Prior to all things theoretical,
Prior to all things born of consciousness.
It is the indelible, ineffable, intangible indivisibility.
It is the unknowable, inexplicable, unborn-undying mystery, prior to all.

* * * *

What could awareness possibly need?
What could awareness possibly want?
What could awareness possibly fear?
What could awareness possibly dread?
What could awareness possibly love?
What could awareness possibly hate?
What could awareness possibly believe?

What could awareness possibly see?
What could awareness possibly hear?
What could awareness possibly smell?
What could awareness possibly taste?
What could awareness possibly feel?
What could awareness possibly think?
What could awareness possibly know?
What could awareness possibly anything?

As is written in the Sixth Sutra of Manuel Schoch's
Bitten by the Black Snake translation of the Ashtravaka Gita:

You are not your body, your body is not you.
You are not the doer, you are not the enjoyer.
You are pure awareness, the witness of all things.
You are without expectation, free.
Wherever you go, be happy.

* * * *

Awareness is the inherent mystery.
There is no deity to worship.
There is no groupthink.
There is no ministry.
There is no doctrine.
There is but awareness.
And it is free, to any and all,
Who have the insight to fathom it.

* * * *

It is imagination that craves, not the awareness.
It is imagination that fears, not the awareness.
It is imagination that dreads, not the awareness.
It is imagination that loves, not the awareness.
It is imagination that hates, not the awareness.
It is imagination that suffers, not the awareness.
It is imagination that delights, not the awareness.
It is imagination that cherishes, not the awareness.
It is imagination that trusts, not the awareness.
It is imagination that believes, not the awareness.
It is imagination that scorns, not the awareness.
It is imagination that lusts, not the awareness.
It is imagination that deceives, not the awareness.
It is imagination that lies, not the awareness.
It is imagination that cheats, not the awareness.
It is imagination that steals, not the awareness.
It is imagination that creates, not the awareness.
It is imagination that preserves, not the awareness.

It is imagination that destroys, not the awareness.
It is imagination that seeks, not the awareness.
It is imagination that finds, not the awareness.
It is imagination that raptures, not the awareness.

The root of everything human, is the stew of imagination.

* * * *

All are mesmerized by the quantum matrix.
A few and far between awaken to that which all truly are,
But even they likely fall into slumber more than they might care admit.
Few can long sit in a cave, staring at a wall, and not be drawn out into the dreamtime,
At least occasionally for short bouts of drinking and whoring and sundry other disreputable respites.

* * * *

The small have their time, as do the large; all are predators, all are prey.
There are no survivors in this unborn-undying eternal mystery.
Only witnesses born into illusions beyond counting.

* * * *

We all wander in the same ineffable, eternal moment,
With entirely different perceptions, different worlds, different universes.
Pretty tough for imagination, in its never-ending swirl of space-time, to do anything the same.

* * * *

Yes, there is a supreme deity, and it is peering out through your eyes,
As it is through those of every other sentient creature,
Ever fashioned in all of creation.
And it is not that awareness that judges the creation,
But you, and all the other two-leggeds, across the human paradigm,
Who wrought what they see, into heavens and hells of their habituated persuasions.
Like Santa Claus in the Christmas jingle, everyone is keeping their lists, and checking them twice.
So many, wander about, believing what they think so important to some on-high,
But it is never more than the muddled miasma of imagination.
We all come and go; only awareness remains.
Untouched by any of it.

The awareness is your magic carpet ride home; how much closer to God could you possibly be?

* * * *

Do not confuse what you think or what you do, with the prior-to-consciousness awareness you are.

* * * *

I create you, and you create me, and we each, in our own dreams, dance the same mystery.

* * * *

No, this form is not yours to keep for more than a moment at a time.

* * * *

Awareness is the door to eternal life.

* * * *

What can awareness possibly hold onto?

* * * *

There is no other place to go, nor mind to be in, nor witness to be; You are right here, right now.

* * * *

Awareness is the immortality You are.

* * * *

You are nothing more than your own worst imaginary habit.

* * * *

This is your song of god.

* * * *

Forget everything; remember nothing.

* * * *

Every moment is just as new, for any so-called master, as it is for you.

* * * *

Nothing is ever the same; loss is an every-moment fact.

* * * *

Would there even be a moment, were there not sentience to witness it?

* * * *

Every moment the same.

* * * *

Life is but a few breaths, and back to sleep, back to sleep, in the eternal manger prior to dreamtime.

* * * *

What is knowledge but busy-busy distraction, from the what is of the unfolding moment.

* * * *

What breath can ever hold any moment for long.

* * * *

Sentience is indifferent to your imaginary existence.

* * * *

Even thousands of karmic rebirths beyond counting, all happen right here, right now.

* * * *

The abyss yawns.

* * * *

It was knowledge that blinded the vision of Eden; it is awareness that renders it apparent again.

* * * *

Nothing is sacred; nothing is not sacred.

* * * *

Consciousness is a means, to playing out the dream of time; You are the awareness, not consciousness.

* * * *

Only in pure awareness are you, You.

* * * *

The moment is all.

* * * *

You are the same awareness, you are, have always been, will ever be.

* * * *

Here I am, there you are, both Self, wandering the same matrix of awareness.

* * * *

Embrace the eternal awareness, in which the quantum matrix vibrates the illusion-delusion you dream.

* * * *

Death is merely evaporating, back into the nothingness, that nothingness ever is.

* * * *

A mind at rest is an eternal mind, a no-mind, a quantum mind, an unbound mind.

* * * *

The time-bound will always be but second place to awareness.

* * * *

Awareness proves nothing.

* * * *

The abyss of oblivion yawns forever eternal.

* * * *

You are all alone in the moment You eternally dwell.

* * * *

The ever-present-nothing-special of awareness, is, without limits.

* * * *

The moment is not a yoke in which you must daily toil.

* * * *

Contemplation and meditation, are the means to explore and realize for your Self, the mystery You are.

* * * *

You are nothing more than an imagined character; locked in by nature-nurture.

* * * *

How are we not every moment lost in wonder?

* * * *

We are all empty vessels, filled with the churning nothingness of imagination.

* * * *

You are the totality, you are the mystery, by whatever sound you want to give it.

* * * *

Your quantum nature is indivisibly timeless; are you mad for seeing it, or mad for not?

* * * *

A faith so infinite, as to be unnecessary.

* * * *

Why would, how could, awareness, judge clouds crisscrossing its sky?

* * * *

Imagination gets the brass ring for another moment; awareness does not count.

* * * *

Freedom is in the clarity of awareness; not the quantum theater of sensation.

* * * *

Eternal life is forgetting everything; even that perceived but a moment ago.

* * * *

Being nothing in an everything world, is the challenge for any lost to doubt.

* * * *

The moment is the moment; whether or not you are there to witness it.

* * * *

Are there an infinity of moments, or just one? Count them if you can.

* * * *

How is it the mystery is not magical enough for so many?

* * * *

What name can stick to the no-name mystery?

* * * *

Every seer explores the mystery to whatever degreeless degree it calls.

* * * *

Every moment a push and pull between the eternal You and the imaginary you.

* * * *

To be inwardly silent, completely still – free of desire, free of fear, free of dread – is to be the eternal.

* * * *

Embrace the pain, dive into the wave, be the moment.

* * * *

Eternity is the timeless formlessness of awareness.

* * * *

Misters and mrs's and miss's and ms's and mx's, You are all the same mystery.

* * * *

Every moment is the same; consciousness being what it is, not all are equally endured.

* * * *

The Great Quantum will play out whatever theater You are conditioned to discern.

* * * *

If God is so great, why does he need anyone to affirm it?

* * * *

If you had never been told there was a God, would you have created one?

* * * *

Goals anointed, goals achieved, are but a moment in the process.

* * * *

Every moment, an offering to the whimsies of consciousness.

* * * *

Awareness is the grand voyeur of all eternity.

* * * *

Oscars to everyone and everything; astounding how perfectly all have played their quantum role.

* * * *

And how do you decipher that dollop of awareness but by simply being.

* * * *

The moment is That I Am; be the moment.

* * * *

Awareness stills through you as you move through it.

* * * *

The floodgate of eternity is accessed in the moment.

* * * *

Nothing to hope for.

* * * *

How can awareness ever not be immaculate, ever not be tabula rasa, ever not be the uncarved block?

* * * *

Awareness is the first and last frontier.

* * * *

Another day in the quantum charade.

* * * *

Look how you have given your Self over to the delusion of the quantum illusion.

* * * *

Awareness is the common denominator.

* * * *

Only in pure consciousness, is there freedom from the known.

* * * *

The masks of this mystery are but the imagination of this mystery.

* * * *

Take it to the quantum level.

* * * *

Is it a quantum matrix, or an imaginary maze?

* * * *

Awareness, neither is, nor is not.

* * * *

Let nothing rule.

* * * *

Vanity is an ever-present limitation.

* * * *

All existence has an expiration date, as does everything manifest in the quantum matrix.

* * * *

A certain partiality to oblivion is required to delve into the ultimate nature.

* * * *

Alone on a mountain, alone in a crowd, solitary witness to an ineffable mystery.

* * * *

Eternity is the nothing special wakefulness of awareness, of hereeness, of nowness, of nothingness.

* * * *

You are not even the person you imagine you were a moment ago.

* * * *

The quantum nature never stops, until it morphs into a rock, and then the rock keeps moving, too.

* * * *

A void in the abyss.

* * * *

Imagination is a powerful god.

* * * *

Seek God in your Self.

* * * *

How can you travel time if it does not exist, and its sidekick, space, but quantum illusion.

* * * *

You cannot find God outside your Self.

* * * *

Awareness is the fountain of youth.

* * * *

The taint of time and space kaleidoscope in every untouched moment.

* * * *

Quantum so organized, as to appear real to all born, into the matrix they are.

* * * *

Awareness is timeless, awareness is spaceless, awareness is, awareness is not.

* * * *

The pathless moment ends all who's, all what's, all when's, all where's, all why's, all how's.

* * * *

Breathe in, breathe out, grasshopper, the moment does not care.

* * * *

Nothing happens in a vacuum.

* * * *

If there is a deity, it is awareness, and quantum nature its expression.

* * * *

And what is all this experience, really, but a memory the moment it is dreamt?

* * * *

Awareness is incapable of knowing any difference.

* * * *

Who-what-where-when-why-how is the center of nothing?

* * * *

For the human paradigm to wake up to its mystery, would take way more than a hundred monkeys.

* * * *

Consciousness requires awareness, far more than the reverse.

* * * *

Yes, you will forget this, too; oblivion is the fate of all.

* * * *

Plan as you might, creation is always about making it up as the moment unfolds.

* * * *

There is nothing to achieve.

* * * *

Nothing new under the sun; everything new under an ever-new sun.

* * * *

Every who, every what, every where, every when, every why, every how; the cotton candy of nothing.

* * * *

Looking for some god outside your Self is the wrong direction.

* * * *

There is nothing to seek, because there is nothing to find.

* * * *

From womb to graveyard, You are solitary witness to a dream, You every moment perceive.

* * * *

It is often in unbidden moments, that the clarity of awareness, the clarity of You, makes its Self, apparent.

* * * *

What is there to doubt in a moment?

* * * *

Where can there be a demarcation between any moment, but through imagination.

* * * *

Nothing happens all by its Self.

* * * *

Do you enter the abyss, or the abyss, unto you?

* * * *

Stop looking for this mystery to be anything other than what it is.

* * * *

As the view expands every moment, everything takes on a relatively relative stance.

* * * *

Though the world burn, though all creation perishes, You will ever abide.

* * * *

The rabbit hole abyss calls; can You hear it?

* * * *

To find yourself in a democratic geography, is a rare moment in a world of autocracy.

* * * *

Belief blinds one to the truth of the moment, to the truth of awareness, to the truth of eternity.

* * * *

The quantum matrix is bound only by its physics.

* * * *

To yearn to always exist, because You do, eternally so, but never in the way you think.

* * * *

Creation and creator are one in the same; it is you, and you are it, eternity, with a dash of illusion.

* * * *

The awareness is your fountain of youth; it is your immortality, heaven on earth.

* * * *

Rest assured, something will always happen in the quantum churn, with or without your witnessing it.

* * * *

Every moment has its choice.

* * * *

All creation is relative to those who witness it consciously.

* * * *

If you do not want, if you do not hunger, this moment, what will there be to fear or dread?

* * * *

What can you want from this moment, that is not already but a memory.

* * * *

Try not to let life make you too hard; an awakened existence appreciates at least the whiff of innocence.

* * * *

If you ain't no body, be nothing.

* * * *

This universe, and any others, are but motes in the abyss of eternal awareness.

* * * *

The entire human paradigm is nothing more than stories born of imagination.

* * * *

Nothing to do, and all day to do it.

* * * *

Nothing You need to do, no one You need to see, nothing You need to be.

* * * *

The mind bound to eternity is unassailable.

* * * *

Let go everything; be the pure awareness you are.

* * * *

Peer out as the detached awareness, not the imagined persona.

* * * *

The mind-body is a cloud in the sky of awareness.

* * * *

You must disengage your inner dialogue, your inner chatter, to be the awareness you are.

* * * *

Only in the great detachment of pure awareness can you be free.

* * * *

Look at a rock, and watch it change every kaleidoscoping moment.

* * * *

Self-pity, what a waste of awareness, what a waste of the moment.

* * * *

Own the awareness You are.

* * * *

Take in the moment, and all its sensory readings, as you would a gourmet meal.

* * * *

Imagination is a prison with quantum bars.

* * * *

Quantum matrix, quantum illusion.

* * * *

Tabula rasa knows no bounds.

* * * *

The word is only sound given concept, and no sound can more than echo through the expanses of eternity.

* * * *

No matter how rationally it is reasoned, this mystery makes no sense, whatsoever.

* * * *

It is the concept of god that needs changing.

* * * *

Consciousness, imagination, is the quantum fusion of memory.

* * * *

Imagination is about the becoming mind; awareness, the being mind.

* * * *

Odds are, the more you have invested in space and time, the harder the slog to the moment.

* * * *

Savor the moment, savor the awareness, savor the eternal, You truly are.

* * * *

Every moment, the same awareness, the same eternity.

* * * *

Toy with Mother Nature, and she will toy back in her own good timeless.

* * * *

Doubt is the key to eternity.

* * * *

Creation and destruction are indivisible; one is not without the other.

* * * *

Another day in the space and time born of the quantum mind.

* * * *

Awareness must remain eternally diligent if it is determined to reign.

* * * *

You are part of eternity every moment.

* * * *

To embrace creation is to accept the inevitability of destruction.

* * * *

You are creator and creation.

* * * *

A slow amble will get you to eternity as fast as any dash.

* * * *

One does not aspire to eternity through time.

* * * *

Awakening was what the mind is designed to achieve.

* * * *

Mind is the timekeeper until the clock strikes eternity.

* * * *

To intelligence, to wisdom, to compassion, to serenity, to mystery, bow.

* * * *

Everything you have ever done, ever conceived, ever naturally selected, has unfurled this moment.

* * * *

All creatures small to great are co-creators in this mirage of quantum design.

* * * *

A mind lost in the web of trivial pursuit, is a mind missing out on eternity.

* * * *

We are all the same matrix of awareness; more real than any video game can ever be.

* * * *

Awareness is the matrix.

* * * *

This world, this cosmos, this mystery, was made for you.

* * * *

When you die, so does your world, your universe, and everything you imagine, including your god(s).

* * * *

Consciousness is in the present, but can never be fully present.

* * * *

Your world, your cosmos, exists every moment you imagine it.

* * * *

My mystery is your mystery is our mystery is the one and only mystery.

* * * *

It is a mystery no one can solve, a mystery no one can solve.

* * * *

Awareness is the beginning of all ends, the end of all beginnings.

* * * *

Awaken to the truth you truly are.

* * * *

Savor the moment; it will never happen again.

* * * *

Prior to creation, prior to destruction, you are.

* * * *

They are all false gods.

* * * *

Analog clocks spin, digital clocks display, calendar pages turn; eternity never starts, never stops.

* * * *

How will you waste your moment today?

* * * *

The difference between me and you, is a quantum thing.

* * * *

History is recorded, history is erased, eternity is everlasting.

* * * *

Eternity is awareness, eternity is the moment, as small as it is large.

* * * *

My mystery is much greater than your God, because my mystery includes you.

* * * *

Something to do with quantum mechanics.

* * * *

How many moments have been left unattended because of bad breathing?

* * * *

How long would a moment be, had it a handle to which time might latch?

* * * *

I, Quantum ... You, Quantum ... He, Quantum ... She, Quantum ... Us, Quantum ... All, Quantum.

* * * *

This is the first and only moment, for everything, and nothing.

* * * *

The filament of awareness, is the eternal me, my Self, and I; anything less is delusion.

* * * *

No matter how fast or slow it seems, it will always be right now.

* * * *

The ever-present more is an imaginary creature.

* * * *

Eternal life is forgetting everything, even that perceived but a moment ago.

* * * *

Holodeck, holoworld, holocosmos, holomystery.

* * * *

Let the knowing evaporate into nothingness.

* * * *

The awareness ever still; the quantum matrix ever kaleidoscoping.

* * * *

The effort is in the tussle between awareness and imagination, and the mind's attachment to the latter.

* * * *

Every moment, your frame of reference expands.

* * * *

It only seemed like serendipity in the moment you happened into it.

* * * *

If there is a god, then surely it includes You.

* * * *

A quiet mind is an eternal mind.

* * * *

Imagination is an ever-churning hydra; the awareness, the eternal moment, is, without name.

* * * *

Awareness is here and gone before you know it.

* * * *

In every moment, a choice.

* * * *

Another unsolvable mystery, another unanswerable question, yawn.

* * * *

Where there is neither beginning nor ending, You are; as immeasurable as only the moment can be.

* * * *

You believe there is individuality in awareness? Show me.

* * * *

Your world, your universe, is nothing more than an imaginary dream; poof-gone as soon as you are.

* * * *

All aboard for the ride to eternity, and perhaps bliss, if you have doubt enough.

* * * *

Another moment that never happened.

* * * *

Getting in touchless with the awareness is the key.

* * * *

The world, the universe, the matrix, the illusion, is in your head every moment you let it in.

* * * *

You are the highest power; assume nothing less.

* * * *

It is less about what you do, than the awareness with which you do it.

* * * *

Awakening to a larger view is not a choice.

* * * *

Be quantum, one moment at a time.

* * * *

What are You but the universal mind, dreaming the quantum illusion real.

* * * *

Imagination, imagination, it is all nothing more than imagination.

* * * *

How can all the yesterdays and todays and tomorrows not be the same indivisible moment?

* * * *

It is a weak and vain god that requires you to believe in it.

* * * *

You are nothing more than a flesh-wrapped blob.

* * * *

You are the mystery, nothing to get all vain about, everything else is, too.

* * * *

It is in the moment through which space and time are traveled.

* * * *

Discern that every moment is a simultaneous act of creation and destruction.

* * * *

It is your mystery, and you will consume it as the algorithm deigns.

* * * *

Pure consciousness is the pure, timeless awareness of the given moment.

* * * *

Another point of consciousness, lost in space.

* * * *

Get lost in eternity.

* * * *

Breathe in the nothingness, breathe out the nothingness.

* * * *

There are no wasted moments, because the moment does not exist to be wasted.

* * * *

To fear, to dread, to loathe, to hate, your creation, can make for a challenging existence.

* * * *

Ride the razor's edge however the moment dictates.

* * * *

Dissolve into the moment.

* * * *

Disappear into eternity; continuity is illusion.

* * * *

Stardust come to life; imbued with the mystery of awareness, in one and all.

* * * *

Practice obliterating; cultivate and harvest oblivion.

* * * *

To see the mystery, you must be the mystery.

* * * *

Are You your unborn-undying? Take a breath, be here now.

* * * *

Hold nothing in your mind, as you would a dove in your hand.

* * * *

Every moment, beginner, master, You are.

* * * *

What better timeless than now?

* * * *

Each moment, another slice, another tidbit, of fate.

* * * *

Pay attention, or do not pay attention, it passes the same, ever the same moment.

* * * *

Only in the awareness of the moment, is eternity present.

* * * *

How is this play of consciousness any different than a supernova before it collapses upon itself?

* * * *

Eternity is tabula rasa; become eternity.

* * * *

Align the mind-body with eternity, or not, you choose.

* * * *

A mind full of knowledge, full of trivia, full of gossip, is not the eternal mind.

* * * *

To expand one's frame of reference to its infinite potential is a rare calling.

* * * *

Pure awareness is pure mind.

* * * *

To give the mind-body completely over to the moment, is about as blissful as existence gets.

* * * *

The fluidity of the quantum matrix is not going anywhere.

* * * *

The universe is only as big as technology, and your mind, every moment, make it.

* * * *

Forget calling it God, call it the mystery it is.

* * * *

Be the awareness, be the moment, be the now, be the timeless, be the eternal; not the thought.

* * * *

Imagination builds airy everything, that dissolve in the light of momentary awareness.

* * * *

Life or death, every moment a decision.

* * * *

You have always been the same timeless awareness.

* * * *

This moment can be heaven, it can be purgatory, it can be hell, You decide.

* * * *

Are You, you, churning in the mundane, or are You, You, awareness, flowing in the moment.

* * * *

Consciousness requires a platform, awareness does not.

* * * *

Breathe in the moment, breathe out the moment.

* * * *

Awareness is the ground, and there is only one ground.

* * * *

Home is where all doubts have run their course, and the mind stills into its timeless beingness.

* * * *

Any given dreamtime requires some sort of platform for consciousness to play out its theater.

* * * *

Call it Mystery, not God.

* * * *

Awareness is the moment, or at least as close as these quantum mind-bodies have access.

* * * *

You are the awareness of eternity streaming through a quantum dream.

* * * *

Moving mind or still mind, the moment kaleidoscopes the same.

* * * *

In a nutshell, to see the eternal, you must be the eternal.

* * * *

To be afraid of your own creation, and to want anything more of it, how sad.

* * * *

Why would you embrace a god that does not include you?

* * * *

Surely, the mystery, the totality, is, without vanity or avarice.

* * * *

To think without thinking is the eternal no-mind's way.

* * * *

Be as nothing in the given moment.

* * * *

Have no law but what the moment naturally commands.

* * * *

Go homeless, and breath in-out that birthright, pushing your cart down the quantum sidewalk.

* * * *

Be the quantum beingness you are.

* * * *

The moment is unscathed by time.

* * * *

You cannot hold on to anything for more than a moment at a time.

* * * *

The breath is every moment; are you with it, or caught up in some imaginary flurry?

2024

There is no groupthink, there is no dogma, there is no priesthood, there is only awareness.

* * * *

Consciousness imagines a continuity that has no ultimate reality, whatsoever.

* * * *

There can be but one truth, and no one owns it.

* * * *

Don't worry, be happy, there is only this moment to care about.

* * * *

The momentary awareness is your sanctuary.

* * * *

There is nothing to work out.

* * * *

The world and all its mania, all its absurdity, loses all importance in the moment.

* * * *

Hard for consciousness to catch up with That which was never moving in the first place.

* * * *

There is no end to the myriad ways consciousness can cut the pie, it has in imagination baked.

* * * *

Yet another trifling moment, done and undone, in quantum timelessness.

* * * *

Hero or villain or nonentity, everyone has a story, in this dreamtime of consciousness.

* * * *

The false flag of consciousness, ever entices You back, into its foggy illusion-delusion.

* * * *

The esoteric is much ado about nothing.

* * * *

The void awaits.

* * * *

There might have been a time, but that moment no longer exists; existence being what it is not.

* * * *

Very much alone, this awareness.

* * * *

What makes you think creation will ever end, or ever begin?

* * * *

Awareness is neither close nor far.

* * * *

The eternal moment, the eternal awareness, the eternal You, is free and clear of all trespass.

* * * *

Nothing is nothing no matter the something it seems.

* * * *

Yet another here-now-long-gone example of how little it all matters, how little it all means.

* * * *

You are the mystery personified.

* * * *

You are the moment; not the thought about it.

* * * *

What is imagined, can be unimagined; the moment has a way of forgetting everything.

* * * *

What is an orgasm but an ecstatic flash of eternity's oblivion.

* * * *

Men come and go, but eternity abides, awareness abides, You abide.

* * * *

Streaming on and on; eternally connected in that ever and ever, forever kind of indivisible way.

* * * *

An affinity for oblivion.

* * * *

Space and time have nothing to do with eternity.

* * * *

The moment has a way of forgetting everything.

* * * *

Scientific Method is the most rational, precise way, to examine this mystery, but it is far from infallible.

* * * *

The world you see-hear-smell-taste-touch is all imagined in a quantum matrix dreamtime.

* * * *

Your destiny is right here, right now.

Breadcrumbs

2023

All these years of scribbling have been both entertaining and wearisome,
In a sideways-topsy-turvy-inside-out-backwards sort of way.
Weave it all into some kind of enlightening story?
What, pray tell, would be the point?
It is done well enough for the rare few.
Think of all the videos I could have made.
Think of the following I might have cultivated.
I thank the gods for my insignificance, as should you.
I cannot imagine wanting or needing widespread approbation.
This garden orb does not require any more irrationality, any more absurdity.
You can thank or curse or ignore your Self, any time, any place.
You are, every moment, creator-preserver-destroyer.
You thank me when you discern your Self.

* * * *

Why do I even bother scribbling all this?
I really do not much care for what the human paradigm has become,
Or the future to which it is inescapably, accelerating exponentially, every kaleidoscoping moment.
A vision so dark, so dismal, so painful, that the imminent extinction,
Cannot make its way hither soon enough.

* * * *

Yet another weary moment flowers, through the endless projection of vanity.

* * * *

If these writings, these reflections, have merit, they will endure; if not, oh well, so it goes.
It has been enough to observe whether the quantum théâtre absurde of dreamtime,
Was as up to the mark set by all the self-promotion, by all the propaganda,
History has fed the masses as they chewed away on their mother.
My bet is that we will decline and fall, as all things ever do,
And all our creations, all our treasures, all our glories,
Will dissolve with the last whimper of imagination.
And the quantum abyss will not even shed a tear.
Nor I collect my winnings; for which I do despair.

* * * *

I, Awareness.
Awareness field.
Awareness infinity.
Awareness freedom.
Awareness tranquility.
Awareness indelibility.
Awareness sovereignty.
Awareness absoluteness.
Awareness indivisibility.
Awareness timelessness.
Awareness singularity.
Awareness totality.
Awareness truth.
Awareness joy.
I, Awareness.

* * * *

Looking to be a footnote in the history of mystery books.

* * * *

Waking up to yet another dreamy day,
Trapped in a body racked with one bother or another,
The mind willy-nilly between agony and ecstasy, exasperation and rapture.
Curious how thought can play the gamut between amusing and tiring from one moment to the next.

What ceaselessly pointless vainglorious absurdity, this much ado about nothing.
The appeal of ever returning to this manifest dreamtime,
Has pretty much run its course.

* * * *

Rich man's life on a dime, is how this life has spun.
Why go to all that work, when the pearl was there for the taking.
Of course, being content to merely be, remaining single, never going into debt,
And being happy to sleep on a couch, or in a van, were key enablers in my unplanned epoch.
All the monotony it would have taken to become rich and famous and powerful,
Would have been far too toxic, far too boring, for this plebeian spirit.
Far more interesting to swing from adventure to adventure.
To let the mystery set this destiny's mortal course.
And somehow, it has reached this moment,
This keyboard, this cup of coffee.
How could I not be content?

* * * *

If you believe I am saying, there is not a supreme deity, think again.
If you believe I am saying, there is a supreme deity, think again.
Back and forth that whirling dervish as you are inclined.
But the truth is, I do not know, nor do I care.
I Am ... What more need be said?
The moment is all.

* * * *

I thank the gods every day for being born in the Rome of current times.
And also to have been born a peasant, free of the weight of political and religious dogma.
With enough of an education, enough of a frame of reference, enough of a mind-body, enough of a spirit,
To rationally observe the human paradigm play out, through many lenses, its endless absurdities.

Everything in this opus to the mystery is subject to editing,
Which generally means to a better rendering,
At least in the editor's eye.

If I was the fire-and-brimstone God that Christians have chosen to follow and worship,
My inferno would be a large amphitheater where all those who had been hurt or wronged,
Would be allowed to mete out their revenge upon those who had harmed or wronged them.
Every torture apparatus ever concocted in the history of humankind would be available,
For all the victims to exact any agony, as many ways, as many times, as they liked.
Everyone, the victims, and all their family and friends, would have their turn.
And those confined to this hellish fate, would suffer eternal damnation,
For as long as all the victims, and their family and friends, chose.
And God and Jesus and Satan would be sitting in the stands,
Cheering them on, laughing at every agonizing scream.

There are many evil characters throughout history,
Who are still tied down to their ice-hot slabs,
Crowds deaf to their pleas for mercy.
And all available to the roaring masses,
On an assortment of pay-per-view channels.

To intelligence, to wisdom, to compassion, to serenity, to mystery, I bow.

I am not saying there is not a God, or that aliens are not all around us; it is just nothing I have seen.
That we exist is an unutterable mystery that makes anything possible, but until I witness it for myself,
Or see proof that scientific method can verify, why should I waste time speculating or pondering hearsay?
Long ago, I a few times wandered hills in the starlight offering myself up for abduction,
And here I remain, a true don't-know-don't-care, bona fide agnostic.
At least it is from-the-keyboard-pulpit honest.

Oblivion is no worry to me.

* * * *

Oblivion is alright by me.

* * * *

I have many fathers, many brothers.
All the teachers, all the thespians, all the comedians.
All the men, of every character, in whose presence I have ever been;
They have all contributed to who imagination pretends to be,
In this absurd dreamtime born of sensory illusion.
In reality, I am but absolute awareness,
Austere, free, immaculate.

My Mother

If I have not said or implied it elsewhere,
In this thirty-years-plus philosophical walkabout,
It should well be counted a good destiny's good fortune,
To have been given a mother, such as I have had.
So calm, so rational, so intelligent, so good.
A modest, humble-to-the roots woman,
Of whom Buddha would be in awe.
Beverly Jean Kurtz-Holshouser,
Is her name, born September 4, 1929.
In this worldly mind's quantum dreamtime,
She, such an unfathomable part, has performed.
She is the source, the seed, the blessing,

For this scribe's life work and play.

Her loving son, Michael Jay

What happens after death? ... Don't know ... Don't care.
Didn't ask to be here, ain't prayin' to be stayin'.
Seen and done enough to be ready,
For some eternal rest in the land of oblivion.

Nothing to hope for.

I, Quantum.
Quantum field.
Quantum infinity.
Quantum freedom.
Quantum tranquility.
Quantum indelibility.
Quantum sovereignty.
Quantum absoluteness.
Quantum indivisibility.
Quantum timelessness.
Quantum singularity.
Quantum totality.
Quantum truth.
Quantum joy.
I, Quantum.

In another moment, these writings would have had time to percolate, to distill,
Into a recognized work, that might have been influential in the play of human affairs.
But now, now time is no longer a luxury, and good intentions fall upon deaf ears, blind eyes.
What author can ever know, how his life work will ripple through time, how his snowflake will roll.

Have always been partial to oblivion.

* * * *

Awareness is my deity, and quantum nature its expression.

* * * *

Let the one-percenters and their minions have their moment in the sun.
Let them spend their daze, churning madly, to keep their worlds afloat.
They make my world, my dance, possible; and much, much freer for it.

* * * *

Toying with oblivion, before oblivion toys with me.

* * * *

Nothing like starting the day with a good ponder with a stranger.

* * * *

I was commissioned by eternity to scribe it, not sell it; take it or leave it, no matter to me.

* * * *

Alas for fame that I relish anonymity.
Alas for greed that I have more than enough.
Alas for power that I allow all to go their own way.
Alas for vanity that I know it not real.
Eternity is subject to none.
Awareness is all.

* * * *

Have written off the human species as anything I would ever do to my Self again.
Why I keep talking and writing and uploading all this babble-babble is the mystery.

* * * *

Remember, all these thoughts, are the timelessly time-bound You, pointing to the timeless You.

* * * *

Another day behind the curtain, jousting quantum fairy dust.

* * * *

They keep coming, and I keep scribbling them down.
What else have I got going besides movies and the gym?
As pointless a life as can be imagined in this pointless arena.
All for a time that will far more than likely never come,
In our arrogant little playhouse of consciousness.

* * * *

Right here, right now, this very one-and-only timeless moment ... Eternity ... Bam!

* * * *

What could be more timeless than now?

* * * *

What better timeless than now?

* * * *

Imagination allows me to point out all its dirty little secrets,
Because it knows a gnat can do it little bother, much less any real harm.
There is no reason for it to fear the truth, to dread we will wake up.

It owns the human paradigm, and there is absolutely nothing,
Anyone can do to stop the inevitable decline and fall.
The Tralfamadorians are nodding their heads,
As I wander down the 'so it goes' isle.

The amusement, the satisfaction, the enjoyment, of Self-reflection, is an ever-present preoccupation.

* * * *

My religion, if it must be called that, is embracing all that is, all that is not – the mystery – of which I am.

* * * *

Life or death, every moment a decision.
Another day; let the countdown continue.

* * * *

It is a sleeping world that allowed me to awaken, and leave this work for those who feel the call.

* * * *

Another day serving the mystery as best as vanity allows.

This opus must find its own wheels; and whether it does or not, is nothing I can ever more than wonder.
No farmer can do more than abide the whimsies of Mother Nature to see the results of his labor.
No skin off my nose, what may or may not become, of all that has been set into digital.
My prize is having the good fortune to transcribe and edit it all, who know how many times.
The amusement, the satisfaction, the enjoyment, of Self-reflection, is an ever-present preoccupation.

* * * *

The task was to scribe this using current means;
To quietly disseminate it in Johnny Appleseed fashion.
For those who serendipitously find themselves in its possession,
To serendipitously pass it on to others, who might discern it for what it is,
And thereby perhaps pass it on and on and on and on as the moment ever morphs forth.
Hopefully, without the fingerprints of the revolutionary, the world could-never-will-never-shall-never,
More than vaguely imagine, as it has every other bygone willy-nilly visionary-slash-sage,
Leading-pushing-driving the human paradigm toward its certain extinction.
Quantum-absolutely no different than any microbial organism;
Our wandering meander through all things imaginary,
Through all things narcissistic-hedonistic,
Is but a twinkling in eternity,
The ineffable void,
Now.

* * * *

Where is the yoke in these writings? Where is the burden?
What yoke can the clarity of rationality ever create,

But a mindfulness to not accept any pretense,
At least as far as the ultimate truth goes.
We all have to survive, to abide, in some how, in some way.
The one-percenters have always set the tone, to which all below yield or perish,
But you need not give the insatiable beast more than the token morsels of vanity and greed it demands.
Play their theater, endure your stage, with whatever serenity and harmony you can muster,
In whatever dreamtime this ever-kaleidoscoping quantum garden manifests.

I know when that aphorism is done,
And it is with a little blip of satisfaction,
That I attentively move on to the next moment.

2024

How is it that so many seers of this infinite, indifferent mystery,
Generate so much absurdity, that morphs into so much painful misery?
How much better for the all, it might be, to stay silent, to say little or nothing.
Daito Kokushi, fourteenth century Japanese Zen master of the Rinzai school, wrote:
“Wishing to entice the blind, The Buddha has playfully let words escape his golden mouth.
Heaven and earth are ever since filled with entangling briars.”
Hopefully, these way too many cogitations,
Will find their way to oblivion,
Before wreaking too much mayhem.

An affinity for oblivion.

To Whom It May Concern

It is certainly a curious thing to have gone this mystical direction in life. Most definitely a road less traveled. As far as discussing it with others goes, I think, as with any specialty, any sphere – science, mathematics, music, sports, business, politics, et cetera ad infinitum – that we all tend to search out like minds to focus on our interests and passions. Scientists with scientists, mathematicians with mathematicians, musicians with musicians, athletes with athletes, businessmen with businessmen, politicians with politicians, et cetera ad infinitum. Our little “lost” tribe of seers, being somewhat scattered about the globe, are not always easy to run across. You just never know who will be sitting next to you in some coffee shop, bar, or park bench.

Personally, I have always been generalist and chameleon enough to enjoy chatting with whoever about whatever comes up. There is great freedom in anonymity. Many people I know quite well have very little if any clue about what I have done or what I have written. It has just never come up. I may probe and plant seeds, but do not worry whether or not they take root. Some minds are fertile; some are barren. It is just the way it is.

As far as staying connected with family, friends, and acquaintances goes, we each have to decide what is important to us, and it may be for some that burning bridges and moving on alone is only option they allow themselves. The high school class of my small rural town origin celebrated our 40th reunion a few years back, and those who came had a great time reconnecting and sharing their life journeys. Very few of them would ever be at all interested in my thoughts on things – many of them are true believers in one dogma or another – and I am okay with that. No point beating yourself over the head over things you cannot change.

The big view of it is that I am one of who knows how many awakened eyes in this magical mystery tour, as likely are you if you are reading this. Whether anyone else hears the call is something over which none of us has any say. Nor does it really matter. We may point the way to a larger vision, but it is each, abiding in their own set of capacities and limitations, who must, to whatever degree, wander the pathless land very much alone. We are but ephemeral seed crystals, of our own devices, for consciousness to do with what it will.

Everything I have written since 1989, except for a couple notebooks that were lost, along with a few other oopsie moments on the computer, is my gift to the future, such as it is. It is up to you and others I have befriended through the years to pass it on if you deem it to have merit. It has been an interesting pastime to give so much of my time over to it: to think it, to scribble it, to transcribe and edit it, to throw it about like Johnny did apple seeds. There may be in the neighborhood of five thousand pages worth by the time I exit this center stage. And what happens to it is for time to tell. I leave it to you to decide.

So it goes, either way. I played my part, I said my piece, I had my fun.

P.S. For best viewing online, using the largest screen you have available to explore my little theme park, is suggested. Scrolling down and down on a phone screen is just not going to give you the same entrée.

P.P.S. Regarding the name Yaj Ekim ... It is just a reverse spelling of the first and middle names ... Michael Jay Holshouser ... Mike Jay ... Yaj Ekim.

P.P.P.S. Coincidentally, make of it whatever you will, or will not, Yaj is an Indian boy's name meaning worshipper, sacrifice, another name for Shiva, a sage. And Ekim is a Turkish name for October meaning "sowing" (of seeds). All kinds of absurdity can be read into that by the many so-inclined – none of which was in mind when I came up with the idea to reverse the letters to my name. See P.P.S. for details.

P.P.P.P.S. Yes, I am Shiva. And so are You. No, I am not Shiva. And neither are you. Irony and paradox rule.

The Return to Wonder

Th-Th-Th-That's All Folks!

Pointing to the whole elephant, as entertaining as it has been, has been an interesting lesson in futility.
Time to close down the show, and move on to an observation of silence mode.
Fare thee well, adieu, adios, auf wiedersehen, sayonara.
Regards and best wishes to all.

That said ...

Stay Tuned

Given how this mind works, likely a few more ditties in the here and there,
For as long as these temporal lungs are still drawing air,
So stay tuned, you Wascally Wabbit.
